Whipped Cream Substitute—Beat whites of two eggs very stiff; slice thin one banana, add to eggs and beat until thoroughly dissolved; sweeten to taste with powdered sugar. The richness of color and delicious taste makes this the equal of rather than a substitute for whipped cream and has found favor wherever it went.

Apple Cottage Pudding—Partly fill buttered pan with sliced apples, add sugar enough to sweeten; pour over top a batter made of one egg, one tablespoon butter, three-fourths cup sugar, one-half cup milk, flour enough to make batter that will pour easily; add one heaping teaspoon baking powder. Bake and serve hot with sauce made of two tablespoons butter, three-fourths cup sugar, one tablespoon flour; add boiling water to make thick, creamy sauce; add one teaspoon vanilla and serve hot.

Peach Cake—One tablespoon butter, one cup sugar, one-half cup milk, one egg, two teaspoons baking powder, two cups flour and pinch of salt. Beat well and spread on a pie tin, cover top with peaches, hollow side up. Bake twenty minutes and serve hot with hard sauce or whipped cream.

Doughnuts—One egg, two three cupfuls of sugar, one cupful sweet milk, butter size of an egg, pinch of salt, two heaping teaspoonfuls baking powder, flour to roll.

THE WAY TO SLUMBERTOWN.

If we could go to Slumbertown within a new-moon boat,
How splendid it would be across a magic sea to float,
With silver oar and mast of pearl and sail of old moonbeams,
Until we dropped anchor in the Harbor of Fair Dreams.

If we could fly to Slumbertown upon the white moth's back,
What fun 'twould be to follow in the whispering breezes' track,
Away above the fleecy clouds and o'er the sunset bars,
Until we lighted softly on the Land of Evening Stars!

But after all the surest and safest passage there,
Is by the way of mother's arms and mother's rocking-chair;
We pay a kiss for fare and then we shut our sleepy eyes,
And drift before we know it to the Coast of Lullabies.

—(L. M. Montgomery in Mother's Magazine.)

Athletics.

Prof. O'Shea, of the University of Wisconsin, in giving advice to parents on athletics, has this to say:

"We must put the brakes on athletics. The proper purpose of athletics is to develop strength and health. But we are not accomplishing this purpose because we are carrying the thing too far. We have exalted too much the idea of contest. We need to reduce the desire to win, and indulge in athletics for pleasure, relaxation, and the building of the body.

"I am safe in saying that more than one-half of the number of men who engage in hard training contests develop heart diseases which will tell on them sooner or later."

If this be true of men, what can it mean for our girls whom we are allowing to play basketball and forcing to take gymnasium work at any hour during which they have a period free from recitation.

Habits.

Good habits in babies: Regular hours for sleeping and waking; for food; for air and for exercise. Bad habits: Wakefulness, fretting, thumb-sucking, unnecessary crying. Good habits in growing children: Physical: regular hours, bathing, brushing teeth, slow eating; moral, neatness and order, courtesy, punctuality and perseverance. Bad habits: Physical: Fast eating, lack of cleaniness, biting the nails; moral, teasing, squabbling, whining, disorder, rudeness.

Underpaid Labor Costly.

H. LaRue Brown, member of the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Commission, states that the State spends each year, of the public moneys $5,500,000, in addition to private and semi-public charity for the relief and control of delinquency and dependency resulting from the evil of underpaid labor. If the return for a woman's toil was not sufficient to keep her alive, he said, the difference was made up by her in such a way that the people generally met the cost. "She pays and we pay in flesh and blood in the health and life of our people, in the ruined physiques, and in the shattered nerves of those who should be the mothers of American citizens," said Mr. Brown before the Business Men's Group of the Ethical Culture Societ, of Boston.—New York Times.

The Larger Life.

The morbid family life is always that in which undue value is placed on the family. The home is too often set against the State; and a selfish family devotion over against a larger, a nobler, and a more ennobling devotion to humanity.

We should not only get used ourselves to the idea of giving up our children to the larger life that awaits them outside the family circle, but we should instill in them a desire for that larger life and a desire to be of service in it.—Mother's Magazine.

Parent-Teacher Association.

There is a Parent-Teacher Association in every school in Plainfield and every parent should be a member of one or more. It is a duty to keep in touch with the child's whole life and to know his school and teacher is the only way to reach this part of it. Begin with him in the lower grades and grow with him through his whole school life. You will know better how to meet the problems of the High School.

Coin of Character.

"The mother in her office holds the key of the soul; 'tis she who stamps the coin of character, and makes the being, who would be a savage but for her gentle cares, a Christian man."—(Mother's Day Book.)

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

With the change in management, and the retirement of Mr. Sanderson, and a complete change of policy, prices and in fact ideas in general, the business this week at Proctor's has assumed big proportions and exceeded any one week's receipts this year. There is a reason for the new life which seems to have taken hold of things around this popular theatre. The programs are carefully watched, and no act or photo-play is permitted to be seen after the first performance unless it is positively a good one, and each and every act and film is selected only after the reports are positive enough to assure the management that they are taking no chances whatever. Nearly every act is seen before booking, but sometimes this is impossible. This week the management may justly step into a quiet corner and slap himself on the back, for he has "The Goods." Announcement is made that for next week a complete surprise is in store for the patrons in the form of one of the most novel and sensational programs ever put together for one show. It is safe to say that there will be at least thirty and possibly forty people in the show, and it promises to break all records for attendance. The vaudeville features are direct from the Palace Theatre, and the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York city, and patrons are taking no chances whatsoever on the show for it will be "Bigger Than a Whale." The photo-play feature will be from the William Fox studios, after a sensational hit at the Academy of Music, N. Y., and is entitled "The Little Gypsy," starring Dorothy Brenard, most winsome and daintiest of dramatic stars, assisted by Thurlow Bergen, the handsome leading man, who is a great favorite both on screen and stage. Wonderful lighting effects, dramatic action and scenic display, showing trees stripped and tossed about like reeds in a furious thunder and lightning storm, an entire factory is shown in a furious blaze burning to the ground, and other big scenic effects.

Lightning Rent the Blue Sky.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How Lake Hachaloosie Became Whist Pond.

"TELL us another Indian story, daddy!" cried the children.

"Because the old Pequot Indian, who lived all alone on the shores of Uncle Ben's lake, Hachaloosie, was never known to speak a word even to his dog and because he never did cruel things to white men they little by little grew fond of him and finally named him Whist. So in silence for years with his wolfhound and his old iron kettle he roamed the hills around Hachaloosie. Sometimes the settlers' wives gave him food when he seemed too old to bake bread for himself, and the next morning they would find a nice lake trout lying on their cabin step. And then, one hot July afternoon, one of the settlers saw old Whist get his kettle, his dog and his spear, step into his birch bark canoe and paddle out into the middle of Hachaloosie. He saw the wolfhound crouch in one end of the canoe while the old Pequot balanced in the other end, with his spear in hand, ready to thrust at the first big pickerel that should try to cool his fins in the clear cold spring water.

"And while he watched a terrible shower came up out of the north. Thunder boomed over the quiet lake and echoed against the hilltops around Hachaloosie. Lightning tore the blue sky into black patches, and great sheets of heavy rain fell and hid the lake from the settler's sight.

"This storm lasted about an hour," daddy went on. "With a strong wind blowing out of the northeast the peaceful little lake was lashed into waves almost as big as those we saw last summer on the ocean."

"What happened to old Whist?" cried the children.

"When the storm ended the settler got a party of men to paddle with him over to Whist's wigwam. They hoped he had seen the storm coming and had rowed back to land. What they found was an empty canoe upside down in the alder bushes, with the body of the dead wolfhound beside it. They searched the lake sides for days, hoping Whist had swum ashore, but they never found as much as a hair of his moccasin. So at last they knew that the wind had upset his canoe and that the underground currents which fed and emptied Hachaloosie had carried poor old Whist off into their mysterious depths to the silence he loved so well and the rest he deserved. And because they felt friendly to the old Pequot they changed the name of the lake from Hachaloosie to Whist pond, which stands today."

"Did Bibbley Wah know this story?" asked Evelyn.

"That's why the lake was her favorite playground."

"Who was the white man who paddled out to find Whist?" asked Jack

"Uncle Ben's great-grandfather," said daddy.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

When John Sees How Worn Molly Is, He Is Moved to a Little Sympathy.

Molly Sutner lay listening for her husband's step, trying to face the situation that confronted her; trying to calm herself, for she realized that her relations with her husband had reached so critical a stage that any false step would be fatal. She longed unspeakably to get away by herself to think things out and get command of herself, but the poor have not that luxury. The tiny cottage offered no retreat. "Besides," she thought, "I must not let him know that I saw him with that stenographer, at least not until I have decided what I will say to him."

She could have a degree of seclusion by feigning sleep, and this she decided to do. She had not long to wait before she heard the key in the door, and her heart beat so furiously that she was afraid he would hear it when he came into the room and turned on the light. Though she lay with her face to the wall she could follow his every movement about the room, so intently was she listening. She longed to turn over and see if the happy smile she had seen on his face as he passed under the street light looking down at his companion was still there. After the light was out she fairly held her breath to listen for his regular breathing, that she might feel alone. She had not long to wait.

When she was certain that he slept she opened her eyes upon the congenial darkness. It had begun to rain again, and the few night sounds were drowned. In all the world there seemed to be just herself and darkness and rain.

"I wanted to be alone," she thought; "I surely have my wish. I could touch my husband if I put out my hand, but between us is a great gulf fixed—I cannot go to him and he will not come to me. I may call as loudly as I will, but he never hears. I am nothing to him."

She began to cry softly, carefully suppressing every sob or motion that she might not wake him.

"I wanted to be alone to think, and now I am utterly unable to decide what to do." The nervous tension following on the utter physical weariness broke down all bars of restraint, and she gave way to a passion of weeping. It was hours before she could quiet herself enough to go to sleep, and she only did so after she had decided to stay in bed in the morning and let John get his own breakfast that she might cover the traces of her tears before he saw her in a strong light.

"I will say nothing about what I saw. Women can't compel love, and I never gained anything by making scenes. What I discovered will remain a secret for the present, anyway."

This resolve to keep silence had a quieting effect upon her and she fell asleep in the gray dawn.

"John," said Molly when the alarm went off, "I am afraid you will have to get your own breakfast. I am not able to get up this morning."

"What? Are you sick?" asked John sitting up in bed.

"Just fagged, I guess. That washing was too much for me, I suppose." Molly lay with her face to the wall.

"Shall I call a doctor?" asked John, scrambling out of bed.

"No, don't wake little Jack. If I can get a little more sleep I may be able to get up; it's only a nervous headache."

"I'm sorry you are sick. You must not do any more washing. We must manage some other way." His tone was almost kind. "Can't I do anything for you?" he asked before he left the house. Molly felt a great easing of the ache in her heart, and fell asleep.

RUTGERS READY FOR BASKETBALL SEASON

Strong Squad Out Working to Make Quintet a Fast One.

The Rutgers basketball quintet is already planning for the coming season, and only the fact that several of the men are out for football is holding up the commencement of regular practice. The courts have been put in good shape, however, and the practice is being held from time to time.

Captain Coleman expects to have a big squad of new men out for the team as soon as the call is issued, and there will be a number of former prep. school stars among them. Most of last year's regulars will also be back with the exception of "Wak" Twing.

Seiler will again hold down the center position, and with Coleman, Austin, Rockafeller and Browning all back in college, the team will be much the same as last year.

The schedule is harder than that which proved so disastrous to the Scarlet last season, but with last year's experience as a foundation to work on it should be possible to turn out a much better balanced quintet. Last year the men were coached in the fundamentals of the game, but now more attention can be paid to the fine points.

There is some doubt about who will coach the five this fall as there was a good deal of dissatisfaction with last year's management. Good basketball coaches, however, are hard to get, particularly for a small college. But as the game is really on its feet at Rutgers now, having passed the experimental stage, there will probably be more funds forthcoming for its support.

PRINCETON IN NEED OF TWO HEAVY ENDS

Men in Position Are Speedy, But Are Lacking in Heft.

Princeton, Oct. 21.—John Rush, the Tiger football coach, has not been entirely satisfied with the work of the ends in the last few games, and is consequently devoting a great deal of his time to these positions. The squad is in need of ends with more weight, and this fact probably influenced the Tiger coaches in their decision to shift Moore from behind the line to end. There is a scarcity of end men that possess weight and at the same time can use their feet to advantage. Highley and Wilson, the two best ends on the 'varsity squad, are both fast and quick in diagnosing plays, but both are lacking in weight and are not built for heavy work.

Harold Brown possesses an ideal build for an end, and is one of the hardest fighters on the squad, but is a trifle slow on his feet and in diagnosing a play. Moore is the fastest man on the Princeton squad, but is not very shifty in carrying the ball, and the coach figured that he could make better use of his speed in covering the lengthy kicks of Law and Driggs and in getting down under the long forward passes.

P. H. S. DEFEATS NEW BRUNSWICK, 19 TO 0

Local Team Shows a Big Improvement in Snappy Game.

Playing by far the best game of the season the Plainfield High School football team took the heavy New Brunswick eleven into camp yesterday afternoon on Parker Field by a 19 to 0 count. At no time was the Red and Blue goal in great danger, although the game was better than the score would indicate. Open playing during the first half gave Daniels and Noonan a chance to get away for several long end runs, while in the last half straight football more than held New Brunswick safe.

New Brunswick kicked off and following several exchanges of punts in which Noonan held the upper hand, Daniels got away for a thirty-five yard run. On two more plays Peacock carried the ball over for a touchdown and Noonan kicked a goal. On Plainfield's kick-off the visitors returned it to midfield, where a fumble by Reed allowed Fitch to grab it and speel off ten yards before he was tackled. With the ball on New Brunswick's ten yard line time was called for the first quarter.

Fitch intercepted a forward pass at midfield shortly after the second half opened and after several line plays Noonan gained thirty yards around end and followed up by attempting to drop kick from the thirty-five yard line. Alpaugh, who replaced Peacock at quarter, did some excellent line plunging in this period and coupled with a thirty yard run by Daniels he made ten yards through centre for a touchdown. Again Noonan failed at his try for goal. All through the fourth quarter the ball hovered around the center of the field, although on several occasions fumbles gave Plainfield another chance to score, but New Brunswick got out of danger by kicking.

Not a single fumble was credited to the Red and Blue eleven. Both on the offense and defense a decided improvement was shown over the last game. Fitch, at right end, was on top of the ball every minute and besides completing a forward pass in the second quarter he intercepted two passes and got the ball several times on fumbles. Miller fell back from the line several times and carried the ball for good gains on line plunges. Alpaugh and Daniels showed their best work of the season, and Noonan was getting better all the time until he retired in the third quarter.

The lineups:

P. H. S.		N. B. H. S.
Whelan	centre.	Dunham
Pennock (Capt.)	left guard.	Stone

NEWARK SCHOOLS DROP BASKETBALL

Authorities Say Sport is Beneficial to Only Few Students.

Basketball as a winter sport received a severe setback when the executives of the Newark High Schools' Athletic Association announced at the conclusion of their recent meeting that they had decided to drop the sport from the calendar and, as a result, there would be no basketball league this season. The game has been played on the courts of the Newark High Schools for the last fifteen years. Early in the year Barringer High School surprised scholastic supporters in Newark by the announcement that it would drop the indoor game from its schedule of athletics. Central and East Side High Schools announced their decision at the meeting. The general attitude taken by the principals was that basketball caters to a few and that the rest of the student body derives small benefit from the gymnasium.

ELKS TO FORM JUNIOR BOWLING LEAGUE TONIGHT

Delegates interested in the formation of the junior bowling circuit of the Elks' League will meet tonight at the home of the Plainfield Elks to take further action on the plans for the season of 1915-1916. President Hinton, of the Newark Elks, said last night that it was practically certain that teams would enter the league from Bayonne and Summit, and it was hoped that favorable action would also be taken by the Hackensack and Somerville lodges.

Arrangements are being made at the Newark Elks' home, in Green street, to hold a two-man team endurance contest a week from Sunday, October 31, to start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and to wind up at 10 o'clock at night.

NEWARK TO HOLD BIG MEET FOR SULLIVAN FUND

Newark's contribution to the James E. Sullivan memorial fund in the form of a big athletic meeting will take place at the Federal League baseball park at Harrison, on Sunday afternoon, November 7, instead of Election Day, as first announced. This was decided upon yesterday at a conference between Patrick T. Powers, owner of the Federal League grounds; John F. O'Hara, chairman of the Newark committee, and F. W. Rubien, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union. The committee in charge of the sports will commence at once to arrange what is expected to be the largest athletic meeting ever held in New Jersey. Eight handicap events, one novice, and three special events, as follows, will make up the program: Handicap events: 100 yards, 300 yards, 660 yards, 1,000 yards, mile run, mile walk, throwing the javelin, 800-yard novice run; four-mile special race, standing jump contests, and an all around weight throwing competition. Invitations have been sent to Ted Meredith, Tom Halpin, Joe Higgins, Willie Gordon, Roy Morse, Hannes Kolehmainen, Eddie Renz, George Bronder, Jim Lincoln, Platt Adams, Eddie Emes, Pat McDonald, Pat Ryan, Matt McGrath, and John Cahill to compete.

Y. M. C. A.

The first games of the Indian League basketball schedule were played yesterday afternoon.

Scores: Wawayanda, 4; Omaha, 1; Iroquois, 6; Sioux, 4.

The fine shooting of Enander, of the Wawayanda team, was the feature of the first game. Randolph, of the Iroquois, scored the winning goal for the Iroquois team.

PARK CLUB BOWLERS BEGIN BUSY SEASON

Individual Challenge Tournament Among Many Special Features.

The bowling season of the Park Club is under way, and unusual interest is being shown by members in the game. The club alleys have been put into perfect condition and new equipment in pins, balls, etc., was secured for the season.

An individual challenge tournament in both ten pin and five back was arranged by the bowling committee and began October 1, in which many members are entered.

The name of each bowler appears on a bulletin in numerical order according to their ranking as compiled from past records. From this point each contestant can challenge for a higher ranking, those not more than three places above him on the list to a match of best two games out of three to be played during next two weeks after date of challenge. If the challenger wins his match by play or default, he exchanges his ranking for that of his opponent; if he loses, each retains his own ranking. Each contestant has, therefore, an opportunity to better his ranking.

A suitable prize is offered to the man rolling the highest number of pins during the season in this contest.

Further prizes offered consist of a mottled ten pin ball, donated by H. M. Fisher to member recording with club stewart the highest total number of ten pins scored on the alleys from October first to April fifteenth, 1916.

A special Christmas prize to be donated by Frank A. Weeks, to the man holding record in points on five back tournament and ten pins—75% of games must be rolled and prize to be awarded at close of games December 16 and 17.

Club offers a monthly prize of box of cigars to winner of five-back and ten pin tournaments holding high record including handicaps—all games are to be rolled.

Special high average season prize both on ten pins and five-back donated by Charles A. Rice.

First, second and third prizes are to be donated by the club to winners of ten pins and five back tournaments. These prizes will be selected to suit winners at limit of value placed by club.

The schedule for weekly games follows:

Monday evening—Open games to scratch members, who usually get trimmed by Weeks.

Tuesday evening—Two alleys reserved for cocked-hat bowling.

Wednesday evening—Open games to those who don't go where they should be seen and heard.

Thursday evening—Regular five-back handicap tournament open to all club members. Maximum handicap forty; members with no handicaps will be given fifteen to start with. Handicaps cannot be increased or reduced by more than five on any one evening based on 165 total including handicaps.

Five-back tournament begins Thursday, October 14, 8:30 sharp and ends last Thursday in April.

Friday evening—Regular ten pin handicap tournament open to all club members.

Tournament will begin Friday evening, October 15, and end last Friday in April.

Saturday evening—Open games.

CAST IS ANNOUNCED FOR "BROWN OF HARVARD"

The cast has been selected for "Brown of Harvard" to be given by the Washington Dramatic Club some time next month. Edward F. Bodin will take the part of "Tom Brown," and Miss Mildred Johnson will impersonate "Evelyn Kenyon." Some of the other characters are: Henry Donnelly as "Gerald Thorn, stroke oar of Harvard crew; Robert Wilson as "Clax Madden;" B. McCarthy as "Kenyon;" Peter Walsh as "Tubby;" Edward Gawler as "Thurston."

Then there are the campus girls "Edith" and "Miss Thorn," impersonated by the Misses Messmer and Dorothy Johnson. Mrs. L. B. Phelps will be "Mrs. Kenyon," the chaperone. The scenery is to be given special attention and college life will be presented true to life.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

Basketball practice will be held in the association gymnasium tonight at 7 o'clock. At 8:15 the folk dancing class will meet.

Miss Ethel Colton will be the speaker at the association tonight at 7:45. She will take as her subject "Ideals for Every-day Living."

IRVING MANLEY TO SING.

Master Irving Manley, well-known boy soprano of this city, will assist Charles Taylor, the boy preacher, at the Park Avenue Baptist church, tonight, with a solo.

VAUDEVILLE AND MEASURING PARTY

Prince of Wales Relief Society Plans a Unique Affair for October 30.

A unique entertainment has been planned by the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Prince of Wales Relief for Soldiers and Sailors, to be given in the Park Club on Saturday afternoon, October 30, from 4 to 6 o'clock. The affair, which will be known as a "Measuring Party," will consist of a program of music and vaudeville. Tea will be served throughout the afternoon. The admission fee will be determined by the height of the person, ten cents being charged per foot and an additional cent for every inch over the foot. The proceeds of the function will be applied to the splendid work the organization is doing in assisting the wounded men of the warring nations.

Mrs. Rufus Delafield is chairman of the entire committee. The tea tables will be in charge of Mrs. Harold Van der Linde, Miss Laura Osgood, Mrs. C. H. Franklin, of Plainfield, and Mrs. R. J. Letcher, of Roselle. Miss Anna Murphy will have charge of the Prince of Wales table, which will prove of interest to the public inasmuch as it will exhibit the work of the relief committee as well as how the bandages, and other articles are made up for the wounded in the hospitals of the allies.

Mrs. Noel Evans, having charge of the music and entertainment, has arranged a pleasing program of vaudeville and high class instrumental selections. The following young women will act as trained nurses throughout the afternoon: The Misses Dorothy Jewett, A. Barclay, Elsie Burke, Hawthorne, S. Shattuck, Violet Johnson, Frost, Gough, Sylvia Van der Linde, Holstein, and the Misses Buckley and Miss Bomann.

The other committees are as follows: Reception, Mrs. Rufus Delafield, Mrs. John Constable Moore, Mrs. H. A. Fisk and Mrs. Neuman; measuring, Mrs. Edgar Hyatt, Miss Huntington, J. H. Jewett, Harold Van der Linde, and Mr. Neilson. Mrs. Edgar Delafield will have charge of the knitting table.

HOSPITAL GROUNDS HAVE BEEN GREATLY IMPROVED

Favorable comment is heard as to the improvement in the grounds surrounding Muhlenberg Hospital since the planting of new trees which was made possible by voluntary contributions to the Hospital Tree Fund. This was started by James W. DeCraff, who gave $100, and other contributions in sums from $2 to $100 each were made by the following:

Ernest R. Ackerman, L. B. Benton, E. H. Booth, W. R. Cock, Arthur M. Harris, J. H. Howell, Louis K. Hyde, E. H. Ladd, Jr., C. W. McCutchen, G. P. Mellick, H. C. Munger, James Parker, Wilbur F. Rogers and T. F. Sykes.

It is understood that about $200 more is needed to really complete the plan of tree planting, and it is believed that many friends of the hospital would be glad to contribute something to complete the fund. Any amount will be acceptable even $1 and $2. Contributions may be sent to Arthur M. Collens, treasurer of the hospital.

DENTAL CLINIC REOPENED.

The dental clinic at Muhlenberg Hospital was re-opened this week for the coming year, and a dentist will be in charge on Tuesday and Friday of each week. Dr. Charles G. Davis, who was largely instrumental in the establishment of the clinic, has found it necessary to resign as chairman of that work and another member of the Plainfield Dental Society will take his place.

TO SHOW WOOLENS AND STYLES.

Joseph Silberberg, representing Marks Arnheim, will be at Samuel Rothberg's store, 206 West Front street, tomorrow and Saturday to show the latest woolens and styles for men's suits and overcoats. There will be presented for inspection the newest made-to-measure fabrics tailored by Marks Arnheim.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

The Women's Guild, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, have made final arrangements for the tea and Hallowe'en party to be given at the home of Mrs. Cyrus Small, 85 Myrtle avenue, on Thursday, October 28. A program of interest has been prepared.

PAST CHIEFS TO DANCE.

The Past Chiefs' Association of Iona Council, Daughters of Pocohontas, will hold a dance tonight in Coward's Hall. An enjoyable time is promised to all who attend and everybody is invited.

How to Keep Our City Moving

We must keep moving. A city booms only so long as its manufacturers and merchants keep moving. The wheels of every line of endeavor must be kept turning if the city is going to develop, and what is of deeper concern than the wheels of Plainfield kept turning?

Should every one who has the interest of Plainfield close at heart buy goods from our merchants, the benefits all around can easily be seen. Thousands of dollars that would otherwise go out of the city will be kept circulating here and contribute a big share towards making a bigger and busier Plainfield.

A dollar spent at home will keep that dollar at home and all will share in the profits.

SUFFRAGETTES WILL WAGE NEW FIGHT

Leaders of Defeated Party Want Right to Vote at Presidential Primary.

Trenton, Oct. 21.—The provision of the election laws under which the suffragists will seek to vote their preference for candidates for President next May is section 26 of the Geran act passed in 1911. It enacts that the voters may express their choice for candidates for President at the primary election at which the delegates are chosen for the national conventions to nominate the candidates for President and Vice-President.

The suffragist leaders are already planning to have a law passed by the next Legislature permitting women to vote at the Presidential preference primary. They claim that as this will not be voting directly for any candidates for office, it will not be within the constitutional prohibition and so would be legal. The suffragists will work during the days before the election on November 2 to get as many legislative candidates as possible pledged to the passage of such a law.

The suffragists base their contention upon the wording of Article II of the Constitution defining the right of suffrage, and which was to have been amended by the change voted upon on Tuesday. This wording is as follows:

"Every male citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this State one year, and of the county in which he claims his vote five months, next before the election, shall be entitled to vote for all officers that now or hereafter may be elective by the people."

While votes for women leaders claim that as the Presidential preference primary will not be a vote "for officers," there is no constitutional reason why they should not be permitted to vote on that occasion. They will seek the privilege as an entering wedge for the next equal suffrage campaign.

The proposition will meet with strenuous opposition from the anti-suffragists, making it certain that there will be a lively fight on the question in the next Legislature.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The School Council has decided on Saturday, October 30, as the date for the annual freshmen reception this year to be held in the High School auditorium. Principal Lindsey Best will be chairman again this year and Miss Linke secretary. George W. Weston, professor of mathematics, has been chosen faculty director.

Professors Wriston and Biddle were in charge of the rehearsal for the minstrels held in the auditorium yesterday afternoon. The songs have been selected and the end men have decided on their special little "stunt." The show will be held the latter part of next month.

Miss Elsa Palmer was elected secretary of the G. A. A. for the coming year on the second ballot voted. Irma Glode was chosen president at the first election and now the office of treasurer will have to be filled, which will necessitate another ballot.

CONSECRATE BISHOP.

Montclair, Oct. 21.—Rev. Dr. William B. Stearly, rector of St. Luke's church, Montclair, was today consecrated Suffragan Bishop of the New Jersey Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church. Many bishops attended the ceremony which elevated him to the new office. Bishop Edwin S. Lines presided, and the consecration sermon was by Rt. Rev. Dr. Charles D. Williams, of Michigan. Dr. Stearly, who formerly a pastor at Cleveland, O., and he was unanimously chosen suffragan bishop last May.

BIG WAR ORDERS BOOM INDUSTRIES

Volume of Business in Local Plants Largest in History of the City.

MUNITION CONTRACTS

International Motor Co. Gets Another Order for 700 Saurer Trucks for Russian Government—Scott's and Hall's Shops Busy.

The industrial boom which came to this city as a consequence of the numerous European war orders continues to grow in volume and is now larger than at any time within the past year. It became known yesterday that the local plant of the International Motor Company had just closed an order for 700 Saurer five-ton motor trucks to be built for the Russian government. This will bring the local consignments to Europe to more than 3,000 vehicles of various capacities, more than 2,000 already having been built since last October. Most of the trucks heretofore have gone to England, France and Belgium. The international shop has been operating day and night since the first of the year, its complement of men numbering nearly 1,300.

The Hall Press Works at Dunellen is also rushed to capacity at the present time, having secured an order from John Lang & Sons, of England, for 150 lathes used for shell-making purposes. The contract price is said to be $1,750 per lathe, the full amount represented in the deal being $262,500.

The Walter Scott Printing Press Works in this city, which has always been devoted to the manufacture of high grade printing presses, is also working night and day at the present time on contracts from England, principally for lathes and tool equipment. A capacity force was put to work this week in three shifts of eight hours each and the factory whistle now blows at 3 and 11 p. m., and 7 a. m. The ill wind in Europe has blown good to the Plainfield machinists as skilled men have never been in so great a demand as at the present time.

With the granting of the eight hour day and bonuses of various kinds many of the lathe and planer hands are making from $30 to $50 per week, figures never before reached in the history of the local machine trade. Even though the warring nations were to cease hostilities within the next few months, the manufacturing boom in Plainfield would continue as a clause in all the contracts call for the delivery of the goods whether peace is declared or not.

NEWARK WOMAN TAKEN ILL IN NETHERWOOD STATION

A colored woman, giving her name as Bertha Stanley and residence as Newark, was taken suddenly ill at the Netherwood station of the New Jersey Central yesterday afternoon. Patrolman George Muir was sent to the depot from the local police headquarters and had the woman removed to the hospital.

Dr. Albert Pittis took charge of the case, and at that institution last night it was said that she was suffering from asthma and heart trouble. She is not in a serious condition.

SOCIALIST PARTY GETS PERMITS FOR MEETINGS

In accordance with the terms of the new city ordinance regulating street parades and other demonstrations on the public highways, the Socialist Labor Party applied to Mayor Leighton Calkins yesterday afternoon for a permit to conduct street meetings and the same was granted. A schedule of political meetings has been mapped out by the party to be held between now and Election Day.

The corners designed for the gatherings are: Park avenue and East Second street, East Front street and Watchung avenue and Madison avenue and West Front street.

HIGH COURT RULES AGAINST PLAINTIFF

A. D. Findlay, Represented by Codington and Blatz, is Awarded Decision.

In the Supreme Court at Morristown, Wednesday, Mrs. Henrietta B. Stevens, of 426 Madison avenue, appeared as plaintiff against Alexander D. Findlay, formerly of this city, but now of Morristown, in a replevin action to recover Standard Oil stock transferred by her to the defendant. William R. Codington, of the local law firm of Codington & Blatz, defended the action on behalf of Mr. Findlay, and the court returned a verdict in favor of his client, at the same time awarding him the amount claimed to be due on a note, $3,500.

The litigation grew out of loans made by the Plainfield Trust Company to Mrs. Stevens, in which she gave her note and Standard Oil stock as collateral. When the trust company demanded payment of the loan she induced Findlay to take up the loan, she giving him her note and transferring the Standard Oil stock to him.

According to testimony the Findlay note was never liquidated, and Mrs. Stevens was advised that if she could show that the money was borrowed for her husband's benefit and not her own she would not be obliged to pay the note and could recover the stock.

Mr. Findlay, through his counsel, Mr. Codington, filed an answer and defended the suit. The court held that while a married woman could not make herself liable as maker, endorseer or guarantor for her husband's debt, she could collect or transfer stock as collateral, and that the stock could be held by Findlay and sold to pay for the amount due him.

GUARD ATTACKED BY UNKNOWN PARTIES

Saurer Watchman "Beaten up" Near Plant at Midnight Last Night.

Ill-feeling that has been brewing for some time past between the guards employed to do detective work at the Saurer plant of the International Motor Company, in this city, came to a head at midnight last night, when two foreigners, thought to be mechanics, attacked "Paddy" Pulincy and beat him up considerably. Although the extent of the guard's injuries could not be learned this morning, it was said by other workmen that his face was badly disfigured, and, according to reports at police headquarters, one shot was fired in the scuffle, but the bullet went wild. No arrests have as yet been made.

Inquiry by a Daily Press representative among officials at the Saurer plant this morning brought forth the answer that "nothing was known of the trouble," but a few minutes later a similar inquiry was made from police headquarters, and the name of the detective and meagre details were furnished by the concern.

The guard who was assaulted is one of those who is furnished by a New York bureau. The private detectives' alleged treatment of workmen recently, it is said, has aroused considerable feeling, and many of the foreigners have threatened to commit violence.

PLEASANT SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN TO FRANK FRAZIER

Frank Frazier was the guest of honor at a surprise given in his honor at the home of his sister on 139 McKinley place, last night. The affair was arranged by Miss Lena Brugger and was unknown to the young man. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, flowers and autumnal foliage being used in the scheme. Games and musical selections were the principal features of the evening.

Solos were sung by Miss Jennie Brown, of Westfield, and Miss Mary Othmer, of New York city. Refreshments were served at a late hour. Guests were present from this city, Westfield, Dunellen, Cranford and New York.

SOUTH AMERICA—ITS RESOURCES

Rev. George P. Howard Tells Sunday School Association It is Beyond Estimate.

'CALL OF A CONTINENT'

"Six Gates to the Scholar's Life," Topic of Address by Frank L. Brown—Officers for Year Elected and Other Business Transacted.

An audience, which completely filled the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, last night, at the evening session of the Union County Sunday-school Association, listened to an excellent address on South America by Rev. George P. Howard, Sunday-school missionary of the World's Sunday-school Association in South America.

Mr. Howard took for his topic, "The Call of a Continent." In his opening remarks he gave a short synopsis of his own life, then a detailed description of the vast land in the southern hemisphere, thousands of miles of which had never been trod by a man of the Caucasian race and still many more miles which were unsettled and practically none of which had been developed. This land, he said, had received nature's blessings without limit. There were no deserts, no arid regions and no part of which was without rainfall. Its natural resources were beyond estimate. The flood of immigration, in the near future, will be to South America.

He said that the people of the southern continent were unknown to the people of the United States and

CHILDREN WILL BE GUESTS AT BAZAAR

Plainfield Elks Will Entertain Little Ones at Matinee Session.

In response to many urgent requests that have come from various sources the committee in charge of the Plainfield Elks' monster bazaar has arranged to hold a matinee entertainment for children, tomorrow afternoon having been set aside for the little folks between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock. Because of the large number of guests who have frequented the festival each evening the juvenile friends of the lodge have not as yet had an opportunity to enjoy the numerous attractions and the committee has made plans for a special program of entertainment appropriate to the occasion for the matinee.

One of the pleasing eleventh-hour additions to the bazaar program came in the announcement made this morning that the Phonograph City Trio, a well known group of singers who were well received at the last Elks minstrels, will appear tonight. The will present a number of vocal renditions during the evening.

Last night's crowd was the biggest of the week and indications are the the receipts of the event will exceed by far the anticipations of the committee. Another thoroughly enjoyable evening was spent, dancing again proving a popular diversion. All of the various booths were well patronized.

Tomorrow night will wind up the week of merriment and the committee is now directing its attention to putting a grand finale on the bazaar. Announcement of prize winners and the entertainment that generally accompanies closing night will be included in the final program.

CUPS PRESENTED TO WINNERS AT TENNIS

Making the presentation in the name of the local Princeton Club, Mr. S. T. Carter, Jr., gave the two loving cups to the winners of the recent Princeton tennis tournament at the chapel exercises at the City High School this morning. Contesting with thirty-eight others from North Plainfield High School, Plainfield High School and Leals, Rodey Parvin and Eustace Eggie, both seniors at the Ninth street institution, emerged winners of first and second prizes, respectively. The cups were of sterling silver, with the outside of green enamel, and were suitably inscribed.

P. C. C. DINNER-DANCES.

The house committee of the Plainfield Country Club has decided to give two more Saturday night dinner-dances, one tomorrow evening and the other on Saturday, October 30. These affairs have been very successful during the past season.

ACKERMAN HOST FOR CIVIC BODY

Chamber of Commerce of New Jersey Entertained at Banquet Here Last Night.

PLAN TO RAISE FUND

Expect to Raise $65,000 to Aid in Campaign for Legislation Favorable to Business Interests of the State.

Former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, was the host last night of the members of the State Chamber of Commerce and a number of local business men at a banquet given in the Ritz, on West Front street, the event being conducted primarily for the purpose of acquainting local merchants with the objects and accomplishments of the State body. Following a sumptuous repast, served by the Ritz management, a number of interesting after-dinner speeches were delivered by well-known men of the State who are versed in legislative and business topics.

As the presiding officer of the evening, Senator Ackerman introduced Field Secretary Bender, of the State Chamber of Commerce, who dwelt at length on the motives of the organization and its intention to focus the attention of New Jersey commercial enterprises on matters pertaining to State legislation. He gave those present an opportunity to make suggestions relative to the legislative affairs of the State and their relations to business interests.

Senator Ackerman said that from January to April each year the legislators of the State are called upon to pass judgment on hundreds of bills, many of which they have no intimate knowledge and have no time to become acquainted with. He said that some of these are put through the House and the Senate in a slip-shod fashion, the fault lying with the State Legislature rather than with its legislators. Mr. Ackerman outlined the need of an organization to cooperate with the legislators and assist them in digesting and analyzing the various documents and picking out their good and bad points. This organization, according to the speaker, could be relied upon to give the legislators some idea of the probable effect the various bills would ultimately have upon the business interests of the State.

Former Mayor George H. Veihmann, of New Brunswick, in an enthusiastic address, classed the legislative conditions of New Jersey as "rotten." He further declared that the type of men being sent to the House and the Senate are below the standard required, and that many of them are not qualified to handle and pass upon the questions with which they are confronted in the course of their legislative duties. He advocated the singling out of better "material" for these important offices, and declared that men qualified to execute the duties should have public spirit enough to make sacrifices and answer the call to run for offices. He classed the bank tax law as an unjust measure, and said that there was no more need of taxing banks than there was of levying such a tax on grocers' stock. He also referred to the Ramsey insurance law and employers' liability law as excellent acts of legislation, but added that both could be improved upon. He said that the police and firemen of the State each have their organizations through which they can get any law they wish from Trenton, but that the merchants have no organized voice to back them up in their efforts. He urged the solid organization of business interests and the formation of an adamant body that would gain recognition from the Legislatures, and referred to the Chamber of Commerce as the first step in this direction.

Mayor Veihmann condemned the practice of certain "fly-by-night" merchants whom, he said, came into a town or city and, after filling a store with stock, set it afire and collected insurance. He urged investigations to reveal the responsibility for mysterious fires and to run the dishonest merchant out of the State.

Secretary Bender explained that the Chamber of Commerce now had plans under consideration for the raising of $65,000 to be set aside as a fund to be used in the betterment of industrial conditions in New Jersey and paying experts to confer with and advise the legislators on matters pertaining to business.

Included in the list of invited guests last night were A. H. Atterbury, David T. Kenney, Herman Schwed, Mayor Leighton Calkins, former Mayor Percy H. Stewart, Charles H. Frost and William Newcorn.

"WHO IS A REFORMER?"

Rev. Herman Martin, pastor of Temple Sholem, will preach tonight on "Who is a Reformer?" The services will be gin at 8 o'clock and all are invited.

PROBASCO CLASS IN ANNUAL DINNER

Almost One Hundred Young Men at Last Night's Event.

GOOD SPEECHES HEARD

C. W. McCutchen, "Patron Saint" of Class, Urges Them to Play Fair, but fight hard when facing "Jimmie" O'Briens of Everyday Life.

Almost one hundred members of the Probasco Bible Class of the First Baptist church attended last night's annual dinner in the Sunday-school room of the church.

The class members were entertained by short addresses from leaders in the work after they had enjoyed an excellent dinner served by young ladies from the Christian Endeavor Society. Dr. Norman H. Probasco, leader of the class; the Rev. Dr. Philip Strong, pastor of the church; Charles W. McCutchen, called the "patron sain" of the class; William Bingeman, former boys' work director of the local Y. M. C. A., and associate class leader; A. M. Harris, J. Henry Crane, Francis K. Anderson and Fred Serrell were the speakers.

Tables were laid for one hundred of the young men, and when the young women began to serve there were but few empty chairs. Before the dinner, members of the class got better acquainted and renewed old friendships. While dining they were entertained by a professional with a new repertoire of jokes, who also rendered old songs in a pleasing manner.

In introducing the speakers of the

MRS. COLLINS DIES AT DAUGHTER'S HOME

Resident of This City Sixty Years, and a Pioneer Member of St. Mary's Church.

Mrs. Mary Collins, widow of John T. Collins, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sylvester Sharkey, of East Second street. Death was due to the infirmities of old age, and followed a lingering illness.

Mrs. Collins has been a resident of this city for more than sixty years. She was one of the pioneer members of St. Mary's church, and an active worker in the establishment of the parish here fifty years ago.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. P. J. Keely, of Carlton avenue, and the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Sylveseter Sharkey and Mrs. Rose Blimm, of this city; Mrs. William McGloin and Miss Annie Collins, of New York; Peter J. Collins, of Brooklyn, and James Collins, of St. Louis. The funeral will be held at the late home Monday morning, 8:30 o'clock, with a requiem mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

FIXTURES OF JACKSON ATTACHED BY COURT

Sergeant-at-Arms Edgar Farley, of the Somerset County District Court, made an attachment on all fixtures, etc., of Charles A. Jackson, who conducted a meat market at the corner of Somerset street and Linden street, North Plainfield, late yesterday afternoon. Ralph I. Tolles, was the complainant to the extent of $303.74. Charles A. Case, of North Plainfield, was witness to the official act.

IONA COUNCIL D. OF P., HOLD SUCCESSFUL DANCE

About 100 persons participated in a dance held last night under the auspices of Iona Tribe, No. 14, Daughters of Pocahontas. Music for dancing was furnished by Naylor's orchestra.

The success of the affair added a good sum to the council's treasury, which will be ample to defray the expenses of the one delegate and the past officers to the meeting of the State Council, which will be held in Atlantic City on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. It is expected that the Plainfield delegation will number ten or more persons.

TO VISIT RED MEN.

Charles T. Grace, of South Amboy, great prophet of New Jersey, will be present at the "come back" meeting to be held by members of Miantonomo Tribe, of Plainfield, on Wednesday, November 17.

FLAINFIELD WOMEN TO MARCH IN N. Y.

Mrs. Feickert to Head New Jersey Delegation—Forty Will Go From Here.

More than forty women from Plainfield are expected to go to New York tomorrow to march in the big parade down Fifth avenue in the afternoon for "votes for women."

Despite New Jersey's majority in favor of the antis last Tuesday, this State has been honored by those in charge of the parade by a place at the head of the line. New Jersey will lead all the rest of the States. First will come the international suffragists, then representatives of the national organization and then New Jersey delegation. It is believed by those in charge of State headquarters that there will be 4,000 from the State, all dressed in white and marching under a banner which carries the words, "Delayed but not Defeated."

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, of Plainfield, president of the New Jersey League for Woman Suffrage, will head the delegation, accompanied by other officers. She has been promised delegates from the thirteen northern counties in the State, including Monmouth. Plainfield and Union county will have an important place in the formation. Among those who plan to go from here are: Mrs. I. Schwed and daughter, Mrs. H. C. White, Mr. and Mrs. Champlain Riley, Miss Dorothy Riley, Miss Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burns, Miss Durar, Mrs. Corraldo and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Cox, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Elderton, Dr. and Mrs. Krans, Mrs. Penn, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. L. H. Cummings and Mrs. Feickert.

ROBERT JAHN WEDS MISS AUGUSTA KEGEL

Ceremony Was Performed at Billings, Montana, on Columbus Day.

Relatives and friends in this city have received announcements from Billings, Mont., telling of the marriage at that place, October 12, of Miss Augusta Kegel, daughter of Mrs. Augusta Kegel, of 421 West Fifth street, to Robert Jahn, a former local business man and resident of Scotch Plains. The ceremony was performed in the German Reformed church at Billings, the pastor officiating, and was witnessed by a gathering of friends. The couple will make their home in Billings, where the bridegroom is a partner in a firm of sheet metal workers.

Miss Kegel left Plainfield for the West a few days before the wedding, and was accompanied by her sister, Miss Margaret Kegel. The latter acted as bridesmaid at the wedding, while Mr. Jahn had for his best man Mr. Winters, one of his business partners.

Miss Kegel will return to Plainfield aftere a visit of several weeks at the new home of the bride and bridegroom.

Mr. Jahn is a son of Mrs. Rosa Jahn, of Scotch Plains, and for a number of years was associated with his brother, Philip Jahn, as sheet metal contractors in Plainfield and vicinity. He afterward embarked in business for himself at Perth Amboy, and five years ago went West. For the past three years he has located at Billings, where he has been very successful, and is looked upon as one of the city's most progressive business men. He is a member of Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias; Crescent Company, No. 13, Uniformed Rank, K. of P., and other local organizations, the members of which have forwarded congratulatory cards to Billings. On the day of the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Jahn were given a postal card shower by relatives and friends in Plainfield and Scotch Plains, while numerous telegrams wishing them success were also sent.

AUXILIARIES TO MEET.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. is planning for the twenty-first annual conference of the State Auxiliaries to be held in this city November 4 and 5. Interesting speakers, who will be announced later, will address the meetings, and a large attendance is desired by all persons interested in the welfare of young men.

TRAFFIC POST DAMAGED.

An unknown party driving an automobile ran into the traffic post located at East Fifth street and Watchung avenue some time last night, considerably damaging it. The police are looking for the autoist, and if found he will be prosecuted for not notifying the proper authorities of his mishap.

MIDDLESEX PROHIS PLEAD FOR VOTES

"Flying Squadron" Heard in Meeting at Whittier School.

The Middlesex Flying Squadron for Prohibition, with Prof. Livingston Barbour, of New Brunswick, and Rutgers College students, held a meeting in the Whittier School last evening.

The Rev. Dr. Mason, of Metuchen, who has been affiliated with the Prohibition party for a good many years and was its candidate for governor of this State at the last election, presided over the meeting.

Prior to introducing Professor E. Livingston Barbour, who is the candidate of the Prohibition party for State senator, as the principal speaker of the evening, Dr. Mason made a few remarks in which he spoke of the liquor traffic as a menace to everything that is good in the nation. That thinking men of the land are commencing to join the ranks of the Prohibition party is evidenced, Dr. Mason said, by the fact that the party graduated from the petition stage to the convention stage this year, when all of the candidates were nominated on a convention. By next year, Dr. Mason said, the party hopes to be in the primary. The women who were present applauded Dr. Mason when he attributed the defeat of woman suffrage on Tuesday to the influence of the liquor traffic.

Professor Barbour said in part, "A good many labor under the impression that our government is a Christian government, but I contend that it is not a Christian government and will never be as long as it sanctions the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages.

"Before Prohibition was admitted to Kansas that State was known as the wild and wooly west. Now it has beautiful cities and over one million women and children. You never see a drunken man or a saloon in Kansas.

"The liquor traffic robs people of shoes, bread and clothing; pays no doctor bills and makes drunkards. The Bible says that no drunkard can enter the Kingdom of Heaven, therefore this traffic robs heaven and fills hell. It causes 80 per cent. of the crimes, increasing taxes. In nine States with full liquor licenses the annual tax per capita is $17; in 13 States with 25 per cent. of the population under prohibition the tax is $14.32; in 18 States with 50 per cent. of population under prohibition the tax is $11.08, and in 8 States under full prohibition the tax is only $10.12."

Miss Emma Perrine, of Grove street, was able to be up yesterday for the first since Sunday, when she fell and sprained her knee joint.

Edwin Lewis, of North avenue, who was taken ill last week, is able to be out and about.

Samuel B. Merrell, of Front street, has returned from a protracted visit at Newark, where he was the guest of his son, Asa B. Merrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Apgar, of Front street, entertained Mrs. Charles Smith and son, of Piscataway, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nagel, of Prospect avenue, entertained the Misses Emma and Clara Provost, of Bound Brook, recently.

Lewis Frangart, of Bound Brook, is stopping with his uncle, Peter Nagel, of Prospect avenue.

Mrs. Elmer Doty, of Dewey Park, is suffering from neuralgia.

Mrs. John Herbert, of First street has returned from Lake George, N. Y.

A banner advertising the fair to be given by the Defender Fire Company on November 11, 12 and 13 is stretched across North avenue, opposite the W. G. Holton Hall, where the fair will be held.

Mrs. Minnie Huff, of Plainfield, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Huff, of North avenue, yesterday.

The Dunellen A. C. will play the crack Netherwood football eleven at Netherwood tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Huff, of Plainfield, who has been stopping with her son, John Huff, for the past year or so, has not been feeling very well for the past several days.

Invitations are out for a masquerade party to be given by Miss Bernice Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Sumner Smith, of Grove street, at her home tomorrow evening.

The property of Contractor H. B. Eckert has been improved by a retaining wall which has been built along the Washington avenue and Third street property lines.

The Misses Martha Kratzel and Anna Wiedenhaupt returned last evening from a visit in Brooklyn.

Howard Dayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon R. Dayton, is the proud possessor of a new bicycle.

Arthur O'Leary, of Whittier avenue, has discontinued his studies in Plainfield High School and accepted a position with the Ransome Concrete Machinery Company.

Leo Logan, of Washington avenue, who was taken ill last Thursday, was able to go out for a while yesterday afternoon. John Logan, Sr., is also recovering from an operation.

Mrs. Frances Harrison, of New Market road, who has been confined to her bed with bronchial trouble for the past month, is now able to sit up for a while each day.

MOTORED TO MT. BETHEL.

C. Lester Rule, C. M. Haight and Tax Collector Isaac J. Stites, of Dunellen, motored to Mt. Bthel, Wednesday evening, and attended the meeting of the Somerset County Past Councilors' Association. The trip was made in Mr. Haight's car. They were accompanied by Rev. E. M. Compton, the speaker of the evening.

ATTENDING DISTRICT SESSION.

State Treasurer W. B. La Rue, of the Jr. O. U. A. M., is attending the district council session of the Jr. O. U. A. M., in Washington, as a fraternal delegate from this State.

Edwin Johnson, the local journalist, wishes to deny the report that he has joined the Boy Scouts. The story originated from the fact that Edwin, arrayed in a Boy Scout uniform, carried the banner for Friendship Council in the big Junior parade in Newark recently. It seems that the uniform was merely borrowed for the occasion.

Mrs. Herbert L. Dunham has been visiting her father, Walter Dunn.

Watchung.

The leader for the Christian Endeavor Society meeting tonight will be Frank Moore.

Miss Anna Moldenke, of "Castle Elsinore," has returned to her home after spending ten days at Philadelphia. While there Miss Moldenke attended the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Lankeman School, of which she is a graduate. In connection with this celebration a reunion of the former pupils was held and over 200 attended.

The Parent-Teacher Association held its monthly meeting last evening in the Watchung School auditorium. After the business meeting Francis E. Bodin addressed the association in the absence of D. Fred Aungst, the speaker of the evening, who was prevented from coming. After Mr. Bodin's interesting talk an exhibit of drawings made by the children was held.

Theodore A. Moldenke, of Wagner College, Rochester, N. Y., is spending the week-end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Moldenke, at Villa Elsinore.

Rev. Mebane Ramsay will have charge of all services in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church on Sunday.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Walter E. Sands, of the borough, is showing a copy of the Plainfield Union dated December 30, 1856, among his friends. It has some interesting advertisements besides a little bit of Plainfield and surrounding news. Mr. Sands found it among his mother's possessions after her death a short time ago, creased and yellow with age. He says that she must have come in possession of it during her short residence in Plainfield in 1856 and kept it ever since.

The Rev. Raymond E. Marshal will take the topic for tonight's prayer meeting at the Methodist church from the last chapters of John.

Work has been started on the erection of a two and one-half story building on Russell road, near North avenue, for George Palcanis, now residing in the 'Plains.

A three-day fair, similar to the one held at Stony Hill last week, is being held at Stirling. It opened last night with a record attendance and will close tomorrow night.

ANNUAL SESSION OF THE P. O. OF A.

Local Delegates Attend Big Gathering Held in New York This Week.

The nineteenth annual session of the P. O. of A. held in the Park Avenue Hotel, New York city, came to a close yesterday afternoon, after a harmonious two-day meeting. Besides the district and national officers present, 316 delegates attended the convention, making a total attendance of about 500.

The report of the national secretary, George W. Smith, of Phillipsburg, shows a total membership of 3,820, a net gain during the year of 2,373. Pennsylvania has a State camp and out of this gain she has to her credit 869. One of the camps in New York State carried home the prize flag for having the largest gain in membership, which was 206. Announcement was made that twenty-six death claims had been paid during the year and since the establishment of this adjunct the order has paid 1,788 claims aggregating $409,404.09. A camp has been instituted in Los Angeles and one in Portland Oregon, and both are reported doing good work.

New Jersey boasts of six national officers, the latter being: Past president, Mrs. Hattie Smith, New Haven Conn.; past assistant president George Farring, Baltimore; president, Jacob Baker, Camden; vice president Miss Emma Stevens, Yonkers, N. Y.; conductor, Mrs. Elizabeth Strunk Philadelphia, Pa.; assistant conductor, George Hale, Hartford, Conn.; sentinel, Miss Minnie Boker, Palmaria; guard, Mrs. Leonora Beck, Philadelphia; chaplain, Mrs. Julia Meredith, Jersey City; recording secretary, George W. Smith, Phillipsburg assistant secretary, Mrs. Laura Marratt, Orange; treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Harkins, Philadelphia.

The annual convention next October was voted upon to be held in Baltimore. Delegates from Camp 1, of Plainfield, were Mrs. Lucetta Smith Mrs. Peter Johnson and Mrs. Helen Freeman, the latter submitting the report of the local camp.

65TH ANNIVERSARY OF SUFF MOVEMENT

Event is Being Celebrated at Worcester, Mass., by New England Leaders.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 22.—The 65th anniversary of the first organized woman's rights convention ever held in the United States is being observed here by suffragist leaders from New England and other States. The birth of the suffrage movement also registered the birth of the "Antis," for on that occasion many prominent women refused to be present or to have their names connected in any way with the issue. Some of the "Antis" of 1850 were curt and reproachful, but in the early days of the movement for woman suffrage the issue was laughed at and the opponents did not organize.

The first woman's rights convention opened here on October 19, 1850, and lasted until the 24th. Among the speakers were men and women prominent in American history. Catherine M. Sedgewick, William Ellory Channing, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Wendell Phillips, John Greenleaf Whittier, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Bronson Alcott and many other leaders of that generation expressed deep interest in the movement and most of them took part in the convention proceedings.

It is interesting to note that among the papers read and addresses given were pleas for freedom of women to attend colleges and universities, to learn trades, to enter into professions and into business which are now taken as a matter of course. Pioneer women in these lines who spoke were Mrs. Sarah Tyndale, of Philadelphia, the most prominent business woman of her day; Antoinette L. Brown, a young minister; Dr. Harriet K. Hunt, the first woman physician in Massachusetts, and Lucy Stone, who helped to open college doors to women.

Eleven States were represented in this first suffrage convention. They were: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa and California. Mrs. Pauline Wright Davis was chairman, Wendell Phillips was appointed treasurer, and Mrs. Sarah H. Earle, secretary. A central committee, which form is still in evidence in the national organization, was appointed, on which there were representatives from each State.

William Lloyd Garrison wrote to the convention as follows: "I doubt whether a more important movement has ever been launched touching the destiny of the race than this in regard to the equality of the sexes."

Notwithstanding the inexperience of the women in organization work and conducting meetings, the sessions were managed according to parliamentary law. An explanation of the purposes of the convention was read, and resolutions were passed which stated "that women are clearly entitled to the right of suffrage and to be considered eligible to office." The resolution declared that every party that claimed "to represent humanity, civilization and progress was bound to ratify the watchword, 'Equality before the law, without distinction to sex or color.'"

As a result of the first convention, John Stuart Mill was converted to equal suffrage, and many other men and women prominent in that day were deeply impressed by the earnestness and force of the claims of the equal rights convention.

INTERCOMMUNICATING RESIDENCE TELEPHONES

In small residences one telephone is sometimes found to be epough, though the extension station for the second floor is an added convenience that is fast becoming a necessity. For larger houses a simple form of intercommunicating system becomes desirable, with stations in the butler's pantry and the garage. With the increase in size of the establishment the need for more complete intercommunication becomes intensified, and so we find, in large country estates, the intercommunicating telephone system brought to the most extensive and complete development it has yet attained. Comprehensive illustrations of the working possibilities of this sort of telephone service are afforded by the systems installed on the estates of Mr. Harry Payne Whitney, Mr. H. S. Pratt, Mr. Charles A. Coffin, Mr. A. W. Hodenpyl, and others.

The Telephone Review, New York, publishes a semi-technical article of very general interest, on the intercommunicating residence telephone system, illustrated by photographs taken in the Long Island homes of the above well-known millionaires. The author is H. S. Koeppel, local commercial manager of the New York Telephone Company at Glen Cove, the center of one of the wealthiest suburban residence districts in the vicinity of New York. He is therefore particularly well qualified to discuss this subject, fo it is in the large establishments that the intercommunicating idea is most completely worked out.

The provisions for privacy on the lines used by the family in the household where the intercommunicating systems are in use are particularly interesting. In the Whitney residence, at Wheatley Hills, Long Island, a separate line is wired into the system, connecting only such stations as are used by the family exclusively, and is so arranged that it is impossible for any one to cut in or overhear a conversation on that line. If any station is using this private line and any other station connected either before or after it on this circuit tries to make a call, the newcomer finds the line dead and is obliged to resort to the general house line for service. Although an incoming call on this private line signals at the pantry and service quarters of the house, the call can be answered only at the library station, from which it is possible to signal, by means of ringing buttons, to either of the other two stations on the private wire. From the studio there is a private line, wholly unconnected with the intercommunicating system, which gives additional facilities for direct line, private service.

In the residence of Mr. Pratt privacy on the central office line is secured by the use of a cut-out switch on the instrument in the master's room. This enables Mr. Pratt to have exclusive use of the central office line. In Mr. Coffin's installation, an additional wire, known as the private line, is introduced into the instrument in Mr. Coffin's den, so there is a line always ready for his personal use only. Cut out switches are used in the system at Mr. Hodenpyl's estate to maintain privacy on the central office line.

The control of central office calls from the various stations in an intercommunicating system, is another interesting example of the problems successfully met by the telephone company, in working out the intercommunicating system. In the Whitney estate, two switches at the pantry station are used to control outgoing central office calls from the garage and farm buildings in order that toll usage may be supervised. From a number of stations, also, no central office connection whatever is provided, as it is supposed that such service will not be required from these stations. At the stable, where central office service might be very much abused if provided, there is nevertheless a necessity for toll service, so to meet this need, a special station was installed, unconnected with the intercommunicating system. This station is designed to meet the needs of the trainer and also of the large number of workers always stationed at the stable.

At the Pratt home the coat-room station is arranged for long distance service only and is so wired that when the receiver is taken off it automatically disconnects from the central office line all the other stations except that in the master's chamber, which is the controlling station. When the receiver is replaced the line is restored to its normal position. This automatic feature is designed to prevent the inconvenience likely to result from the use of a switch, for guests unfamiliar with the details of this particular system would be likely to neglect to restore a switch to its normal position and thus unconsciously leave practically all of the stations without long distance service.

The conditions in each household or estate determine the variations and adaptations of the equipment. The variety of instruments which are used in one system may be understood from the enumeration of the instruments in the Pratt residence.

These stations vary in size, the pantry being a 36-button type, the outbuildings 12-button, and all other house stations 24-button, except the coatroom and servants' dining-room, which are flush hotel sets, and the main stair hall instrument, which is of the ordinary desk stand type.

In essentials the intercommunicating systems described are typical of all, the same flexibility of operation being insured by methods not materially different.

CHURCH WORKERS TO MEET HERE

Congregational Societies Plan for Interesting Two-Days' Session.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Women's Missionary Union and Women's Board of Missions to Convene Here on October 28-29—Leaders to Speak.

A two days' session of missionary workers will be held in the Congregational church, this city, on Thursday and Friday of next week when the Women's Missionary Union of the New Jersey Conference will hold its twenty-fourth annual meeting, and the Philadelphia Branch of the Women's Board of Missions will hold its forty-fifth annual meeting on the following day.

The meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Union will open at 10:30 with a devotional service, followed by the address of welcome by Mrs. J. M. Whiton and the response by Mrs. H. P. Douglas. Reports will be read of the executive committee by Mrs. F. A. Coombs, of East Orange; the treasury, by Mrs. W. E. Buell, of Washington, D. C.; the auxiliaries, Mrs. W. H. Lum, of Chatham, and the Young People's Work, by Mrs. Harold Armstrong, of Montclair.

Mrs. G. W. Hinman, of San Francisco, Cal., will deliver the principal address of the morning session on "Orientals in the United States." Luncheon will be served at 12:30.

The afternoon session will be opened with "A Quiet Hour," in charge of Mrs. H. E. Birdseye, of Glen Ridge; Mrs. George Donaldson, of Grantwood, will make a "Report of the Field," in which she will offer some excellent suggestions and give an interesting description of the work, in a general way. A plan of work for 1915 and 1916 will also be outlined. Mrs. H. W. Hicks, of Glen Ridge, will deliver an address on the "Federation."

Mrs. Alice Freeman Firman, of Chicago, will deliver an address on "The Greatest Need."

The closing hours of the afternoon session will be devoted to receiving the report of the nominating committee, the election of officers and unfinished business.

The evening session will be featured by a stereopticon address by Mrs. Hastings H. Hart, of White Plains, N. Y., who will take for her topic, "The Least of These."

The Women's Board of Missions will open their first session on Friday morning with a devotional service, in which all present are expected to participate. Business matters will be considered and reports received. This will be followed by short talks on "Our Home Work," by Mrs. E. H. Neff, of Montclair; "Our Foreign Work," by Mrs. I. H. Demarest, of Closter, and "The Treasury," by Miss Martha M. Hooper, of Washington, D. C. "Our Association Presidents" will be the topic of interesting talks by Mrs. L. W. H. Giese, of Philadelphia, and Miss Alice H. Clark, of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Theodore Crosbey Bliss, of Washington, D. C., will talk on "Our Southeastern Work."

"In the King's Service" will be the subject of an address by Miss Alice M. Kyle, secretary of the Women's Board of Missions. Mrs. M. L. Stimson, of Westfield, will talk on "An Opportunity."

Luncheon will be served at 12:30.

At the afternoon session Mrs. Charles H. Daniels, president of the Women's Board of Missions, will talk on "Adversaries in the King's Highway." The missionary address will be delivered by Mrs. John P. Jones, of Madura, India. "Our Share in the Madura Hospital" will be discussed by Mrs. H. W. Hicks, of Glen Ridge.

"Our Junior Work" will be discussed by Mrs. W. R. Westerfield, of Montclair; Miss Catherine Crane, of California, and Mrs. F. P. Updike, of Plainfield.

The afternoon session will close with a business meeting, during which there will be an election of officers, reports of committees and the closing exercises.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

CLASS IN ANNUAL DINNER

evening, Dr. Probasco called attention to the fact that several of the six original members of the class, which was organized in 1901, were present. He was one of them, and others are now equally successful in other lines, but all still hold to the Bible class and its work.

Dr. Strong told of the wonderful force for good that the young men had been, not only in church work, but in their daily contact with the world, and urged them to continue their devotion to their leader and his teachings, and to cling to class traditions for better living.

Charles W. McCutchen, "patron saint" of the class, a pioneer in religious work, admitted the awe of age when standing before youth by his opening expression, "We, who are about to die, salute you." Mr. McCutchen evidenced youth that will never die in his remarks, however, and he won the attention of each of the class members when he started talking of the world series and its particular hero—Foster. He told of a ball game of years ago, when he played shortstop for a Brooklyn team that dared to challenge the Athletics, of Philadelphia, then world champions beyond dispute, and of his own timidity when he walked to the plate to face the greatest pitcher of his day, "Jimmie" O'Brien. He said he called for a waist ball in tones so low the pitcher could hardly hear him, and O'Brien showed his contempt for the diminutive little "rookie" by calling in the outfielders. However, he hit out and hit hard, Mr. McCutchen said, and he connected with a fast one that landed far over the left fielder's head for a home run. He urged his young friends to play the game of life hard but fair, and to not be discouraged even though they were called on to face the "Jimmie" O'Briens of this day, but to keep fighting, and success would come. Mr. Bingeman, a former class worker, who is now general secretary of the Madison Y. M. C. A., was given an ovation when he arose. Mr. Bingeman showed his love for the class and its work by coming from Madison for the annual event.

Other speakers of the evening urged the class members to be "on the job," to get started in the right direction early in life, and to hold to Christianity in business as well as in other parts of life.

LEHIGH VALLEY GIVEN PERMISSION TO MOVE SHED

Trenton, Oct. 22.—The State Board of Public Utility Commissioners today granted permission to the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company to change the location of its shelter shed near South Plainfield to Pony's Crossing, a distance of about 2,000 feet south from its present site. The Board agrees with the railroad officials and the patrons of the road at this point that the new position will be more convenient and less dangerous.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

That colossal film masterpiece, "Vanity Fair," with Mrs. Fiske in the role of Becky Sharp, comes to Proctor's Theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday. This is an Edison production and one of the greatest ever executed by that well known maker of good pictures. Also, it is conspicuous as the first Edison offering on the newly organized Kleine-Edison Feature Service program.

Needless to say a production of sufficient size to warrant the engagement of Mrs. Fiske is no ordinary film venture. More than four hundred people were employed in many of the big scenes, notably the one which portrays Lady Richardson's ball in Brussels. This scene is in itself elaborate enough to stamp "Vanity Fair" an extraordinary production. The antique curio shops of Manhattan were ransacked for hangings and furniture of the period and the entire mammoth floor of the Edison studio was utilized. In filming the great classic, the Edison producer made no effort to follow the devious plot of Thackeray's novel. The bare outline with the principal characters of the drama are enough to charge seven reels of film with snap and action. It is one of the genuine film masterpieces of the last two years and will undoubtedly prove immensely popular.

were misjudged by all. He said that the popular picture of the native of South America portrayed a fierce-looking Spaniard, with a long black mustache, curled up on the ends, a dagger in the right hand and with ferocity in every movement. This he said was a great mistake. The Latin American, it is true, is hot-blooded, but kind, gentle and true, ready to forget an injury and anxious for the friendship of all. In fact, they were in their natures more like children. But, Mr. Howard declared, these qualities are not without their advantages, and it would be a great improvement if some of the surplus warmth of the South American could be imparted to the cold, informal and unemotional resident of the United States. He really thought that both races would be improved by the blending.

He told of the immense field for religious work in that part of the world. He said that the people by the thousands were breaking away from the established church and the entire continent was fast becoming irreligious. He said that the people of the north were just awakening to a knowledge of the Latin America and the Latin American's needs. The entire address was listened to with rapt attention.

Mr. Howard will have chage of the entire associated Sunday-school missionary work in South America.

"Six Gates to the Scholar's Life" was the topic of a short, but timely address by Frank L. Brown, general secretary of the World's Sunday school Association. Mr. Brown explained that several means of reaching the Sunday-school pupils and awakening their interest in religious work and to the need of a vigorous missionary effort. He related incidents showing the successful method employed in a number of schools which had come under his observation.

Those in charge of the convention are gratified at the unqualified success of the event, all three sessions of which were largely attended and intense interest was displayed throughout. They accord much credit to Miss Violet Jewell for her excellent work on the cornet, and to William Holmes, the musical director. The visitors voiced their high appreciation of the excellent manner in which they were entertained by the people of Plainfield.

The visiting superintendents, who were entertained at dinner in the Seventh-Day Baptist church at 6 o'clock, said that Plainfield is justly entitled to the name of "Queen City," as the people surely accord royal entertainment to visitors.

With the sacrifice of but little time in ceremony, the afternoon session was called to order shortly after 1:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The devotional service, with which the session was opened, was in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church. A general conference and demonstration in convention as a whole followed and awakened considerable interest. Isaac B. Burgess, general secretary of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association, conducted a home department open parliament.

While Herbert L. Hill, general secretary of the New York City Sunday school Association, was scheduled to speak on "The Organized Adult Bible Class," he elected to let the audience do a share of the talking rather than be doing it all. Mr. Hill explained that he believed that more actual lasting information could be brought out in this way than by any other method. This part of the program took on more the nature of the question box than otherwise.

Mr. Hill invited all to ask whatever questions pertaining to the work which they desired and he explained the phases of the work which seemed to puzzle the minds of the less experienced Sunday-school workers. Nearly all the questions and answers were confined to the advantages of the graded system of Sunday-school studies over the ordinary study methods or vice versa. Mr. Hill explained that conditions often governed the advisability of adopting the new method, but as a rule his experience was that for all purposes the graded system was preferable.

Miss Edna E. Cole, with her "Greetings and a Message," gave an interesting talk on the advantages of the trained teacher over the one who had never enjoyed the advantages of a training course in Sunday-school work. She said that she wanted to impress three facts indellibly on the minds of her hearers. They were: The power of knowledge, the power of love, and the power of a realization of possibilities, all of which were of prime importance in a Sunday-school teacher's career. These were all obtained through proper training.

"A Message from the State Association," was delivered by Rev. Samuel D. Price, corresponding secretary of the New Jersey State Sunday-school Association. He urged that all make a concerted effort toward a more general co-operation between the individual Sunday-school and the organized movement, as represented by the county, State and national organizations. On behalf of the State association he presented a flag to the Union County Association for its efficient work during the past year. He also complimented the Sunday-schools of Plainfield for their efforts and paid public tribute to the individual work done by George E. Moore and Arthur M. Harris, of Plainfield.

Miss J. Gertrude Hutton, of East Orange, gave an interesting talk on "What Some Schools Are Doing." She accompanied her remarks with some of the specimens of the work of training the younger children in missionary work. She showed how some schools by systematic and persistent efforts have succeeded in interesting all ages of people in the move to further the missionary cause.

The nominating committee in its report offered the following candidates for the different offices, all of whom were unanimously elected: President, Rev. M. L. Stimson, Westfield; vice presidents, Revs. J. J. Allen, South Plainfield; J. Y. Broek, Plainfield; Rev. Charles S. Kemble, Rahway; Rev. Minot C. Morgan, Summit. The offices of recording secretary corresponding secretary and treasurer were all combined and placed in charge of James E. Church of Plainfield; elementary and intermediate superintendent, Miss S. A. Valentine; adult superintendent, J. P. Lincffhoff; teacher training, Rev. Edward S. Ralston, Plainfield; evangelist, Rev. J. W. Ellson, Elizabeth; temperance superintendent, Rev. A. B. Dezendorff, Westfield; member of State executive committee, Rev. E. C. Conover, Plainfield.

WILL LECTURE ON 1915 EXPOSITION

Arthur Stanley Riggs to Give Second in Series of Board of Education Entertainments.

Dr. H. M. Maxson announces the second number on the program of public lectures to be held in the High School auditorium during this coming winter. The attendance at the opening number, despite the inclement weather, was very good and there is every indication that the public is prepared to patronize the entertainments which the Board of Education has arranged.

Arthur Stanley Riggs, a favorite lecturer, having appeared in this city on numerous occasions, will deliver a lecture on Thursday evening, October 28, profusely illustrated by many beautiful pictures of interesting features of the fairs, on "Expositions of 1915 as Landmarks of Human Progress."

Mr. Riggs in personality and character may be described "cosmopolitan." He can talk "reporting in the Philippines," "literature in England," "art in the old world," and he is equally entertaining as lecturer, critic or journalist. He is a man who has seen the world with observant and appreciative eyes and his sense of humor is delightfully entertaining to those who have the pleasure of hearing him lecture.

Folders, containing the schedule of lectures for the season, may be obtained upon request at the office of Dr. Maxson and the public will be notified through the newspapers several days previous to the holding of any of the entertainments scheduled.

JOSEPH STROMAK INJURED IN MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT

Joseph Stromak, of South Second street, was knocked down at Rock avenue and South Second street, at 7:30 this morning by a motorcycle ridden by Parker Loizeaux, of 1215 Putnam avenue. It was thought at first that the man was seriously injured, and a hurry call was sent for Dr. Albert Pittis, but when the latter arrived it was found that he had suffered only bruises. He was taken to his home in an automobile. Stromak and two companions were walking in the road when Loizeaux approached, and as the motorcycle reached them the men scattered in various directions. Stromak became confused and swung directly into the machine. No blame is attached to Loizeaux.

Women's Suits of Velveteen and Corduroy at $37.50

75; duplicates, from the same maker, of suits that came into our stocks within a month and were priced very reasonably at $45 to $48.50.

4 styles in velveteen and 5 in corduroy; black, navy blue, green, burgundy, brown; loose coats, belted blouse effects, wide and medium flare; trimmed with skunk-dyed raccoon or Hudson seal (dyed muskrat) and beaver combined.

More Suits at $25

Every day, as fast as these suits go—and they go very fast—new styles come in to fill their places. The assortment for Saturday will be very interesting—nearly 300 suits in more than a score of models.

Fashionable Coats

Saturday, 110 women's coats at $19.50—10 smart and protective models; tweeds, cheviots and mixtures; tailored like a man's coat; some trimmed with fur; cross-belted, half-belted; straight lines with comfortable fullness of skirt; some weather-proofed.

75 coats at $27.50—wool plush in plum, green, brown and black, velvet-trimmed broadcloths—very good in the large sizes—whipcords and cheviots. New Paris touches.

75 coats at $35—imported tweeds, novelty worsted cheviots, corduroy and plush; stylish full coats, with belts, deep pockets, big collars, wide swinging skirts; appropriate for the street or the car.

Gallery of Fashion—Second floor, Old Bldg.

Four Sales in the Dress Fabric Salons

(1) 50, 54-in. semi-rough suitings in plain and double tones. Autumn shades, and about half usual price at 58c yard.

(2) 54-in. superfine all-wool flour for coats, skirts and dresses, all over stripes. The usual price would be just three times this one of 85c yard.

(3) 48-in. soft fine wool suitings in boucle, cheviot, dark and medium shades in brown, green, taupe, bishop, navy and black, all imported, 85c yard.

(4) 50, 54-in. all-wool coatings in medium and heavyweights. Thick soft chinchilla and wool plush for motoring and other out of door wear. Extra special at $1.55 yard.

Plentiful stocks of all these.

Finest $4 Shoes for Women

They ought to be! There's not a detail of their making that we haven't superintended with the greatest care.

We insisted that the leather, workmanship and style in our $4 shoes must be superior to those of all other $4 shoes.

Twenty-six styles in this group so that every foot may be suited. Among the very late models are Black patent leather shoes with cloth tops, plain or with tips.

Dull calf shoes, cloth tops, plain toes.

Dull calf and patent leather kid tops shoes, buttoned or laced.

Main floor, Old Building.

Featuring Inexpensive Fashions for Young Women

On Saturday Little Gray Salons will put forth their best efforts to be well and smartly dressed.

1—Suits at $16.50, $18.50, $20 and $23.50

You will be surprised to discover how pretty they are. Whipcords, broadcloths, poplins and velveteens are the fabrics, and the fashions are Norfolk, belted or Russian, sometimes with a touch of fur, but more often plain. Navy blue, black, brown and green.

Other suits up to $97.50 in every imaginable fabric.

2—Coats at $13.75, $16.50 and $18.50

To quote one model from each group, there is a zibeline coat with raccoon scarf collar at $13.50, an English looking tweed coat at $16.50, and another fine zibeline with or without fur collar at $18.50

Other coats up to $77.50 with specially good choosing among corduroy, velveteen and plush.

3—Dresses at $10, $12.50, $15 and $25

Most of these are reduced because there remain but a few of each kind, so they are extra good values. Taffetas, satins, serge and crepe de chine in one piece and coat models. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Other dresses in velveteen, silks, Georgette crepe, serge, up to $55. Many fur-trimmed. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Second floor, Old Building.

VOICE HEARD 3,800 MILES BY WIRELESS

Projected Across the Atlantic Ocean to the Eiffel Tower.

Three different times during the past week the human voice was projected across the Atlantic for the first time in history, and "Helios" and "Good-byes" said in Arlington were heard and understood in the French capital, 3,800 miles from the point of transmission.

Announcement of the epochal achievement was made officially by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company last night, following cabled confirmation of the success of the wireless telephone experiments received in New York and in Washington from the company's engineers in Paris.

Owing to the fact that France is at war and that wireless is playing a most important part in the working out of the French military communication system, it was with difficulty that officers were persuaded to permit the use of the Eiffel Toweer station in Paris for the receipt of the messages from Arlington.

Only a few seconds at a time, in periods far apart, were allowed the American engineers, during which they were permitted to listen for the greeting from far-away Arlington. In order that there could be no doubt of the genuineness of the tests, officers of the French Government, two or more of whom represented the army, were with Messrs. Shreve and Curtis in Paris, while Colonel Samuel Aeber, of the United States Army Radio Service; Captain W. H. G. Bullard, head of the United State Naval Radio Service, and other American army and navy officers watched the experiments at Arlington.

EXPLOSION VICTIM WILL NOT RECOVER

Fred Wilbe, of This City, Lingers Near Death in Somerset Hospital.

Physicians at Somerset Hospital, Somerville, in charge of the three men who were terribly burned in an explosion at the Bound Brook factory of the Cott-A-Lap Wall Fabric Company yesterday afternoon, today abandoned all hope of saving the life of Fred Wilbe, formerly of East Second street, this city, but recently of Bound Brook. He was scalded by escaping steam from head to foot and lingered in agony throughout the night and this morning. James Sullivan and John Duffy, both of this city, who were at work on the big glass steam gauge at the Bound Brook factory when it bursted, are also in a serious condition in the Somerville institution, but it was said this afternoon that both have chances for recovery.

Wilbe is a brother of Miss Helen Wilbe, a graduate nurse of this city, and a son of Fred Wilbe, of Philadelphia, formerly of Plainfield. All three of the victims are plumbers and pipe-fitters and have been employed at various times by local concerns.

One of the sad incidents in connection with the burning of the three men was brought to light in a statement made by Duffy after he regained consciousness. He says that after assistance arrived Wilbe, who was the worst injured, instructed the physicians to look after his two companions first as he was personally responsible for getting them their jobs at the Bound Brook plant.

MRS. CORNELIA DUNN PASSES AWAY IN BROOKLYN

Mrs. Cornelia G. Dunn, widow of Samuel P. Dunn, and a native of this city, died yesterday at her home in Brooklyn, where she had been residing since removing from Plainfield in 1900. Mrs. Dunn was seventy-five years old and was the daughter of the late Alvah Gardner, one of Plainfield's pioneer business men. He was located on East Front street, where the Woodhull & Martin building stands, for many years. Mrs. Dunn's husband was a commission merchant in New York city and died in 1896. She is survived by one son, Harry Dunn, and three daughters, all of whom reside in Brooklyn.

The funeral will be held at the late home Sunday afternoon and burial will be in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery. Mrs. Dunn was a member of the First Baptist church from 1869 to 1904, at which time she transferred her membership to a Brooklyn church.

HOLY CROSS TO PLAY SPEEDY AGGREGATION

Fiecones of Brooklyn Opponents for Tomorrow Here.

The Holy Cross football team will play the Fiecone A. C., of Brooklyn, tomorrow afternoon on Cricket Field. The Fiecones are composed of ex-Brooklyn High School players. They are a speedy bunch and one of the best heavyweight teams in Brooklyn. Coach Stallings gave the locals a stiff work out last night and is confident of another victory. All but one or two of the regulars will report for the game. Kenneth Phillips has accepted a position in Detroit and a new referee will be on the job. It is regretted that the club is losing Phillips as he has been a good man and was well liked by all. All visiting teams have praised his work. The Fiecones will stay overnight, making the Queen City Hotel their headquarters, and will go to Irvington, Sunday, to play. Carlen, right halfback of the Fiecone A. C., has one hand off at the wrist, is a crackerjack player and attracts much attention, due to his crippled member.

The teams will probably lineup as follows:

Holy Cross.	Fiecone A. C.
Caulfield, Webster	O'Neill
Smith, Bremble, McAfee	Finney
left tackle.
Glover, Fredericks	French
left guard.
Carty	Parker
centre.
Benson, L. Manning	Doyle
right guard.
Widoson, Lee	Donahue
Clark, Cumming	Matthews
right end.
J. Ricketts, T. Ricketts	Poignac
quarterback.
J. Manning	Carlen
right halfback.
J. Wilson	Rohrig.
fullback.

RED AND BLUE WARRIORS WILL GO TO ELIZABETH

The Red and Blue warriors of the City High School will play the second game of the season on foreign soil tomorrow, when they journey to Elizabeth to do battle with the fast going Battin High School eleven. No practice was held yesterday, but Coach Patch had his charges out on Parker Field this afternoon getting out the kinks. He is gradually smoothing over the roughspots shown in the first game with Easton and the Ninth street eleven shows up better in every encounter.

The line is doing all that can be expected on the defense and is beginning to open holes for the backs. The interference, which was woefully lacking at the start, was a revelation in the game last Wednesday, and Captain Pennock takes his team to the county seat tomorrow with bright chances to capture first honors.

A large delegation of rooters will leave with the team from the local station on the 1:44.

MISS GOOD IS CAPTAIN.

Miss Irma Good was elected basketball captain of the Girls' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon, in place of Miss Dorothy Crane, who has left the city. Miss Good is also president of the association. Miss Clementine Bremble was yesterday elected treasurer. Miss Elsa Palmer is secretary of the association.

BOUND BROOK SEEKS BASKETBALL GAMES

Manager Barras Has Many Open Dates for the Season.

A Bound Brook basketball team, managed by A. C. Barrass, will be in the field this season. Many candidates are expected to report when the first practice is held.

Among those who have applied are Herrmann and Crabiel, the center and guard of the Michelin A. A. team, and Wall, Frezza, Smith, Schure and Smedley, of the W. F. A. team. Several others are to be heard from.

The Bees expect to play their initial game November 6. It is hoped the team can complete its schedule for the first five games away from home. Manager Barras would be pleased to hear from any team with a court wishing games during November.

This is the fourth year Manager Barras has had Bound Brook teams in charge, and this year, with an independent team, is confident of a successful season.

The team would like to arrange games with teams in this vicinity and complete their schedule. Starting in December they will start their home games and return games will be played with teams having their own courts. Games may be arranged by communicating with A. C. Barras, 281 West Main street, Bound Brook.

SWIMMING CLASSES ARE BEING FORMED AT P. H. S.

After meeting the public need during the summer, the swimming pool has entered upon its regular function as a school exercising place. Practically all the pupils in the three lower classes who have not already learned to swim will undertake to learn that art this winter, while the afternoon classes for those who know how to swim are being well patronized.

Use by the public, evenings and Saturdays, has already begun. Six private classes have been arranged for, and more are in process of formation. Any group of people wishing to reserve the pool for class use for a period, in the evening, may do so on applying to Ralph S. Patch, High School.

On Tuesday evening, the pool is open to men who are not in classes, and on Wednesday evening to women, on payment of the regular admission fee of fifteen cents. All the welcome.

BEAGLE CLUB PLANS FOR SECOND TRIALS

Events Will Consist of Derby Races for Different Class Dogs.

The second annual field trials of beagles under the auspices of the New Jersey State Beagle Club, Inc., of which William L. Smalley, of North Plainfield, is the head, will be begun at the club's coursing ground at Roseland on Monday. The meet will be continued until all the scheduled events are run. This will take at least three days and possibly four.

The events will consist of derby races for both thirteen and fifteen-inch dogs, either sex, all ages; races for both thirteen and fifteen-inch dogs, and similar contests for both thirteen and fifteen-inch bitches, and championship races. The latter will be open to all winners of events under auspices of any incorporated State club.

Besides cash prizes there will be ten silver cups presented to winners, the championship cup being given by the club and the others by individuals. More than 100 dogs have been entered for the trials. Dog owners from New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, Maryland, Ohio and Missouri will be represented. Many of the dogs are winners of the recent field trials of the Empire State Beagle Club, held at Saratoga.

COBB BEST "STEALER."

Although Ty Cobb led the American League in practically every department of the offensive side of the game, he had to yield first place to Eddie Collins as a waiter, Collins drawing 120 passes during the 1915 campaign, while Cobb walked 118 times. Donie Bush was a good third with 116 passes. Ray Chapman led the Indians with 71 passes, while Graney accepted 60 gifts and Bobby Roth 52. Nap Lajoie, who always did dislike to saunter, walked only ten times.

SOMERVILLE TAKEN INTO ELKS' LEAGUE

Meeting of Junior Organization Held in Local Clubhouse Last Night.

At a meeting of the Elks' State Junior Bowling League held in the Plainfield clubhouse last night, the application of the Somerville lodge was considered and accepted. A committee composed of Alexander Hinton, of Newark, and Alexander Lawrence, of Paterson, was appointed to interview the bowling leaders of the Summit, Hackensack and Bayonne lodges with a view to inducing them to take out franchises.

This committee will report back at a meeting to be held in Newark in about two weeks, no date having been definitely set. Routine business occupied the remainder of the session and at the conclusion the delegates visited the Plainfield lodge's bazaar.

NOTED ATHLETE PUT UNDER BAN BY A. A. U.

Abel Kiviat and Harry J. Smith, two runners of national fame, were found guilty last night of violating a rule of the Amateur Athletic Union in that they were declared to have asked for expenses to compete in an athletic meet far in excess of the limit allowed by the Amateur Athletic Union. This was decided at a meeting of the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, held at the offices of the American Express Company, in Madison avenue, Manhattan. Both Kiviat and Smith were ordered suspended and their A. A. U. registration cards were taken away.

Neither Kiviat nor Smith was present, but both had had a chance to give their evidence at a previous meeting, which had been adjourned without definite action. Chairman Matthews, of the registration committee, was in the chair last night, while J. A. Hulbert, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, acted as a representative for the accused men.

The specific charges against Kiviat and Smith were to the effect that they had demanded expenses in excess of the rules of the Amateur Athletic Unon to appear at the games of the Eastern New York Athletic League, held at Schenectady, N. Y., September 18, 1915.

T. A. B. S. HAVE FOOTBALL TEAM--WANT GAMES

The T. A. B. S. has organized a football team for the 1915 season and are hot after games. Charles V. Cullen, manager of the aggregation, writes that he has Sunday open and would like to find some fast team for an opponent on that date. The team averages about 150 pounds and the clean record of T. A. B. S. players in all lines of sport assures any opponent of a clean fought game. Mr. Cullen can be reached at 1001 South Second street.

GOLF PRIZE FOR MRS. LAWRENCE

Plainfield Woman Scores Low Gross in One-day Tourney at Westfield.

MANY FINE ENTRIES

Mrs. Stockton's Work Featured the Driving Competition—She Averaged 150 Yards in Three Shots—Fine Work by All Players.

One of the most interesting and stubborn tussles for supremacy between two women golfers seen this year on any links around New York developed yesterday at Westfield in an eighteen-hole medal play handicap tournament, under the auspices of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, when Miss M. R. Wilson, of New Brunswick, and Mrs. W. H. Loftus, of Montclair, tied for the net prize at 96 over the eighteen holes, played nine holes to another tie, and then had to decide the deadlock in the approaching and putting competition. Eventually Miss Wilson won. The winner's original score was 110—14—96, while that of Mrs. Loftus was 116—20—96.

The field was one of the largest that has graced any of these one-day affairs this season, but scoring was not quite up to the usual standard. This in some measure is explained by the fact that at this season of the year the majority of golf courses around the district become soft and lies are not as good as they might be. A heavy fog had also made the Westfield turf sticky, and there was little or no roll to the ball. Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, Jr., of Plainfield Country Club, made the low gross total of 101.

In the driving and putting and approaching competitions the sport was more than ordinarily good, the latter event getting an added tang from the match play injected into it by the play off between Miss Wilson and Mrs. Loftus. Members of the home club annexed both prizes, the first going to Miss H. C. Manville, who had a score of eight strokes, and the second to Mrs. A. E. Keller, who required only one shot more.

The work of Mrs. H. R. Stockton, of Plainfield, was the feature of the driving competition. The first tee was used, and Mrs. Stockton got away three straight shots, which netted her 450 yards, an average of 150 yards.

The next one-day tournament, which will be the last one this season, is scheduled for Monday, October 25, at the Hackensack Golf Club.

Yesterday's scores:

Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, Jr., Plainfield, 101, 14-87; Mrs. A. E. Keller, Westfield, 109, 14-95; Miss Mary R. Wilson, Westfield, 110, 14—96; Mrs. W. H. GOLFERS TO CRANFORD.

Golfers of the Plainfield Country Club will go to Cranford tomorrow, where they meet players of that club in a team match on the Cranford links. It is expected that about twenty-two players will go from the local club. The match is invitation play in return for a courtesy extended Cranford golfers by the Plainfield Club a short time ago.

CADDY EARNS HIS PAY.

A caddy in England surely earns his pay. Not only must he "spot" the ball, but he has to see it, clean it whenever it gets soiled, switch balls when the one in use becomes battered up, and then clean and shine the clubs after the game is over.

SANFORD'S JOKE ON YOST.

Got a Quick "Rise" When He Roasted Western Football.

Foster Sanford had another grin coming the other day over an experience he had with Fielding Yost at the Yale-Harvard game of 1913 when Brickley kicked five field goals.

Colonel Sanford had just started dictating this lead, "Brickley broke all records today," when Yost cut in with this, "No, he didn't; Eckersall kicked five for Chicago."

"Oh, that doesn't count," said Sanford, as he went on with his lead. "It happened in the west."

"I guess that stopped Yost all right," said some one in the crowd.

"Stop him?" answered the old Yale star. "He hasn't stopped yet, and that was two years ago."

DUFFY LEWIS THE HERO.

His Splendid All Around Work Enabled Boston Red Sox to Win.

Every world's series has produced a hero. This season it is Duffy Lewis, the Boston Red Sox star left fielder. His name is added to that honor roll which has inscribed the names of Matty, Rohe, Adams, Baker, Collins, Gowdy and other heroes of other series.

Duffy's work at the bat and in the field was superexcellent. He was the principal factor of Boston's success, both offensively and defensively. His batting was superb, his fielding phenomenal. At the bat Duffy won two games outright—the third and fourth—and his timely wallops figured potently in the second, and the last game seemed lost until he tied the score in the eighth inning with a clean home run that scored another besides himself.

Lewis led all contenders at the bat, hitting for a percentage of .444. Luderus was next with .437.

In the field Duffy cut off many hits, saving the game on more than one occasion with great grabs. In the fourth game the speedy left gardener made three catches that cut off sure hits. He did not make an error.

Lewis has been a regular member of the Red Sox since 1910, when he first joined the club, being purchased from Alameda, Cal.

Harry Hooper, Lewis' side partner, must be given a little credit for his part in the victory. His two homers settled the world's championship.

Watch the Noiseless Small Elevens.

The upset of a big college team by an eleven of lesser fame seldom takes place when it is expected to take place. Publicity, the blare of trumpets, advance stuff telling how So-and-so has prepared for So-and-so and is going to trim the big fellow, aren't good for the former. The lickings come from the lesser lights who slip in quietly and without any preliminary fuss proceed to kick the stuffing out of the big fellows.

MANY BOWLERS TAKE PART IN CLUB'S SCHEDULE OF FIVE-BACK CONTESTS

Pinning 185 for three games, Dr. H. V. Hubbard, one of the two scratch men who took part in last night's schedule of the Park Club five-back bowling tourney, captured the evening's high score. His tallies were 59, 65 and 61. Charles A. Rice, the other scratch pin knight, rolled a total of 172 for the three contests. W. A. Barrett, with a handicap of 35, was second high man for the evening, his score, combined with the handicap, being 184.

How to Keep Our City Moving

We must keep moving. A city booms only so long as its manufacturers and merchants keep moving. The wheels of every line of endeavor must be kept turning if the city is going to develop, and what is of deeper concern than the wheels of Plainfield kept turning?

Should every one who has the interest of Plainfield close at heart buy goods from our merchants, the benefits all around can easily be seen. Thousands of dollars that would otherwise go out of the city will be kept circulating here and contribute a big share towards making a bigger and busier Plainfield.

A dollar spent at home will keep that dollar at home and all will share in the profits.

BOY EVANGELIST STIRS AUDIENCE

Charles Taylor Gives Impressive Talk at Park Avenue Church Revival.

The evangelistic services now going on at the Park Avenue Baptist church are growing steadily in numbers and interest. Last night's meeting was one of the most impressive since the work began. The sermon by Charles Taylor was another evidence of the God-given powers of this boy preacher of sixteen years, who for the past twelve years has been actively engaged in evangelistic work. His discourse on "The Musts of the Bible" held the audience spellbound as they listened to the spirit-filled utterances that fell from the lips of this marvelous child.

"Ye must be born again" was the first point brought out in the sermon. "Because we are born in Christian America, or any other so-called Christian country," he continued, "is no proof that we as individuals are Christians. God says we are born in sin; therefore we must have this second birth if we would know God. Some people don't like to be told they must do anything. Many people have an idea that these words of God don't apply to them, for they live a respectable life—they are not gamblers, drunkards, liars or murderers; and yet to every individual heart come God's own words—'ye must be born again if we would enter the Kingdom of God.'

"Again," the speaker continued, "we have the Lord's utterance—'As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up.' To save your soul and mine it needed an absolutely perfect man, and unless we lift up the Christ and keep Him to the front, souls can never be saved.

"And again, there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby ye must be saved. It's the same name that brought Peter to the foot of the cross to send him out on the Day of Pentecost to lead 3,000 souls to Christ. It's the same name that inspired Martin Luther, and that gave to the world the great preacher, Charles H. Spurgeon, of London, who was instrumental in leading thousands to Christ. It's the same name that changed the life of Dwight L. Moody—and it's the same that has saved me. Has that name saved you? Do you believe in that name? If not, what are you trusting in? Some cry, 'What must I do to earn salvation?' Simply believe in Him, and then come the good works and prayers.

"And finally, he that cometh to God must believe. Unbelief is the unpardonable sin—the only sin that will shut you out of heaven. What is belief? It is simply taking God at His word and asking no questions."

The boy closed with a wonderful appeal to the unconverted, and then turning to his auto-harp, sang with exceeding tenderness the hymn, "Ye Must Be Born Again," following this with an earnest prayer. The audience was deeply moved for the entire service was one of great power.

This evening the boy preacher will take for his subject, "Who Is Asleep In the Church?" This is considered the strongest of all his sermons and the service will undoubtedly be one of intense interest.

A service of song beginning at 7:45 precedes every evening service, under the able leadership of Prof. Winter, assisted by a chorus choir. The songs are especially attractive and music is made an important feature.

This afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock, Rev. Charles Forbes Taylor, the father of the young evangelist, will speak on the subject, "The Spirit-filled Life."

LOCAL MOOSE ARE ARRANGING FOR FAIR

Lodge is Prospering and Membership is Rapidly Increasing.

The clubhouse committee of Plainfield Lodge, No. 319, Loyal Order of Moose, will hold a special meeting and social tonight in Moose Hall in Front street. A general invitation has been issued to the wives, sisters and friends of the members to attend this meeting. A musical program will be rendered and refreeshments served. At this meeting committees will be appointed and arrangements made for the annual fair, which will be held in the Moose Hall, November 13-20.

Plainfield Lodge is in a prosperous condition, the finances are in excellent shape and the membership is growing steadily. Just now the lodge is working under a special dispensation, enabling candidates to join the order at rates materially less than the regular initiation fees.

MARKED GROWTH OF NIGHT SCHOOL

Starting With Small Class of Foreigners There Are Now 150 Pupils Enrolled.

Starting originally with a small class of foreigners engaged in the study of the English language in the Stillman School building, the present system of night school at the Plainfield High School is the wonderful outgrowth of the small nucleus begun four years ago. Since the formal opening of the night school sessions Monday night, the courses have a registration of 150 pupils with a corps of eight teachers. Entered in the graded classes are men and women ranging in ages from 16 to 50 years. The lowest class in the school is a department of young men, who are foreigners not able to speak a word of English when they enter but they are also illiterate from their respective countries. The enrollment in this grade is twenty.

Although the majority of students are foreigners, working during the day, there are a number of Americans who left school when in the fifth and sixth grades and now return to supplement their education by night study. A portion of the foreigners have discontinued their studies by being called to their native countries since the war started. Another class that is popular is the one of colored people which has an enrollment of forty members, men and women, who are learning to read and write, some fifty years of age.

"The instruction is largely in speaking and writing the English language with some call for practical arithmatic," said Mrs. S. L. Wardner, principal of the school, in an interview this morning.

"One important feature of the work is the assemblying of the men and women who understand English two evenings in the week for instruction under Lester H. Dix, in the affairs of the government and the duties of citizenship. This work is preparatory to take out naturalization papers.

"The spirit manifested by these students is satisfactory evidence of their appreciation of what the city is doing for them. The teachers will gladly welcome any one who may be brought or sent to the school. The sessions are held Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7:30 to 9:30. Should any be unable to come that early they are admitted at any convenient time."

Mrs. Wardner is ably assisted by the following corps of efficient teachers: Miss Rita Bond, Miss M. J. Skillings, Miss Nora Koons, Miss Harriet Humphrey, Miss S. E. Watrous, Lester H. Dix and J. O'Neil.

BOY SCOUTS, TROOP 13, TO ASSIST IN SERVICE

The Boy Scouts' troop 13 will attend the prayer meeting at the Seventh-Day Baptist church this evening and assist in the singing.

The Men's Club, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will have an outing Sunday afternoon and evening.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, who has been in Rhode Island, attending a meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination, is at home again and will preach at the usual time tomorrow, Saturday.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor is arranging for a sociable and entertainment in the Seventh-Day Baptist church for Wednesday evening, October 27.

Why Should You Waste Your Money

WHEN YOU CAN SAVE MANY DOLLARS BY BUYING FURS AT CHARLES KURTZMAN'S?

Where High Quality Goods Meet Low Prices.

It is a fact, that prices of furs in the wholesale market have advanced by leaps and bounds in the past six months, due to the disturbance of the work of the European furriers caused by the great war. We purchased our goods before the advance in prices commenced and our unequalled stock of stylish furs is worth today many thousands of dollars more than we paid for it. We have, however, made no increase in our prices and our display of seasonable, attractive offerings is marked at such low quotations as to be the joy of our customers and the envy of our competitors. We can positively save you money on all purchases of fur goods or fur garments.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

BRITISH TO PAY FOR ALL COTTON SEIZED

Washington, Oct. 22.—The British Board of Trade has arranged to make final settlements for all seized American cotton which is not covered by sales contracts. The price to be paid will be the market value of shipment and contracts of the same dates will be used as a guide in arriving at the price. The action is one of the consequences of the British order placing cotton on the contraband list and the determination of the British authorities to support the market against the effects of that action.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The first meeting of the season of the teachers' training or Bible study class will take place Monday night at 8 o'clock. W. D. Murray, leader of the class, will explain the details of the proposed short course in Bible study, while other matters will be considered. The speaker of the occasion will be John T. Sproull, president of the Coal and Iron National Bank, of New York city.

The leaders of the High School Club will be entertained tomorrow night at a supper, the object of which is to enthuse the young men in their efforts to establish a Bible class composed of High School students. The speakers will be Dr. Fosdick, of Union Theological Seminary, who will talk on the "Manhood of Our Master," and Professor Jenks, of the New York University. The latter will take for his topic, "Life Problems of School Boys." C. C. Robinson, of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., will talk on "Christian Teachings On Social and Economic Questions."

Captains of the membership campaign teams will meet at 8 o'clock on Tuesday night. It is important that all the captains attend this meeting.

A second men's meeting, under the direction of the boy evangelist Charles Taylor, will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in the assembly rooms. A special musical program will be rendered and a large attendance is expected.

The membership social, which was to have been held in the headquarters last night, was indefinitely postponed on account of the Sunday-school convention demanding the presence of many who would have attended the social.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The second ballot polled by the freshmen for the election of class officers resulted in Walter Brown being elected vice-president and Claire Scroton, treasurer. Henry Pole was the choice for president, and Acie McFee, secretary, on the first ballot.

A meeting of the Commercial Club was held in the old gymnasium yesterday afternoon for the purpose of discussing several changes to the constitution which the growth of the club have necessitated. Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

The swimming suits for the girls have arrived, and Miss Ruth Wean, the girls' physical instructor, has started the organizing of classes with a view of getting a line on material for the school and class teams.

DONATIONS WANTED.

Are there any persons who would like to brighten some lives by sending contributions of fruit, flowers, delicacies, vegetables and food suitable for the sick to the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild, Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 and Tuesday morning from 9 to 10:30, in the rooms of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, 10 Madison avenue? Those having no way of sending may notify Joseph M. Harper, 237 East Sixth street, telephone 758-W, and a messenger will call for same. Persons at Netherwood may send donations to Miss Miller, 919 East Seventh street, Monday morning and they will be called for in the afternoon.

MORE INFANTRY SENT TO MEXICAN BORDER

Washington, Oct. 22.—The 28th Infantry was today ordered from Galveston to Hartingen, Texas, to aid in suppressing the brigandage along the border. The 23d Infantry has been ordered from Jacksonville to take the place of the 28th at Galveston.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

John Barrymore, a favorite with Plainfield theatregoers, will be seen for the first time in this city today in a comedy dramatic film entitled "The Dictator," adapted from the novel of of that name, which was written by Richard Harding Davis. Never has Mr. Barrymore been seen in a better role than the one which this film provides for him. A big company of film players made a special trip to Cuba to take the pictures for "The Dictator." In addition to "The Dictator," other pictures will be shown this afternoon and tonight.

HIGH EXPLOSIVES.

Making Them Is a Very Delicate and Complex Process.

Almost all the high explosives have cotton as their base. It is true that very good sporting powder can be made from wood pulp; but, as the editor of Nature remarks, "the artillerist would be in great difficulty if he were provided with such a propellant, because in order to obtain any sort of regularity the nitration of the wood pulp has to be kept at a low point, and the ballistics, on which the artillerist depends, would be quite thrown out."

High explosives are cellulose highly nitrated—that is, highly charged with nitrogen. This process consists of immersing cotton waste (that has been repeatedly teasled, picked and dried) in a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids, in the proportion of 71 per cent sulphuric acid, 21 per cent nitric acid and 8 per cent water. After the acids have acted for the required time they are removed. The cotton is washed repeatedly and boiled several times in water. It is then pulped, partly dried and pressed into molds.

The manufacturer does his best to regulate his output, so that it shall contain approximately eleven molecules of nitrate to the quadruple molecule of cellulose, as shown in the formula, or a content of nitrogen that ranges between 12.93 and 13.05 per cent.

The process is delicate and complex, for the proportions of acids and water must be exact and all must be chemically pure. Besides this, the cellulose must be of uniform grade, which is a most difficult thing to obtain.

INDIA'S QUEER BELIEFS.

Buddhists Would Die Rather Than Lose a Limb or Eat Meat.

India's population is 325,000,000. Practically all the races and religions of the world are represented. Ninety-eight and six-tenths per cent of the people cannot read or write. Four per cent of the inhabitants eat regular meals. The remainder eat when they can and where they can. The average native in India lives on less food per diem than any other human being in the world. Religious prejudices are intense. Men willingly die rather than submit to some disemboweling surgical operation, for did not Allah command them to appear before him as they left him to come into the world?

The Buddhists will not eat meat or take even a medicine derived from an animal. They died by millions during the bubonic plague rather than take a prophylactic serum made from pepsin and beef broth—because the pig from which pepsin was obtained was unclean to the Mohammedan and Hindu, and the killing of this animal and the bull from which the broth was made was against the tenets of the Buddhistic faith. I knew an editor in Poona, India, to absolutely refuse a $3,000 yearly advertisement of a patent medicine because it contained pepsin.

Indians are fond of sweets and last year imported over $40,000,000 worth of sugar. Clothing is made chiefly from cotton, which is largely grown in the country.—W. E. Aughinbaugh in Leslie's.

HURT IN FOOTBALL GAME.

William Flatleye, sixteen years old, of West Fifth street, underwent an X-ray examination at Muhlenberg Hospital for the purpose of determining the extent of injuries received in a football game yesterday afternoon. He was caught in a tackle scrimmage and so badly hurt that Dr. M. L. Clawson had to be called. There appeared to be a possible fracture of one arm and indications of other hurts that brought about the examination at the hospital.

CAKE AND CANDY SALE.

In order to replenish their treasury the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild there will be held a cake and candy sale, Saturday, October 30, in Thorns, Somerset street, North Plainfield. We hope that the citizens of Plainfield and the borough will make this sale a great success so the work may be carried on through the winter.

VISITORS AT THE FAIR.

The following Plainfield people are among those who have been visiting the Panama Exposition at San Francisco: William H. Connett, G. H. Sweeney, C. E. Charlton, Lydia Flueckiger, Elizabeth C. Williams, Theodore J. Mason and William E. Tuttle, Jr.

Direct Attention To A Roycroft Shop

TWENTY-ONE years ago Elbert Hubbard founded The Roycroft Shops. The Village of East Aurora, New York, is the Home of the Roycrofters. Banded together there are five hundred Artists and Craftsmen of superior skill. They bind Artistic Books, make Everlasting Furniture, hammer Copper into Unique Shapes, model Leather into Wondrous Designs, with most Unusual Coloring, and all that they make or mould or hammer or join together is done just as well as they know how.

The Roycrofters operate a beautiful Inn, a Bank, a Blacksmith Shop, and Several Farms. Their Institution utilizes upward of one thousand acres.

Heretofore one must have gone to East Aurora to buy The Roycroft Wares or else order them by mail. But this advertisement is to announce the opening of The First Roycroft Shop outside of East Aurora, in America's First Store.

The Lord & Taylor Store will be the sole distributor of the Handicrafts of The Roycrofters in New York City

Here you will find a most interesting and unusual display of useful and ornamental objects in metal and leather, of fine books and many other things Roycroftie.

Perhaps one of the reasons The Roycrofters decided upon this Grand New Old Store, now in its eighty-ninth year of service, was because it is the World's Most Beautiful Store, and is to New York what The Roycroft Shops are to East Aurora, and the Arts and Crafts World.

In sponsoring the product of this remarkable Guild of Skilled Artists and Artisans, we feel that we are passing along another privilege and another service to our many friends.

We want you to feel as much at home at The Lord & Taylor Roycroft Shop as you would be made to feel at home at East Aurora. Lord & Taylor's friends, Roycrofters-at-Large, you are invited to come and see

The New Roycroft Shop in The New Lord & Taylor Store

NEGRO NOT GUILTY OF ASSAULT OF MARSHAL

Somerville, Oct. 22. — County Judge Daniel H. Beekman and two juries tried Abe Crosby, a negro, who was indicted, charged with stealing chickens and assaulting Marshal Joseph Hanlon, of this borough, when he made the arrest. At the first trial yesterday Crosby was found guilty, but in the assault and battery case he was found not guilty.

A few months ago Crosby was met during the night with a bag of chickens by Hanlon. Hanlon attempted to arrest Crosby and a fight ensued. Crosby is supposed to have gotten the best of Hanlon and came very near choking him to death, but the officer managed to call for held and James Jones came to Hanlon's rescue. Crosby was finally subdued and placed in the county jail.

Crosby testified that when Hanlon attempted to arrest him he started to run away, and finally fell to the the ground, whereupon Hanlon beat him over the head with a revolver, after which he then mixed it with Hanlon and took the gun away from him and threw it in a field to the side of the road.

Jones testified that when he got on the scene Hanlon and Crosby were standing in the roadway, and that Crossby appeared to be dazed.

The morning after Hanlon made this sensational arrest a story was in circulation that Hanlon had been nearly killed, and that Jones arrived in time to take the negro's hand from around Hanlon's throat.

The jury was out only twenty-five minutes on the assault and battery charge and found Crosby not guilty.

MANY WATCHING PRESIDENT'S WOOING

Interested People Stick to Their Posts Like "Fans" at a Baseball Game.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Silent watchers behind gauzy curtains have had their eyes keenly leveled for many days at the Galt home in Twentieth street. Nearly every afternoon guests arrive from distant parts of the city to join the sitters and watchers who have enjoyed observing a President's wooing.

"The President is just like a schoolboy; he is heels over head in love," is the whispered comment when the Chief Executive steps from his motor car and advances to the Galt door. Attired faultlessly in frock coat, tall silk hat, razor-creased trousers and gray gloves, he is the cynosure of all eyes on the street. The smile on his face shines out his youthful happiness, or his consciousness that a lot of gossips are watching every detail.

Like a sign that reads "The President is wooing," three secret service men sit in the executive automobile, patiently waiting for their chief. Soon there gather many urchins and young girls. Women come from all directions as the news travels, and they linger at some distance in a guilty sort of way.

The watchers stick to their posts like "fans" at a baseball game. Rumor goes up and down among them that the date of the wedding is being set. Hours go by and yet the full gallery, exposed and behind the gauze curtains, never tire. Then they are rewarded with a view of the President leaving the house alone. A smile is on his face, and he slaps his gloves on his left hand in real beau fashion. When the motor whirls him away there is a sigh, and all the watchers begin to think of supper and are satisfied that they "saw all there was to see."

NEW PUBLICATIONS ON ORGANIZATIONS

Booklet Full of Concrete and Pertinent Facts on What is Being Done Abroad.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, has been studying British commercial organizations, and has just published a booklet that is full of concrete, pertinent facts on the subject. The world-encircling foreign commerce of the United Kingdom bulks large in the consideration of every phase of international economics; it is a factor to be reckoned with in the most famous marts and in distant jungle and desert stations. Americans engaged in developing export trade observe its manifestations in many lands, but with the system back of this activity, the methods and conduct of commercial affairs in the United Kingdom itself, the way in which the British Government fosters and directs expansion, the people of the United States are, perhaps, not so familiar.

As long ago as 1912 the Commercial Intelligence Branch of the British Board of Trade received 16,488 inquiries concerning trade possibilities, and in replying to these the branch was enabled to draw on a store of information supplied by a corps of investigators covering every section of the globe. If British exporters want concrete samples, the Government has available for inspection such articles as cotton vests from Bushire, Persia; raisins from Azerbaijan; antimoy from Chungking, China; "Kieselguhr" from Chile; hosiery and overalls from South Africa.

The title of this new publication of the bureau is "Commercial Organizations in the United Kingdom," and its author is Archibald J. Wolfe, who has investigated the subject on the ground. In its 53 pages are included lists of all British chambers of commerce and a discussion of their methods and functions, a detailed account of the State aid to trade, and a description of manufacturers' and employers' organizations in all the leading industries.

This pamphlet is Special Agents Series, No. 102, and five cents will bring it from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.

HAVE NEW BUILDING.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 22.—The new $200,000 office building of the Women's Benefit Association of the Modern Macabees will be dedicated today. Miss Bina West, who organized and built up the organization, is the heroine of this city today, and a public celebration is in progress. Twenty-three years ago she began work without members or funds. There are now 186,000 women enrolled and the reserve fund of the society reaches nine millions.

OCTOBER 22ND IN HISTORY.

1658—Funeral of Oliver Cromwell, Protector of the Commonwealth of England, carried out with pomp.

1685—Edict of Nantes revoked by Louis XIV of France, thus depriving the Protestants of the rights they had enjoyed for a century, and driving many from the country because of the persecutions that followed.

1775—Died, Peyton Randolph, first president of the Continental Congress.

1811—Born, Franz Liszt, famous musician. Died in 1885.

1812—City of Moscow reoccupied by the Russians, within few hours after it was abandoned by Napoleon's disappointed troops.

1836—Samuel Houston elected first president of the Republic of Texas.

1862—Insurrection in Greece against King Otho; he was forced to quit the country two days later.

1876—Turks surrendered to the Montenegrins at Medun.

1914—THE WAR.

Furious artillery duel between the Allies and Germans at Nieuport.

Britain protests against German mine-laying on the high seas.

American commission organized in London to save Belgians from starvation.

Prussian Diet passes war credit of $375,000,000.

President Wilson states that Belgian relief movement is solely private.

Plainfield, N. J., October 22, 1915.

A GREAT DAY, JIM!

Jim Nugent's boast that he made Woodrow Wilson President of the United States is the best bit of livery-stable comedy that has come to our attention in years. We remember it perfectly. While Nugent was busy dictating to the people of this country just how to mark their ballots for Wilson, the Kaiser was attempting to dissuade his generals who clamored for war, and was turning the other cheek to England and Russia, even as he offered France Alsace Lorraine in order to preserve peace in Europe; William Jennings Bryan was calling for volunteers to protect American lives and commerce on the high seas, and Theodore Roosevelt was addressing a meeting of the Ladies' Aid on peace at any price. Yes, Jim, we remember. It was the same day that Huerta saluted the flag, and that week Georgia unveiled a monument to Justice, and her citizens held a jubilee in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the abolition of child labor. We remember it especially, Jim, because when you ordered us to quit our business and go put in a vote for Wilson for President of the United States, we were down in Tennessee listening to "Ham" Patterson's appeal to Tennesseans to forget past differences and vote for Luke Lea for senator, and to prove his utter humility he laid a wreath on the grave of U. S. Senator Edward Ward Carmack. It would have been a great day, Jim, but for the fact that Essex county, which you claim to control, gave Roosevelt 33,000 and Wilson only 26,000.

ANOTHER INHUMAN ATROCITY.

It seems that the Allies are determined that Greece shall be drawn into the bloody pit. After King Constantine overcame the war politics of his cabinet and forced his people to resign their turbulent passions to a state of neutrality, English, Russian and French officials used every trick known to diplomacy to force him to a declaration of war. The fact that he was probably influenced by his relation to the Kaiser does not lessen their crime. He has given official assurance, backed by the coalition cabinet, that Greece will not aid the Austro-Germans under any circumstances, and yet the Allies notify him that a policy of neutrality will not be tolerated, and command that he draw the sword and plunge his people into a causeless, bloody struggle, out of which there can come but one thing—ruin. If Greece is forced into the war, King George, the Czar and President Poincaire will stand side by side with the Kaiser when he is finally called into the last great court to answer for atrocities in Belgium.

WILSON'S SAGACITY.

President Wilson is coming back home to live. He will bring his bride here for a continuation of his honeymoon, and will also manage his 1916 campaign from his New Jersey home. Which is further proof of the sagacity of Woodrow Wilson. Where else could he find such privacy and yet be within a few minutes of the center of world activities in all lines except war?

A nineteen year old boy who proposed to a woman of twenty-eight, but changed his mind before the wedding day, was fined $1,593.62 by a New York court. Probably took all he had to pay the judgment, but even if he must work it out there is the rosy vision of a day when he shall be free.

Applicants for positions as policewomen in Trenton must prove their strength and tell their age. We learned long ago not to ask a woman's age if she was possessed of any strength.

Dunellen residents are demanding water meters. When they are installed the same residents will rise up and demand to know what makes them go all the time.

We see the National Association of Press Humorists has picked Nashville, Tenn., as the meeting place for next year. The boys will have their little joke.

"Youth's fortune will be used to save his mind," says a headline. It is a pity that more of them are not put to the same purpose.

GREAT SUFFRAGE PARADE.

New York, Oct. 22.—When Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, the young society leader of New York and Newport, leads the march up Fifth avenue tomorrow afternoon, one of the biggest suffrade parades ever held will be under way. Mrs. Leonard makes her official debut as a marcher on that occasion. It is expected that 20,000 women will be in line. One division will represenet the twenty-six countries in which the Women's International Alliance is organized.

Mrs. Thomas will carry the standard of the Alliance. Gowned in white, she will lead the big parade, with Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, founder and president of the Alliance, just behind her. Then will follow the twenty-six groups of thirteen each, representing the nations. The standard-bearers attached to each group will elevate the national flag of each country, as well as standards that tell the status of the women of that country.

Off Again, On Again

STRICKLAND W. GILLILAN

Feet Tracks In Cement

The imprint of her baby feet
Placed in the newly-laid concrete
Of sixteen short, swift years ago—
Ah, me, 'tis hard indeed to know
It's so long since these two arms
Encompassed all her infant charms!
Well I recall the day I placed
Her tiny feet while, rosy-faced,
She laughed and gurgled with delight—
Would I could hold her so to-night!

But no, it was too much to ask
That life should be such sunny task!
No longer may I clasp the form
That then I held, all lithe and warm,
And place the tiny, rosy feet
Where'er I wish—the pain is sweet,
But ne'er the less 'tis pain to know
I may no longer hold her so.
She now has number-seven feet—
What tracks she'd make in soft concrete!

A Letter From The Czar

Inatrenchovitch, Nowhere near Petrograd, October 1—You may have noticed, Offaginsky, that I prorogued my Duma, some time ago. Did you ever suffer from prorogueitis of the duma? It is very painful, I assure you. Happy is the man whose duma was never prorogued!

One nice thing about my job is that my feelings never need stay pent up till they begin to work and fester. No Russian ever need suffer from bealed feelings. All he needs do is to go and call his friends and neighbors or associates by their regular names, and all is well.

When I get sore and beset with fears and tired of running, I say, "Rodzinako, the Goremkyn luck!" or, "Kerensky, the Rojestvensky thing!" This is certainly a language full of safety valves.

The morning after the aspiring son had been sent to slumberland with one wallop from a real pug., the old man slumped dejectedly into the same shop, pulled his hat low over his two eyes, and said in a subdued but bitter tone:

"Gimme a half pound o' liver, f'r th' shtiff."

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Imagination About Pores

A PORE is the orifice of a sweat duct upon the surface of the skin. It is invisible. What are commonly called "pores" are really the orifices of the sebaceous gland ducts, which convey an oily secretion to the surface, usually emptying this secretion along the shaft of the hair.

"Enlarged pores" are obstructed or torpid sebaceous ducts. "Blackheads" or comedones are sebaceous ducts filled with an inspissated sebum or cheesy material, the black discoloration being dust and dirt upon the surface. Whether one be exquisitely clean or personally negligent about the toilet makes no difference; blackheads will appear anyway. When the sebaceous ducts or tubes become infected with certain pus-producing bacteria which are normally present upon the skin surface, then a condition known as acne or pimples is produced, and acne is as liable to develop upon the face, neck, back and chest of a healthy, cleanly young person as upon any one else. Just because the disease occurs most commonly at or soon after puberty does not signify anything as to the cause, unless it be that the lining cells of the sebaceous glands mature over-abundantly at this time of life and, being cast off too rapidly, form sebum or oily, cheesy material so fast that the ducts become overburdened and inflamed.

Upon the nose the sebaceous glands are large and prominent. The substance that can be squeezed out is not a "worm," though it does resemble one. Upon the cheeks, the lobes of the ears, in the armpits, and in some other areas the sebaceous glands are very large and active. Upon the scalp a sebaceous gland whose duct becomes obstructed and shut off goes on secreting more and more sebum, which distends the gland wall, forming a sac sometimes as large as a horse-chestnut—a wen. The only effective remedy for a wen is removal by surgery, an exceedingly simple, painless, trifling procedure.

Unqualified "health experts" have a great deal to say about the pores and what opens or closes the pores. Their ideas and principles are vague indeed. For instance, there is no actual reason to think cold or heat appreciably alters the size or condition of the pores, nor that any particular local medication does so. What little influence we can exert upon the sebaceous and sweat glands is brought into play rather by internal and general measures. The notion that any particular cream or lotion will alter the size of the pores is, in our opinion, unfounded.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Information On Mineral Waters

Where can one obtain authoritative information about the mineral waters which are sold as "cures" of so many ailments?

Answer—By addressing a request with four cents in stamps to American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Paralysis Following Anti-Rabic Treatment

Is it true or not that several authentic instances of paralysis have been reported recently as the result of the Pasteur inoculation treatment to prevent rabies?

Answer—It is true — the cases were discussed in United States Public Health Reports July 30, 1915.

NIAGARA FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS is a small body of water stood up on end and entirely surrounded by souvenirs.

It is the largest piece of perpendicular wetness in the world and if it were not for the noise made by the tourists and the hotel runners in the vicinity its roar could be heard for many miles.

Niagara Falls is the terminus of navigation on the Great Lakes. At a point within easy walking distince of 1,100 hotels, the Niagara River, half a mile wide, suddenly falls without any warning whatever over a precipice 164 feet high, forming the grandest sight in the universe, not excepting the horseshoe circle at New York Grand Opera. It is estimated that 500,000 people a year visit this cataract and most of them encourage it by having their photographs taken while standing beside it with an air of approval.

Niagara Falls was discovered by La Salle, who became aware of its presence while trying to paddle a canoe from Montreal to the Gulf of Mexico. He remained several months in the vicinity and came away without buying a single picture postal-card, thus making a record which has never since been equaled. At this time Niagara was in a very wild and uncivilized state. Shortly after the Revolution, however, the cataract was captured by the hackmen and has been in a state of captivity ever since. No cataract on earth has been so abused. It has been bridged, tunneled, navigated, jumped over, tight-roped and illuminated. For fifty cents one may ride up to it from below in a boat and puff cigarette smoke in its face. For a dollar one can go down behind it in a rubber suit and feel of its ribs. Once the Indians worshipped it and called it a god. Now tourists ride around it in trolley cars and excursionists throw ham sandwiches in it as a boy would throw peanuts to an elephant.

Not only is Niagara Falls abused, but it is cruelly oppressed. It must turn the wheels of a hundred factories. It runs the electric cars of Buffalo. It cooks the meals of Buffalo on electric ranges, heats the milk for the Buffalo babies, does the washing and runs the sewing machines in ten thousand homes, and at night, when other toilers are in bed, it must supply the lights for half a hundred towns, while an operator in overalls turns a searchlight on it and exhibits it to tourists at 25 cents apiece.

All this in New York State, which spends $100,000 a year protecting the horse from overwork.

Geologists say that Niagara Falls will last about 1,543,000 years longer, but even geologists can't tell what legislatures will do. Almost half the water of Niagara is now being sneaked around through the power-houses, and if it hadn't been for the pen of the newspaper man, which is mightier than the pull of the power hog, all the water would have been stolen by this time. Even now it is only a question of time until the name "Niagara Falls" must be changed to "Niagara Trickles," and when the great cataract will only be run on Sundays and holidays.

Power To Make By-Laws

Q. Does an incorporated university or college have the power to make by-laws?

A. Yes, subject to certain restrictions. It will not be allowed to exceed its authority as conferred by charter or by legislative enactment, but, in general, may make by-laws which are reasonable and which do not operate to the detriment of previous contracts.

A White Sin

Q. If a trifling misrepresentation is made in a business transaction, will it amount to fraud?

A. It will not if the misrepresentation is of so trivial a character as to have had no effect on the conduct of the other person.

The Adjoining Property

Q. Just what is meant by the word "adjoining" when used in connection with special assessments against property owners?

A. It refers to the property immediately adjacent.

Tax On Personal Property

Q. Does the legislature of a territory have the right to determine how personal property is to be taxed?

A. Yes.

Letters Of Administration

Q. May letters of administration be revoked if the administrator neglects or refuses to comply with the court's orders? A. Yes.

Pay The Debts And Keep The Change

Q. May the administration of an estate be dispensed with where the heirs pay off the deceased person's debts?

A. In some states this may be done.

U. S. Marshals

Q. Please tell me who appoints United States marshals.

A. The President of the United States.

Something More Than A Plank

Q. Where a bridge is built over a stream on a country road, is it necessary to construct guard rails?

A. It will be necessary to do so if this is the only way the bridge can be made reasonably safe.

Whence Come The Judges?

Q. Who appoints the judges of the United States courts?

A. The President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Contracts—Whose Right

Q. Please inform me whether the trustees of an incorporated college have the right to make contracts and, if so, what restrictions there are as to such right.

A. They may make contracts and will be bound by such contracts, provided the authority conferred by the charter or by legislative enactment is not exceeded.

Minor Not Bound By Contract

Q. If a person under age should exchange lands with an adult, would it be legal?

A. The minor would have the privilege of avoiding the contract, if he cared to do so.

Expression

Expression is what makes us interesting, and it is the interesting people that everybody pays tribute to and likes to have around. As civilization becomes more general and as ignorance becomes less a fact, people express themselves more widely.

In order that your Abilities be best expressed it is necessary to give them the best outlet.

It is a great mistake to leave unexpressed ideas and acts and purposes that exist within you. You pass for what other people understand you to be, and the more expression you give to what you are the better will be the general verdict as to your value. Suppose you are misunderstood. Suppose you do express yourself inaccurately at times. The final average will be satisfactory, providing your expression is sincere.

Express yourself the best way you know how. Then review the expression for improvement the next time.

In expression, however, take care that you express yourself and not a poor copy of somebody else. That somebody else may be falsely and inaccurately expressing himself and your imitation then becomes so much the worse. Also, it is impossible for anyone to succeed to his fullest expressing the ways and ideas of somebody else, even though that somebody else may be a worthy pattern.

To win biggest, be yourself grandly and express yourself freely with naturalness and accuracy.

Between The Lines

"O fairest of all fair!" he said,
(It was a very dark night.)
"Your fragrance overturns my head,
(She paid $2 an ounce for it.)
Your eyes are bluer than the sea,
(It was her hat.)
Your lips are red as red can be.
(Lip-stick.)
I'll give you everything I own
(One suit, a pair of military brushes and 34 cents.)
If you'll exist for me alone."

"My gallant knight," the maid replied,
(She'd been reading Scott.)
"Right gladly will I be your bride.
(It looked like her last chance.)
To-morrow you may bring the ring,
(Just to remind him.)
And we will start up house-keep-ing."
(Her room rent was due.)

So, when formalities were o'er
(He had to borrow the license fee.)
They happy lived forevermore.
(Until she found out he had married her for her money.)

The moral that you here may glean
(If you like morals.)
Is: "Always watch the line between."—Houston Chronicle.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. DAN LEONARD

Olive Advises Molly Not to Jump at Hasty Conclusions and Suggests Greater Confidence.

Molly Sutner was awakened by little Jack's climbing over into her bed and riding horseback by chugging up and down on her shoulder. She unhorsed the gallant rider and drew him under the bedclothes to give him a hug.

"Where's papa?" demanded the little man.

"Papa has gone to work. Mamma was sick this morning and stayed in bed."

"Are you sick now?" queried the child. "I'm hungry."

"Mamma had a bad headache, but you were a good boy and let her sleep, and it is better now and we will get up and have some breakfast."

When the house was straightened, Molly threw a shawl over her head and, putting on the baby's wraps, went over to have a talk with Olive Ellson. The doctor was just starting to make a call a short distance away and took Jack with him, so the women could talk undisturbed.

"I want your advice," began Molly. "Last night John left the house right after supper and was gone all the evening. I had done a washing as part of a program to reduce expenses and I was very tired. You know how hard it rained? Well, I got all unstrung sitting there alone. I decided to go down to the office and see if John was there. He sometimes has work to do evenings."

"How could you go? You had no one to leave little Jack with, had you?" interrupted Olive.

"It is only about a ten minutes' walk. I left the house open." She stopped and looked hard at Olive. "Before I got to the office I saw him pass with a girl, the stenographer, I suppose. He did not see me." She stopped as if expecting an exclamation from Olive, but none came. After a moment's silence, Olive said:

"What did you do?"

"I went home and got into bed. When he came I pretended to be asleep, and, after crying all night, I could not get up this morning." She leaned her head wearily on her hand.

"So you have said nothing to him about what you saw?" asked her friend.

"Nothing. I dare not trust myself to begin." Again silence fell between them.

"I am very glad," said Olive at length. "Probably they had work to do at the office and he saw her home. Always believe the best about him. Never harbor a suspicion. You cannot afford it. Such thoughts react on themselves."

Molly gave a scornful laugh. "What an ideal wife you must be. A man could do anything he chose and you would keep faith in him, I suppose. I wish I had been born blind like that, but unfortunately I can tell which way the wind blows."

"Alas, Molly, I fear you are reaping the harvest of suspicion. Don't you know you can't doubt a person and not have your doubts react on yourself and the person you doubt?"

"Pardon me, my dear, but you are talking the language of the loved wife, the wife secure in her husband's affection. My opinion is that all your trust would ooze out at your fingers' ends if you knew your husband would leave you if he could get possession of the boy."

"You do not believe that or you would not lie awake all night crying because he was seen walking with another woman. You know in your heart you half believe he loves you yet, and probably you are right. Even if you are not, you will get no love by demanding it. Love is won by harder means than that. This gulf between you must be bridged by your throwing into it all your doubts and suspicions, and cultivating a faith in your husband——"

Molly sprang to her feet, her face flushed with passion.

"You do not understand; you cannot! I suppose I am to believe John loves me because he never says a kind word to me from month's end to month's end. I am to trust him because he leaves me alone and runs around with other women. Such things do not breed trust in a nature like mine; they beget hate and rebellion and they always will. It's like feeding a dyspeptic nothing but cheese and expecting him to get well."

She was trembling with nervous excitement.

"There, dear," said Olive soothingly, "you are all unstrung from your hard night. You must have rest and sleep before the world will look normal to you. Promise me that you will say nothing to your husband about this affair, not now at least; not till you have had time to think the matter over calmly." She put her arms around Molly as she spoke.

"I must go home and get dinner," said Molly, pressing her hand. "But I'll keep still."

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Story Of an Old Pequot Indian.

The Indian Quickly Thrust His Spear at It.

"NOBODY asks me the name of Uncle Ben's lake," said daddy as the children climbed on his lap. "Hachaloosie was what the Indians called it in colonial times. Because its water was so pure English settlers built their cabins around it and traded with the Pequots. Instead of watches and needles and shoes, they traded guns and corn for furs, which they sent back to England. The lake became the center of trade in that colony, a settlement of white men among a tribe of Indians in a vast forest."

"Were the white men afraid of the Indians?" asked Jack.

"There were more white men than Indians around the lake, and business was good for both. But little by little the white men grew stronger than the Pequots and drove them back, back farther into the forest. The Indians gave up their wigwams and land with anger in their hearts, all but one Pequot. While his friends one by one turned their backs on the white cabins and sadly stole off into the pines, this Indian paddled over to the west bank of the lake and cast his fate with the white men by setting his wigwam under a pine. Here he chose to live without a friend except an old wolfhound that always followed at his heels. Here he took care of himself by shooting animals in the woods with his bow and arrows or by spearing fish in the lake."

"Why didn't he use a hook and pole, like Uncle Ben?" asked Evelyn.

"Indians don't have hooks!" Jack laughed at her.

"Fishhooks are a new fashion," daddy explained.

"Tell us how, daddy!" cried Jack.

"An Indian stands in one end of his birch bark canoe, watches till he sees a fish and then swiftly thrusts his spear at it," said daddy. "Now, this silent, lonely old Indian had another companion besides the wolfhound. It was an old iron kettle that white men had never seen him without. He always took it with him hunting or fishing, just as if he feared somebody wanted to steal it if he left it in his wigwam. Another of his queernesses was that he never spoke to a white man, not even when he traded fish and furs for corn and candles. Sometimes he would go at night when the settlers were asleep and leave fish on the cabin steps of those who had been kind to him. So the Englishmen had no fear of him, although they never heard him speak or never saw him without his kettle. Now give me a hug, and next bedtime I will tell you the rest of this story," said daddy.

"Oh, tonight—please, daddy!" Evelyn begged.

"It's late, my dears," said daddy, kissing them good night.

Household Hints

WITHOUT COOKING

The following method entirely eliminates the tedious way of clarifying sugar and boiling the fruit, and needs no fire in its preparation:

Put one quart of white preserving Batavia brandy into a large stone jar having a tightly fitting cover. Then for every pound of fruit perfectly dry, which you put in the brandy, use three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar; stir every day, so that the sugar will be dissolved, using a clean wooden spoon. Every sort of fruit may be used, beginning with strawberries and ending with plums. (One pound of black cherries greatly enriches the color of the preserve.) The jar must be kept in a cool, dry place and the daily stirring never forgotten, for that is the secret of success. You may put just as much of one sort of fruit as you like and it may be put in from day to day as you happen to have it. The preserve will be ready for use within a week after the last fruit is put in.

CAN FRUIT IN OVEN; SAVES WORK, LITTER

By cooking a few jars of fruits each day while preparing a meal, you save gas as well as time. And soon have a large number of jars for winter use.

It is easily and quickly done, and retains its shape, color and flavor much better than when cooked in a preserving kettle.

Cover the bottom of the oven with a sheet of asbestos, the same as used for covering furnace pipes, which can be bought very reasonably.

If it is impossible to purchase the asbestos, use a large pan in which there is about two inches of water. Thoroughly sterilize the jars.

Make the syrup of sugar and water as sweet as needed.

Prepare the fruit the same as for cooking in the preserving kettle.

Fill the hot jars with the fruits, pouring in sufficient syrup to fill the jar.

Run the blade of a silver knife around the inside of the jar. (Never use a steel knife.)

Place the jars in the oven either on the asbestos or in the pan of water.

The oven should be moderately hot. Cook the fruits fifteen minutes.

Remove from the oven and fill each jar with boiling syrup.

Wipe and seat air tight.

Large fruits may require about a pint of syrup to each quart jar of fruits, the small fruit require a little over half a pint of the syrup.

In this way you do not mind doing up fruits at all.

Tomatoes may be done in the same way and keep whole.

Baked Canned Peaches—Prepare fruit in usual way for canning. Fill jars first with fruit as full as possible, then with a thick syrup, allowing a little space in the neck of the jar for the juice of the fruit as it cooks.

Place your covers on top of jars; do not screw them on; then place the jars in a dripping pan of hot water, being careful not to let them touch each other, and set pan in a moderately heated oven. It does not take long for the peaches to cook this way, and they may be tasted by pricking with a fork. When done fill jars full of left-over syrup, place your rubber and screw on top.

Baked peaches retain the flavor which ordinarily escapes in steam when cooked on top of stove.

Berries, pears and plums are excellent prepared in this way.

RECIPES

Russian Dressing—One large cooked or pickled beet, small onion, half dozen olives, quarter pound Roquefort cheese. Run through fine chopper and mix with one cup thin mayonnaise; delicious.

Omelet—Six eggs, four tablespoons milk, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, one tablespoon butter; break eggs together in a bowl, with a fork stir until lightly mixed, add milk, salt and pepper, put butter in pan and see that it is not too hot, put in eggs. When it begins to set from the bottom lift with spatula so some of the egg will run down under. When creamy fold and serve on hot platter with bacon. Two and one-half minutes is sufficient to cook. (Water or cream makes a more tender omelet than milk.)

MONKS' COLLARS POPULAR.

No. 9141.

In the fashion world it is just as futile to ask "what will not the designers think of next?" as it is to ask what they will think of next. The two queries are synonymous, inasmuch as a designer's field is limitless and his imagination infinite. One of the latest popular creations is the monk's collar shown above in the illustration, an attractive Ladies' Home Journal coat pattern, No. 9141. This smart collar is excellent for cold or milder weather, for it can be turned down and leave the neck quite open. The lower edge may be either straight or shaped as desired. The sleeves are full length, with turn-back cuffs, and the pockets are novelly and attractively made from the same piece that forms the belt. The coat cuts in seven sizes, 34 to 46, size 38 requiring 5⅝ yards of 36-inch material.

Patterns can be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Mirth and melody were injected into the bill by Billy Clark and his campaign girls, who represented a miniature musical comedy. It is full of good stuff, catchy songs and costumed in an elaborate manner. The Clipper Comedy Four had to respond to several encores at the end of their fifteen minute turn of fine harmony and clever funmaking. This act is one of the best that has been seen in this theatre since vaudeville was introduced. The other numbers on the bill which have met with popular approval are Laird and Thomson, the dainty singing girls; Hanson and King, comedians, and the two vagabond singers and instrumentalists. The Pathe weekly news picture, which shows the latest happenings in all parts of the world, is displayed at the Plainfield Theatre every Monday and Friday. One and two-reel comedies and dramas are displayed every day and there is always something to satisfy the screen fans. The afternoon performances begin at 2 o'clock, and there are two shows at night, begining at 7 and 9 p. m.

Physician's Prescriptions

Accurately Compounded

Only Drugs, Chemicals and Pharmaceuticals of the Highest Quality Are Used in Compounding Prescriptions

AT A UNITED DRUG STORE.

We consider our Prescription Department the corner stone of our whole business and conduct it on the highest possible scientific basis. We employ only registered prescription men who are pharmaceutical graduates and surround all the work with such safeguards as make accidents impossible. All prescriptions are carefully read and thoroughly scrutinized before compounding, and after compounding are then double checked by another pharmacist to make sure that the doctor's requirements are exactly complied with. We always carry a complete stock of standard home necessities at low prices, which represents a great saving to those who buy them here.

...GE DAY IN ...E UNITED STATES

December 6 to Be Observed by the American Defense Society.

Monday, December 6, the opening day of Congress has been named by ...erican Defense Society as De... throughout the United ... most timely occasion for ... mass meetings and address... letters and telegrams to Congress ...behalf of better national defense.

In case there is an earlier meeting of Congress, the opening date will then be chosen for American Defense Day.

In order to make the occasion an impressive one, the American Defense Society has requested the co-operation of all the other defense leagues, national and local, the Governors of the various States, the Mayors of the leading cities, and all other civic, military and patriotic societies and organizations, as well as Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade. The society has furthermore requested that indivadual voters write letters and send telegrams on Defense Day.

At the same time the American Defense Society is distributing a card appeal to be signed by voters and sent to their respective Congressmen and Senators, urging action at the next session of Congress in favor of an adequate national defense. Cards may be had upon request at the National Headquarters of the American Defense Society, 303 Fifth avenue, New York city.

MISS HEDGES AN OCTOBER BRIDE

Will Become the Wife of Cleland Coldwell Ross, of Newburgh, N. Y.

RECEPTION TO FOLLOW

Ceremony Will Be Performed at the Crescent Avenue Church by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie—The Attendants—Couple to Live in Newburgh.

Miss Beatrice Hedges, daughter of Dr. Ellis W. Hedges, of Watchung avenue, and Cleland Coldwell Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Ross, of Newburgh, N. Y., will be married at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at 6 o'clock this evening. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, will officiate. More than one thousand invitations have been issued for the wedding and many out of town guests are expected.

The bride-elect will be attended by her sister, Miss Lelia Hedges, as maid of honor, and the following young women as bridesmaids: Miss Mildred Fox, of Norristown, Pa.; Miss Mary Rushmore and Miss Marjorie Brown, of Plainfield; Miss Josephine Ross, of Newburgh, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom-to-be; Miss Miriam Methott, of Dayton, Ohio, and Miss Emily [illegible], of Scranton, Pa.

[illegible] will have for his best man his brother, Carroll Adams Ross, of Newburgh, and the following to act as ushers: John Taylor Howell Jr., J. Townsend Cassedy and Hilend C. Rose, of Newburgh; Charles B. Gleason, of New York; Harold C. Noe, of East Orange, and Howard H. Craig, of Plainfield.

Miss Hedges will be gowned in white embroidered Japanese crepe, with flounces of white silk net, piped with satin, and a court train of white satin. She will wear a veil of silk tulle piped with satin and carry a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. She will be given in marriage by her father.

The maid of honor will wear a gown of white net trimmed with silver beading and a skirt flounced and piped with white satin. She will carry mignon roses. The bridesmaids will wear pink net over pink taffeta and carry pink chrysanthemums.

Dr. E. Metler Davis, organist of the church, will be at the organ and while the guests are arriving will present an attractive program of classical selections. The church will be elaborately decorated with palms, ferns and flowers of the season.

Following the ceremony a small reception will be held at the home of the bride-elect's father, the invitations being restricted to the relatives and a few intimate friends, owing to the recent death of Dr. Hedges' mother.

Miss Hedges has received an unusually large collection of handsome gifts from relatives and friends. She is a graduate of the Ingleside School, of New Milford, Conn., and has been prominent in the younger society set.

Mr. Ross is a graduate of Stevens Institute, Class '12, and with the exception of a short time that he held a position with the International Motor Company, he has been associated in business with his father, who is treasurer of the Coldwell Lawn Mower Company, of Newburgh.

After an extended trip the couple will make their home at 70 Clinton street, Newburgh.

PRESENTS CLAN MURRAY WITH HANDSOME FLAG

Robert Murray, of Front street, returned this morning from Morristown, where he presented a flag to Clan Murray, Sons of Scotia, which he instituted a number of years ago. Mr. Murray was the guest of honor at a joint meeting of the members of Clan Murray and Hether Hill Lodge, Daughters of Scotia. The presentation of the flag, its acceptance and the addresses which followed formed an interesting feature of the program.

AGREEMENT COMMITTEE MEET.

A meeting of the joint committee of the Master Masons' Association and the Hodcarriers and Building Laborers' Union, which is drawing up a new working agreement, will be called during the early part of next week. The wage question, which has been causing some trouble during the course of the past two weeks, will be taken up at that time.

CLAN MACKENZIE MEETING.

Clan Mackenzie, No. 204, Order of Scottish Clans, will hold its regular meeting in the Exempt Firemen's Hall on Park avenue, Monday night at 8 o'clock. All members are urgently requested to be present as matters of unusual importance will be discussed.

UNITED FORMALLY OPENS NEW STORE

All Departments in Handsome Quarters Are Now Ready for Business.

The United Cigar Stores Company is today holding a formal opening in its new store, corner Somerset and West Front streets. The stores moved into the handsome new building a week ago, but all departments were not complete until yesterday. A handsome souvenir will be given each patron who buys more than twenty-five cents worth of goods.

The new store contains an enlarged cigar and tobacco department, also a full line of drugs, candies, perfumes and sodas. There are five registered prescription clerks in the drug department. E. F. Champlin is manager of the Plainfield store and has sixteen clerks under him.

DYNAMITE IN FUEL; BUT NO ALARM FELT

Such Was the Statement Made by Pond Official This Morning.

Despite the fact that small pieces of dynamite are frequently being found in the fuel supplied to the Pond Machine Tool Company, in this city, no special significance is being attached to the discoveries. Such was the announcement coming from an official at the plant this morning when inquiry was made by a Daily Press reporter. It was explained that no damage would result even if a stray portion of a stick did happen to get into the furnaces.

It has been reported by employes of the concern during the past two weeks that a number of pieces of dynamite have been found, but that up to the present time all have been discovered before they reached the furnace flames.

The Pond concern is manufacturing lathes for the belligerent nations of Europe, but the rumor that pro-German sympathizers were responsible for the appearace of the explosives was ridiculed by the officials this morning.

DAUGHTERS OF SCOTIA GIVE SUCCESSFUL DANCE

Attractive costumes, merry music and the latest dances made the Hallowe'en dance and masquerade last night in Debele's Hall, under the auspices of Craigielea Lodge, Daughters of Scotia, a success.

Costumes, representative of the Orient, the Occident, the Far North, the Far South and all intermediate divisions, with the garb of ancient countries predominating, were to be seen, and blending in the whirling dances produced an effect fantastic and pleasing.

The prizes for costumes were awarded to Mrs. Robert McGoldrick and J. La Provident. The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion in the national American and Scottish colors, while Mitchell's orchestra, which furnished the music for dancing, played the national airs of both nations.

DUTCH ARMS "LOOPS THE LOOP" ON TROLLEY TRIP

In a special car, chartered for the occasion, members of the Dutch Arms, of the Netherwood Reformed church, with their families to the number of about eighty, went on a trolley excursion last night. The trip was around the loop, the car leaving Netherwood Reformed church shortly after 7 o'clock for Rahway, thence to Perth Amboy, New Brunswick, Bound Brook and back to Plainfield, where they arrived at about 12:30. Upon the completion of the trip light refreshments were served in the church. The success of this outing, it is thought, will mean that a number of similar trips will be undertaken in the future.

PLAN EUCHRE PARTY.

Plans have been completed for the euchre to be held in St. Joseph's Hall next Wednesday night, October 27. The committee in charge have arranged a program of sociability following the play. Attractive prizes have been donated for the winners of the events.

SEWER BOARD TO MEET.

A meeting of the Joint Sewer Board of North Plainfield, Plainfield and Dunellen will be held in the Council Chamber of the borough, Wednesday evening, of next week.

LADIES' AUXILIARY HAS CELEBRATION

Entertains A. O. H. on Occasion of Its Twentieth Anniversary.

HISTORY OF THE ORDER

Speech-Making and Musical Program Followed by a "Spread" Features of Observance Held Last Night—List of Speakers.

Appropriately marking the twentieth anniversary of the foundation of the society in this city, the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 1, which is closely allied to the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Local Division, No. 4, held a pleasant celebration in Knights of Pythias Hall last evening. Some time ago the A. O. H. held a celebration in honor of the fortieth anniversary of the foundation of their order in this city, and to that affair they invited the women of the auxiliaries. Last evening the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 1, returned the compliment.

The gathering was an informal one, an evening of song preceding the "spread," which was followed by music, furnished by Squiers' orchestra. The program opened up with a few appropriate remarks by the president, Mrs. Bridget Walden, who also gave a short sketch covering the twenty-five years' existence of the auxiliary. Mrs. Walden said that the auxiliary was founded through the efforts of Patrick Casey, Patrick Harrington, Cornelius Regan and John O'Halleran, all of whom are now dead. These four men were, up until their deaths, the most active Hibernians the local division ever had, and readily grasped the opportunity of establishing an organization that would go hand in hand with theirs.

The first meeting was held in St. Mary's School hall, on October 6, 1895, forty-seeven members being enrolled. Of these charter members eleven are still in the society, which at present has a membership of over 125. The demands on the sick and death benefit funds have been, during the past twenty years, of no little importance, but the organization is now in the best financial condition of any in the State.

Thomas Farrell, president of the A. O. H., Division No. 4, then spoke and congratulated the sister members on the creditable record their years of service have accomplished. On behalf of the A. O. H. President Farrell presented the auxiliary with a gavel. Following Mr. Farrell, Miss Mollie Lyons, Somerset county president, spoke. Her remarks, too, were of a congratulatory nature, centered around one central theme, which she most ably expressed in these words: "Next to being a Catholic, I am proud to be recognized as a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary." On behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary of North Plainfield, Miss Lyons presented the local branch with a basket containing twenty red roses.

After the speechmaking little Miss Annie Devine sang "My Home Town in Ireland." Annie accompanied herself at the piano. Miss Nellie Welch sang "Mother Machree." Mrs. Edgar sang "Mavourneen," Gerald Linke being the accompanist at the piano. Following the singing, Mrs. John Hess gave two most humorous dialectical recitations, one of which, "O'Grady's Goat."

The march to the supper room was led by Thomas Farrell and Mrs. Bridget Walden. Members of the A. O. H. and the Ladies' Auxiliaries, Nos. 1 and 5, of Plainfield, and No. 1, of North Plainfield, together with their friends, followed.

The present officers of the auxiliary are: President, Mrs. Bridget Walden; vice-president, Miss Catherine Fitzgerald; financial secretary, Miss Mary Powers; recording secretary, Miss Julia Regan, and treasurer, Mrs. Patrick Connolly.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION TO HOLD FALL RALLY

The Rev. C. S. Gillespie, of Grace M. E. church, will be the speaker at the annual fall rally meeting of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union, which will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Thursday, October 29. The local union choir will lead the songeservice, beginning at 7:45, and the Rev. Edwin Shaw will be in charge of the devotional exercises.

The local union attendance banner now in the possession of the First Baptist church will be awarded to the society having the highest percentage of active and association members present at the meeting.

FAMOUS 'CELLIST TO APPEAR HERE

Miss Lucille Orrell to Be Heard in Concert at Plainfield Theatre Nov. 1.

One of the most interesting stars to appear in the little constellation of the Musical Club's concert on November 1, is Miss Lucille Orrell, a 'cellist of international fame. Born in Chelsea, Mass., in 1892, Miss Orrell began the study of her instrument when only five years old. At twelve she began to work in earnest with a 'cellist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and worked with him four years. When sixteen she went to Leipzig and the distinguished professor, Julius Klengel, became her teacher for two years. Both he and Professor Arthur Nikisch were very appreciative of the talented American girl whose "temperament, exceptional intelligence and victorious mastery of technique," writes Herr Klengel, "are probably not to be found elsewhere in such an harmonious union."

Miss Lucilla Orrell

Tickets for the concert in which Miss Orrell is to appear are now on sale at the Plainfield Theatre.

MISS IDA VAN CAMP BRIDE OF E. D. OPIE

Home Ceremony is Performed This Afternoon by Rev. John Hart.

A quiet home wedding took place at 1 o'clock this afternoon, when Miss Ida Schenck Van Camp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Van Camp, of De Lacy avenue, became the bride of Ellsworth Dumont Opie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vredenberg Opie, of Neshanic Station. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents and was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the contracting couple. Rev. John Hart, pastor of the Neshanic Reformed church, officiated.

The couple were unattended. The bride wore an attractive gown of dark blue cloth, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Following the ceremony a small reception was held, after which the couple left on a short wedding trip throughout the New England States. Mr. Opie is connected with the Pullman Company, of New York city.

The home was prettily decorated for the occasion, autumnal foliage, white chrysanthemums and ferns being used in the scheme.

PLAINFIELD TRUST CO. ADVERTISING CONTEST CLOSES

The efforts of the Plainfield and North Plainfield High School pupils who have been working for the cash prizes offered by the Plainfield Trust Company for the best trust company advertisements, are soon to be rewarded, as the contest closed yesterday afternoon, and the ads are now in the hands of the judges, R. F. R. Huntsman, Leslie R. Fort and Charles H. Frost.

While the Plainfield Trust Company has offered fifteen prizes, there is only one first prize, and as there is much friendly rivalry between the two schools the verdict of the judges is awaited with considerable interest. As the advertisements have been turned over to the committee, with no distinguishing mark other than a number, they will be judged absolutely impartially, and the prizes will be awarded upon merit alone.

ALL-DAY MEETING.

The Women's Missionary Guild, of Trinity Reformed church, held their first fall all-day sewing meeting yesterday at the home of the president, Mrs. A. B. Cole, of Fairview avenue. The meeting was largely attended and numerous articles were completed for the annual Christmas box which the guild sends to the Western Sunday-schools.

$1,000,000 BOND ISSUE UP NOV. 2

Voters to Reject or Approve Big Expenditure by the State.

WHARTON PURCHASE

State Water Supply Commission Asks for Right to Buy Land—New Board, Which Takes Charge in Year, Opposing Movement.

Voters of the State of New Jersey will authorize or reject a bond issue of $1,000,000 at the general election of November 2.

But little has been said publicly of this important feature of the election and but few of those who must pass judgment upon the bond issue are aware of the fact that it is to come up next month.

The contemplated bond issue is for the purpose of allowing the State Water Supply Commission to purchase from the Joseph Wharton estate, land and water rights which the commission says is necessary in its work.

An act authorizing the commission to make this deal was passed by the General Assembly in 1915, but must be approved by the voters of the State in the general election of next month to become effective. The commission, which goes out of office in October of next year, favors the purchase of the property. Members of the Department of Conservation and Development, which succeeds the water supply commission in another twelve months, are opposed to the proposition and are fighting it.

Sample ballots for the coming election are in the hands of county and city clerks, and when distributed to the voters will give much information on the issue, although it has been a State question for some time and a majority have already formed an opinion as to the need of the State for the Wharton estate.

Land that is desired by the water commission is a part of the estate of the late Joseph Wharton and is located in the townships of Medford, Shamong, Tabernacle, Woodland, Washington, and Bass River in Burlington county, the townships of Waterford and Winslow in Camden county, and the town of Hammonton and the township of Mullica in Atlantic county. A contract for its purchase has been entered into by the commission and its members attempted to issue the bond in the name of the board, but this was declared illegal. The purchase price is $10 an acre, and includes lands, premises and water rights.

The bond issue, if authorized, shall be known as State water bonds, and the issue will be $1,000,000. They shall bear interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, shall run for a period of thirty years, and may be issued in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. The act provides for a sinking fund to take care of the bonds when they become due.

Members of the Department of Conservation and Development are publicly opposing the bond issue. They say that the purchase of the Wharton tract would be a waste of money for the State, as New Jersey municipalities do not want water from the tract now and will not want it for many years.

According to statements of the water commission the tract has a capacity of 350,000,000 gallons of water a day, and the supply is within reach of 2,000,000 people, including those in Jersey City, New Brunswick and other municipalities in that section.

The ballot on this issue will be similar to the suffrage amendment. Those opposing will simply mark "no" and those favoring "yes."

SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICE AT TRINITY REFORMED

A special musical service will be given at 7:45 tomorrow evening in Trinity Reformed church, to which the public is invited. The program in part will be as follows:

Prelude, "The Evening Star;" anthem, "And It Shall Come to Pass;" hymn, "'Mid Evening Shadows;" cellincello solo, "Reverie;" contralto solo, "Galilee;" offertory, violincello solo, "Berceuse, from Jocelyn;" anthem, "Sanctus from St. Cecelia;" hymn, "Now May He Who From the Dead."

Rev. J. Y. Broek, the pastor, will preach a special sermon appropriate to the occasion.

BOROUGH EDUCATORS MEET.

A meeting of the Board of Education of North Plainfield will be held in the Council Chamber, of the Borough Fire Hall, Monday evening. It is the regular meeting of the Board, and routine business will be transacted.

UNLOCKS JAIL DOOR WITHOUT A KEY

Prisoner Held for Stealing Free Lunch Makes His Escape.

Fred Miller, aged 23, yesterday escaped from the jail at Summit rather than wait and face arraignment for stealing a free lunch from a saloon. Police officials are mystified over the escape of Miller. He got out sometime in the afternoon, but did not use violence in escaping. A door was found open and the lock had not been broken. It had either been picked or unlocked with a key. Miller is described as being about five feet six or seven inches tall, of dark complexion and dressed in a dark blue suit. The police of other cities have been asked to look for him.

DEDOOD AND GABLE WOMAN FINED $25

Change Plea to Guilty in Union County Courts on Serious Indictment.

Changing their plea of not guilty to one of guilty, Ysbrand DeDood, proprietor of the Keller Cleaning Company's establishment in this city, and Grace Gable, were arraigned before Judge James C. Connolly in the Union County Court of Quarter Sessions at Elizabeth and each fined $25. Their arrest followed disclosures made by Sergeant-at-Arms George York, of the Plainfield District Court, and when arraigned before Judge William G. DeMeza they pleaded not guilty and were held in bail for the Grand Jury.

An indictment was found against both by the Union County Grand Jury. Before sentencing the pair, Judge Connolly delivered a scathing reprimand, directing his remarks in the main at DeDood.

SECOND N. J. CAVALRY HOLDS ITS REUNION

Officers Are Elected at Annual Gathering Held in This City Today.

At the fifty-second annual reunion of the Second New Jersey Calvary Veterans' Association in Reform Hall today, a representative gathering of the "Boys in Blue" exchanged sentiments of '63 and fought again on memory's field the battles of long ago. The roll call revealed the fact that time had further decreased the ranks during the past year.

At the election the following were named: President, Theodore Vandergrift, New York city; first vice president, Alexander A. Yard, Farmingdale; second vice president, Alexander Ewing, Philadelphia; chaplain, Alexander A. Yard, Farmingdale; secretary-treasurer, A. S. Applegate. Mrs. Hannah L. Ewing Endebrock, of Philadelphia, was adopted as daughter of the regiment.

Dinner was served in the hall by the Women's Relief Corps at the close of the morning session.

MME. GUERIN WILL GIVE LECTURE AT MT. ST. MARY'S

Mme. E. Guerin, officer del-academie et del'Instruction Publique and officer del'ordre du Nichan, assisted by her little page, will lecture in French and impersonate "Jeanne d'Arc," with five different costumes, and illustrations, with lantern slides of the persons and scenes of that period, at Mt. St. Mary College, tomorrow afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. Mme. Guerin lectures only in French, but during changes of costume the slides will be shown and explained in English or in French as desired. The popular speaker is now on a tour of the American continent after having delivered fourteen hundred lectures in Europe and in the United States.

GIVEN A SURPRISE.

Mrs. Joseph Darby, of Watchung avenue, was delightfully surprised last night at her home when about fifty of her friends called at her home to spend the evening in a social way. Mrs. Charles Maltby, a sister of the guest of honor, arranged the affair. Dancing, musical and vocal selections were enjoyed throughout the evening, and refreshments were served at a late hour.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PLAN EUCHRE AND DANCE

The euchre and dance which was postponed to Thursday, October 28, by the Knights of Columbus in order that the affair would not conflict with the Elks' bazaar, will prove the best and most enjoyable affair of the year, according to reports received from the committee, which is working to make it a memorable event.

The women and friends of the Knights who have the matter in charge are making a record for themselves by the painstaking manner in which they have taken up the work. Immediately after the games, dancing will follow and the floor committee will see that those who do not dance the modern dances will be given an opportunity to enjoy the old time steps.

SURPRISE PARTY.

About twenty-five young people gave Miss Mildred Tier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Tier, of Westervelt avenue, a surprise at her home last night. Games, dancing, singing and musical selections were enjoyed throughout the evening. Refreshments were served throughout the evening. The affair was a celebration in honor of her natal day anniversary.

WANTED AS WITNESS.

Lieutenant Maurice Higgins this morning took into custody Miss Bessie McGrady, of this city, who is wanted by the Union county prosecutor's office as a material witness.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. LLOYD NELSON HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Evelyn P. Nelson, widow of Lloyd Nelson, and a resident of this village for over fifty years, was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Smalley, of 473 Academy street, South Orange. The service was in charge of the pastor of the Presbyterian church at South Orange, assisted by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of Plainfield, a former pastor of the First Baptist church of this village, of which the deceased was a member.

The funeral was largely attended. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Interment was in the family plot at Scotch Plains. The pall bearers were Fred, Frank and Herbert, sons of the deceased, H. A. E. Weston and Charles W. Smalley, sons-in-laws, and Alfred Osmun, of Dunellen. The funeral party made the trip to Scotch Plains in automobiles.

W. H. Taylor, proprietor of Taylor's Hotel, who has been ill for the past week, is much better. He was able to leave his bed for a while yesterday.

Mrs. W. E. Terry, of Washington avenue, will give a card party and dance at her home Thursday evening.

A Republican rally will be held in Friendship Hall at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Mr. Spencer, the candidate for Senator from this district, and all of the county candidates will be present. County Committeeman C. Lester Rule will preside.

James Cashin and family have moved from the Charles S. Day house on Prospect avenue to No. 210 Park avenue, Plainfield.

RETURNS FROM CAPITAL.

Judge Reno P. F. Von Minden and W. B. LaRue returned last evening from Washington, where they attended the Junior O. U. A. M. convention as fraternal delegates from this State.

NO NEW CASES.

As far as could be learned this morning there have been no new cases of diphtheria and those who have the disease are doing as well as can be expected.

An elaborate and impressive ceremony has been arranged for tomorrow afternoon, when the cornerstone of the new church of St. John's parish will be laid at Dunellen. The program will commence promptly at 2:30 o'clock with a parade through the principal streets of that borough. Led by the Somerville band and the color bearers the parade will be made up largely of the men and boys of the church and Vincent Monahan will be the grand marshal. A number of visiting societies, each headed by a band, will also have places in the line of march and members of the Dunellen police force will appear in full regalia.

The parade routing given out last evening, is as follows: From Dunellen avenue east to Jefferson avenue, from Jefferson avenue along North avenue, to New Market road; along New Market road to Centre street; from Center street down Prospect avenue to North avenue; along North avenue to Lincoln, and down Lincoln avenue to Second street; along Second street to Washington avenue, from Washington avenue along Dunellen avenue to Park street; from Park street along First street to Washington avenue, breaking up in front of the church.

Following the arrival of the parade at the church a procession of the clergy from the rectory to the edifice will start. The procession will be led by the altar boys. The clergy will march in the following order: Rev. E. J. Dunphy, Monsignor O'Grady and Bishop McFaul.

A service, led by Bishop McFaul will be held before a cross erected where the altar of the new church will stand.

Next will come the blessing of the cornerstone and the laying of it. Mr. McInnery, the contractor in charge of the mason work of the church, will assist Bishop McFaul in setting the stone. Following will come an address delivered by Monsignor O'Grady. In conclusion the band will lead the congregation in the hymn, "Holy God We Praise Thy Name."

A large assembly is expected at the ceremonies. Special trolley cars have been engaged to take care of the number of outsiders.

Somerville

The annual meeting of the Somerset and Middlesex Pomona Grange was held Thursday in the Grange Hall at New Market. There was a fine display of fruit and vegetables. Officers elected for the year are: J. D. Quick, of Raritan Valley Grange, worthy master; H. W. Kline, of Middlesex, secretary; Charles Hamilton, lecturer. The next meeting will be held at New Brunswick in January.

Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Mrs. Frelinghuysen will take the first degree in the Raritan Valley Grange, Monday evening, October 25, at South Branch.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Miss Elsa Palmer entertained a number of her friends at an informal dance at her home on Tilliston road last night. The lower rooms were prettily decorated, and a victrola furnished music for the latest steps. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, when a collation was served. Guests were present from Plainfield and Westfield, besides the borough.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church will hold a Hallowe'en social in Entre Nous Hall on Monday night. The entertainment committee has arranged a program of games and other amusements appropriate to the season, and home-made crullers and other refreshments will be served.

"Is God on His Job?" will be the theme of the Rev. J. Madison Hare's sermon at the Baptist church tomorrow morning, and will be partly answered in his discussion of "What Is His Job?" Miss Schenck will lead the Young People's meeting at 7:45 with a discussion and study of "The Consecration of Time."

The Rev. J. Madison Hare made an interesting talk to about forty children yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Lend-a-Hand Society in the lecture room of the Baptist church.

Thirty children, who have not missed a single session of the Bible school of the Baptist church for a month, are enjoying an automobile ride to Morristown this afternoon. The afternoon's program includes a stop at Washington's headquarters in that city and several other points of interest.

The second fall meeting of the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Baptist church will be held in the lecture room of that institution next Wednesday afternoon.

The first rehearsal for the special Christmas music to be rendered at the annual entertainment will be held by the Sunday-school of the Episcopal church at the 10 o'clock session tomorrow morning. At the 11 o'clock preaching service the Rev. Oscar Stuart Michael will take as the topic of his sermon "St. Luke, the Beloved Physician," in commemoration of St. Luke's Day and festival. The rector will touch on healing during his sermon and mention God's part in it.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Rhodes, of Midway avenue, gave a masquerade dance in the Fanwood firehouse last night, to a hundred of their friends. The hall was prettily decorated with a Hallowe'en effect. Music was furnished for the occasion by Austin's orchestra, of New York, and at midnight there was the unmasking, followed by a supper served under the direction of the Ritz. Guests were present from Brooklyn, New York, Plainfield, Westfield, Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Meeker and daughter, Florence, have returned from a four weeks' stay in Northern New York State.

Miss Claire Hall, of South avenue, is spending the winter in New York with Miss Elsa Palmer.

Miss Florence Estelle, of Jersey City, is spending the week-end with her brother, George Estelle, of Montague avenue.

Watchung.

Rev. Mebane Ramsay will have charge of the morning and evening services in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church tomorrow. Morning at 10:45 and the evening service at 8 o'clock, preceded by a song service at 7:45. Sunday-school at the usual time in the afternoon, 2:40.

The tennis court on the estate of William H. Campbell, at "Hillcrest," has just received its finishing touches.

Mrs. Isaac Moore, who underwent an operation for appendicitis, has so far recovered that she has been able to be removed to her home.

Miss Stella M. Shuts and Miss Helen L. Schmidt are spending the week-end at Clinton.

Miss Nora M. Krons and Miss Myrtle Davis are spending the week-end at Mr. and Mrs. George Beeching.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Shank celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage at their home, Sunnyside Farm, last night. Many guests from Newark, Elizabeth, Cranford and Plainfield were present and thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

PROMINENT ENTRANTS IN LAKEWOOD GOLF TOURNEY

Many prominent women from the North Jersey suburban colonies have entered the invitation golf tournament to be played on the Lakewood Country Club links, October 28, 29 and 30.

Among those whose names have been listed since last Saturday are: Mrs. George J. Gould, Lakewood; Miss E. Pickhardt, Englewood; Miss G. Pickhardt, Westfield; Mrs. Frank Enos, Englewood; Miss W. T. Seaman, Richmond county, N. Y.; Mrs. Roscoe Sloan, Worcester Country Club; Mrs. H. E. Mandel, Westfield, Mrs. M. G. McDonald, Dunwoodie; Miss M. S. Randall, Fox Hill; Mrs. C. Meeks, Arcola.

Mrs. L. F. F. Wanner, Essex County; Mrs. F. E. Donahue, Montclair; Mrs. L. L. Blake, Cranford; Mrs. Betz, Rumson; Mrs. George D. Boschen, Spring Lake; Mrs. Florian King, Englewood; Mrs. Joseph P. Knapp, Piping Rock; Mrs. R. B. Stockton, Plainfield; Mrs. M. E. Frayne, Dunwoodie; Mrs. E. F. Sanford, Essex county; Mrs. C. J. Fraser, Baltusrol. Miss Eleanor Chandler, Huntington Valley.

—Those accustomed to getting SERVICE from the classified columns would consider it a very foolish thing to do to pay too much rent, either for a store, a house, an apartment or a furnished room.

TUNING UP FOR COURT PRACTICE AT P. H. S.

The Plainfield High School basketballsters will probably start practice next week with prospects for another winning combination. They have been unable to start before as the gymnasium has been in constant use, but a schedule is to be made out shortly to allow a limited time for the teams.

Capt. "Bill" Wheelan will be the only regular from last year's championship five, but with Noonan, Coudray, Lipke, Dunham and a host of other last year "subs," Coach Patch will have another dangerous aggregation on the court this winter.

SEMI-FINALS REACHED IN HIGH SCHOOL TENNIS

The semi-finals have been reached in the fall tennis tournament at the Plainfield High School and will be completed on Monday. Carter and Case have one more set to play, darkness called a halt yesterday, after they had played two matches, 8-10 and 7-5. The winner of the set will play McAnneny and the winner of that match will play the winner of a match between Babcock and Carter for the finals.

The tourney has been played on the courts of the Country Club and has attracted a large "gallery." A loving cup will be the first prize and a medal for the runner-up.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Practically every pupil in the High School had an advertisement in the contest conducted by the Plainfield Trust Company.

The junior class has selected William Seidel captain and Brooks Carson manager, of its basketball team.

Charles Taylor, the "Boy Evangelist."

The different classes will be apportioned periods in the hall shortly, after which a class league will be formed.

Although no definite announcement has been made as yet, it is highly probable that the system of marking will be changed this year. Heretofore an exact average was placed on the pupil's card, while the new system will indicate the ranking by letters, which will eliminate much work for the teachers.

The freshman class has decided to organize a basketball team and has elected Sidney Dunning captain and Jerry O'Connor manager.

Manager John Dawe is shifting his schedule, both the alumni and Princeton games being arranged for the early part of next month, instead of the latter.

The Girls' Athletic Association has decided to hold a cake and candy sale in Saengerbund Hall, the date not being definitely arranged as yet.

IN THE LOWER-PRICE SILK STORE

Monday--An Old-Fashioned Silk Remnant Sale--- 85c Yard

35,000 Yards of All Kinds of Popular and Novelty Silks at this Extraordinary Price

The majority of these silks are from our regular stocks in the Silk Rotunda on the Main floor. Their prices there during the past month have been $1.25 to $3.50.

With these are some special purchases of the same qualities of popular silks which we have just made.

Included also are thousands of yards of imported novelty silks of all kinds. The regular prices of these (if we had purchased them under regular conditions) would range as high as $5 a yard; the least worthy would be $2 yard regularly.

The Wanamaker Silk Rotunda on the Main floor needs more space for its more costly and fine silks. Therefore out goes every yard of popular-priced silks that remain there in short lengths, incomplete color assortments and unsold special purchases.

Represented is practically every kind of fashionable popular silks—imported and American—Taffetas, Plaids, Charmeuse, Satins, Meteors, Failles, Grosgrains, Brocades, Printed Silks, Wash Silks, Negligee Silks and Imported Novelty Silks in stripes, checks, dots—the latter are used for many kinds of trimming and decorative purposes.

All will be sold in remnants of waist and dress lengths starting Monday morning in the New Daylight Silk Store on the Subway Aisle, New Building.

Sale of Silk-and-Wool Dress Goods, 95c Yd.

Monday offers this really beautiful corded material which is capable of being handled in almost any way. It is soft enough to be manageable yet has a distinct body to it. Every piece is 40 inches wide.

In appearance it is like a crepe silk bengaline and comes in over twenty wonderful shades, as well as black, ivory and cream.

The brown shades are Havana, Mordore, Autumn brown, African brown.
The blue shades are Navy, Indigo, French blue, Cadet and Gobelin blue.
The green shades are Rostand, reseda, serpent, myrtle and olive.
The purple shades are amethyst, wisteria, prune, prunelle, concord and catawba.
The red shades are Indian red, claret and rose.

For afternoon, every day, business, school and house dresses, one might go far and not find so suitable a fabric.

New Acquisitions of Fox and Beaver Furs

At Surprising Prices Under Present Conditions

Fox advanced 50 per cent. at the St. Louis fur sale. In the London sale held this week, prices compared with those of last Spring has advanced 50 per cent. on cross fox, 40 per cent. on red fox, 15 per cent on silver fox, 100 per cent. on fisher, etc.

In New York wholesale prices have been generally advanced—seeming to go a little higher every week.

Yet we have been able to secure new fine lots of fox, beaver and other furs at surprisingly low prices.

These hundreds of new furs will be shown Monday for the first time.

Beaver

If anything a little finer of fur and rather larger in size than anything we have had at corresponding prices.

Beaver scarfs, with a large bow in back, hanging end in front, $28. Bow ties that reach to the ears, $16.50. Melon and barrel muffs, $22.50, $28, $38—new and different styles for these prices.

Alaska Cross Fox

Dark gray and tawny gold of color with long hair, glossy and fluffy. Sets of this beautiful cross fox, $150, $165, $175. Separate muffs, $85. Scarfs $42.

Alaska Red Fox

Youthful gay furs, bright in color, fluffy, made with the greatest skill. Scarfs with a touch of black at ear and paw, $47.50; muffs, $50.

More New Furs

Hudson seal (dyed muskrat) muffs with cuffs, $20.

Fine fisher, very dark and not blended at all, $150 set.

Natural raccoon, made like fox furs, showing head, tail and claws on muffs, $22.50. Double fur scarfs, $14

Alaska Silver Fox and Natural Blue Fox Skins

These skins are remarkably fine for their very moderate prices.

They will be made to individual order.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Gail Kane and Bruce M'Rae, both prominent stars of the legitimate stage, will appear today at the U. S. Astor Theatre in a dramatic screen version of "Via Wireless," the great play by the late Paul Armstrong and Winchell Smith, which scored a big hit in New York several years ago. In part the story of this extraordinary film drama is: Marsh, a draughtsman in the gun factory of John Drant, is swindled by Edward Pinkney, Durant's general manager, out of the huge royalty to be paid should a gun of Marsh's invention prove a success. Pinkney loves Mazie, but is rivaled by Lieut. Somers, U. S. N. Somers also has invented a gun which he gives to be cast to the Durant Iron Works, and which, if successful, will do Pinkney out of his expected graft on the Marsh invention. Pinkney takes good care that the Somers gun is "killed" in making. This forms the plot of the most engrossing story. The big scene of the film is when the Durant yacht hits a mine and in the rush to leave the shop, Mazie is trapped in the wireless room. She sends out the S. O. S. signal taught her by Somers. The lieutenant, aboard a U. S. cruiser, arrives at the side of the doomed ship just in time to make a sensational cruise.

Monday and Tuesday the screen feature at the Astor Theatre will be Richard C. Travers and Lillian Drew in "The Palace of the King," an Essanay production in six parts, and one of the biggest and most lavishly invested of the year.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

One of the most important announcements coming from the Plainfield Theatre this season is that made by Manager Shannon yesterday to the effect that he had secured for presentation at his popular playhouse the new serial photoplay, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," described by experts to be "the cleanest and cleverest comedy picture film ever produced." It will be presented in successive episode every Wednesday matinee and night, commencing next week. Everybody in America is familiar with the name of "Wallingford," and some of the methods by which this clever young man sprang from dire want to untold wealth. His most interesting experiences, as described by George Randolph Chester, were woven into a play by George M. Cohan that was one of the biggest of stage successes in recent years. "Wallingford" has now posed for the camera, and by following the serial at the Plainfield Theatre his admirers can follow him through some of the most amazing situations a happy-go-lucky, devil-may-care young fellow ever placed himself only to emerge with added thousands to his already fabulous fortune. Remember that next Wednesday will mark the opening episode, if you wish to keep in touch with the cleverest character modern picture has produced.

The vaudeville bill which has filled the Plainfield Theatre since Wednesday will give way to another fine program for the first half of the week, commencing Monday. The feature act is announced as a comedy playlet, entitled "Stolen Plans," presented by Clifford Hipple and company, an organization of clever actors and actresses. This act will be supplemented by Stewart and Stone, singing and talking comedians; Harry Fisher and company, in a comedy bicycle act; Marie Burns, singing comedienne, late with Oscar Hammerstein's attractions; George Ward, blackface comedian, and Leon's Models, in classic posing.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Today will witness the last performances of the anniversary week, which started a new winter policy of polite and refined continuous vaudeville and massive photoplay attractions. The photoplay feature today is Mrs. Fiske in "Vanity Fair," and Mary Pickford. The vaudeville is of the high class kind, and is headed by "The Song Doctors," one of the best musical comedy skits seen here this season. Other novel features are included. Next week's offering is even greater than this week, and is headed by the big Fox feature film, "The Little Gypsy," starring Dorothy Bernard, a screen play that has some wonderful effects, among which are a blazing factory, seen burning to the ground, and a furious rain and lightning storm, in which the trees are uprooted and tossed about like reeds. A double-feature vaudeville program has been arranged with Cole Santas and his musical organization of twenty people, including the soprano, Magna Dahl. There will also be seen "Billy Bounce's Bouncing Circus," billed as a "Laughing Riot" of good, clean wholesome fun. Other novel features will make up a bil of unusual excellence and variety. "Neal of the Navy" will be featured as usual Friday, and the toy matinee will be given for the "kiddies" Saturday. "Bazaar Night" will take place as usual Wednesday, and another bevy of comedy surprises will be in order.

RECREATION NOTES

The Municipal Dance will be held tonight as usual in the Washington School Auditorium.

A dancing class for children will be held at the Franklin School auditorium Monday afternoon. All children of the Franklin School who wish to join the class this winter should be present on Monday. The small children will have their lesson at 3 o'clock and the fourth and fifth grade children will have their class from 3:45 to 4:45. The Bryant dancing class will be held at the same time in the Bryant School.

The Dramatic Club held a very successful social in the Washington School last evening. Music and dancing were enjoyed and at 10:30 an elaborate collation was served.

The Public Speaking Club is to hold a discussion on Monday evening as to "which works harder, man or woman?" Any who are interested in the club will be made welcome Monday evening. A series of extemporaneous speeches on topics of the day will follow the general discussion. Pleasure and profit are promised all who attend.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Charles Forbes Taylor, the boy evangelist, has has been drawing larger crowds each night this week at the special meetings at the Park Avenue Baptist church, will address the men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. A song service led by an orchestra will preceed the address. All boys over sixteen as well as men are invited to attend.

The regular afternoon boys' meeting will be omitted so that the older fellows can hear the address.

"WHO IS ASLEEP IN THE CHURCH?"

"Boy Evangelist" Sways a Large Audience in Interesting Talk on Topic.

MAKES STRONG PLEA

Young Preacher Describes Different Kinds of Sleep as They Affect Christians and Unconverted and Tells of the Consequences.

A capacity audience at the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening listened to an impressive sermon by Charle Taylor, the "boy evangelist," who swayed his audience at his will—now to laughter, now to tears, by his stirring sermon on "Who is Asleep In the Church." The power of this young preacher is making itself felt to a marked degree, and the nightly audiences that sit spellbound by his eloquence and wisdom, and the straight-forward manner in which he delivers God's truth, include men and women in every walk in life.

"It is not always the fault of the pulpit that people in the congregation fall asleep," said the speaker. "Paul was the greatest preacher the world has ever known, and yet our text says that as Paul was long preaching, one in his audience sank down with sleep. This sermon of Paul's continued seven hours—think of that, all you people who nearly faint when your pastor preaches a sermon forty-five minutes long. Let us consider several points in connection with our subject:

"First—The sleeper is insensible. There is a disease called the sleeping sickness and affects the body to a great degree—the disease of the soul affects it to an eternal degree. There are people in this beautiful city whose souls are asleep in the sleepless arms of the devil, who is cooing over them as does a mother over her sleepless child. Statements may be made here today that will hurt—but if the cap fits, tie the strings under your chin and wear it; don't pass it on to some one else. A desperate disease calls for a desperate cure. We need a man who is well to stand up and declare the whole unyarnished truth. It is useless to visit the cemeteries and speak to the boys and girls lying there about their souls' salvation—it is too late; the gospel should be preached to you now, before you pass into eternity.

"Second—There is the sleep of indifference. Such people come to the meetings time and time again; they listen to the appeal and walk right out of the building—absolutely indifferent to the things of God, and they may be lost. There is no gospel for the lost—their day of grace is past.

"Third—The sleeper is inactive. A clergyman once saw an ad. for 100,000 sleepers or ties that could no longer uphold railroad traffic; he answered the ad. and said that if they would visit his church any Sunday morning he would give them fifty sleepers. The speaker greatly amused his audience by likening inactive members of the church to the wax figures in the Eden Musee; they look just like the real thing, but when it comes to upholding the cause of Christ or taking an active part in the work of their church, they are as dead as a door-nail. But some say, 'I give my money and that is enough.' But I tell you that if all the members of a church were alive to their responsibilities and shared in the activities of the church, there would be no need to worry about where the money was coming from. Give your Christianity first and your money will come fast enough. The church needs your personal service. Church members, do you think the devil is asleep? Indeed not, he is working night and day with both hands. In this enlightened age men and women don't like to believe in a real devil. Seven days in the week the devil is laboring for the damnation of souls; but we Christians think that if we give Sunday mornings and evening to the salvation of these souls, we are doing all that is required of us.

"Fourth—The sleeper is in danger. There are souls all about us in danger of eternal hell, but we are afraid we would insult them if we intimated such a thing. Nowadays that word must be toned down to suit the fastidious tastes of people."

The boy closed his sermon with an earnest plea for the unconverted to turn to God; there were many requests for prayer from the audience and the service closed with a prayer by the young evangelist that touched every heart present.

The meeting this evening will be directed especially to young people, although people of all ages are most cordially invited. The boy will preach on "The Simplicity of the Gospel." He will also preach tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and in the evening at 7:45 at the Park Avenue Baptist church, and again at the Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock to men only.

STRUCK FIRE HYDRANT.

Robert Fenton, an automobilist, was arrested by Patrolman Joseph Dunlap last night charged with reckless driving. His machine ran into a fire hydrant located at Somerset street and West Front street. He was notified to appear before City Judge William G. DeMeza next Saturday morning.

OUR CITIZEN'S DEMAND

Fully Complied With—A Plainfield Resident Furnished It.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Plainfield people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Plainfield and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 540 West Front street, Plainfield, says: "I had a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly and any hard work made me worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting, and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and other medicines, but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store. They made a lasting cure."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Driscoll had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY IN PLAINFIFLD

BUILDING SEASON IS ON THE WANE

Only Two Permits Granted This Week by Inspector T. O. Doane.

GARAGE AND DWELLING

Lockwood Co. Which Acquired Tract of Land on Putnam Avenue Plans Erection of Several Handsome Houses in the Spring.

But two building permits were issued during the course of the past week by Inspector T. O. Doane, covering the erection of one garage and one dwelling, both in the Second ward. A number of repair and alteration jobs, for which no permits are needed, are also underway at this time.

The first permit of the week was issued to Tucker Johnson for the erection of a 12x18 foot frame garage at 747 Webster place at a cost of $250. Peter Johnson is named as the contractor.

The other permit calls for the erection of a two and one-half story, 27x31 foot frame dwelling on Putnam avenue, north of Hillside avenue, at a cost of $5,000. The house will be modern in every detail, and is to be constructed for the H. C. Lockwood Company. This is the first of a number of dwellings to be erected by this concern in the course of the near future in this general vicinity. William D. Moore, of New York, is the architect; Kane & McGall, of the borough, the mason contractors, while William D. Bird, also of the borough, has been awarded the carpenter contract.

The Lockwood concern bought a large tract of land along Putnam avenue last spring, and cleared it of considerable timber, and laid out one or two streets during the course of the summer. From present indications, a number of high class dwellings will cover the entire tract before two or three years have past. These realty developers have been instrumental in erecting many dwellings in Fanwood, where they have laid out considerable territory. It is understood that three other dwellings will be started in a short time, and will be ready for occupancy in the early spring.

Another prospective building for the immediate futnre is an addition to the blacksmith shop of the Saurer Motor Company, the local branch of the International Motor Company. The building will measure 18x51 feet and one story high. John Brown, of Philadelphia, is the architect of the proposed plans, and filed a copy of them with Inspector Doane yesterday. It is expected that the permit will be granted the first of next week.

The permits for the month to date now aggregates $86,920, as against $29,320 for the entire month of October last year.

SHERIFF SALES

Sheriff George C. Otto Wednesday afternoon at Elizabeth sold in a sale, the outcome of a foreclosure action, a property at Liberty and West Third streets, to Louis Fay for $4,000. The buyer had instituted proceedings against Benjamin Wehner, of Plainfield, the owner.

The following property was sold Thursday at New Brunswick, by the sheriff:

Property in Oakland Park, Piscataway township, involved in an action of John P. Bornman against Hans P. Peter Skovborg, was sold to the complainant for $2,500. The decree and costs amounted to $3,988.15. Vincent W. Nash, of this city, was counsel for Bornman.

Another sale involved in an action of Catherine E. Herr against the Little Farms Company, was sold to the complainant for the amount of the decree and costs, which was $2,267.-27. Martin B. Stutsman, of this city, represented the complainant. The other, involved in an action of Nobel H. Briggs against the Little Farms Company, was also sold to the complainant for the amount of decree and costs, which was $3,999.02.

YERKES' RESIDENCE STARTED.

Work was commenced this week on the erection of the new Yerkes' residence on Central avenue, near Elizabeth street, which will be one of the largest building jobs during the coming winter. The contract figure will approximate $20,000 and March 1, 1916, has been set as the time limit for construction. The house is to be of the colonial type and will embody many new features in the interior finish. Howard Huff is the mason contractor, and Fred Schuck the carpenter contractor.

NURSES' HOME NOW BEING IMPROVED

Alterations to Cost $7,000 Being Made—Grounds Also Being Beautified.

B. F. Tallamy & Brother, the contractors who have done practically all the mason work on the old and new buildings of Muhlenberg Hospital, commenced work this week on the erection of an addition to the Nurses Home, situated on Park avenue, at the southwesterly corner of the hospital grounds. It will in reality be the placing of another story on the present two-story structure, the same roof being kept intact. It is to be raised up and the new part to be built underneath.

The improvement to the home will cost approximately $7,000, and is being paid for out of the campaign fund subscribed by the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity three years ago. The need of increased sleeping accommodations for the hospital's nursing staff has long been felt as during the past two years some of the young women have had to be kept at the hospital proper because of a lack of rooms. The nursing staff now numbers thirty-two, while the capacity of the home has been twenty-four. Eleven rooms will be added by the erection of the third floor and these will have sleeping quarters for sixteen nurses. In addition to this a dormitory with a capacity of eight persons will be added through the building of a large sleeping porch in the rear. A small one has been fitted up temporarily and it has proved quite popular during the past summer.

The plans for the improvement to the home have been drawn by Architect Evarts Tracy, and the work will be supervised by Frank J. Hubbard, chairman of the hospital building committee. Tallamy Brothers built the original home, a fact which will materially help in making the addition a thorough job. The architecture of the new part will conform with the old, maintaining the present colonial appearance that has made the building so attractive.

Much favorable comment is heard to the improvement in the hospital grounds since the planting there of new trees made possible by voluntary contributions to the hospital tree fund.

This fund was started by James W. DeGraff, who contributed $100, and other contributions to this fund in sums of $2.00 to $100.00 each, comprise the following: Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman, L. B. Benton, E. H. Booth, W. R. Cock, Arthur M. Harris, J. H. Howell, Louis K. Hyde, E. H. Ladd, Jr., Charles W. McCutchen, G. P. Mellick, H. C. Munger, James Parker, Wilbur F. Rogers, T. F. Sykes.

About $200.00 more is needed to really complete the plan for tree planting.

Any amount will be acceptable and contributions may be sent to Muhlenberg Hospital.

BRUNSON HOMESTEAD UNDERGOING IMPROVEMENTS

The Brunson homestead, which is located on Greenbrook road, at the head of Clinton avenue, and which is one of the finest type of colonial dwellings in this vicinity, is undergoing considerable alterations. Numerous improvements are being made to the interior and a two story addition on the east end is being torn down and in its place a three story extension, measuring 26x26 feet, is being erected. Three new chimneys are also being built in different parts of the house. When completed the improvements will make the homestead as fine a dwelling as can be found anywhere in the borough.

The work on the house is all being done by local men as follows: Carpentering, William Wyman; masonry Howard Huff; plumbing and heating Arthur Newman & Brother; electric wiring, William H. Pope.

COUNTY CONTRACTS.

Eight building contracts were filed last week at the office of County Clerk James C. Calvert, at Elizabeth. The documents call for the expenditure of $33,543. The following was filed from this city: Louis M. Marcellus with Thomas J. Frieman, entire work addition, East Third street, Plainfield, $1,200.

TWO-FAMILY HOUSE.

William W. Wilson, of West Third street, will shortly give out the contracts for the erection of a two-family dwelling of the "double decker" type on McDowell street, between West Third and West Fourth streets. It will be constructed of concrete blocks for the first story and the remainder of frame construction.

ADVANCE PRICE OF SANITARY TILE

Manufacturers Agree to Restrict Shading and Price Cutting in Future.

CHANGE IS ACCEPTED

An Advance of $2 a Ton on Bessemer Black Sheets Featured the Steel Trade This Week—Demand for Machinery Increases.

New York, Oct. 23.—In line with other departments in the building material and supply market the Associated Clay Tile Manufacturers have decided to dvance the price of sanitary tile by agreeing to restrict shading and price cutting. The result is that today the accepted price for sanitary floor and wall tiling is only about two cents a fool below high level ruling in 1912, and there is some reason to warrant the trade in expecting the price to at least meet the old prosperity level by the first of the year. Conservatives, however, believe that if the new level is maintained at the present rate of building construction throughout the East, that quotations will remain at the existing level at least until spring.

Following this announcement President Robert Beck, of the Interstate Mantel and Tile Dealers' Association, called a special executive meeting of all the district presidents east of Chicago on Thursday at the Hotel Astor, at which time the matter of accepting the change was discussed, with other matters. No intimation as to the result of the conference was forthcoming from the members, but it was understood that a sentiment developed in opposition to the increase. Dealers contend that while the prospect for excellent building conditions are good, they are not in a position at this time to meet the upward trend in prices. The manufacturers, on the other hand, contend that the dealers have forced prices so low in the recent depression by inviting counter-bids as to result in selling the tile below the cost of manufacture. The manufacturers were satisfied to release excess stock as long as it lasted, but now, when stocks are low, foreign labor is scarce, raw materials are higher and building on the increase, they cannot maintain the old schedules.

An advance of $2 a ton on Bessemer black sheets featured the steel trade this week. The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company announced that it has put 24 gauge on a $2.10 basis for current basis. The trade hears that quotations for deliveries after January 1 will be even higher than that figure. Wire products are expected to show a further advance of $1 to $2 a ton before long. Beams, channels, tees and zees are without change at $1.569, tidewater, but this is the low level, no range being quoted.

The tremendous rush in the steel market is reflected in the demand for machinery. Manufacturers of building materials seeking figures on new equipment to take care of the rush expected to develop early next year, complain that it is very difficult to obtain machine shop capacity for machinery that is not in stock and has to be made on special order. They say that practically every shop has rush orders, and that the same applies even to factories as remote from building material production as printing presses, safes, sewing machines and special machine parts.

Common brick plants along the Hudson River closed for the season, with their sheds moderately filled, and current prices at $6.75 to $7, showing a little more firmness than last week. Sand remains unchanged at 45 cents, and is reported to be easy at that level. Gravel shows no change, but crushed stone continues to be stiff at 85 and 90 cents for trap rock and 80 and 85 cent for bluestone. Linseed oil remained at 60 and 61 cents a gallon.

Portland cement bought at the early summer levels is said to be exceedingly scarce in dealers' hands. There are only two yards that have any quantity of it on hand to speak of, according to reliable informants, and this will be worked off shortly, thus bringing the price to consumers at higher levels than these dealers have been able to offer in the past. Prices are still being shaded by some interests, but with increasing caution as the general impression now is that at least $1.48 will be bottom before another thirty days elapse. Manufacturers have had trouble in getting labor and some wage increases have been made. This alone will force prices in this market higher. No formal action has been taken to check price shading, the manufacturers having come to the conclusion that economic conditions will solve this problem by itself.

EXPLAINS ACTION OF LEGISLATURE

Assemblyman Pierson Replies to Democratic Candidate Leonard's Statements.

SAYS THEY ARE FALSE

Asks the Nominee to Explain Why in 1914 the Appropriation Bill Was $870,000 More Than Was in Sight.

Assembly Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, having had his attention called to a challenge made by Democratic Assembly candidate Leonard, of Elizabeth, in a speech made in this city Wednesday night, takes occasion to make the following reply:

"Democratic Assembly Candidate Leonard, in his speech in Plainfield, on Wednesday evening, suggested that the citizens of your city ask the Republican Assembly candidates several questions. I will not wait for the inquiry, if, indeed, anyone took Mr. Leonard's statement seriously, but will make the following reply.

First—That the Republican Assembly of last year curtailed appropriations so that the National Guard encampment could not be held.

"I am greatly surprised that Mr. Leonard should make such a statement, as he knows perfectly well that the annual appropriation bill passed at the last Legislature will not become available for expenditure until November 1 next. The appropriation which was available for this year's encampment was made by the Democratic Legislature of 1914. Mr. Leonard was a member of the appropriation committee of that Legislature and helped frame the bill.

"While I do not believe that the general National Guard Encampment last summer was abandoned for any other reason than to adopt the plan of the War Department in establishing its school of instruction for officers of the National Guard. However, if the encampment failed because of lack of appropriations, the Democratic Legislature of 1914 must stand responsible for the failure."

Second—The statement that the widows' pension work was curtailed by the Republican Assembly.

"Such a statement is entirely false. I was chairman of the committee to which all these bills were referred. Two bills, which aimed to pull down the beneficinet purpose of the widows pensions, were not reported out of committee.

"One other bill, which simplified the filing of applications and making examinations, was reported out of committee and passed. This bill was introduced by a Republican member from Camden, and had the support of the entire Republican delegation."

Third—That the system of roads heretofore maintained in excellent condition were allowed to lapse into a state of disrepair, and all for the purpose of trying to make the people believe that the State was being run more economically, when, as a matter of fact, such is not the case.

"I cannot understand how Mr. Leonard should have attempted to throw discredit upon the Republican Assembly of last winter, for the bad condition of the roads. In the first place, Mr. Leonard was a member of the highway committee in 1913, and should be familiar with the fact that the State Treasury has never contributed money for road repairs, their contributions going entirely for new road construction.

"The motor vehicle act of 1906 dedicated all fines and license receipts to the repair of roads in the State consequently whatever the condition of the road may be, the last, or, in fact, no other Assembly can be held responsible.

"The receipts from the motor vehicle fund were estimated by the Comptroller for 1914 at $570,000 whereas this year they will approximate a million dollars. The fact that our roads are being neglected notwithstanding the great increase in the funds available for repairs, is a matter of regret by every citizen, but the blame for this must be placed upon the State Road Commissioner and the Comptroller, both Democrats I should like to ask Mr. Leonard how he can construe State road repair work as coming under the jurisdiction of the Assembly.

"Since Mr. Leonard has asked the Republican Assembly candidate to reply to his charges, I think the people of Plainfield will be interested to have Mr. Leonard explain why the appropriation bill passed by the 1914 Democratic Legislature was $7,634,-414, whereas the Comptroller's estimate of the receipts was $66,783,870, or $870,000 more appropriated than was in sight. In connection with this, it would be interesting to have an explanation for the statement published by Governor Fielder and Comptroller Edwards just before election last year, that there was free cash in the treasury of $1,081,000, whereas in the Comptroller's report, published in January, there was $1,241,000 of unpaid bills and contracts, which showed a deficit which was then acknowledged by the Comptroller to be $160,000.

"The annual appropriation bill of the last (Republican) Legislature was within the Comptroller's estimate of receipts."

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, OCTOBER 23, 1915.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is Dr. Paul W. Harrison, Missionary from Trinity Reformed Church to Arabia.

We live in a small world, and it is getting smaller all the time. Two thousand years ago, the inhabitants of the Roman empire did not so much as know of the existence of the inhabitants of North America. Two hundred years ago, the inhabitans of China were almost as complete strangers to the inhabitants of Europe, as if they had inhabited another planet. To-day we have come to know each other somewhat, and the process continues. We understand each other better. The Italian lives in New York, and the American lives in Naples. The process is sure to mean better acquaintance on both sides. The extent to which travel is mixing up the different races of the earth, is not realized until we join the ranks of the wanderers. In central Arabia even, I heard of a man who had spent many years in America, and worked as a watchmaker. He has now returned to the land of his fathers, and anything that the missionary may say will be checked up by his report.

Business is bringing the world together. One man's money is as good as another's to the stockholder, and so markets are sought everywhere. The Bazaars of Kuwait, a town on the Persian Gulf, display coffee from Brazil, cloth goods from England, kerosene from the United States, lanterns from India, enameled ware from Austria, sugar from France, lumber from Africa, cutlery from Germany, and sometimes even a certain number of things from Japan. Robert Speer once wrote that he had never passed out of the region of the Singer Sewing Machine in any of his travels. In Arabia the Singer Sewing Machine may occasionally be left behind, but the Standard Oil Company never. And we in like manner receive from the ends of the earth the things that we use continually. Our dates are from Mesopotamia, our rice, much of it, from Japan. Our gum arabic comes from southern Arabia, our bananas from the West Indies, our tobacco from Sumatra, our sugar from a great number of places, but all of them foreign. The world is united into one great trading company in these days.

Due partly to these things, but perhaps more important than both, is the fact that the world in a very real sense, is today thinking the same thoughts everywhere. There are perhaps two great ideas which seem to be predominant everywhere, the idea of Democracy and the idea of Nationalism. Wherever you go, India, or Turkey, or Italy, or the United States of America, much the same type of discussion is heard. The passionate appeal to patriotism, and to the equal rights of all men. India is seething with the disturbance that these two ideas are creating in the placid lake of her old philosophy, and old social organization. The struggle to put these two principles into effect seems to have come to an untimely end in Persia and Turkey, and to have received a setback in Egypt, but the leaven is working in all of those countries, as any one who consults their newspapers will know. It is an impressive thing to stand and see the whole world united in their desires and ideals, and all struggling together, in one endeavor, however varied they may be in their distance from the object.

And the process is a continuous one. We are more closely united than we were two hundred years ago. We will be more closely united still, fifty years hence. We travel much now, we will travel more then. We are one great trading company now, then the bands will be stronger and more equitable. We strive for the same things now. Then we may hope to be, in a partial way, attaining them together. The days of provincialism are over. The world is one.

As our circle of friends widens, our circle of duties widens with it. Two thousand years ago, a man might perhaps have fulfilled all his obligations, and never either in thought, or in deed have stepped out of his own village. He cannot do so now. We are becoming rich by means of our trade with the East. We are their beneficiaries, in other words. Shall we be selfishly indifferent to their needs, in view of that fact? Our fellowmen, children of God as are we, stand in need of our help, and are we to join ourselves to the ranks of the priests and the Levites, who pass by on the other side? Here are whole nations without Christ, and shall we, who bear His name, stultify our faith in Him, with a heresy far worse than that of any higher critic, by refusing to carry out His command, and preach the Gospel to them.

What can we do? In the first place we can make ourselves acquainted with the needs of these peoples. We can take some interest in their affairs. I remember how surprised I was to find a man even in Kuwait who asked me concerning certain questions that had been asked in the British Parliament of the Prime Minister, concerning the politics of the Near East. Others are coming to take an interest in the affairs of the world as a whole. We must not remain provincial. We are citizens of the world. The first thing necessary is to get the world outlook.

What can we do? The second thing is to recognize the good in lands, and races and customs other than our own. In God's sight, a yellow man is just as good as a white man, and a black man as a brown man. The clothes they wear, and the houses they live in, may be just as good as our own in point of fulfilling their essential function. Even more than that, often, they may have useful lessons to teach us. Race prejudice is one of the most destructive influences at work in the world today. The European war, the horrors of the Armenian massacres are some of its fruits. The common contempt felt for a Chinese laundryman, or for the Negroes as a class, are also some of its fruits.

What can we do? Third and finally, we can give them of our own good things, so that there may be equality. We have blessings in the way of business organization and management. We have blessings in a free government, cleanliness and sanitation, in our recognition of the equality of woman which are of incalculable value. Education, modern medicine, scientific investigation, have done a great deal for us. It is our duty to transmit them to any who stand in need of them. Only thus can we show acceptable gratitude to God for His goodness in giving them to us, and finally, and most important of all we have Jesus Christ. Him who has fulfilled this life with blessings for us, and who has opened the doors of a joyful entry into the life to come. He, whose life furnishes us with an absolute pattern, and whose death is the basis of our complete salvation. Certainly this supreme blessing we will be anxious to transmit to the less fortunate races and nations. Our opportunity is our responsibility.

"In A Minute"

"Just a minute," she would say—
Then I'd wait a half a day
(Or about what seemed to be)
Ere she showed her face to me.

That was ere we two were wed.
And as time has swiftly fled
She has made no changes in it—
It's the same old "just a minute."

Only now, when she says that,
I take off my coat and hat
And go do a chore or two,
Till her little minute's through.

Oft I speculate if Eve
Made Old Adam fret and grieve
When she used to run a bluff
Pulling "in a minute" stuff!

Maxims

There are several kinds of maxims, including Hiram and Hudson.

The lower-case maxims are better known than the others, having antedated them in history.

Hudson and Hiram are strong for the invention of deadly weapons and Franklin motor-cars.

Hudson's air-cooled shrapnel is one of the finest things one can be killed with. Those who have been shot with artillery invented by the Maxim boys, or who have been half shot at Maxim's in Paris desire and require no other form of shooting iron or projectile afterward.

Most of the lower-case maxims like 'You can't teach an old dog new tricks" are not true.

But Hudson and Hiram are facts.

Everybody who gets into the presence of one of these perpetual quoters of old saws wants to become a maxim silencer for the time being.

Colic

Colic is of two general varieties—wind and bu

Wind-colic is a pain, and is caused by a typhoon along the alimentary canal.

Sometimes it is a typhoon, but sometimes, in babies, all we can say of it is that it brings on a squall.

Bucolic is something the matter with people that makes them stay on the farm

This disease, unfortunately, is not contagious

Given our choice between wind and bu., we take bu. every pop.

There is very little breeziness about bucolic.

If the infected one had had more hot air in him, he would not have adhered to the after a manner of speaking broad acres of his ancestry.

A sleeping baby smiles when colic is in his midst.

Whether that is love laughing at the locksmiths who built the alimentary canal, or plain sarcasm, we cannot say.

Some people have not smiled since colic disturbed their infantile slumbers

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Hygienic Shoe

WE HAVE no favorite brand of shoes to exploit, but we wish to spread far and wide a few rudimentary facts about the human foot and footwear.

First, let us reiterate the injunction to toe in. The strong, unrestrained foot naturally toes a wee trifle inward, if anything. At any rate it doesn't toe out. One who habitually toes straight ahead or inward will have considerable difficulty about developing footstrain or falling arches.

Next, buy only such shoes as permit toeing in.

This latter injunction is so very important that we had better enlarge a little upon it.

If one with normal feet makes footprints on the bath-room floor it will be observed that the middle line from the heel intersects the middle line from the toes at an angle the sides of which bend inward. That is, the foot naturally turns inward, not outward, as most shoemakers seem to think.

The great toe adheres to the straight and narrow path—it keeps in a line parallel with that of its fellow. The inside sole line of the shoes, therefore, should be practically straight, never veering outward as shoemakers like to make it.

In buying shoes, you should examine the pair from underneath. Hold them together and see how the soles look. Is there a marked space between the toes when the shoes are held together, side by side? Then reject them, for they are bunion makers, and they will cause footstrain and weaken the arches.

A sole at least as wide as the imprint of the naked foot under the weight of the body. A heel at least as wide as the naked heel—and we have never seen one on a normal adult less than two inches wide. A heel not more than one and one-half inches high. A box toe. Pointless shoes. These are the important features to consider. Everything else is secondary or a matter of taste.

Not everything labelled "Hygienic" or "Anatomic" is good to wear. Nor is it necessary to wear brogans or ugly looking shoes. A little common sense in selecting footwear enables the wearer to conform to fashion and still enjoy foot comfort. No fancy fixings need be purchased. You don't have to "consult" the near-specialist clerk about it. Just buy what you need on your own responsibility.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Ulcerated Tooth Bogy Survives

How soon is it safe to have an ulcerated tooth extracted?

Answer—Just as soon as you can persuade the dentist that you don't want the tooth any more, if not sooner.

Emetics

What would you consider a useful emetic to have on hand for household emergencies?

Answer—A good emetic is one you can't keep down. A tablespoonful of mustard flour stirred in a half cupful of lukewarm water. A teaspoonful of syrup of ipecac. Either should be repeated in fifteen or twenty minutes if necessary. Either would require from five to twenty minutes to come back. An instantaneous emetic for babies or adults is one grain of copper sulphate dissolved in a tablespoonful of water. This dose would have to be carefully measured, but it is effective.

Vest Pocket Essays

BY GEORGE FITCH

THE WAITER

NO STUDY of natural history would be complete without a few carefully selected words on the subject of The Waiter.

A waiter is a patient individual, whose mission is to teach the people how to wait. There are a great many thousand waiters, and most of them are devoted to their mission. These are especially valuable in America, where haste is the national curse. A good waiter can take the care of an impetuous American, who would sue the street car company if he had to wait five minutes for a car, and can not only make him wait half an hour for a soft boiled egg, but can make him pay for the wait as well as the egg.

Waiters inhabit restaurants, hotels and dining cars. They are perfectly at home in the dining-room, but are apt to get confused and bewildered in the kitchen when they go in search of food and bring back a piece of asparagus pie to the man who has been clamoring for roast beef. The waiter is still the only known means of getting food from the kitchen to the customer, and science has been so busy perfecting the aeroplane and the automobile that it hasn't had time to improve and perfect the waiter. It knows when to tackle a job and when to leave it alone.

There are many varieties of waiters and their plumage varies considerably. In New York, the waiter can be distinguished by his swallow-tailed coat, though this costume is greatly infringed upon by the diners. In Chicago he wears a long white apron, with the date of washing carefully stencilled on one corner. In St. Louis the waiter is distinguished by his parboiled thumb, and in Milwaukee by his long prehensible fingers, which he has trained to grasp a dozen steins at a time. New York waiters are frequently of great wealth and fine education, and are able to translate the most complicated bill of fare for their less talented customers.

The dining-car waiter is in a class by himself. He is a cheerful chocolate colored acrobat, who can carry a plate of food down a reeling car aisle on a trot, and writhe past half a dozen patrons in the aisle, without spilling a drop. The dining-car waiter is one of our most successful vaudeville acts.

With all his faults, the waiter has a kindly, genial smile, which endears him to his victims. It ought to, because it is a dear smile. It costs half a dollar to see a perfect specimen in Chicago, and at least two dollars in New York. The waiter is not ambitious, and no waiter has ever become President. On the other hand, no waiter would attend a monkey dinner without being well paid for it. As a rule, the waiter is placid and not easily upset, even when he is tipped. In fact, the only way to upset him is not to tip him.

But we shall speak of tips some other day.

Views Of The Press

Buchanan Up To Date

EVERY American who is sentimentally inclined to resist reasonable preparations for national defence should read anew the impartial judgment of history in the case of James Buchanan. He had such a dread of strife that he disregarded his oath as President to "preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States." His opposition to the use of force was so keen that, with conspiracy, aggression and insurrection all about him, he refused to exert his authority lest he should make matters worse.

So far as the high resolves of the Secessionists were effective, the Union was dissolved during the last four months of his Administration. National property was seized. Courts were closed. Customs and taxes were diverted. Even military posts, notably those in Charleston Harbor, were in a state of siege. Entreated by men of all parties to enforce the laws, Buchanan did nothing until it was too late, pleading his unwillingness to coerce a State and his abhorrence of war. "Not in my time!" was his weak response to every appeal that was made to him in the name of right, law, patriotism and duty.

The weakness of this pacifism in the White House strengthened and hastened disunion at the South and spread consternation throughout the North. Talk of compromise filled the land, and the very day that a rebellious Government was being inaugurated in Montgomery, a peace convention was in session in Washington. Truly no man in high station before or since has done so much in so short a time by irresolution and in the name of peace to bring on a long and devastating war.

Plenty of testimony on the subject is at hand. "The President is pale with fear," said Lewis Cass. "He about equally divides between praying and crying," wrote Senator Grimes. Reports that he was insane were freely circulated. "One single hour of Jackson," said Charles Francis Adams, "would have stopped the fire in its cradle." "If we had held Sumter," said Montgomery Blair, "not a drop of blood would have been shed." Of Buchanan, James Russell Lowell wrote that "he is one who has contrived to involve his country in confusion of principle and vacillation of judgment which have left him without a party and without a friend"; and John A. Dix said of him: "He is timid and credulous and it is not difficult for an artful man to deceive him."

The belief at the South was that the North would not fight even for its rights. By his inaction no less than by his words and his secret assurances to the leaders of sedition, Buchanan confirmed this opinion. He was a typical advocate of peace at any price. The South, which despised though it depended upon him, rushed headlong into a war that carried desolation and suffering from border to border. The North, misrepresented by him but soon to be under different leadership, took up at last with fortitude the terrible task which partly as a result of his folly called for the sacrifice of hundreds of thousands of lives and billions of treasure.—New York World

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

The Booze Fighter's Will

Q. Kindly tell me what effect intoxication has with reference to the legality of a will made by a person who is in the habit of using liquor.

A. Intoxication or habitual drunkenness may or may not make a will invalid. If the excessive use of intoxicants has so weakened and impaired the intellect that the person making the will is unable to comprehend, in a reasonable manner, the nature of his act, the will cannot stand However, if one is not under the influence of intoxicating liquors at the time of making his will, the fact that he is addicted to the use of intoxicants will not destroy the validity of the will, provided it appears that he understood what he was doing and provided the ordinary tests of testamentary capacity may be successfully applied.

Weights And Measures

Q. Please inform me whether weights and measures may be regulated by means of a state law? Does a state legislature have the power to pass laws providing for the inspection and regulation of weights and measures? A. No.

A Constitutional Enactment

Q. If a state law should empower a railroad company to borrow money and pay more than the legal rate of interest, would it be a constitutional enactment?

A Some statutes of this character have been sustained.

Speak Louder, Old Man!

Q. Where an offer has been made by one person and accepted by another, may either one withdraw from the bargain?

A. Ordinarily, he may not do so without incurring liability. Your question, however, should have been more explicit.

Sell The Land And Buy An Auto

Q. Is one allowed to put in his will a clause directing that his real estate is to be sold and converted into money?

A. Yes, one may do this.

Trust Property

Q. In case trustees should wish to buy trust property, may they do so, and if so what steps should they take?

A. They may institute a proceeding in court, setting out the facts, and asking permission to do this.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper

The Life Line

BY LAURA KIRKMAN

The Man Who Takes Advice

In other words, the man who lets someone else think for him. "I've decided to buy that stock, Jones says it's a good thing," he tells his wife. He has let his own judgment rest while Jones's judgment supported it. The stock turns out a "good thing," and never in this world would it be possible to convince that man that it would have been better not to have acted on Jones's suggestion—better in the long run. A strong judgment is better than a few extra dollars in the purse. And strength of judgment, like strength of muscle, comes only through exercise. Let the man dependent on some one's else mind, take care! His E string's snapping.

The Girl Who Waits For The Prince

"Yes, I love Tom," she admits, unhappily, "but not enough to marry him. How could I, when I can't wholly respect him? He—well, everybody knows it!—he isn't a success at his profession. Men smile when they speak of him. I couldn't marry a man who might turn out a joke." No. And it's lucky for Tom that she can't. He'd be sure to turn out a joke, then—with a wife who didn't believe in him. Real love contains a protective quality. Is the husband unsuccessful? Then the more the wife tells the world of her pride in him. Does he stumble? Then the more she assures him of her faith in him The girl who waits for the prince will never find him. For he comes in disguise. Though not able to boast of perfection herself, she, nevertheless, demands a perfect mate. She's trying to pass a button for a gold piece.

The Rounder

He could turkey-trot and tango,
He could dance the light fandango;
He could do most any other sort of step.
He knew all the fancy waiters,
Likewise, and the stay-out-laters,
And to all their little playgrounds he was hep.
He could tip you on the races,
With the wise ones he was aces,
And to him the downtown cops were Bill and Bob.
But when fatal illness bumped him
In the potter's field they dumped him,
For he'd never learned the way to get a job.

HOPES THAT WOMEN WILL CO-OPERATE

Mrs. Alexander F. Jamieson Says Recent Election is a Source of Satisfaction.

Mrs. Alexander F. Jamieson, of Lawrenceville, formerly State president of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, in commenting on the result of the election on Tuesday, when the suffrage amendment was so decisively defeated, said:

"The result of the election is a source of great satisfaction to the women who have worked for the past three years for its realization. Remembering, that at that time, the women of New Jersey had no comprehension of the fact that woman's suffrage meant anything to them; and was thought to be merely a western growth, it is amazing what has been accomplished. It is gratifying to those who have been in the active work to see that the results have been greatest where we have been able to do the most work, which we cannot help feeling is a proof positive that the argument of the 'antis' do not make, as so often stated, suffrage converts.

"Also, in spite of the announcement of the suffragists, it seems hardly possible, that our representatives will ever grant to the appeal to the Legislature or Congress, that vote which has been refused by 52,000 of those representative constituents.

"I hope that both the advocates of suffrage and those who have labored to prevent its adoption will find in other fields work in which, without the ballot, they may co-operate for the best development of their State and country."

ISOLATION HOSPITAL WANTED FOR COUNTY

Matter Will Be Brought to the Attention of Board of Freeholders.

Members of the Springfield Board of Health have taken the initiative in placing before the Union County Board of Freeholders a proposition which may ultimately result in the establishment of a county isolation hospital for patients afflicted with contagious diseases. It has been determined to place the matter in the hands of the freeholders, at the same time requesting an appropriation to accomplish this end. The subject was originally approached by Dr. H. R. Dengler, coroner of Union county, who stated that there was no place within the county where a patient might be sent, except to the municipal institution in Elizabeth. It is optional with the authorities whether they accept or reject a patient, and the township must reimburse the city in case the patient is taken, according to Dr. Dengler.

Plainfield has long felt the need of just such an improvement along this line, the only provision made at the present time for those afflicted with contagious diseases being the isolation ward at Muhlenberg Hospital. The conservative manner in which maladys of this class are handled by the local institution bars more than one case at a time. Therefore it is necessary to treat other contagious disease that might develop while one person is confined in the hospital, in the home.

NATIONAL GUARD'S SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Quartermaster General Murray's Report Complete in Every Detail.

The report of C. Edward Murray, quartermaster-general of New Jersey National Guard, for 1914, has just been issued. It is complete in every detail and contains a large amount of valuable information, showing what was done by this department in that year. One of the interesting features is an abstract of pay for encampments, camps of instruction and cruises, the total amount of which was $65,049.76.

In that year the Second Regiment had 711 men in camp, including fifty-two officers and 659 enlisted men. From the United States Government this organization received $4,206.03 and from the State $4,222, making a total of $8,428.03. The First Field Hospital Company had fifty-one men in camp. It received $357.06 from the United States Government and $258.10 from the State, making a total of $615.16.

There were 469 officers and 4,119 enlisted men who attended the various encampments, schools of instruction, rifle practice and cruises that year. The total amount of pay received from the United States Government was $33,713.46, and from the State, $31,336.30. The expenses of the State militia in 1914, including the construction of new armories, amounted to $476,396.97.

Detailed accounts are also given of the clothing issued, the ordnance property, the quartermaster property, the signal and engineer property and the medical property.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICE.

A gospel song service, beginning at 7:45, led by the quartet and a chorus choir of young people under the direction of Clifford Braider, will be a special feature of the Sunday evening service at the First Methodist church, tomorrow, followed by an evangelistic sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, subject, "The Ethiopian Eunuch;" Edgar E. Cole, baritone soloist, will sing.

SERMON TOPICS.

Rev. Edward S. Ralston, of the Netherwood Reformed church, will preach tomorrow morning on "The True Foundation," and in the evening on "How to Fly." The heating plant is now in order, and the edifice will be made comfortable. The Bible school will meet at 9:45 o'clock. The children of the beginners' department will meet at the parsonage.

Household Hints

CANNING AND PRESERVING

Peach Butter—Put three quarts sweet cider over fire; slice into it enough peeled peaches to thicken it. Boil steadily until mixture is reduced to pulp, stirring frequently while cooking. Take from fire, set aside to cool, then return to range and cook slowly until brown and thick. Turn into stone crock and keep in cool place.

Imitation Olives — Wash small green tomatoes, prick each one with fork, let stand in salt water over night; next morning drain. Put one pound brown sugar, one-half ounce mixed spices to each quart vinegar; let vinegar come to a boil, add tomatoes, heat thoroughly and seal in air-tight jars.

THE TABLE

Red Beans and Rice a la Creole—Now that fall is here, our thoughts turn to cold weather dishes. Following is recipe for appetizing and satisfying dish learned in New Orleans rathskellert Soak one quart red beans (kidney beans) over night; parboil, then place on fire to boil slowly three hours. Place a good-sized piece of pork in kettle and season with salt and plenty of red pepper. Make a "rue" of six good-sized onions chopped fine, fry onions in plenty of meat drippings till a light brown, stir in two tablespoons flour and brown a little more, then stir "rue" into beans. Half hour before serving place in double boiler one cup rice (do not season); when done, place thin patty of rice on plate and put beans over that, and you will have a meal which is delicious and which forms an important part of the New Orleans housewife's table.

Streckel: In one side of dish add one cup flour, one cup sugar, one teaspoon baking powder. In other side of dish put a little salt, little butter, one beaten egg and a little vanilla; then mix this all together; rub between the hands to get crumby. Then rub top of kuchen with milk and sprinkle streckel on.

Peach Kuchen can be made by washing the peaches and cutting them in half or slices and putting them on top of kuchen; then sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Apples or grapes can also be used, or even plums.

Peach Fluff—This quantity will serve six nicely. Whip half pint whipping cream. Cut in small pieces the contents of ten-cent box of vanilla marshmallows, stir into cream. Pare and slice six good-sized peaches, place these in cream and marshmallows. Nuts can be added if desired. Stir entire mixture, put into refrigerator to get cold. If not sweet enough a little sugar can be added, but the marshmallows sweeten it enough for us.

"Sausages De Luxe"—This is original and a great favorite either as a breakfast or supper dish; can be prepared the night before. Take half pound sausage meat and shape like ordinary sausages, only smaller. Cover all around with mashed potatoes. Dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry in deep fat. Pile on dish and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Mock Mince—One pound raisins, one cup molasses, one cup vinegar, two quarts apples (more if desired), one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon nutmeg, twelve crackers, butter size of an egg. Boil all togehtre for half hour. Sugar to taste.

RECIPES

Potato Omelet—One cup cold boiled potato, chopped; eight eggs, two tablespoons milk, salt, pepper. Mix eggs lightly with milk, salt and pepper. Turn into hot buttered frying pan. Fold in edges as it cooks. Fry potatoes brown. Mold on one side of omelet and fold over other side. When brown on bottom turn into platter. Cut in sections. This makes an attractive dish to serve.

Creole Tomatoes—Five good-sized tomatoes, one-half cup bread crumbs, one tablespoon chopped green pepper, one of chopped onion, two tablespoons grated cheese. Peel and scrape out tomatoes. Mix with crumbs, pepper and onion. Stuff tomatoes. Sprinkle top with cheese and bake twenty minutes.

Puree du Barry—One small cauliflower broken and parboiled in boiling salt water, one pint milk, two potatoes, large lump of butter. Drain tender cauliflower, add milk to potatoes. Cook gently till done. Rub through sieve, add butter and boiling milk to make sufficient quantity, salt and pepper to taste.

OPINION OF "ANTI" ON "SUFF" ELECTION

Miss R. A. Lawrence Discusses Defeat of Amendment This Week.

When asked her opinion regarding the result of the election on Tuesday, Miss R. A. Lawrence made the following statement:

"Why, of course, we expected it to go in our favor, but we could not form any definite estimate of the majority, as it is most unusual for so large a vote to be polled at a special election. Needless to say this fact makes our success by such conclusive a majority doubly gratifying.

"To me personally the result means more than the mere defeat of equal suffrage. It means that the men of the State recognize, not only that it has not been proved that the women as a whole, or even a majority of them, want the ballot, but that those of us who represented the opposing majority were entirely truthful and sincere in our declaration, that we do not consider our duties surrounded by the four walls of our homes, that we are—each as far as in her power lies—helpful, earnest workers in our community, and that we desire and intend to continue to be such. It means that they agree with us that our work is more effective as women, where legislative help is needed, than as voters avowed, if we are sincere, to some party. I have myself heard men who were not antis acknowledge that to them, 'Jane Addams, of Hull House, was one woman, Jane Addams, the progressive, another.'

"Men respect mothers, wives, sweethearts, sisters and daughters, women friends, each as such, but they do not respect those who are nothing more, and if they felt that the majority of the women of the State were self-centred, or lacked public spirit, or the power to do service, and that the power and duty to vote would alter such conditions, all the protests in the world would not have sufficed to hinder their forcing it upon them.

"I'm not going to ask you to say you agree with me, because I know you do.

"Mrs. Alexander F. Jamieson, former president of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, has often said, 'We must not forget that after this is all settled and over, we have all got to be just women and ladies again, working for the 'common weal,' and we must not allow ourselves to feel personal bitterness.' I want now to echo her sentiments, and express the hope that at this moment when all the world needs its women (as women) as it has never perhaps needed them before, we will all put political differences of opinion behind us, and work with all our might for the 'common weal.' I think you will agree with me that if we do this, we will have our hearts, and hands, and minds, to say nothing of our time, fully occupied.

"Certainly I should have voted if the election had gone the other way, that is a misapprehension on the part of some people, that because we are opposed to having the duty thrust upon us, antis would not perform the duty after it became such. Please never make that mistake, and please correct it in others.

"We should indeed cease to be the good citizens we claim and wish to be if we neglected to exercise the franchise when once we belonged to the enfranchised citizens of our country. The responsibility would be too great to be evaded."

PLAITED PRINCESS DRESS NOVEL AND EASY TO MAKE.

No. 9052.

Many women have an idea that it is difficult to do their own dressmaking. Granted that she knows what kind of a dress she wants, the first thing of importance is the selection of a pattern that is so accurately cut and has such unmistakably simple and explicit directions that no errors can be made. Then dressmaking will be found a both pleasurable and profitable means of utilizing one's spare time.

An unusually attractive yet easily made dress is the plaited Princess gown shown above by Ladies' Home Journal pattern illustration No. 9052. This dress can be made with notch round or scalloped collar, full length sleeves, with no, plain or scalloped cuffs, and a lower edge finished in scallop or straight outline, with underset hem. Length of dress at center-back is 56 inches, with straight outline—with scallops, 53 inches. Dress cuts in seven sizes, 32 to 44, size 36 requiring 5⅝ yards of 36-inch material.

Patterns can be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

PENN'S FIRST SCHOOLMASTER

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 23.—The monument to Christopher Dock, the first schoolmaster in the State, will be unveiled today at Skipback, in Montgomery county, and Governor Brumbaugh, himself a noted educator, will make the principal address. Dock was the first schoolmaster in Pennsylvania, opening the school at Skipback in 1714. He was also the first American to write on the science of teaching, which has developed so greatly since his time. Former Governor Pennypacker, who wrote the inscription that is carved in the monument, and who planned the memorial, will also speak.

Splash! Would Sound Bobbie's Stone.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Story Of Uncle Ben's Bottomless Lake.

"THIS is Bibbley Wah night," daddy began, "and I am going to tell you of her favorite playground. It was not as near home as the brook, but the children always loved it. Uncle Ben owned this wonderful lake, which was only about a mile wide and a mile long. Around its edge white pines, hemlocks, bull rushes and tall grasses made a beautiful fringe. Now, the strange thing about this lake was that it had no brooks running into it and none emptying it. It was fed by underground springs, and its overflow escaped by underground currents."

"It looked just like a big puddle?" asked Jack.

"Yes. It was just as if fairies filled it with their jugs of water each day and dipped it out when it got too full. Uncle Ben once had some government men come and drop all sorts of queer instruments in it. They went away saying that the lake had no bottom. One of the favorite games the children played was to row out into the middle of the lake with a lot of small stones and drop them, always listening to hear if they touched bottom.

"Splash! would go Jim's stone. Splash! would sound Bobbie's, and Bibbley Wah would throw a handful of pebbles all at once, with no answering sound but the faint echo from the tall pines. By this game the children learned their first idea of space—how far and deep things may be."

"Was it something like thinking of stars?" asked Jack.

"Exactly!" cried daddy, glad to be understood.

"Now, spring water, you know, is always very cool and clear, so that the perch and pickerel which Uncle Ben raised in his lake could be seen darting among the lily leaves. He used to have the greatest fun making up fishing parties among his men friends, and Anne used to cook pounds of lake trout for the kiddies' suppers each vacation."

"Fish and ginger cookies sound good," Evelyn said.

"The north end of the lake had a sandy shore, where the kiddies waded out for lilies, which spread their broad green pads over the ripples. But the south bank was like a shelf, and no living thing that chanced to slip off its rocky sides had ever been able to climb back. Once Uncle Ben lost one of his best cows because in getting a drink she slipped in. Now give me a kiss, and tomorrow night I will tell you a beautiful Indian legend about the lake," finished daddy.

"It's the same lake where old Ned was bitten by horse flies and bumped the yellow buckboard over a log and"—

"And Bibbley Wah fell off!" Evelyn interrupted Jack.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. F. A. LEONARD

Molly Makes a Move for Peace, but John's Tactlessness Spoils All.

Although her head ached and she was dizzy and weak because of the nervous strain she had been under, Molly Sutner took great pains to have a good dinner on the table when her husband came home. His heart smote him when he saw the great circles under her eyes, and then saw the simple but carefully prepared meal on the table.

"She is trying. Maybe I have not done her justice," he reflected.

"You should not have worked to get up a dinner when you are sick," he began, passing her plate.

She flushed with pleasure, and her hand trembled as she took the dish.

"You had to get your own breakfast; I wanted you to have something good for dinner," she replied, trying to smile.

"I've been thinking that you get out so little see so few people. It would do you good to have a little company," he said after a silence.

"It costs money to entertain; we cannot afford it," she replied. "I shall be all right when I get rested up a little. Thank you for thinking of it," she added, as he did not reply.

"I did not mean expensive entertaining," he resumed. "But we might have Julia Osgood over in the evening some time. You would like her."

The demon of discord must have suggested the name of the girl that had caused Molly such fierce suffering the night before. She had fought all night the temptation to make a scene, to tell him she had seen him going about with this girl, laughing and talking, while she was supposed to be at home alone listening to the rain for company. At the mention of her name all the fierce jealousy and anger swept from her the last vestige of self-restraint. The cup she held in her hand fell to the floor with a crash, and her eyes blazed as she said: "Indeed! Why did you not bring her last night when you had her out?"

So sudden was the explosion that her husband fairly jumped. He stared a moment in silence, then said: "I do not understand what you mean."

"Oh, don't you?" Her tone was full of withering scorn. "You need not try to dodge. You were seen last night going about with her. You left me here alone to take her around and show her a good time."

John's first impulse was to tell her the truth, that they had been working at the office and he had gone home with her, as it was dark and late, but a sense of resentment that he had been spied on and suspected tossed the good impulse aside and filled him with a desire to make her suffer as much as possible.

"So you have turned spy, have you? Much comfort may it be to you. Do you really think you will gain anything by such tactics? Do you suppose a man will deliberately choose to stay with a woman who insults him, disturbs him, and keeps him in hot water all the time when he can find company more to his liking; pleasant company, cheerful company?" John rose from the table and pushed back his chair.

Molly turned deadly pale when she saw what she had done with her impulsive speech.

"I did not spy intentionally; I accidentally saw you," she began.

"Accidentally saw me! It was raining all the evening and black as ink. I suppose you were out for a stroll," he snorted contemptuously, and, seizing his hat, strode out of the door. Little Jack, frightened at the discordant voices, began to cry. Molly gathered him up in her arms and sat down to rock him, holding him so close in her arms that he cried out with discomfort.

"Mother can't even make you comfortable," she whispered with a sob.

MORAN HAS NOT SIGNED FOR 1916

Philly Manager Not Satisfied With Salary Offered Him.

Stories from Philadelphia that Pat Moran, who led the Philadelphia Nationals to the first pennant they ever won, had signed as manager for next year are all wrong. As a matter of fact, Moran left for his home in Fitchburg, Mass., without signing the papers. Moran had several conferences with William F. Baker, owner of the Phillies before leaving, but evidently they failed to come to an understanding.

No doubt money is at the bottom of their differences. Moran, it is said on good authority, became manager at the same salary for which he acted as a coach, and he was only too willing to stay at the old stipend in order to get a chance at the big job. Now that he has made good in his first attempt, Pat no doubt feels that he is entitled to a sizable raise in salary.

By winning the National League pennant this year Moran stunned the entire baseball world. Probably no championship won in years has been more of a manager's personal triumph than Moran's victory this year.

Moran's contract expired on October 15 and he is free to sign with any club in the two major leagues. While it is inconceivable that the owners of the Phils would affront the fans by letting the only man who ever captured a pennant for the Phillies slip away, the leisurely policy the owners have adopted in regard to his reappointment is a matter of some concern.

Of course Moran will not manage the Phils in 1916 for the same money he received in 1915, or anything like it. He worked for a nominal salary this year, and the stockholders, who were enriched to the extent of $71,000 in the world's series alone because of Moran's generalship and ability, will have to come across with an adequate salary to hold him.

Moran has every fan in the Quaker City at his feet, and is in the position of dictating his own terms. To be turned down by the club would mean the ruin of the Phils.

In this respect it might be apropos to say that Moran was never the first choice of the club as the successor to Charles Dooin. Hans Lobert was first appointed, but a number of the leading players mutinied and declared they would play under nobody except Moran.

The club saw the players meant business, so Moran received the appointment instead of Lobert, and then went in and won the only pennant the Phils have captured in thirty-three years.

RED SOX EXPECT TO REPEAT IN 1916

Baseball Dopesters Are Strong for Manager Carrigan's Aggregation.

Boston, Oct. 23.—Th baseball dopers of the East are strong for the Red Sox to repeat next year. They have it all figured out that unless some marvelous new baseball machine is put together by Comiskey or Jennings, the Boston club are due to head the list next autumn. There is many a slip in baseball, however, and the dope is not always safe to rely on.

The Red Sox are not a flash-in-the-pan. They were up in second place last year, and the addition of Barry and Hobby put them into first place this year despite the almost unbeatable clubs at Detroit and Chicago. The talent was in the club this year, and they had the goods. They had a good "chief" to work for in Lannin, and that aided materially. A boss who knows how to handle his men is a big factor in any endeavor.

The dope on which the experts figure the Red Sox to repeat is along these lines: That the outfield is the best in the country, offensive and defensive, the pitching staff is by long odds the best gathered in one club this year, and the infield has the makings. Much of the team is young material in point of individual age, and it should be intact for several years to come. Lannin will go into next season with practically the same line-up, his only possible changes being in the catchers. His pitchers should improve rather than deteriorate. Should Joe Wood return to his old-time form there will be a string of hurlers seldom gathered in the history of the game. Carrigan believes his men are practically free from bonehead play. The only great improvement he would like to see is base running. The speed of the team as a whole is slow on the bases.

The new world champions are modest fellows. They ducked the many feasts, ovations and parades and hit their separate trails to their homes. And the fans have had their last dispute as to who was the greatest hero of the series, and now everybody in town is looking for something new to worry about.

P. H. S. WILL MEET BATTIN TEAM TODAY

Lineup of Two Teams That Go Together at Elizabeth This Afternoon.

Battin will line up against Plainfield High School today on Pingry Oval, at Elizabeth. The game will be called at 3:30 sharp. Many tickets have been sold at the High School, and a large crowd is expected.

Last Saturday Plainfield defeated Westfield, 7 to 0.

Battin has been practicing hard all week and Coach Johnson says that when the final gong rings the locals will be in the lead. Of late Battin has played air-tight ball for three periods, but weakened in the last period. But the season is advanced now, and as the squad is in better condition this trouble will probably not appear again.

The probable line-up of the teams is as follows:

Battin H. S.	Plainfield H. S.
Herprisch	Davidson
left end.
Schmidlin	Locke
left tackle.
V. Ellson	Hooper
left guard.
H. Abel	Kline
centre.
H. Ellson	Pennock
right guard.
Golden	Miller
right tackle.
Van Sickel	Fitch
right end.
Davidson (capt.)	Peacock
quarterback.
Holzapfel	Daniels
right halfback.
"Liz" Seeland	Apgar
left halfback.
Woodruff	Noonan
fullback.

JIMMY CLINTON AND BRUGGY SIGN TO PLAY BASKETBALL

Professional basketball will be tried in and near the metropolitan district during the coming season by the Inter-State Basketball League, which is made up of Brooklyn, Kingston, Stamford, Paterson, Jersey City, and Elizabeth. The promoters of the new organization will endeavor to make it as popular as it is in Pennsylvania, upper New York State, and in the Middle West.

Included in the roster of players are Jimmy Clinton, the prominent Central New Jersey Baseball League twirler who piloted the Plainfield Pets to victory in 1912, and Frank Bruggy, the former Bound Brook catcher. Clinton is a forward on the Kingston Cohoes and Bruggy plays guard for the Gloversville quintet.

DE ORO WINS BILLIARD MATCH IN EASY STYLE

When George F. Slosson had scored 34 points, or a total of 206 for the five nights' play, at three cushion carrom billiards, in John Doyle's rooms last night, Alfredo De Oro, who was his competitor, scored his 250th point and won the contest.

It was De Oro's game from first to last, and his playing last night was far more consistent than on the previous day, when he appeared to be doing his best to miss shots and give Slosson an opportunity to make a creditable showing.

HOMING PIGEON RACE.

Elizabeth, Roselle Park and Westfield will be represented in the Plainfield Homing Pigeon Club's 300-mile race, in conjunction with the Metropolitan Concourse Race Association, in the near future. Felix Rydzinski, of Roselle Park, had his pigeons finish first and second last Tuesday in a 200-mile race.

NOT LIVE STOCK.

State College, Penn., Oct. 23.—Plans of Pennsylvania State College students to travel as "live stock" to the big football games away from home have been shattered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, it was learned today.

The commission ruled that it was illegal for railroads to transport human beings under the special classification of "live stock."

The students hoped to see the Harvard game next week at Cambridge at a cost of about $7 for railroad fare, whereas the journey in Pullmans would cost them $35.

IT'S UP TO JESS NOW TO MEET MORAN

Frank Moran.

If Jess Willard's going to box Frank Moran he'd better do it in a hurry, else he'll sure enough risk losing that heavyweight title when he does go in the ring to face the Pittsburgh giant.

There's only one real place to stage a Willard-Moran match at this time, and that's New York. Moran and Coffey pulled a gate of $25,118 when they got together in New York the other night in a no-decision contest. Willard and Moran would draw around $50,000 in New York.

That's big money and real money, but pretty soon the New York boxing commission is going to order the abolition of the no-decision system. Instead there will be verdicts handed down by the referees.

In a long scrap Willard would surely triumph over Moran, but in a go limited to ten rounds there's small doubt that Frank would prove too clever for the champion. Tom Jones realizes this and he's pulling for the commission to delay the cutting out of the no-decision system. Willard's manager is too smart a fellow to allow Jess to go against Moran in a ten-round go if a decision is to be handed down by the referee.

That's why it will probably be only a few weeks before we hear of Willard and Moran in a ten-round go in New York. Jess and Manager Tom want to crowd in this scrap before they start giving decisions.

COLLIER TROPHIES TO BE PRESENTED

Awards to High School and Leal School Delayed in Delivery Last Spring.

The Paul R. Collier trophies offered for baseball and tennis competition in the Interscholastic League last year have arrived at the donor's store on East Front street and he will make the presentation to the respective winners sometime in the near future.

Last year Plainfield High School won the Collier baseball trophy and the Leal School tennis players captured the loving cup in that branch of sport. Owing to a delay at the factory and the donor was not able to procure the awards before the closing of the school terms last spring and the presentations were accordingly postponed until fall.

Both loving cups are handsome prizes and ones which the winners may well be proud of. The baseball trophy is particularly handsome and will be a fine addition to the collection of prizes already on exhibition in the Plainfield High School case. This is the second time the Ninth street athletes have been successful in winning a cup offered by Mr. Collier, who by the way is a P. H. S graduate and former well known athlete in scholastic circles.

DEAF MUTE SPORT NOT FOR FAIR SEX

Despite the Fact That They Had to Keep "Mum" N. P. H. S. Girls Triumph.

Encountering strong opposition the North Plainfield High School girls team was triumphant in their first basketball game of the season, defeating Flemington H. S. by the close margin of 10-7. The locals were hard pressed to the end, Miss Burtis shooting the winning basket in the last few minutes of play.

The winners were handicapped by their surroundings, the contest being played on an open air court, which was graded with gravel. A large number of fouls were also called on the borough girls for talking, the referee enforcing this rule strictly, the visitors not being accustomed to these strict tactics.

The contest was divided into three ten-minute periods and the playing of the borough sextet was encouraging for this time of the season, as only three practices had been held previous to this, and Miss Barnard, the N. P. H. S. coach, was highly pleased over the showing of her proteges.

The scoring was limited, both sides being represented by strong guards, the forwards finding difficulty in secuding a free shot. Miss Burtis, with two field goals and two fouls, made six of the points, while Captain Lillian Spencer contributed two field goals.

The score:

AEROPLANE RUFFLES "MATTY'S" NERVES

Giant Player's Golfing Party Broken up by Winged Visitor.

Arcola, Oct. 23.—Maximilian Schmitt, inventor of the Schmitt tractor biplane, gave "Christy" Mathewson, pitcher for the New York Giants, the scare of his life when he swooped over his head and dropped down on the Arcola Country Club links, at Arcola, yesterday, while "Matty" was deeply engrossed in a game of golf with "Fred" Merkle, the Giants' first baseman.

Mr. Schmitt, who is to be both despatch bearer and bomb dropper in the National Guard manoeuvres at Arcola, in which the "Red" and the "Blue" armies contend, flew from Garden City with his mechanician, P. C. Millman.

It may have been the wind in his ears or the caustic language of both himself and his opponent that prevented "Matty" hearing the machine as it approached. "Matty" had just made a wild hook from the sixteenth tee into the rough, and with Merkle, who had sliced into the scrub on the other side, he was storming down the course after his ball when a dark shadow crossed his path. Not far away is a wood. As the smell of gasolene assailed his nostrils and the wind of the whirring propeller brushed his cheek, "Matty" gave one wild glance upward and, in shorter time than he ever took to make first base, was safely ensconced behind a big tree.

"I thought at first I smelled brimstone," explained "Matty," when he had been induced to relinquish his post in the woods.

"You should be more careful how you address the ball," said his opponent.

"Matty's" nerves were so badly shaken that after several ineffectual efforts to coax the ball toward the hole he gave up and allowed Merkle to play out the seventeenth and home holes alone.

AUTOS COLLIDED.

An automobile owned and driven by Fred Noak, of Garwood, collided with a car drive by a Mrs. Davies, of this city, at Watchung avenue and East Front street, last night. Noak was arrested on a charge of reckless driving preferred against him by Patrolman Joseph Dunlap, and both parties were ordered to appear before Judge DeMeza, in the city police court, next Saturday morning.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH
Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.—Adv.

CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Notice of Sale of $145,000.00 4½% Joint Sewerage System Bonds.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on the first day of November, 1915, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., the Common Council of said City will receive sealed bids for the purchase of the following described bonds of said City.

One Hundred and Forty-five Joint Sewerage System Bonds, $1,000 each, dated April 1st, 1914, and maturing, $5,000.00 annually on the first day of April in each of the years 1940, 1941 and 1942; $14,000.00 on the first day of April, 1943; $15,000.00 annually on the first day of April in each of the years 1944 to 1950, both inclusive, and $11,000.00 on the first day of April 1951. The bonds will be coupon bonds with the privilege to the holder of registering the same, either as to principal alone or as to both principal and interest, and will bear interest from October 1, 1915, at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually. Both principal and interest will be payable in gold coin of the United States of America of the present standard of weight and fineness.

All proposals should be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk, Plainfield, N. J., and should be marked on the outside—"Proposal for Joint Sewerage System Bonds."

A certified check for 2% of the par value of the bonds bid for, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, N. J., must accompany each bid. No bid for less than par and interest accrued from October 1st, 1915, will be accepted.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

The bonds will be prepared and certified as to genuineness by the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, of New York city, and said bonds or temporary certificates will be delivered, and must be accepted and paid for by the purchaser, at the office of the Plainfield City Treasurer, on or before December 1st, 1915, at 11 o'clock a. m., unless a subsequent date shall be mutually agreed upon between the purchaser and the City Treasurer.

The validity of the bonds will be approved by Messrs. Hawkins, Delafield & Longfellow, attorneys, of New York city, a duplicate original of whose opinion will be furnished to the purchaser.

Dated, October 4th, 1915.

RESCUED FROM BURNING STORE

Early Sunday Morning Fire Damages the Woolston Building.

'ART' M'GINLEY IS HERO

Patrolman Brings Man and Woman Down Smoke-filled Stairway—Danger of Burning Oils Does Not Deter Firemen—Loss Near $4,000.

A fire that broke out mysteriously in the basement of the Woolston-Buckle building on North avenue at 4:15 yesterday morning, had all the earmarks of a disastrous and sensational blaze, but quick and courageous work on the part of the fire department prevented loss of life or serious loss of property.

Three people were alseep in the building. Their cries for help, the sensational rescue of a man and woman by a policeman, and the imminent danger of an explosion from the big stock of paints, varnishes and oils were thrills that the fire provided for the few who were attracted at the early morning hour.

E. B. Maynard, a colored barber, and his wife were rescued by Patrolman Art McGinley. They were asleep on the second floor when awakened by the clanging of fire gongs and the cries of department chiefs. Their room was clouded with heavy, black smoke when they arose and they found escape down the stirway impossible. Maynard ran to the window and appealed for help to the firemen below. Chief Doane ordered ladders put to the windows to bring down the man and woman, but they were too excited to wait until a rescue could be effected in this manner. They started to work their way downstairs through the stifling smoke, and were met in the building by Patrolman McGinley, who carried them to safety.

Harry Shepherd, a young man who was in the Timbo Social Club, found his way to the ground without help, although almost overcome by the smoke.

Although the fire was in the basement, where the firm's stock of paints is stored, it was quickly extinguished after the department was on the scene. In the face of the danger from exploding paints, varnishes and oils, Chief Doane put six streams of water into the cellar and soon drowned the spreading flames. That there was no explosion is considered miraculous. In addition to numerous one-gallon cans of varnish, small oil receptacles and paint cans there was found a half barrel of alcohol in the basement where the fire was raging.

The total damage was estimated by Chief Doane at $4,000. It is said to be fully covered by insurance. Of this $2,500 is on the building and $1,000 to stock of the Woolston-Buckle Company. The other is damage to the household goods of Maynard and the Timbo Club done by smoke.

That Plainfield's police force was working early Sunday morning was shown by the manner in which the alarm was received at fire headquarters. Two different members of the police department turned in a call at the same time from different places. Patrolman McGinley was probably the first to discover the blaze. He was on North avenue near the corner of Watchung when he smelled smoke. He ran toward the corner of Watchung and Front, telling a negro to remain in front of the fire hall and guide the apparatus when it came out. Because of this the department was able to run two lines from Park avenue and six full streams were flowing in the basement within two minutes after the alarm had been received.

As soon as Chief Doane arrived he ordered a second alarm as a precaution. Knowing the dangerous stock carried in the building he was afraid of an explosion and a subsequent spreading of the flames, but the enormous amount of water from the six streams extinguished the fire before it could ignite the combustibles.

PLANNING FOR REVIVAL.

DR. EATON CALLS WAR BLESSING TO WORLD

Gives Ten Explanatory Reasons for Startling Statement.

That the European war is the "greatest blessing the world has received since the reformation," was declared by the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton Sunday morning in his sermon to the members of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, of which he is pastor. Dr. Eaton is a resident of Plainfield and is well known here.

He gave ten reasons for calling the war a blessing, the first of which was "because it has established in an unanswerable way that our civilization is based on lies." Other reasons were because it would put an end to the whisky traffic, destroy militarism and establish democracy. Dr. Eaton's sermon was published in most of the New York papers of this morning and attracted much attention.

WILBEE'S HEROISM COST HIM HIS LIFE

Former Plainfielder, Who Sought to Save Companions, Dies of Injuries.

After lingering in agony from the time he was injured Thursday morning, Frederick Wilbee, the former well known young Plainfielder, who with two fellow workmen was terribly scalded in the Cott-a-lap factory at Bound Brook, died in the Somerset Hospital, Somerville, Saturday night at ten o'clock. He was absolutely conscious until the end and though everything possible was done for him it was known that his condition was hopeless from the time he was brought to the institution. His relatives had been at his bedside constantly and were with him when the end came. The funeral will be held in St. Joseph's church, Bound Brook, Wednesday morning at nine o'clock, and burial will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, this city.

Mr. Wilbee was born in Plainfield twenty-nine years ago and lived here practically all his life, most of the time in the east end. After being graduated from St. Mary's Parochial School he learned the plumbing trade in the A. M. Griffin shop and for a number of years worked for other local plumbers. A few weeks ago he secured employment with the Cott-a-lap company in its new factory at Bound Brook and two days before the accident occurred in which he received his fatal injuries he was made superintendent. The concern manufactures patented wall fabrics and has also been experimenting in the production of dyestuffs, such as were imported from Germany before the present war began. It was in the dye room that Wilbee and two Plainfielders, John Duffy and James Sullivan, were working last Thursday when a large glass steam guage exploded throwing boiling water and scalding vapor in every direction. Wilbee's death is really the result of his heroism as he noticed that something was wrong with the receptacle and sprang forward to shove his companions out of the way before anything happened. In doing so, he placed himself close to the guage and was literally scalded from head to foot. Duffy and Sullivan were not nearly so badly injured but are still in the Somerset Hospital, where they will probably remain for many weeks.

Mr. Wilbee was twice married, his first wife, Miss Rose Sutterlein, dying about five years ago. His second wife was Miss Fay Smalley, of Bound Brook, who survives him, together with three small children. He also leaves his father, Frederick Wilbee, of Philadelphia, formerly of this city, and two sisters, Miss Helen Wilbee, of Plainfield, a graduate nurse, and Miss Margaret Wilbee, of Philadelphia. The unfortunate young man had been making his home in Bound Brook for some time and was greatly liked in that place as well as in Plainfield, where his untimely death is mourned by hundreds of friends.

BLANCHE JANET JONES.

Blanche Janet Jones, the eleven-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones, of East Second street, died Saturday night, following a brief illness. The body will be taken tomorrow to Wilmington, Del., where the funeral service will be held and the burial made.

WED IN CHURCH OF INCARNATION

Albert Clunan, Jr., Takes Miss Frances M. Phillips, for His Bride.

A RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Ceremony Which Was Performed by Rev. A. W. E. Carrington, Rector of Church, Was Preceded by a Solo by Chas. W. Harrison.

A Brooklyn wedding of interest to many Plainfield people was that of Miss Frances Marguerite Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips, and the late James R. Phillips, of Plainfield, to Albert Clunan, Jr., of Brooklyn. The ceremony was performed in the Church of the Incarnation at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, the rector, the Rev. A. W. E. Carrington, officiating.

An interesting feature was a solo sung before the ceremony by Charles W. Harrison, tenor soloist of the Fifth Avenue Brick church, Manhattan. A reception at the home of the bride's mother, 226 St. James place, Brooklyn, followed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with overdress of silk net in points bound with white satin, a Grecian band of orange blossoms fastening her tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. John T. Whelan, nee Miss Florence Phillips, wore her wedding gown of lace with an overdress of satin in pointed flower effect. Another sister, Miss Edna Phillips, was the bridesmaid. Her gown was of the new orangeade faille with silk net draperies and opalescent trimming. Both attendants carried chrysanthemums, tinted to match the bridesmaids' gown, and oak leaves, which were the color scheme of the decorations.

The best man was John T. Whelan and two college friends of the bridegroom, Thomas J. Farrell and Ford Kurtz, both of Manhattan, were ushers. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Frederick R. Phillips, of Kenneth Square, Pa.

Mr. Clunan was graduated from Cornell in 1912 and is a civil engineer connected with the J. J. White Corporation, of New York. His gift to the bride was a ring, a cluster of diamonds set in platinum. After a two weeks' trip the couple will reside in Flatbush, Brooklyn.

JEREMIAH F. TEN EYCK FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Embarrassed by a lack of funds to meet pressing debts, Jeremiah F. Ten Eyck, of Ten Eyck & Harris, dealers in lumber, coal and grain, Plainfield, has filed an individual petition in bankruptcy in the Newark branch of the United States District Court. Referee Atwood L. De Coster, to whom the case was referred, Saturday appointed Francis J. Blatz, of this city, as receiver.

Mr. Ten Eyck has equities in Plainfield real estate valued at $10,000 and automobiles, horses and wagons, which bring his total assets up to about $12,000. The total liabilities, as shown in the schedules prepared and filed by Philip D. Elliot, attorney for the bankrupt, amount to $10,376. The receiver has obtained an order through his attorney, David Bobker, restraining the Lehigh Valley Coal Company from proceeding with a levy under a judgment obtained against Mr. Ten Eyck.

ALL SAINTS' DAY TO BE OBSERVED AT GRACE CHURCH

The annual parochial festival service is held at Grace church on All Saints' Day, or when the calendar so permits, upon the Sunday immediately preceding or following the day itself. This year All Saints' Day falls on Monday, and in consequence the rector of the church has arranged for a special service on the eve of the festival, Sunday, October 31, at 4:30 o'clock. Special music appropriate to this great festival will be a feature of the service, and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. Mercer G. Johnston, of Trinity church, Newark.

Among the visiting clergymen have been found some of the most prominent men in America, and while the Rev. Mr. Johnston is a close neighbor, he is nevertheless regarded as one of the great speakers of the church. Citizens of Plainfield generally will be cordially welcomed. Seats are all free, but ushers will be at the door to take care of all friends of the church who will care to be present.

ELKS' BAZAAR WILL CLOSE WITH AUCTION

Record Breaking Crowd Expected Tonight When There Will Be Many Features.

One more night of the big Elks bazaar will be offered for the crowds that thronged the club rooms on Watchung avenue every evening last week. In order that articles not disposed of during the six bazaar nights may be sold, there will be an auction sale at the clubhouse tonight, and it is expected that the crowd will exceed that of any previous evening. The same orchestra has again been engaged and dancing will be a feature of the bazaar.

Saturday afternoon the children were entertained when accompanied by parents and the little folks certainly did enjoy looking at the Teddy bears with electric lights for eyes, the big dolls dressed to represent sailors, football players, Boy Scouts and comic ideas, together with the regular line of dollies dressed in all kind of clothing representing every thing from a colored piccaninny to the kind of babies found in the millionaire's home.

The attendance at night was a great tax on the capacity of the Elks home, commodious as it is, over a thousand people visiting the bazaar, which not only broke all records for the week from the viewpoint of attendance, but naturally swelled the receipts far beyond any previous evening. The entertainment committee provided a real treat in presenting Professor Burhns, the accompanist for Mme. Olive Fremstad on her concert tours. Professor Burhns is a resident of Cranford. He received prolonged applause and responded to several encores. Henry Van Blake also sang two very pleasing solos, accompanied by Assemblyman William N. Runyon at the piano.

The various fraternal organizations of the city took advantage of local fraternal night and turned out in large numbers, which was much appreciated by the bazaar committee.

The names of the winners of the door prizes for each night during the week, together with all other prize winners, will be announced this evening. Another big crowd is expected to attend the closing night of this record breaking affair.

IF HE ONLY KNEW WHAT WAS IN IT

Stranger Asked Him to Hold Mysterious Bundle Containing Suit of Clothes.

Carrying a neatly wrapped package at arm's length from his person, Martin J. Snyder, of Dunellen, arrived at the local police headquarters in a greatly purturbed frame of mind at 8:10 Saturday night, explaining that the bundle had been handed to him by a stranger some fifty minutes earlier in the evening. According to the story related by the Dunellenite, he was standing at Front street and Park avenue shortly after 7 o'clock when a well dressed stranger, apparently of foreign extraction, accosted him and asked him to hold the package for a few minutes.

The "few minutes" soon developed into three-quarters of an hour and Snyder became anxious. He had visions of a highly charged German bomb going off under his arm and blowing him to atoms. He finally decided to acquaint the police with the details of the incident and conveyed the package with all precaution to headquarters. When unwrapped with trembling fingers by a police officer it was found to contain a new suit of clothes, which had been purchased earlier in the day from Schwed Brothers. Employes of the latter concern recalled selling the suit and gave a description of the buyer to the police but no trace of the missing stranger has been found as yet.

TAX BILLS MAILED.

DEATH OVERTAKES BENNETT BRITTIN

Plainfield's Oldest Citizen Succumbs After Short Illness at 102 Years.

HAD A GREAT CAREER

Retired Last June to "Live a Life of Leishre"—A Veteran of the Civil War and Hotel Proprietor in His Early Life.

Bennett Brittin, one of Plainfield's best known residents, and one of New Jersey's oldest, died this morning at his home, on West Third street, near Clinton avenue, in his 103d year. Infirmities brought on by advancing years caused his death, following an illness of about a week. The funeral will be held at the late residence Wednesday afternoon and will be private.

Hundreds of Plainfielders were numbered among Mr. Brittin's acquaintances and his snow-white hair and long flowing beard made him a familiar figure on the city streets during his thirty years' residence here. Particularly was this true in the west end of the city, where, until last June, he conducted a pool parlor and tobacco store, retiring on his 102d birthday to "live a life of leisure." On that occasion he was interviewed by a Daily Press reporter and remarked: "I do not expect that my life of retirement will be a long one. Most men who have been as active over so long a period as I have do not last long after taking to the simple life."

Mr. Brittin hailed from Holland stock and was born in Paterson June 16th, 1813. When in his 'teens he engaged in the hotel business at Sixth avenue and Forty-first street, New York city, opposite the Crystal Palace site. When the call to arms was sounded for the Civil War he was in his forty-eighth year but swore that he was but forty-five in order that he might enlist in Uncle Sam's service.

After the war he removed to Plainfield, locating on a farm on Terrill road. A short time later he opened a hotel at Terrill road and South avenue and later sold this place and purchased a similar establishment at Scotch Plains. In 1893 he sold out to "Billy" Lee and opened his tobacco store and pool room at Clinton avenue and West Front street. His pool room was the scene of many a contest between the country's best known professionals and Mr. Brittin was an enthusiastic advocate of the sport. He spurned glasses and his hand was as steady as that of a boy. He was en expert with the cue and educated many of today's best known players in the table game. One of his other hobbies was baseball.

In the west end he was known as the "king of the kids" and furnished baseballs, bats and other paraphernalia to the youngsters. He was recognized as the referee for all juvenile arguments and umpired many ball games for the boys.

He was a prominent figure in Plainfield G. A. R. parades, always covering the long line of march without the least sign of fatigue. In the Civil War he fought with the First N. Y. (Lincoln's) cavalry and was honorably discharged.

His remarkable memory was one of his chief characteristics and he took particular delight in relating events of history happening in the early eighties. At the time of his death, Mrs. Susan DeCastro, a daughter, of Havana, Cuba, was at his bedside, and will assume charge of the funeral arrangements.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. MARY A. COLLINS

The funeral of Mrs. Mary A. Collins, who died Friday, was held this morning from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Sylvester Sharkey, and at St. Mary's church, the Rev. B. M. Bogan officiating. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Father Bogan paid a tribute to Mrs. Collins, who was the oldest member of St. Mary's parish. The Misses Julia and Alice Keely, nieces of the deceased, sang a duet, and Miss Julia Keely sang a solo, "Ave Marie."

The bearers were William McGloin, John Keely, W. H. Sharkey and John O'Brien, Jr. Among the floral contributions were pieces lettered "Sister," "Mother," and "Grandmother."

NEWCORN ACCEPTS LEONARD'S DEFY

Will Have Public Debate on Current Political Issues.

In a recent political meeting at Linden, William J. Leonard, Democratic candidate for Assembly, who spoke in Plainfield last week, challenged William Newcorn, chairman of the Union County Republican Committee, to a public debate on the issues between the two parties. Mr. Newcorn has accepted the challenge in the following open letter:

"In behalf of the Republican candidates I accept your challenge made at a meeting at Linden to debate the issues of the campaign, and will permit you to designate the time and place where such issues can be presented to the public voters of both sides.

"I agree in behalf of the Republican candidates to pay one-half of the cost of the said meeting.

"I await your immediate reply."

MOTHER PUTS END TO ELOPERS' PLANS

Girls' Parent Appears on the Scene and Finds Couple Living Here.

Mrs. Barbara Bouser, colored, of 891 Frelinghuysen avenue, Newark, came to this city Saturday afternoon in search of her daughter, Miss Lizzie Thompson, age nineteen, of 718 Hunterdon avenue, Newark, whom she said was living in Plainfield with a man by the name of Adolph Mays. Lieut. Maurice Higgins was assigned to the case and he finally located Mays living in a boarding house at 304 Richmond street.

It was also learned that the girl was staying in the same house with the woman who kept it. Explanations secured by Lieut. Higgins from the landlady and Mays were of a satisfactory nature and the girl was turned over to her mother and taken back to Newark. Mays said that he was planning to marry the girl and that she was staying with the boarding mistress until plans were completed for the wedding.

WALLACE SERRELL DIES IN THE WEST

Former Plainfielder Passes Away at Willimette, Ill., After Short Illness.

Wallace Serrell, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell, of Plainfield, died yesterday at his home in Willimette, Ill., where he had been living for some time. He was formerly in Chicago and was a commission lumber merchant.

Mr. Serrell was born in Brooklyn, but prior to going west about twenty years ago spent the greater part of his time in this city, the family home being on West Front street, near Plainfield avenue. He is survived by a wife and two daughters; also two brothers, L. W. Serrell, of this city, and George Serrell, of Denver, Col., and one sister, Miss Ella Serrell, of Plainfield. It is the plan to bury Mr. Serrell in this city, his brother, L. W. Serrell, having gone west to take charge of the body.

ALLIES TO FORCE GREECE INTO WAR

Entente Power Demand Decision as to Which Side it Will Aid.

MUST ENTER STRUGGLE

Ex-Premier, Who Favors Armed Support of Allies, Calls His Supporters to Capital—Air Bombs Fire Bulgarian City.

Paris, Oct. 25.—All the entente powers have joined in a new demand that Greece make a definite decision at once as to whether it will support Germany or the Allies, says a despatch from Athens. Ex-Premier Venzelos has summoned all his supporters to the Greek capital. It is practically admitted that Greece will be forced into the war on one side or other by this action.

French Take Trenches.

French war statement:

"In Champagne our troops won an important success yesterday. The enemy had held before his second line position a very strongly organized salient, which had resisted our previous attacks. The southwestern section of this salient rested on the slope north of hill No. 196, two kilometers to the north of Mesnilpies Hurlus, a very important work called La Courtine. The Curtain, which we had just captured in a hot fight. This work had a length of about 200 yards and a depth averaging 250 yards and contained three or four lines of trenches connected with subterranean tunnels and communicating trenches organized for a defense purpose. Despite the strength of this fortified system and the bravery shown by the defenders, our troops succeeded in occupying all of it, after a vigorous preparation with artillery and violent combats. At the end of the day the enemy whose losses were serious, left in our hands 200 prisoners belonging to three different regiments."

Bulgar Town Burning.

Athens, Oct. 25.—Fire set by shells hurled into Dedeagatch by the Allies' fleet is still raging there after destroying a large part of the Bulgarian port, according to reports received from Saloniki. More than 100 Bulgarian soldiers are said to have burned to death when their barracks on the outskirts of Dedeaghatch were destroyed by the first five shells fired by the English warships. The bombardment deprived the Bulgar army of great stores of food which had been gathered at Dedeaghatch.

Big Damage In Bulgaria.

Saloniki, via Paris, Oct. 25.—Aeroplanes from the Anglo-French fleet have bombarded both Dedeaghatch and the port of Lagao on the Aegean coast of Bulgaria, doing enormous damage. High angle guns proved ineffective against the air invaders.

Air Raid On Venice.

Rome, Oct. 25.—The following official statement was issued here today:

"Enemy aeroplanes made three attacks against Venice last night, dropping incendiary and explosive bombs. One struck the Chiesa Degli Scalzi, destroying the ceiling with its painting by Tiepblo. Another incendiary bomb fell in the spire of Piazza of St. Mark, but did not do any damage. Other bombs struck various points of the city with slight damage."

LAY CORNERSTONE OF NEW EDIFICE

Catholics From Many Municipalities Join in Impressive Program at Dunellen.

BIG STREET PARADE

Monster Demonstration Preceded Exercises at New Church—Eloquent Address Features Ceremonies—2,500 Present.

Before an assemblage of fully 2,500 people the cornerstone of the new church of St. John's parish at Dunellen was laid yesterday afternoon by Monsignor O'Grady, of New Brunswick, assisted by Frank McInnery, of Plainfield, the contractor in charge of the mason work. It would not have been possible to have had more ideal weather for the event and this undoubtedly accounted for the presence of the large crowd, numbered among which were numerous outsiders.

The exercises were preceded by a parade of the boys and men of the parish along with a large number of visiting Catholic societies from Plainfield, North Plainfield, Stony Hill, Raritan, Somerville and many other places. Plainfield contributed the greatest number of visiting marchers. The Plainfielders marched all the way to Dunellen behind the T. A. B. Fife and Drum Corps.

The parade started at 2:40 o'clock. At the head of the parade were the borough police, headed by Chief of Police Owen Mohan. Next followed a full band from Somerville which played a program of patriotic airs. The aides to the Chief Marshal, Vincent Monahan, were Richard Ryan, Henry Levins, John McMahon, Egbert Gessner and Louis Wahl. A large body of men and boys followed. Every parader carried an American flag. Dunellen homes were appropriately decorated with the national colors.

Following the parade there was a procession of the clergy, led by the altar boys, from the rectory to the new church and a short service was held before a cross erected where the altar will stand. This service was conducted by Monsignor O'Grady. It was to have been led by Bishop McFaul, but earlier in the day a message had been received from the Bishop in which he expressed his sincere regrets over his inability to be present.

Only those who were fortunate enough to have secured places at elevated points or on the inner edge of the crowd, which literally packed the space between the front of the church and the curb were able to witness the blessing ceremonies. An interesting feature was the placing of a copper box in the cornerstone containing among other things the names of the President of the United States, the present Pope, the present Bishop of the diocese, Bishop McFaul; the pastor of the church and a full account of the ceremonies. In addition to the above several of the current coins of the country were placed in the box.

The speaker of the day was the Rev. Father James Ryan, of New Brunswick. Rev. E. J. Dunphy, the rector of St. John's parish, made a short address before introducing Father Ryan, in which he thanked every man, woman and child in the parish and also those from other parishes for their loyalty and support. He also thanked the men of the parish, who dug the cellar for the new church, and those who loaned their teams and tools.

Father Ryan delivered an eloquent address in which he pointed out that to be a good Catholic one must be a good citizen. He touched on the evils of divorce and set forth very clearly that the Catholic church stood alone, and fought in the open, against the destroying of the home through this evil. He called upon the non-Catholic brethren to recognize the wisdom of this attitude and also showed them that the new edifice under construction meant much for their interest if only for the church's stand as the protector of the home, which, after all, is the foundation of this great and glorious country.

The exercises closed with the band playing the hymn, "Holy God We Praise Thy Name," in which all of the visiting clergy and a great number of the audience joined in singing.

HALLOWE'EN MASQUERADE GIVEN BY B. G. C. CLUB

A Hallowe'en masquerade party was given Saturday evening by the B. G. C. Club at the home of Miss Bernice Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Sumner Smith, of Grove street. The lower floor of the home was appropriately decorated for the occasion with orange and black crepe paper and pumpkins. In one corner of the parlor artistically arranged cornstalks completely hid a stand at which punch was to be had during the evening. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games. At a late hour everybody gathered around a long table and enjoyed a bountiful repast.

Those present were: The Misses Sadie Kuntz, Sarah Watson, Eva Kuntz, Maude Whitford, Blanche Pierson, Dora Whitford, Lillian Johnson, Ethel Lindser, Amy Richards, Elizabeth Kellogg, Jessie Haynes and the Messrs. PARADE WAS SUCCESS, SAY LOCAL WOMEN Suffrage Demonstration the Biggest New York Has Ever Seen.

Plainfield women who marched in the big suffrage pageant in New York Saturday are highly elated over the demonstration and believe that it influenced thousands of votes for the cause. There was a goodly representation of New Jersey suffragists in the parade and Plainfield made a cerditable showing. About 10 women, and some men, from this section marched under the leadership of Mrs. Champlin Riley. They carried a banner which bore the words, "Gained 150,000 votes. Lost nothing."

There were more than 40,000 men and women in the big parade Saturday, according to the statements of the enthusiasts, and even the critics admit that 25,000 marched down Fifth avenue. Some of those who formed at Broadway and Fifth avenue before 2 p. m. were not able to start until almost 6 and stood almost four hours in the cold in order to march.

Veteran policemen along the route who have seen demonstrations of all kinds in their career declared it to be the biggest that the city has ever known.

COMMUNITY CENTER IS ORGANIZED

West End Civic Ass'n Members Favor Plan for Washington School.

The West End Civic Association are putting the final touches on the arrangements for the inauguration of a community center in that part of the city with headquarters in the Washington School building.

The special committee appointed recently by the association to confer with the Recreation Committee, has reported favorably on the project and a temporary organization was effected by the appointment of T. C. Vail as temporary chairman, and William I. Boyd, as temporary secretary, who will act until Wednesday night, when permanent officers will be elected. The following membership committee has been named: Mrs. A. E. Brennan, John J. Praed, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Vail and Arthur B. Jones.

At the meeting Wednesday night it is expected that about twenty members will form the permanent organization. A full quota of officers will be permanently elected and the program of actual work will be arranged.

The Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will meet Thursday night, in the parish house and nominate officers.

Under the auspices of the Woman's Branch Alliance, of All Souls' Unitarian church, a musical will be given at the church at 8:15 o'clock this evening.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cramer, of North avenue, will remove this week to Newark, the former having been appointed manager of a large restaurant. Mr. Cramer formerly conducted a restaurant on North avenue and later on East Front street.

Miss Ruth Tarrter, of Newburgh, N. Y., has returned home after a visit with Miss Edith Bechtel, of Carlton avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard, of West Third street, have returned home after a two weeks' visit with relatives at Chester, Pa.

Halstead C. Compton, and daughter, Miss Mary Compton, of Compton avenue, will leave the first of November for Cromanton, St. Andrew's Bay, Florida, where they will spend the winter at the former's bungalow as has been their custom for a number of years.

The Misses Hazel and Helen Lyon, and Miss Ethel Doremus, of Boonton, have returned home after a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Nash, Jr., of North avenue.

Miss Charlotte Hollowell, of Park avenue, returned home Saturday after a three months' visit with relatives at her former home in Sterling, Ontario, and friends at Montreal, Quebec.

Harry Wierenga, Wesley Dunn and James McDonough, of the local fire department, left by auto this morning for Passaic, where they will serve as Plainfield delegates at the annual convention of the firemen's mutual benevolent association.

Miss Helen Hall, of Springfield, Mass., has returned to her duties as school principal in that city after being called to Plainfield by the illness and death of her father, William W. Hall.

BIG RALLY IN BOROUGH.

Arrangements for a big rally to be held in North Plainfield a few days before the election of November 2 will be made at a meeting of the Borough Republican club to be held in headquarters tonight. The meeting will be called to order at 8 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Indian League.

Volley ball—
Wawayanda, 20; Omaha, 7.
Iroquois, 17; Sioux, 7.

All those men who are interested in the representative basketball team are requested to report in the physical director's office on Wednesday, October 27, at 8:30 p. m. Captain and manager will be elected for the season at this time.

About 200 men listened with earnest attention to a sermon preached by Charles Taylor at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. He took for his text the parable of the supper from the fourteenth chapter of the Gospel of Luke where those who were bidden began to make excuse. Comparing these excuses with those of today he showed how inconsistent were the arguments of the men of today who neglected church-going and Sabbath observance. He closed with a plea for the Christian life.

The first session of the Teacher Training Class for Men will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. An outline of the course by W. D. Murray, leader, will be presented, and John T. Sproull, president of the Coal and Iron Bank, New York, will be a guest of the class and will give a strong talk on the possibilities of teacher training and Bible study.

An important meeting of all the captains who will take part in the coming membership campaign will meet in the building tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, for instructions regarding the plan.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Miss Catherine Aller will be the leader of the Bible class study at 7 o'clock tonight, taking as her subject the "Story of the Acts." A supper for members of the class will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

At 8 o'clock tonight the dressmaking class will convene and at the same hour members of the advanced gymnasium class will gather in the gymnasium.

Tomorrow night from 8:30 to 9:30 members of the association will be admitted free to take part in the recreation work in the gymnasium.

A Hallowe'en party has been arranged for Thursday night in which all members will take part.

PAUL COLLIER ADDRESSES THE ROUND TABLE CLUB

The Round Table Club held its weekly luncheon at the Kensington Hotel today. Paul Collier, the East Front street sporting goods merchant, speaker for the occasion, discussed the advantages of trading at home, both from the standpoint of the buyer and the merchant.

He particularly suggested that the Business Men's Association could do much good by delegating a member of the organization to attend various women's club and addressing their gatherings on the subject and in so doing bring about a closer bond of co-operation bewteen the retailer and the consumer. Leslie R. Fort will be the speaker at the luncheon next Monday noon.

FIRE GONGS TO TAP WARNINGS TO CITIZENS

Two taps on the big fire gongs at Second street and Park avenue and Second street and Watchung avenue mean a warning to drivers and pedestrians. Yesterday, Chief Doane inaugurated the new alarm system which he hopes will prevent accidents at these corners. When an alarm comes into headquarters and the big automobile engine prepares to leave the gongs at both corners will be tapped twice. Drivers of automobiles, carriages and other vehicles and pedestrians should clear the streets going in all directions for a few seconds until they see which way the apparatus is going. This system is in use in other cities and has minimized accidents.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICE.

The evangelistic meetings at the First M. E. church are increasing in interest. Dr. Anderson preached a very effective sermon last night, taking as his subject, "The Conversion of the Ethiopian Church," emphasizing the necessity of earnest search of the scriptures, and the importance of personal helpfulness on the part of Christians in leading seekers after the truth into the light. The chorus choir, with the quartet, led in gospel song, much to the delight of the audience. This feature of the meetings will be continued.

ENDEAVORERS IN CHARGE.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the First Baptist church arranged and conducted the service in the Bible school yesterday morning. Those in charge were: Horace Bunker, leader; Robert Butler, precentor, and Miss Alice Drake, pianist. Miss Mabel Cronce gave a very interesting talk on Christian Endeavor work and Miss Helen Roseberry sang a pleasing solo. Next Sunday the service will be in charge of the missionary committee of the Bible school.

MOTORCYCLIST HURT.

Lester Renninger, of 712 East Second street, sustained injuries Saturday afternoon that necessitated his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital, when his motorcycle was struck by one of the Zeek Baking Company's automobiles driven by Edgar Englund. His hurts consist of cuts and bruises but he will be able to go to his home this afternoon. Patrolman Samuel Kriney placed Englund under arrest and he will be arraigned as soon as the victim's condition permits him to appear in court.

LOCAL DELEGATE PRESENT.

For the purpose of forming a permanent organization commercial teachers of New Jersey met in Central High School, Newark, Saturday. J. C. Evans, of the Plainfield High School, being one of those present. A number of well known educators made addresses during the morning program, among whom was A. B. Meredith, assistant commissioner of education of New Jersey.

GAVE MASQUERADE DANCE.

Walter Bell, of Carlton avenue, entertained twenty-five young friends from this city and Westfield, Saturday night at a masquerade dance party. Many handsome costumes were worn and a most enjoyable time was had by all. The parlor and dining room were appropriately decorated for the occasion and refreshments were served at a late hour.

FIGHT COST HIM $5.

Frank Pope, of 212 East Fourth street, was arrested by Patrolman Martin Welsh at Front street and Park avenue Saturday night charged with fighting and acting disorderly. He was under the influence of liquor. Arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning Pope paid a fine of $5 for his rampage.

FALL RECEPTION.

The T. A. B. society has made elaborate plans for the second fall reception to be given in the West Fourth street hall Friday night, October 29. A four-piece orchestra will furnish music for the occasion and a large committee has been appointed to look after the enjoyment of all attendants.

FOR RECKLESS DRIVING.

Charged with driving his truck in a fast and reckless manner, Alfred Fink, of Newark, was arrested here Saturday by Patrolman Martin Welsh. Arraigned in the city police court this morning he furnished $15 bail to insure his appearance November 1 for trial.

DAVID SHAY IN TOWN, BUT DOESN'T DROP IN

David Shay, a former Plainfielder, who is now manager of the Arcola Country club, came to Plainfield yesterday, but he would have resented an invitation from any of his friends here to drop in on them. Mr. Shay came over in an aeroplane and he did not care to drop, even in Plainfield.

It was his first ride in the air, and he made the trip with P. C. Millman, in a Maxmillian Schmidt biplane. Millman has been flying at the Arcola club for the past few days and he completed his tests there by setting a new world's record for cross country flying.

He made 40 miles with a passenger in 27 minutes yesterday. The aviator has accepted a proposition to take charge of the flying corps of the entire Italian army, and leaves for Italy tomorrow.

POSTMASTER LINCOLN.

What Happened When He Was Called Upon to Square Accounts.

On May 7, 1833, says F. F. Browne in "The Everyday Life of Abraham Lincoln," Lincoln was appointed postmaster at New Salem, Ill., by President Jackson. The duties of the position were light, for there was only one mail a week and the remuneration was correspondingly small.

The office was too insignificant to be considered politically, and it was given to the young man because every one liked him and because he was the only man willing to take it who could make out the returns. He was exceedingly pleased with the appointment because it gave him a chance to read every newspaper that was taken in the vicinity. He had never been able to get half the newspapers he wanted, and the office gave him the prospect of a constant feast. Not wishing to be tied to the office, since it yielded him no revenue that would reward him for the confinement, he made a postoffice of his hat. Whenever he went out he put the letters in his hat. When a person who expected a letter met the postmaster he found also the postoffice, and the public official, taking off his hat, looked over and delivered the mail wherever the public might find him. He kept the office until it was discontinued or was removed to Petersburg.

A small balance due the government remained in Lincoln's hands at the discontinuance of the office. Time passed on and he had removed to Springfield and was practicing law, having his place of business in Dr Henry's office. Meanwhile his struggle with poverty was unabated, and he had often been obliged to borrow money from his friends to purchase the barest necessaries. It was at that juncture that a government agent called to make a settlement of the old postoffice accounts. The interview took place in the presence of Dr. Henry, who thus described it to Mr. Browne:

"I did not believe he had the money on hand to meet the draft, and I was about to call him aside and offer to lend him the money when he asked the agent to be seated. He went over to his trunk at his boarding house and returned with an old blue sock, in which a quantity of silver and copper coins was tied up. Untying the sock, he poured the contents upon the table and proceeded to count the coins.

"The government agent found that the pile contained the exact amount of the draft to a cent and in the identical coins that Mr. Lincoln had received. He never under any circumstances used trust funds."

IT WAS A TOUGH STEAK.

But the Restaurant Man Easily Fixed It When the Kick Came.

It happened in a downtown restaurant. A well dressed—as he always must be to make a good story—young man ordered a steak. The waitress, rather pretty—which qualification she must possess in writing a story of this kind—filled the order, and the young man started in to devour the feast which had been set before him.

The young man had no sooner started in on the steak than he discovered that he had a kick coming, and as the restaurant proprietor passed he stopped him by saying: "I can't eat this steak; entirely too tough. I wish you would see that I get better meats when I come in here."

"Too bad! That steak looks all right. But let me get you another." And the aforesaid proprietor took the steak, the silverware which had been served with it and disappeared. He soon returned with a steak which looked exactly like the first one. The young man picked up his knife and started at his second order. "Hold!" he said as his knife cut it apart without the least effort. The consumer was pleased beyond words, and that he enjoyed the steak was evident, for he left only the plate.

As the reporter passed out he met the proprietor again, and this is what was said:

"That steak was all right, but the girl made a mistake in not giving him a sharper knife. All I did was to put the same steak on another plate and bring him a sharp knife. You have no idea what a difference a sharp knife makes with a steak from a beef of questionable age." — Columbus Dispatch.

CHIMNEY CATCHES FIRE.

A burning chimney in the home of Frederick Waldron, at 808 Hillside avenue, called out the fire department at 1:35 yesterday afternoon. The house was owned by John Abbott. No damage was done.

PREPARE FOR PEACE, AS WELL AS WAR

A Campaign With Three Slogans Launched by American Society.

New York, Oct. 25.—A campaign with three slogans, "America First," "The English Language First" and "Efficiency," has been launched under the direction of the National Americanization Committee, composed of prominent American men and women. Among the workers of the committee are persons of widely separated environments, such as Mary Antin, Thomas A. Edison, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Cardinal Gibbons, John Mitchell, Jacob H. Schiff and General Leonard Wood. The object of the big campaign, which will be spread broadcast over the United States, is summarized in the phrase "internal preparedness." The preparedness aimed at is not only for war, but for peace, and the committee aims to promote the process of welding the immigrants who have come or will come from all over Europe into a more solid American citizenship.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor opened the campaign a week ago at a dinner, where the leaders in the movement formulated their plans and discussed the scope of the big undertaking. It was plain to those who attended that determination is the big factor in the plan, for all the prominent speakers are heart and soul in the movement to solidify the country for peace as well as for war.

One of the principal aims of the committee is to improve the labor situation, to promote the conservation of labor supply and prevent labor wars, also to bring to workmen who are performing the labor of the country the realization that they are important parts of the American government scheme, with duties, privileges and responsibilities.

Citizens' training camps are one means by which the committee hopes to forward its work; training camps where native-born Americans and foreign-born Americans work together for a common ideal. Robert Bacon, one of the leaders in the Plattsburg camp, and an advocate of the new citizen movement, declares that the flap tent is a great Americanizing institution.

Some of the other methods which are to be used in the campaign are night schools, posters urging the American First ideal, which are to be put in conspicuous places, committees to encourage newly naturalized citizens and help them to gain a patriotic interest in their new country, and slips to be put in the pay envelopes of workingmen.

The committee announces its intention to co-operate with schools, colleges, government agencies and the foreign-language newspapers. Influential leaders in each section of the country will organize local committees to extend the work, and already many have volunteered to aid.

Columbia University has added a course of training for adult immigrants in preparation for naturalization. Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, has asked the University of Pensylvania to do likewise, and other institutions are to follow. The night schools are flourishing all over the United States, and the committee will work zealously to extend this service to the immigrants and gain their interest in this free country to qualifications as American citizens.

MEN'S CLUB OUTING ON RANDOLPH FARM

Members of the Men's Club, accompanied by about fourteen of the boys of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, went on an outing Sunday to the Randolph farm near Hillside. Baseball, football, together with other outdoor sports, made the hours fly all too rapidly. A large campfire was kindled and around this all enjoyed a bountiful lunch.

LARGE CONGREGATION ENJOYS SPECIAL MUSICAL PROGRAM

A special program of music featured the evening services in Trinity Reformed church yesterday and attracted a record attendance.

The song service was under the direction of the church quartet, assisted by W. Paulding De Nike, violincellist, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur L. Titsworth as organist. Every number on the program was well rendered and highly appreciated. The quartet is composed of Miss Sara Etta Raybert, soprano; Mrs. Charles Kendall Mason, contralto; Edmund Dorn Young, tenor; Roy Edward Titsworth, bass.

The program was rendered substantially as given in Saturday's Press.

ATTEND PRINTERS' MEETING.

Horace Wood and H. W. Thomas represented the local Typographical Union at the meeting of the State Printers' League held in Newark yesterday. There was a large attendance of printers. There was considerable discussion regarding a report that Deputy Sheriff Warner of Cranford, was alleged of having county printing done without the union label. The matter will be investigated.

"BOY EVANGELIST" HEARD BY MANY

Charles Taylor Peaches to a Large Congregation at Park Ave. Church.

MUSIC IS A FEATURE

Following Sermons a Number Profess Conversion—Services to Be Continued Every Evening This Week Except Tonight.

It was a "Red Letter Day" for Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday. Never in the history have there been two services of such intense interest and impressiveness as those conducted by the "boy preacher," Charles Forbes Taylor. That Plainfielders are waking up to a realization of the power of this young evangelist was evidenced by the crowds that thronged the services yesterday.

In the morning the boy took for his subject, "The Man Who Never Changes." "We live in a beautiful world," said the speaker, "but for all that it is a world of changes. Call the roll of history, and echo answers —where? Nations rise and fall. Science tells us that our bodies change sometimes. How comforting, then, amid the changes all about us, to read about one who never changes, Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever.

"This friend of friends is unchangeable: First, in His character, which has stood the test of over 1900 years. Where are those who tried to pull his good name to pieces—Voltaire and Tom Payne are almost forgotten, but the name of Jesus still lives. Second, He is unchangeable in His power. If He has all power, some people ask, why does he allow sin and disease to exist When God created man, He made him a living soul with will power to say yes or no even in the face of Almighty God; so that if man chooses death and the devil instead of Christ, it is man's own fault. Third, He is unchangeable in His purpose.

"Jesus Christ was sent into the world to bring man back to God, to save him for his eternal destiny; and when Christ died, he left the work of saving souls in the hands of those He had saved.

"Christian," the young preacher continued, "do you know what sacrifice is? God takes people out of our lives and we call that sacrifice. I was offered a big salary for singing on the stage—it would have meant an income many times what my father was earning for his wife and ten children; but because we are Christians, he wouldn't allow me to accept the offer. Some people would call that sacrifice."

As an illustration of genuine sacrifice, the boy related a true story of a drummer boy on the field of battle who was the means of the conversion of a Jewish doctor in the army, whose wife left him and whose mother cursed him for deserting the faith of his fathers; but he held firmly to the purpose of Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever. There was scarcely a dry eye in the congregation as the boy preacher appealed to the audience to turn to God.

In the evening the young evangelist preached on "The Love That Never Changes."

"Jesus loved us in our sin and iniquity, and then washed us with His blood. During the Inquisition of Germany many deeds of torture were inflicted upon the prisoners, one being the contracting walls, which in forty-eight hours crushed the life out of the victims. Our lives would have been crushed out in sin but for the friendly hand of Jesus, who reached down and took hold of us and saved us for time and eternity. Christ was the end of the law for righteousness for everyone that believeth. When Jesus came to this world of sin He brought love with Him. The devil said, 'I'll annihilate love,' so he nailed the hands to the Cross, and the sun hid its face from the earth, and Christ, the friend of sinners, was led like a lamb to the slaughter. He died like a felon, but on the third day He arose, and He not only lives but loves. As I have stood on the deck of a great ocean liner I have watched the matchless painting of a sunset at sea; I couldn't begin to describe it, for I couldn't do it justice. Do you realize how I feel when I try to describe to you the matchless love of God, which is beyond all human comprehension.

"Would that God might give me the tongue to so picture this love that you could not refuse it. How are you going to treat this unchangeable love? There will be men and women in eternity who will cry, would to God I had loved Him, but your day of grace will be past."

The boy closed with an appeal to the unconverted that touched every heart in that vast throng, and when the invitation was given for all who would turn to God, or who would reconsecrate their lives anew to His service, to come down to the pulpit and take him by the hand, nearly half of that immense audience responded.

Charlie Taylor will preach every evening this week with the exception of tonight. No service is held Monday evenings. Tomorrow night his subject will be "Faithful Savings." On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons, his father, Rev. Charles Taylor, will conduct a service at the church from 3 to 4 o'clock. These afternoon meetings are of great interest and many are availing themselves of the opportunity.

BAPTISTS OF STATE CONVENE IN NEWARK

Eighty-sixth Annual Session Opened Today at Peddie Memorial Church.

With an elaborate program bearing such names as Rev. Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, president of Brown University; Rev. Dr. C. A. Barbour, of Rochester Theological Seminary; Rev. Dr. Richard M. Vaughan, of Newton Theological Seminary, and Fred B. Smith, of New York, the New Jersey Baptists will hold their annual convention today, tomorrow and Wednesday in the First Baptist Peddie Memorial church, Newark. The convention will mark the eighty-sixth anniversary of founding of the New Jersey Baptist Convention. The general theme to be discussed will be "The Redemption of the Commonwealth."

The convention, which will be presided over by F. Wayland Ayer, will take up the great theme of redemption under different subdivisions, in which many pastors will take part. Some of the phases to be discussed are "Redemption Through Patriotism," "Redemptive Influence of a Wide and Particular Vision," "Redemptive Use of Education, "Grappling the Redemptive Task," "Waiting for Redemption" and "The Business Side of Redemptive Work."

The convention will be brought to a close Wednesday evening by the observance of a "Young Peoples Night," the principal address of which will be made by Mr. Smith.

The board of managers met this morning at 10 o'clock in the Sunday school room of the church. The Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society met this afternoon at 2:30 in the hall of the Young Women's Christian Association at 55 Washington street, Mrs. S. T. Ford of Chicago, a member of the board and a missionary, made addresses. The State directors of the board are Mrs. A. W. Palmer and Mrs. A. L. Kennelly. The first reunion and banquet of the delegates to the Summer Assembly at Hightstown will be held at the Y. W. C. A. at 6 o'clock Wednesday night.

Today will be given over to the New Jersey Baptist Pastors' Conference. Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson will be president and Rev. Frederick Blaser secretary of the conference. The morning features will be addresses by Rev. Dr. W. B. Matteson, Rev. N. M. Simmonds and Rev. W. D. Thatcher. In the afternoon Dr. Faunce and Professor Vaughan will speak.

Dr. Barbour will speak on "Convention Work As Practical Patriotism" and Dr. Faunce on "The Convention and Evangelizing Force" at the session this evening.

Tomorrow morning the convention will listen to the president's address by Mr. Ayer, at which session Rev. Dr. Charles L. White and Rev. Dr. John M. Moore will also make addresses.

Mrs. Grace Grenell Farmer will speak tomorrow afternoon on "Woman As An Educator." "The Place of Education in Christianity" will be the subject of Rev. Dr. F. W. Padelford at the same session. Dr. Barbour will also speak on "Usefulness Through Education" and D. G. Garabrant on "Our Own Educational Equipment."

Under the subject "Waiting for Redemption," set for Wednesday morning, there will be the following discussions: "The Slavok People," by Rev. Norton F. Capek; "An Italian Colony," Rev. O. Pagano; "An Unchurched Community," Rev. F. W. Overhiser; "Suburban Conditions," Roger Albright.

Following the election of officers, there will be these talks: "Commission on Rural Church," Rev. Paul Hayne; "Commission on Policy," Rev. C. O. Wright; "Social Service," Rev. J. M. T. Childrey; "Denominational Review," Rev. D. E. Lewis.

"The Pastor as a Business Manager for Redemption's Sake," by Rev. R. E. Farrier and "Efficiency Report at Northern Baptist Convention," by Rev. Dr. Hudson, will be features of the afternoon session Wednesday. After adjournment Ivan P. Flood will lead a conference concerning the work of a young people's committee in the local church.

ADDITIONAL CONTRIBUTIONS FOR BOY SCOUTS' CAMP

Dr. George T. Moore, secretary of the Boy Scout Council, announces receipt of $11 more toward the cost and furnishing of the Boy Scout Headquarters, just completed in Terrill road. The latest contributors are F. V. Lawrence, $5; Mrs. T. S. P. Fitch, "Westward," Harvard, Mass., $5, and from Vice President L. M. Leek, of the Boy Scout Council, $1. Contributions are reported of the donation of all the hardware used in the construction of the building by the A. M. Griffen Co., and lumber at a greatly reduced price by the Boice-Runyon Company.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT CANNOT DO

Some interesting lights on the question of government ownership are found in an editorial in The Telephone Review (N. Y.). A letter is published from a telephone subscriber who is an ardent supporter of the theory of government ownership, but who opposes vehemently any step in that direction in the case of the telephone. In introducing this letter The Telephone Review calls attention to a very common, though little-considered fallacy in the theory of government ownership as it is held by many hastily committed enthusiasts. We quote from these editorial remarks:

Not all advocates of government ownership believe in it. Some favor it only because they labor under the misconception that ownership is a function of our government, and that its exercise would be fulfilling a neglected obligation which private interests have usurped. Experience has demonstrated time and again that, when this error was pointed out to them, such advocates have been glad that individual liberty and opportunity are not hampered and handicapped by the Frankenstein theory of government ownership that has been conjured up. They admit the advantages of private ownership under government regulation, such as we now have. The right of the government to such ownership as is advocated does not exist under our republican Constitution; if exercised, it would have to be acquired, by a constitutional amendment, from the people. Moreover, the present property owners would have to be recompensed for their interests.

Other advocates of government ownership favor it only as an alternative to "big business" in private hands, regardless of how big business might become, or how inefficiently conducted, in political, bureaucratic, and expensive governmental hands. And yet, upon looking into the matter carefully, such advocates admit that their arguments do not apply to the Bell system, whose methods and policies have so consistently been given the light of day.

From the letter, which is given in extenso, the following salient statements are especially significant:

"I am opposed to big business. * * * But for years I have had my eyes and thoughts on your concern, and wish to state that I have found nothing to complain of and a very great deal to admire * * *

"I do not believe the Government would give us the quick and efficient service at the cheap rate at which we now get it.

* * * * * * * *

"Government control must involve political control, and that is bad where efficiency is desired. Some may question this statement and name the Parcel Post. If the Government paid for all expense caused by the accepting and delivering of any given package, as a private corporation would have to do, I am quite within bounds in saying there would be a huge deficit. * * *

"When one considers the real service one does receive in this country—the immense number of telephone booths, the instant service as soon as the receiver is removed, I cannot see the least cause for complaint or the least sense in Government control. * * *

"Personally I could only see disorganization with Government control in your branch. I do not believe there is another corporation as large as yours where its thousands of employees do not wish Government control. I cannot see one point that Government could better. If they gave us cheaper rates it would mean one of two things or both—surely both—poorer service—keeping us holding the wire, and a big deficit. The Telephone Company is about the only company I am quite satisfied to find outside Government ownership. I believe the Government should keep its eye on it and see that it does not go out of bounds. I am a great believer in Government ownership, but I believe even the Government can make a mess of some things.

"If you knew me you would marvel that I could write thus, for I do not believe there is anything going that I have not assailed in the interest of the public good. But I have had absolute satisfaction in my telephone service. It has been courteously, silently, quickly, and cheaply administered to me. I am quite satisfied and I am firmly convinced that the Government could not better it."

In acknowledging this letter, T. P. Sylvan, assistant to the vice-president, reveals something of the relation of mutual interest and appreciation which exists between the officials and the employees of the Telephone Company, and which accounts no doubt in large measure for the excellence of the service, which could call forth such a tribute as that given in the letter from which we have quoted. The following passages from Mr. Sylvan's letter illustrate the spirit behind the service:

"The army of 120,000 faithful men and women, constituting the Bell Organization of the country, have been firm in their belief that the service rendered by the organization is in the very best interest of the people.

"To render efficient service over the entire country and to make possible communication from coast to coast, thus insuring the welfare of every section of our country, requires a large organization, or, in other words, 'big business.'

"You may rest assured your letter will be shown not only to the officials but also to the operators who handle your calls, to the accountants and clerks who keep records and render bills, to the men who maintain your lines and instrument, and to all who aid in furnishing your service."

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT

Maish Comfortables

Doctors, surgeons and health specilists throughout the world, all agree that "sound sleep in cold fresh air saves more lives than science." Just as essential, however, is a warm covering, the lighter in weight the better, just so it is warm.

The depressing weight of heavy bed covers is a constant strain upon the whole body, keeping the muscles tense instead of allowing complete relaxation.

The warmth of any bed cover depends upon its thickness and its heat retaining qualities, "but never on its weight."

The beauty of Maish Laminated Cotton Down Comfortables lies in the fact that they are so thick and lofty (therefore warm) and so wonderfully light in weight. They are so delightfully soft and pliable that they cling to the body, even though they are thick. Maish Comfortables are superior to any on the market.

We are showing a complete line of them in Silkoline, Sateen and Seco Silk, ranging in price as follows:

$3.25, $3.75, $5.00, $6.50

THE

Wizard Triangle Polish Mop

Lightens housework. Triangle in shape it gets in the corners, absorbs the dust, cleans and polishes all kinds of floors. The regular selling price of these mops is $1.25. The manufacturers are conducting an advertising campaign and have authorized us to offer this week with every mop sold a 50c bottle of Wizard Polish, a [illegible] tion for 1.25 and you will appreciate the luxury of a perfect fitting corset, giving readily to every movement of the body. Not only at first, but as long as it lasts, your corset will be the same; for a Warner is designed to fit comfortably and to give long wear. Every bone—in fact every seam—is placed to give the wearer ease.

All the Boning is Double—two thin strips in a single cover gives Warner's Corsets the suppleness so necessary, with less possibility of breaking than is possible with any single steel of equal weight.

Then the "Interlinings"—the strips that hold the bones in place. The boning cannot push through or tear the corset, or can it slip from place.

The Cloth Itself is Guaranteed and will stand the strain of constant wear.

INSIDE QUALITY.

You must look deeper than the surface. It is the unseen parts that make the corset right, and only the best is used inside as well as out in Warner's. We guarantee that every pair of Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets WILL NOT RUST, BREAK OR TEAR.

The Shoe Dept.

offers for this week woman's patent leather button dress boots with Louis heels, kid top and light welt soles; black or fancy button. Ask for style No. 5; a regular $5.00 shoe, this week for 3.98 says he is selling Printed Linoleum from 45c to 69c a yard, and Inlaid from 85c to $1.65, and that they are extra good values.

The Carpet Man

Also a discontinued pattern in a high grade 9x12 size Axminster Rug for $25

Sale of Mattresses 10.50 Values for 7.50

Here's a lot of mattresses that we could sell regularly for $10.50 and it would not be asking too much for them; in fact, most stores would get $12.50 for them. They are made of excellent quality elastic cotton felt, covered with satin finished dust proof ticking, made in two parts with Imperial roll edge and weigh full 50 pounds. We bought them when cotton was very low in price and for that reason can offer you this, the biggest and best mattress value of the season.

45TH ANNIVERSARY OF MT. OLIVE BAPTIST CHURCH

The forty-fifth anniversary of Mt. Olive Baptist church and the seventh anniversary of the pastor, Rev. M. W. Vaughn, will be jointly celebrated beginning tomorrow night, when Rev. D. W. Brown, who has been a member of the church for twenty years and who has served as a deacon, will preach the opening sermon of the five-day observance. Mrs. Mary Goosbey, president of the B. Y. P. U., and William Daniels will have charge of the devotionals. Music will be provided by the B. Y. P. U. choir, directed by Miss M. Green.

The program for the remainder of the week will be as follows: Wednesday, preaching by Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor of Shiloh Baptist church. Singing by his choir. Service in charge of Mr. Smith and Mrs. Peter Gordon. Thursday, preaching by Rev. J. W. P. Collier, pastor of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church. Singing by his choir. Services in charge of W. Cable and Miss Effie Jury. Friday, preaching by Rev. D. Y. Campbell, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, and singing by his choir. Services in charge of James Saunders and Mrs. P. H. Brown. Sunday, 11 a. m., seventh anniversary sermon by the pastor. Service in charge of Deacon Board. Deacon J. W. Reed will preside. The afternoon service at three o'clock will be conducted by the Missionary Circle, Mrs. Daisy Jonnson being in charge. At 8:15 in the evening, the forty-fifth anniversary sermon will be preached by Rev. E. D. Crawley, pastor of Mt. Pisgah Baptist church, of Asbury Park.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Another big show is scheduled for the first half of this week. The program beginning this afternoon will include The William Fox Photo-Play production, "The Little Gypsy," starring Miss Dorothy Bernard. A spectacular scene is the burning to the ground of a huge factory. "Neal of the Navy" will be continued every Friday, and a special Mary Pickford and comedy feature will be shown daily. The vaudeville will contain a musical organization of twenty people headed by Cole Santas, assisted by Miss Magna Dahl. There will also be "Billy Bounce's Bounding Circus." This act is a veritable scream, for comedy, and there will be other novel features to make up a delightful entertainment of variety and excellence and clean enough for women and children to enjoy without offending. The "Bazaar" nights every Wednesday are presented for a laugh only, and the management is desirous of keeping same conducted in a refined manner. The toy matinee will be renewed again Saturday of this week, and all the children attending will receive a gift, incidently there will be some novel comedy stunts thrown in to please the "little ones." Last week one of the youngsters was the happy recipient of a "goat."

REV. HUBACH TO SPEAK.

The men of Fulton Street M. E. church, Elizabeth, will have a dinner Friday, November 12, in the chapel. The principal speaker of the evening will be the Rev. F. J. Hubach, of this city, field superintendent of the Elizabeth District of the Newark Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church.

MAYOR CALKINS IS LAUDED.

That Mayor Leighton Calkins has contributed an opinion on the right of free speech in America that is of national interest, is shown in the attention that his letter to members of the Plainfield Common Council on the Pillar of Fire case has created in other cities.

There has long been a question in the minds of lawyers, and even among members of the legal profession, as to the limitations of speech under our laws. The clear logic of Mr. Calkins has done much to bring about a better understanding of the intent of the act which holds freedom of thought and expression to be one of the inalienable rights of American citizenship. In it he separated the right of free speech and the right of public assembly from the right to use public streets and thoroughfares for meetings, and his opinion is called by one legal writer in the New York Post, a "most comprehensive and accurate statement of the law." Mr. Calkins' opinion was printed in full in that paper and has attracted much comment from members of his profession, all of whom agree that it is a contribution of value on the question.

After complimenting Plainfield's chief executive for his intelligent survey of the subject, a writer in the New York paper points out that there are no authbrities in this State to quote from, but that the English laws on this subject have been "uniform and decisive for years." He quotes the following opinion from Prof. A. V. Dicey, who is the most eminent authority on English constitutional law, in support of the stand of Mayor Calkins and the Plainfield authorities:

The notion that there is such a thing as a right of meeting in public places arises from more than one confusion or erroneous assumption. The right of public meeting—that is, the right of all men to come together in a place where they may lawfully assemble for any lawful purpose, and especially for political discussion—is confounded with the totally different alleged right of every man to use for the purpose of holding a meeting, any place which in any sense is open to the public. The two rights, did they both exist, are essentially different, and in many countries are regulated by totally different rules. It is assumed again that squares, streets, or roads, which every man may lawfully use, are necessary available for the holding of a meeting. The assumption is false. A crowd blocking up a highway will probably be a nuisance in the legal, no less than in the popular, sense of the term, for they interfere with the ordinary citizen's right to use the locality in the way permitted to him by law.

THE $1,000,000 BOND ISSUE.

The people should carefully weigh all points at issue before they vote to authorize the State Water Supply Commission to expend $1,000,000 for the purchase of the Wharton tract. A bond act is to come before the voters for their approval at the election on November 2.

The most important point to be reviewed is the fact that members of the conservation and development board, who take over the work of the water supply commission in another year, are opposed to the bond issue. They hold that it would be a waste of money for the State to purchase the Wharton tract at this time, even at a price of $10 an acre. Their reasons have not been detailed in public, in fact one of the best reasons we know for doubting the advisability of the purchase is an evident intent on the part of State officials to evade publicity, but they are entitled to consideration above the retiring water supply commission.

If the new board does not see the need of the purchase the bond issue should be rejected by the people.

While probably everyone in the first ward knows Charles S. Sminck, the Republican candidate for councilman, and any word of praise about him is superfluous, we cannot resist the temptation to again call attention to his particular fitness for the place which he seeks. Mr. Sminck, in addition to having had a most successful business career, is probably as well posted on the whole theory of government as any man in the city. As secretary to former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, Mr. Sminck was constantly on the job at Trenton for six years, and having always been a close student, became one of the best informed men in the State. With due credit to all the other able men in the City Council, we know of no man who would make a better member of that body, and hope to see him elected by a substantial majority one week from tomorrow.

Probably many readers have wondered why the color of the paper used by the Daily Press and other newspapers has changed. The war is responsible. Dyestuffs formerly used to whiten the paper came from Germany, and it has been impossible to get them into this country for some months. The reserve supply being completely exhausted, the manufacturers have been compelled to make shipments of what appears to be an inferior grade of paper, but the only difference is in the color. The condition will probably have to continue until the end of the war.

The Pillar of Fire sect are said to be contemplating an appeal from the decision of Judge DeMeza which sent three of their disciples to the county jail. An opinion such as would probably be forthcoming from the Supreme Court in this case, after all the evidence had been reviewed, would make interesting reading.

This headline was in Saturday's New York Times:

We surely would like to see a 200-pound German soldier in violent combat with a healthy ham.

Sherman's definition of war is well known. We sometimes wonder what he would have said about the job of editing a newspaper during a suffrage campaign!

No one can dispute that the attitude adopted by the suffragists since their defeat brands them forever as game sports.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Palace of the King," one of the most sumptuous screen dramas of the season, produced by the Essanay Company in si gripping parts, will be shown at the U. S. Astor Theatre for the first time in Plainfield today and tomorrow. It is a drama of supreme dramatic tensity and one which ought to please the most exacting film devotees.

Richard C. Travers, one of the handsomest men in films, and Lillian Drew will be seen in the leading roles. They are both talented players, having been under the Essanay banner for several years.

In the production of this film more than 5,000 horses, 50,000 troops, and tons and tons of scenery were used to get the proper atmosphere.

In addition today there will be the usual supplementary program of film features presented with that degree of artistry for which U. S. showmanship is noted.

Homeward-Bound

There's a pine-built lodge in a rocky mountain glen,
In the shaggy-breasted motherland that bore me;
And the west wind calls, and I'm turning home again
To the hills where my heart is gone before me.

Where a lake laughs blue while the dipping paddles gleam
Where the wild geese are following their leader,
Where the trout leaps up from the silver of the stream
And the buck strikes his horn against a cedar.

Contests

No, Mavis, "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Marseillaise," "The Psalms," "Die Wacht Am Rhine," "God Save the King," "The Wreck of the Hesperus," "Gray's Elegy," and "Thanatopsis"—none of these was written as an entry in a song-writing contest, or in response to some editor's hurry-up order for more copy. They bust right out of some old poet's gizzard as spontaneously as the pup yelps when you step on his tail.

Fashions

Fashions were made for men and women.

But women were made for fashions.

Fashion is of man's life a thing apart. 'Tis woman's whole existence, as nobody before ever said sagely.

If a man likes a fashion, he adopts it.

If he doesn't, he kids it a little and it is no more.

But does a jane do that? Poopoo!

Lived there ever a woman with the moral courage to snap her fingers in a fashion's face?

Hardly ever.

And when once a woman has had such courage, she has become as popular as Dr. Mary Walker.

A woman may raise ned about "having to" adopt a fashion, but she never carries her resentment to the point of rebellion, unless she is ready to kiss the social world a moderately extended farewell.

She kicks about a skirt that's too narrow, then puts it on and quits kicking.

She has to, or tear the skirt.

And the smaller the skirt the more it costs.

Fashion comes along and says "Big Skirts," just like that.

She adopts those, and kicks before and after donning the parachute.

But she adopts it.

Moral—There ain't none.

Bad Breath

A COATED tongue is the commonest cause of bad breath. Especially the coating upon the back part of the tongue, which is noticeable in so many people who consider themselves perfectly well. Chronically diseased tonsils and a decayed tooth or two may be the cause of this coating. At any rate, the condition is often improved by scraping off the coating as far back as possible by means of the handle of a shears or some similar blunt instrument.

Chronic nasal catarrh is a factor in a large number of cases. Simple home treatment, both local and general, improves matters considerably. We will be glad to send a letter of suggestions about catarrh to anyone who will send a stamped, addressed envelope with a request.

Digestive disturbances often cause a foul breath. Intemperance, be it in alcoholic beverages or just plain food, causes bad breath by engorging the portal circulation. The portal circulation is the great drainage system of the alimentary canal which conveys the blood through the veins into the liver. Now the veins draining the esophagus, throat, base of tongue and nasal passages, communicate directly with the portal veins. Hence anything which engorges the portal area, such as alcoholic indulgence or over-eating, causes also more or less engorgement of the throat and nose. This interferes with the free function of the mucous membrane, making the mucous glands torpid and inactive, the retention of excretory material producing an odor. Hence diet, temperance, exercise, free water drinking and general measures directed toward the portal circulation will correct the bad breath. Occasional saline catharsis, by means of epsom salts or any other saline preferred, may be useful.

Adenoids in young people and sometimes in adults are a frequent cause of foul breath.

Arterio - sclerosis, chronic low grade Bright's disease, organic disease of the liver itself, organic stomach disease and chronic bronchitis may cause bad taste in the mouth very early in its course and a bad breath as well.

As for mouth washes, in the absence of special requirements which only the physician can recognize, we believe thorough mastication of food and simple cleansing with soap and water, or water alone, is all that is necessary. However, there is no particular harm in using mild antiseptic solutions for this purpose if desired.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Muscular Rheumatism

Please suggest the proper treatment for muscular rheumatism which comes in the back of the neck and sticks to beat the deuce.

Answer—Massage. Turkish bath. Heat applied to the lame place. Omit a meal a day. A saline cathartic every second morning.

Finger Nails Not Poisonous

Are finger nails poisonous if chewed?

Answer—No. Scratches from finger nails cause blood poisoning sometimes by reason of the infective material — germs — harbored under the nails.

THE AEROPLANE

THE aeroplane was invented by Orville and Wilbur Wright in order to give man something to die for after the North Pole had been discovered and the unsafe and insane Fourth of July had gone out of style. Although it is only seven years since the first aeroplane flew over a fence, men are now falling out of them at a height of 10,000 feet and are getting $1,500 a day for doing it. They are sacrifices to the science of aviation and are the first men in history to make a good thing financially out of martyrdom.

It is too early yet to tell whether the aeroplane is to be classed as a vehicle, an exhibition, a weapon or a means of suicide. Sometimes it acts like all four of them combined. It is a delicate affair made of wires, tubing and canvas, is driven by a hurricane produced by a gasolene engine, and is operated by an aviator and a press agent. The aeroplane can fly ninety miles an hour and can remain aloft half a day. It can ascend at any desired speed, but frequently chooses its own speeds in coming down. Until this little matter can be regulated, aviation is not going to become much of a parlor game.

By means of the aeroplane, man has finally gotten the laugh on the attraction of gravitation. He can rise from the ground at will, and can chase eagles, frolic in the zenith, play hide and seek with cumulous clouds and drop cigarette stubs carelessly down on Pike's Peak, as he soars lazily by. He can skim over the forests like a chicken hawk, or can rise from earth so far that a Philadelphia-Boston baseball game below would sound only like a far volcano. But now and then something breaks and then the attraction of gravitation gets its laugh. There is nothing sadder or more tragic than the demoniac laugh of the attraction of gravitation.

Aeroplanes can now be bought for $2,500 cash and the 1916 models show all the latest luxuries of traveling.

But now and then something breaks

They will be purchased in large numbers by young desperadoes this year, but most of us will continue to hang tightly onto Mother Earth with both feet and wait for the introduction of an automobile with a self-stopper attachment.

Aeroplanes do not cost much money to build, and at present, owing to the good nature of city editors who do not change advertising rates for what they print, can be operated very cheaply. But the aeroplane will never become the poor man's toy, owing to the fact that part of the necessary equipment of an aeroplane is a forty-acre field for starting and stopping purposes. Until some means of mounting a 'plane from the curb is devised, they will not be handled by the department store to any extent.

The National Song of Italy

EVERYONE is familiar with the stirring words and inspiriting melody of the "Marseillaise," and the words and music of the "Watch on the Rhine" are likewise widely known, but there are few people in this country, probably, outside those of Italian origin, who know anything about the "Hymn of Mameli," as the Italian national song is called from the name of the gallant lad who composed it only two years before he died, at the early age of twenty-two, from the effects of a wound received in battle.

Goffredo Mameli, the author, as we learn from the July number of Larousse Mensuel (Paris), was the son of Rear-Admiral Giorgio Mameli of the Italian navy, and was born at Genoa in 1827. In 1847 Lombardy and Venice undertook to throw off the irksome Austrian yoke. Young Mameli, who had evinced an ardent patriotism ever since his adolescence, was among the first to take arms in the struggle against the army of Radetski, giving a good account of himself in various battles and later becoming a follower of Garibaldi in the insurrections of that epoch. He was wounded in the leg during the defense of Rome on June 3, 1849, amputation was found necessary on June 19, and on July 6, three days after the fall of the Roman republic, the youthful poet and soldier laid down his life.

"His hymn, animated with the pure ardor of the patriot and the warrior, was at first the song of the volunteers from the plains of Lombardy, then that of the Garibaldians; it then bore the title of Fratelli d'Italia (Brothers of Italy). It was not destined to be forgotten. A year after the death of the poet his works were edited at Genoa with a moving preface written by the patriot, Mazzini. Henceforth the poems of Goffredo Mameli, and notably Fratelli d'Italia, now called the Hymn of Mameli, were learned by heart by the school-children."

The music to which the glowing and ardent words of the poem were set was written by a compatriot of the young poet only five years his senior. This composer, Michele Novaro, was likewise born at Genoa. He lived until 1885 and his graceful and romantic melodies were well known and much esteemed.

The various couplets of the Hymn of Mameli make a direct appeal to Italian patriotism by their references to glorious and memorable events in the history of the nation.

Even persons unfamiliar with Italian cannot fail to be impressed by the ringing melody of these lines, and the forcefulness imparted by the skilful use of repetition and inversion. A literal translation is as follows:

"Brothers of Italy, Italy is aroused,
With the helmet of Scipio she binds her brows.
Where hideth Victory? Let her bare her head,
For the slave of Rome, God hath created her.

Repeat:

Form now the cohorts! We are ready to die!
We are ready to die! For Italia calls us!
Form now the cohorts! We are ready to die!
We are ready to die! For Italia calls us!
Yes!"

An Independent Contractor

Q. Kindly tell me what is meant by an "independent contractor."

A. An independent contractor is a person who, in doing work or performing services for another, is engaged in an independent calling or employment and who makes use of his own methods, or the methods of the particular calling, and is answerable to his employer only for the results accomplished.

A Negligent Act—Fraud?

Q. Please tell me whether a careless or negligent act is ever considered in law as a fraudulent act.

A. Carelessness or negligence does not of itself constitute fraud. However, if there is gross negligence, it may afford evidence leading fairly to an inference of fraud.

Imposing On The Kid

Q. A boy under legal age bought some clothing and agreed to pay a price which is really exorbitant. Is he liable if he fails to pay this price?

A. No. He will be liable for the actual value of necessaries furnished him.

Child Labor

Q. Doesn't the law forbid the employment of children in dangerous occupations?

A. There are statutes of this character.

To Protect The Tracks!

Q. Are railroads required to fence their right of way and instal cattle-guards?

A. Varying statutory provisions on this subject are found in the different states.

To The Sausage Factory

Q. What are the provisions of the law as to impounding animals found running at large? May such animals be sold in order to defray the cost of advertising them?

A. This is a matter of statutory regulation in the various states. Frequently, there is a provision that the animals may be advertised and, if not reclaimed within a specified time, may be sold to satisfy the charges and expenses incurred.

His Legal Rights

Q. If one is exercising his legal rights, can he be held responsible in case of damage to another person?

A. If he is exercising such rights properly, and without negligence or inattention or carelessness, he will not be liable if there should be some damage to another.

Hotel-Keeper's Liability

Q. Isn't it true that in some states that a hotel-keeper's liability is limited to a certain amount, no matter whether the property of the guests is given into his special custody or not? A. Yes, in some states.

Holdbackers

Ever notice a balky Horse? Ever notice how he just foolishly looks around himself, bites his bit—and absolutely refuses to go ahead or to be led or driven? He is a fit representative of thousands of Human Beings—and with but a fraction of their sense!

One of the great sources of inspiration in this world is a Human Being who doesn't bite his bit or hold back.

You, whose brain has evolved a great organization—you know the joy that springs up out of the consciousness that those who work under your direction not only take the bit in their teeth, but go ahead and pull the load. Also, you know the tremendousness of Worry and Weight that results from trying to pull an organization of Holdbackers.

The cheerful, smiling Puller is the fellow that Delivers the Goods.

If you can't Pull and if you can't Push, then for the sake of Yourself and for the sake of the Organization in which you find yourself, get out of the way and let the willing Winners have their way. No man ever Held back in any Enterprise or Crowd or Business without first becoming a Holdbacker against Himself.

If people look upon you as a Holdbacker, begin this minute within Yourself to change "the Map." Get in place. Do your share. Pull with the rest. You will have no idea—until then—of what a Fool you were as a Holdbacker. You will become the "Corner-stone" of Efficiency.

Sale of Lands for Unpaid Taxes

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, will on Wednesday, November 3rd, 1915,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the said Collector's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said city, expose for sale and sell the several tracts or parcels of land hereinafter specified, or any part or parts thereof severally sufficient for the purpose, on which taxes for the year nineteen hundred and fourteen remain in arrears, to such person or persons as will purchase the same for the shortest term and pay the tax lien thereon, including interest and costs of sale, or in fee where no one will bid for a shorter term.

This sale is made under the provisions of the act of the Legislature of this State entitled: "An Act for the assessment and collection of taxes," approved April 8, 1902, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the land to be sold, as shown on the City records, may be obtained at the office of the subscriber any week day prior to the day of sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The following is a list of the several tracts and parcels of land to be sold, which shows the names of the delinquents, the supposed owners thereof as the names of the delinquent owners appear on the books of the taxing district, together with a statement of the wards of the city wherein said lands are respectively situated, and the street in which each lot is situated, the block and lot number of each lot as they appear on the Official Assessment Maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, and the amount due from each of the said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot and parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest from the twentieth day of December, nineteen hundred and fourteen, to the day of sale, and the fee provided by said act of the Legislature, viz.: for preparing and publishing notice of sale twenty-five cents for each parcel of land advertised; and for selling twenty-five cents for each parcel sold; and for each certificate of sale, fifty cents, besides necessary disbursements for printing, postage, affidavits and acknowledgements, which are hereby estimated at three dollars for each item of arrearage, and the City Clerk's fee for recording report, ten cents for each parcel of land sold, and all said fees and expenses shall form part of the tax lien and be paid by the purchaser at the tax sale.

Sale Number.	Supposed owner or person to whom assessed.	Ward.	Block No. City Assessment Maps.	Lot No. City Assessment Maps.	Street or Avenue.	Year.	Amount of Tax.	Date from which interest will be added to date of sale.

P. H. S. HAD CLOSE CALL AT BATTIN

But Locals Managed to Take a Brace in Final Quarter and Come Out Ahead.

FINAL SCORE 9 TO 7

Plainfielders Not in Their Usual Good Form—Noonan Boots a Field Goal—Battin Man Makes Long Run for Touchdown.

Managing to retain the season's clean slate of victories, but playing on the whole the worst game of the season, the Plainfield High School warriors gained a 9 to 7 decision over Battin High School at Elizabeth, Saturday afternoon. After a pretty drop kick by Noonan from the twenty-yard line in the first five minutes of play, which netted the Red and Blue a three point lead, the locals seemed to go to pieces, and in the third quarter allowed Davidson, Battin's quarterback, to intercept a forward pass and run through the whole team for fifty yards to a touchdown. Captain Pennock's charges seemed to get their bearings for the time being in the last quarter and made a touchdown. In four minutes of brilliant playing the P. H. S. eleven again carried the ball to Battin's three-yard line, but the whistle robbed them of another touchdown.

Battin kicked off to open the game and after being in possession of each side on fumbles during the first few plays, end runs by Apgar and Daniels took the ball to the twenty-yard line, where Noonan booted it over the posts for a field goal. Fumbles by both sides gave both backfields a chance to carry the ball all over the field. By completing a twenty-five yards pass, Peacock to Davidson, Plainfield was in a fair way to acquire another touchdown, but the necessary punch was lacking and the end of the half found the ball in midfield.

The second half started with Plainfield seeming to still be at sea. Several times the ball was carried to Battin's thirty-yard line only to be lost by a fumble or downs after two or three passes in succession had failed. Near the end of the third quarter Peacock winged a pretty forward pass to "Sammy" Davidson, but his Battin namesake, who overtopped "Sammy" by over a foot, outreached him and carried the pigskin half the length of the field for a touchdown. Woodruff kicked the goal just as the whistle blew.

Shortly after the fourth quarter opened several end runs by Apgar and Daniels, coupled with line plunges of several yards each, pushed the ball over for six points, but Apgar failed to kick the goal. Peacock made the touchdown on five yards through centre. At this point the local eleven started going and after getting the ball on a fumble started a march the length of the field that couldn't be stopped. Daniels had carried the ball to the three-yard line on a fine plunge as the whistle sounded. On this last play Daniels received a twisted ankle as the whole Battin team was trying to haul him down.

In their individual efforts the Queen City boys appeared to be playing a good game, but inability to get any sort of team work or punch when it was wanted proved nearly disastrous to the championship aspirations of the Plainfield High School. Miller had to retire from the game in the first few minutes by a troublesome ankle. Noonan received a terrific crack on the head in a plunge through the line during the last half, but continued the game and showed some great playing, although he was dazed for several hours after. Woodruff, at fullback, did most of the groundgaining for the losers.

RUTGERS TO TAKE UP SOCCER.

Soccer football will be made an intercollegiate sport at Rutgers this fall, and as soon as the football season is closed the members of the squad will be started in on soccer. Nash and Toohey have had experience in the game and will make a good nucleus for a team. Games are being arranged with Princeton, Yale and other colleges.

ELKS SENIOR LEAGUE BEGINS BOWLING TOMORROW NIGHT

The Elks' Bowling League for the season of 1915-1916 will get underway tomorrow night, when the Rahway quintet and the Elizabeth bowlers are to meet at Elizabeth. Thursday night four more teams will get into action. The New York team will bowl at Rutherford and the Plainfields will oppose the Jersey City five at Jersey City. The Newarks were scheduled to open the season Thursday night at Hoboken, but the match has been indefinitely postponed. The opening contest, which was scheduled for tonight, between the Paterson and New Brunswick teams, has also been postponed.

The first match for the Newark lodge team will be rolled Friday night, November 5, when the Jersey City Elks' five will compete against the Newark pin knights on the Newark alleys. The Newark team will be composed of Howard Williams, Dick Erler, Louis Van Ness, Jack Speary and Billy Weingarth.

WRESTLERS TO STAGE "SPITE" MATCH TONIGHT

The animosity that has arisen between Waldek Zbyszko and Alexander Aberg, the giant wrestlers, who are to meet at Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight, in a struggle for the world's championship, was intensified Saturday, when the champion refused to meet his challenger to pose for a photographer.

The engagement had been made at George Bothner's new gymnasium at No. 250 West Forty-second street. Zbyszko, brown as an esquimau and good natured as a schoolboy, was more than willing, but Aberg sulked and refused to appear.

The feeling between the two has reached a stage that gives promise of more than an ordinary struggle when they meet on the mat.

HOLY CROSS WINS FROM FIECONES

Fast Contest Played on Local Field Saturday Afternoon.

FINAL SCORE 20 TO 6

Cross Players Gain Repeatedly Through the Visitors' Line—One Armed Half Back Proves Wonder on Offensive.

The Holy Cross pigskin booters defeated the Fiecones, of Brooklyn, Saturday afternoon, in a well played game, filled with plenty of thrills, and featuring long runs and forward passes, by a score of 20 to 6.

All the scoring was done in the first half and in the second period both teams fought desperately and although the Fiecones worked the ball to the Holy Cross seven-yard line they were unable to score.

Carlin, the one-armed wonder, played great football and on three occasions circled the Holy Cross ends for good gains. Polglase was the star performer for the visitors and he displayed remarkable ability in using the forward pass and running the team. In the second session, Brown, a local boy, replaced Donahue, who was injured and played remarkable football. The game started by Rohrig kicking off to Manning, who fumbled the ball, but Wilson recovered it and was downed in his tracks. Wilson, Manning and Barto carried the ball to midfield on line plunges, and on the fourth down with two yards to gain, Wilson broke through the line and ran to the eight-yard line before he was downed. Jack Ricketts carried the ball over on the next play and Wilson missed the goal.

Manning kicked off to Polglase, who ran the ball back twenty-five yards before he was brought to earth. On the next play Polglase threw a beautiful forward to Matthews, who ran sixty yards for a touchdown. Rohrig missed the goal. Clark received the kickoff and ran the ball back fifteen yards. Clark made seventeen yards around end and with the ball on the Holy Cross forty-yard line Wilson again broke loose and ran down the field for Holy Cross' second score. Wilson managed to throw off four tackles on his run. J. Manning kicked the goal. He kicked off to Rohrig on a shift play, and the Fiecones made it first down, but on the next attempt Clark spoiled the play for a fifteen-yard loss. Fiecones lost the ball on downs on their own thirty-yard line as the quarter ended. On the shift play Holy Cross carried the ball to the seven-yard line, where Manning added three more and Wilson carried the ball over for the last score of the game. J. Manning kicked the goal.

Fiecones received the kickoff and Carlin, the one-arm wonder, pulled two beautiful end runs, netting thirty yards for his team on an attempted forward. Ricketts and Clark threw Bronson for a ten-yard loss. On the same play, Wilson broke through and nailed Polglase for another loss of eight yards. Rohrig punted over Wilson's head but T. Ricketts recovered the ball and made ten yards. J. Ricketts threw a forward which Brownson captured and it was Fiecones ball in midfield when the half ended.

Manning kicked off the ball to start the second period and on the first play Holy Cross were penalized five yards for off-side. The visitors could not gain, however, and Rohrig punted to Wilson. Manning and Wilson made it first down but on the next play Wilson fumbled and Baum recovered the ball on Holy Cross' forty-yard line. Polyglase threw a long forward to Carlin, who caught the ball with his one arm and ran to the Holy Cross ten-yard line before he was downed. Rohrig added three more through center and it began to look like another score for the visitors but the ball went to Holy Cross on an uncompleted forward and Clark punted out of danger as the third quarter ended. Both teams were now fighting man for man and after three attempts to use the forward Rohrig punted to Wilson on Holy Cross' forty-yard line. A forward to Caulfield failed, but T. Ricketts caught the next and made fifteen yards. The old split play was tried out and Manning reeled off seventeen yards, but on the next attempt Holy Cross were penalized fifteen yards for not having seven men on line. Holy Cross lost ball on the visitors' twenty-five yard line. Glover broke through and downed Polglase for a fifteen-yard loss on an attempt forward. Rohrig, standing behind his own line, punted to midfield as the game ended.

The lineup:

Holy Cross.	Fiecones.

RALPH RUNYON STAR OF COLLEGE TEAM

Plainfield Boy Hailed as a "Find" at Pennsylvania State.

Ralph Runyon, who as a student at Plainfield High School last year, brought many points to the Red and Blue track team, is being hailed as a "find" at the Pennsylvania State College, where he is a freshman. Already they are beginning to figure out just how many points he is to mean in the intercollegiate meets during the coming winter and spring.

He is out to fall practice with nearly seventy-five other candidates and according to reports, is clearing the bar better than ever in the pole vault, and is improving in the broad jump. Unless prevented by injury it is practically certain that he will sport the Red and Blue of Penn State in coming meets and with success, as there is not over one or two looming up in the college horizon that can be expected to give him a hard run. When at his best at the local High School he has done as well as 11 feet, 3 inches, and with the careful coaching he will receive should better that by nearly a foot.

He will be a loss to the Pastime A. C., of New York, under whose colors he has competed successfully in a number of metropolitan meets. Although his specialty has been in vaulting, he has been able to do creditable work in the broad jump and during this year intends to branch out along that line as well.

K. C. BOWLERS TO OPEN SEASON NOV. 9

The Knights of Columbus Bowling League will open its season on Tuesday, November 9, with the Star of Bethlehem Council team rolling the Bailey Council five, of Elizabeth, at Elizabeth.

Nine councils will surely be represented in the league and there may be ten teams in the circuit. The New Brunswick Council will say tonight whether or not it will enter the league. The teams that are in follow:

Newark, Star of Bethlehem, Olive, Bayonne, Ascension, Jersey City, Hoboken, Plainfield and Elizabeth.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, William O'Leary, of Bayonne; vice-president, Joe Sullivan, Newark; treasurer, George E. Howe, Plainfield; recording secretary, John Hastings, Elizabeth, and financial secretary, Charles Dwyer, Star of Bethlehem.

YALE LOSES MORE MEN BY INJURIES

New Haven, Oct. 25.—To add to the gloom which has been in evidence in the Yale football camp for some time, it was learned last night that "Mal" Scovil, the backfield star, had suffered a broken nose in the Washington and Jefferson game. He will probably be unable to play any more this season. Scovil's injury came early in the game, but he said nothing of it, and later made Yale's only touchdown. Hiss loss is a severe blow, especially as he had taken Legore's place, following the latter's disqualification.

The Yale coaches no longer attempt to conceal the seriousness of the situation. More coaches are expected here soon, and a conference will be held to consider future plans.

Other injuries received include a cut forehead by Way, a wrenched shoulder by "Club" Sheldon, and a muscle bruise of the leg by von Holt.

—It there's a new owner in charge of the little store down the street, the chances are that a "Business Opportunity" advertisement has been "at work."

BASEBALL KILLED FIFTY-NINE PEOPLE IN THE PAST YEAR

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Statistics compiled by a Chicago statistician show that fifty-nine fatalities were attributed directly to baseball in 1915. The report shows that thirty-eight of the fatalities were caused by being hit on the head by the ball direct from the hands of the pitcher; six players were killed in fights during or after games; six died of over-exertion, and three from collisions.

Injuries showed a slight decrease over the preceding year, 7 per cent. of the players in organized baseball having been injured during the season.

POLITICAL NOTES.

October 26—Third and final registration day in municipalities of less than 5,000 inhabitants.

November 2—General Election Day.

Plans for a whirlwind finish to the county campaign have been made by the Union County Democratic Committee. A tour has been prepared for the Assembly candidates, who will be assisted by some selected Democratic spellbinders as well as some of the freeholder aspirants. The list of challengers for the election has been approved and final arrangements made to get out a big vote on November 2. The itinerary for the Assembly candidates is as follows: Tonight, two local meetings at the Seventh Ward Democratic Club, in Miller's Hall, and an open-air gathering at Second street and Inslee place, Elizabeth; tomorrow night, two meetings in Plainfield, at North and Park avenues, and Madison avenue and Front street; Wednesday night, Roselle and Westfield; Thursday, Kenilworth and Cranford; Friday, Springfield, Union and Hillside, and Saturday, Linden and Rahway.

Democrats all over the State have been startled and somewhat shocked by an announcement made by Dan Fellowes Platt, former Mayor of Englewood, in Bergen county, and at present a member of the Democratic State Committee, in which he bolts the Democratic freeholder ticket and pledges his support to five Republican candidates. Mr. Platt's action will no doubt defeat the Democratic ticket and Bergen County Democrats are roused to a considerable degree over the incident. Platt's action came as a result of the refusal of all but two of the Democrats to agree to turn the county engineer, Ralph D. Earle, out of office if elected. Platt has waged bitter war on the county engineer and as the Republicans agreed to make a clean sweep, he threw his support to them. An attempt by State Senator Charles O'Connor Hennessy to avert the break failed.

John J. McGovern, chairman of the Hudson County Democratic Committee, a Wittpen follower, has informed the county committee that all was quiet in the Democratic ranks in Hudson and that all talk of an agreement between the Republicans and the Kinkead Democrats was nonsense. McGovern could see nothing but harmony in the last week of the campaign, but the Kinkead forces are pointing out the old maxim that: "None are so blind as those who will not see."

PROBE TELEPHONE RATES.

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—Today the Railroad Commission will begin an investigation of the telephone rates and regulations throughout the State. The complaint of the city of San Francisco concerning telephone charges is the basis for the inquiry. The Pacific Telephone Company has also asked for an examination of rates and regulations, and for the making of such changes in these as "shall be necessary to return to the company a fair interest on its investment." The city alleges that the rates are now and for a long time have been excessive. The company has made complete inventories and appraisals of its exchanges and will present to the commission its views on the telephone service and charges. The city will present an outline of charges paid by subscribers for telephone service in cities where there is competition.

SCORES IN FIVE BACK TOURNEY NOW UNDERWAY AT PARK CLUB

Some good scores were made in Friday evening's play in the five-back tournament of the Park Club. This tourney is well underway now, and is one of the most exciting of the many bowling events of the season. New handicaps are made up after each night's play, which adds to the individual competition.

Points for the Evening.

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Someone has suggested a match between the Plainfield High School outfit and the Holy Cross eleven for Thanksgiving Day. Several years ago these two organizations were a pair of the keenest rivals in this section of the State, but the sudden rise to fame of the club clan and the fact that the schoolboys appeared to be getting lighter each year caused a lull in the annual excitement. Such a game for this fall, however, is not to be scoffed at for the P. H. S. youngsters can be relied upon to hold their own even against a heavier and more experienced foe.

When the Plainfield Elks engage in their initial Senior League bowling match this year the faces of two old favorites, tried and true reliables, will be missing from the battle front. In former Captain V. W. Nash, Jr., and Johnny Campbell, the "father of the Senior League," the Plainfielders had a pair of pinners who were the last work in consistency and efficiency and we're willing to bet a key-hole to a door-knob that the leader of this year's outfit will have the time of his life in priming a pair to fill their shoes.

Keeping abreast of the policy that has made him a well known figure in Elks' bowling circles, V. W. Nash, Jr., the retiring captain, has come forward with the suggestion that the opening series be dedicated to Johnny Campbell in the form of a "Campbell night." This magnanimous proposition coming from one who is just as deserving of the unique honor as the one he suggests it for, is worthy of more than passing notice and the Plainfield "Bills" should get together and make it a "Campbell-Nash night."

In another week we will have the basketball "bugs" with us again. November 3 has been set as the opening date for both the North Plainfield High School and P. E. G. S. combines, the managers of the respective aggregations having come to an agreement right off the bat. Both squads are developing teams that are the last word in speed and the initial tilt should prove just a little above par for the early season sport.

One of the fair maidens of the P. E. G. S. combine was heard to remark the other day that the Pegs would be so fast that other teams wouldn't be able to catch their manager to book games. It's good policy not to blow the bugle too loud at the start-off, you might frighten all the other birdies away.

LEA[illegible] SIN[illegible] IN [illegible]N RACE

Captain Buck.

Wisconsin has not yet been eliminated from the race for the western conference championship, but a crucial test is promised Saturday when the Badgers meet the strong Ohio State eleven. The Wisconsin team is lead by Captain Buck, who starred in conference games last year.

CLASS MEETS AT P. H. S.

A class in reading music at sight will meet at the Plainfield High School tonight under the direction of S. Frederick Smith, supervisor of music in the borough schools. The class is especially arranged for teachers and singers who wish to improve their ability to read and teach music.

STATE NURSES' ASSOCIATION MEETS IN HACKENSACK NOV. 2

Hackensack, Oct. 25.—The eighth semi-annual meeting of the New Jersey State Nurses' Association will be held November 2 in Oritani Hall. Rev. Dr. C. R. Kuebler will offer the invocation, after which the address of welcome will be given by Mayor Milton Demarest. Miss Elizabeth Highbd, first vice president of the association, will make the response.

Reports of the secretary, Miss Ingeborg Praetorius, of Summit, and the treasurer, Mrs H. W. Church, will be read. Miss Jennie M. Shaw will report for the State Board of Nurses' Examiners. Miss Arabella R. Breech will make the president's address and Bertice M. Druge will report as a delegate to the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The afternoon program will be as follows: Address, Dr. J. E. Pratt, public health session, with Miss Annie MacKay presiding; paper, "Hospital Social Service," Mrs. A. S. Humphreys, of the social service department, Bellevue Hospital, New York, discussion, Miss Phebe Hill, social service nurse of the Paterson General Hospital, and Miss Lillian Hobart, social service worker connected with Orange Memorial Hospital; report of delegate to the American Nurses' Association, Miss Marietta B. Squire.

PERSONAL.

Harry Kress, who has been detained at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past two months, was taken to his home in Brooklyn Thursday and is said to be improving.

Samuel Townsend, of Myrtle avenue, has returned home after some time spent at New Suffolk county, N. Y.

Miss Frances Newman, of Duer street, has returned home after a visit spent with her cousin, Miss Margaretta Kress, of Brooklyn.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 48 degrees; 11 a. m. 56 degrees; 1 p. m., 59 degrees.

The Earning Power of Money

is what makes men and women wealthy. Your money is capable of earning 4% compound interest, provided you put it to work in our Special Department, but remember that with money, as with men, it is steady employment that brings results.

On an account opened before November fourth, interest will commence from the first. Why not let your idle funds take advantage of this opportunity.

A WISE MAN JUST SAID

My advise is to buy only the best kind of insurance, for these pieces of paper that you receive in exchange for your good hard cash today may be your only assets tomorrow. Buy your insurance of the agents who live in your town representing the best companies, then in case of loss you will have some one to call upon to adjust it with you.

This is sound advice, given by one of the biggest business men in the country.

SCHOOL IN NEED OF FIRE ALARMS

Pupils in Parts of Somerset Street Building Are Not Protected.

NO ACTION IS TAKEN

Borough School Board in Session Until Midnight—1,215 Students Enrolled in the Four Buildings—Routine Business Transacted.

There were 1,215 students enrolled in the schools of the Borough of North Plainfield yesterday, according to the report of Prof. D. Fred Aungst, supervising principal, submitted at last night's meeting of the Borough Board of Education. The meeting was held in the office of the Somerset School, and was attended by every member of the board except J. A. Van Mater, who is in California. Dr. J. H. Cooley, president of the board, presided.

The session of the board was a long one, many routine matters coming up, and the members were kept in consultation until almost midnight.

Among the many recommendations of Prof. Aungst was that fire alarms be installed in certain sections of the Somerset School, and at once. He reported that since the alteration of the building some parts were without fire alarms. It is possible to hold a fire drill through the use of the clock alarms, but these are controlled from the office of the principal and would not be of service in case of a real fire, according to the school head. He asked that the alarms be installed at once. The Board took no action on his recommendation.

Enrollment in the four borough schools as reported by Prof. Aungst follows: Harrison, 205; Watchung, 242; Somerset, 539; High School, 229.

All of the pupils in the Harrison Avenue School, which was thrown open Monday, were cared for in the Somerset building until the end of last week. The principal reported that the new building was satisfactory to pupils and teachers in every particular. New kindergarten equipment was ordered for it.

It was decided to install a central switchboard in the Somerset School for all of the borough buildings and other schools will be on party lines. This will be done at once.

A uniform spelling book for the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades was adopted.

Because of the bad condition of walks leading to the Harrison Avenue School the Board ordered board walks laid. It will be impossible to lay concrete walks there until the dirt has settled, and in the meantime the children will not be forced to wade through mud to get to their classes.

The building and grounds committee was given authority to elect a new assistant janitor for the Harrison building, to succeed Swendt Brown, resigned. Brown has gone to New York to take up Y. M. C. A. work. The teachers' committee was authorized to select a kindergarten assistant for the Watchung School, and the supervising principal was instructed to submit the name of a candidate who can qualify under the State rules.

A contract for electric lights and power for the new Harrison School was approved.

Bills for the month were audited and ordered paid. These include teachers' and janitors' salaries.

Upon recommendation of Prof. Aungst the Board authorized the purchase of some magazines for the library.

G. A. R. TO ATTEND FUNERAL.

Comrades of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, department of New Jersey, G. A. R., will meet at post headquarters in Reform Hall tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock prepared to attend the funeral of their late comrade, Bennet Brittin, at his late home, 1158 West Front street. The post will have charge of the services at the grave in the soldier's plot in Hillside cemetery.

JEWISH PEOPLE TO MEET SUNDAY NIGHT

Will Enter Protest Against Russian Atrocities in Poland and Russia.

A mass meeting will be held in the Plainfield Theatre next Sunday evening when all Jewish organizations in the city, with their sympathizers and friends, will unite to protest against the atrocities committed by the Russian government against Jewish people in Poland and Russia, and also to discuss various problems that confront Jewish people throughout the world.

Some speakers prominent in national life have been secured for the evening. Dr. Nanum Syrkin, a recognized leader of the Jewish working classes, the Rev. Dr. A. Kaplun, Morris Rothenberg, Stanley Buro, and others will make addresses, in addition to Plainfield men who will be on the program.

AUTOISTS HAVE A LUCKY ESCAPE IN BAD CRASH

Occupants of two automobile touring cars had a lucky escape from injury at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the machines crashed together at right angles at the intersection of West Fourth street and Central avenue. Mrs. William J. Roome, Jr., of 104 Sycamore street, was the owner of one of the vehicles and Fred Endress, of 941 West Sixth street, owned the second one.

The autos crashed together with considerable force and both were badly damaged. The occupants escaped with a bad shaking up. It will require several hundred dollars to repair each vehicle.

SPECIAL POLICE TO PATROL WATCHUNG MOUNTAIN SECTION

Former Assemblyman de La R. Anderson, president of the North Plainfield Township Police Board, is busily engaged detailing special officers to the Watchung mountain section. These deputies will go on duty when the hunting season opens and will have instructions to strictly enforce the "open season" laws relative to trespassing on posted grounds and violating the license clause.

In past years considerable trouble has been experienced by owners of estates in that region with hunters who persist in hunting game on posted districts. The big estates of Dr. Charles Eaton, the Andersons and David T. Kenney are included in the forbidden area.

WALTER HARRINGTON IS HONORED BY CLASSMATES

Walter Harrington, of Central avenue, Plainfield, has received a mark of appreciation from his classmates at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, having been elected by his class, the Juniors, to the office of institute committee, this being the most important of the student government bodies. Other young men from New Jersey who have been similarly honored are: J. M. Evans, of Paterson, institute committee of the Seniors, and Oliver D. Burton, of Asbury Park, to the office in the Sophomore class.

Harrington was a member of the Plainfield High School and was graduated from the Leal School in 1913, of this city, with high honors. He was the winner at the latter school of the Yale cup for scholastic and athletic ability.

"FAITHFUL SAYINGS" TO BE BOY EVANGELIST'S TOPIC

Charles Forbes Taylor, the "Boy Preacher," starts upon his second week of evangelistic work at the Park Avenue Baptist church this evening, and will preach on the subject "Faithful Sayings." The meeting opens promptly at 7:45 with a service of song conducted by Mr. Winter and assisted by a chorus choir. The songs used in these meetings are particularly attractive, and under Mr. Winter's leading, the singing is truly an inspiration for the meeting that follows.

There is always a duet by the boy evangelist and his father, bearing directly upon the meeting, that adds very much to the impressiveness of the service. At the close of the meeting each night Mr. Winter rehearses the choir on songs for the following evening, and many in the audience remain to enjoy this singing.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR POLITICAL DEBATE

G. O. P. and Democrats Will Discuss Issues at Elizabeth, Saturday.

According to arrangements the widely discussed debate between the Republicans and Democrats of Union county will take place Saturday night in the Hippodrome Theatre, Elizabeth, but the Democratic candidates will not take part in the "talkfest." According to the original plans the Democratic candidates, who were responsible for the challenge, were to meet the Republican candidates in joint debate, but Chairman L. T. Russell, of the Democratic County Committee, has substituted an unknown speaker or speakers to represent the Democratic candidates and the Democratic cause.

When William Newcorn, chairman of the Republican County Committee, a few days ago learned of the Democratic desire for a debate, he at once communicated with Chairman Russell and sought to arrange for the opposing candidates to meet at a joint meeting. Mr. Russell objected to the Democratic candidates entering a joint debate for the reason, he said, that they were not familiar with the issues of the campaign, and requested that he be permitted to select a speaker or speakers for the Democratic argument, who was in the last Legislature. To this Chairman Newcorn readily agreed and arrangements were made accordingly. Much interest has been awakened throughout the county and it is expected that the attendance will be large.

Chairman Newcorn this morning received a letter from William J. Leonard, Democratic candidate for Assemblyman, in which the latter explains his position as follows:

"Your letter in regard to your acceptance of a debate received. I would say that the first intimation I had of such an affair was when Mr. Pierson telephoned me Saturday evening, and I explained to him that we had arranged our itinerary up to and including November 1. But we would be pleased to have any of the Republican candidates speak at our meetings. I am inclosing a copy of our itinerary, and I repeat, we would be pleased to have your candidates speak at our meetings."

MANY UNIQUE COSTUMES AT MASQUERADE DANCE

The annual masquerade given under the auspices of the Women's League of St. Joseph's church, in Debele's Hall, last night, proved one of the most successful ever conducted by the women, a capacity gathering of members and their friends attending the affair. The costumes worn by the dancers were unusually unique and attractive and the judges of the awards found difficulty to come to a decision. First prize of $2.50 for men's costume went to Harold Lunger, who impersonated a "rube" farmer, both in his dress and his gestures. Mrs. James Harper, representing a ghost, was awarded the first prize for the women. Other winners of prizes were Miss Elsie Moulton, as the little Dutch girl; Miss Fitzgerald and James Hooper.

Much of the success of the affair was due to the untiring efforts of the following committee, who were capably assisted by the members of the entire league: Mrs. William Dieke, Mrs. Henry Mattis, Mrs. Charles DeCamp, Miss Mary Hannegan and Miss Katherine Leahy.

"RUSSIAN PAINTING AND SCULPTURE" IS CONSIDERED

The art department of the Monday Afternoon Club held an interesting meeting in the parish house of the Congregational church, a large number of members attending. Papers were read on the following topics: "Russian Painting and Sculpture," Mrs. D. J. Randall; "Russian Architecture," Mrs. G. L. Babcock.

Next Monday the civic department will have an especially timely lecture. Dr. Arthur Harmount Graves, formerly assistant professor of government at Yale University, addressing the members. He will take as his topic, "A Year in England During the Present War."

"ACQUAINTANCE SOCIAL."

The Official Board and Ladies' Aid Society of Vincent chapel are arranging for a "church acquaintance social" to be held in the chapel on Thursday night. A special program has been prepared and refreshments will be served. The object of the social is to enable all the members of the chapel congregation to become better acquainted as well as to enjoy an evening's outing.

C. O. S. REVIEWS THE YEAR'S WORK

Local Society Has Done Much to Relieve the Condition of City's Poor.

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN

S. T. Carter, Jr., is Re-elected President—Miss Mabel Pierson Succeeds Dr. W. H. Murray as Secretary—Resume of the Reports.

That the Plainfield branch of the Charity Organization Society has carried on efficient work during the past year in behalf of the city's poor and needy was shown by the various reports made at the annual meeting of the society in its headquarters in the Babcock building, last night. These reports embraced all phases of the work from the securing and disbursing of funds to the incidents connected with individual cases.

The president, S. T. Carter, Jr., in his opening address, mentioned the varied lines of work which his committee had been called on to do during the past year and said that not only was the volume of work growing along the beaten path of charity work, but that the public was beginning to take a broader view of such organizations and the sphere of usefulness for charity workers was broadening and extending. He said that much credit was due to the finance committee, for notwithstanding the vast increase in the expenditures during the past year the organization was out of debt, due to the large increase in the receipts. The past year was a hard one but the public support was excellent.

The secretary, Miss Mabelle Phillips, stated that during the past year there had been 1,327 cases under the care of the society, while the unemployed problem had been a hard condition to meet, but that there was no unemployed problem in Plainfield at present. In its work the organization as a whole had endeavored to help the needy to help themselves rather than to merely afford temporary relief. So successful had the various workers been that employment had been found for many; others had been assisted in starting in business in a way that enabled them to become self-sustaining. Miss Phillips stated that one of the chief obstacles encountered was an effective way to dispose of inebriates. She declared that the crying need of Somerset county was for a workhouse where those who would not work voluntarily should be compelled to work and their earnings be devoted to the support of their families. She also favored a college or an institution where the habitual drunkard could be committed until cured of his alcoholic disease. Additional means of caring for the feeble-minded should also be provided by the State.

The visiting nurses' report showed that about $4,800 would be required for the work this year, of which amount $4,100 has already been pledged. It also told of the vast amount of work which comes under that department.

The treasurer's report was as follows:

The report of the treasurer, J. Albert Lane, showed total receipts of $11,433.17 and total disbursements of $11,745, leaving a deficit of $312. Of the disbursements $1,840 was spent for social services, $7,587 for relief, and $510 was given to helping other societies. Other reports were given by the following: Miss Miriam Carman, chairman of the Friendly Visitors, reported that the committee had personally befriended thirty families. Miss Elsie Burke gave a report of the Visiting Nurse Association. Mrs. Charles E. Ryder in her report for the Relief Committee, called for more members on this committee and urged the society to take some action on the matter of a workhouse. Miss Mabel E. Pierson reported for the publicity committee, showing how much the courtesies extended by the local papers had helped during the year. William M. Wherry, Jr., as chairman of the legal committee, gave a lengthy report of the actual details of the work of building up families, which is the society's chief function.

It was proposed to secure a number of bags and distribute them to householders with a request that all cast-off clothing be placed in these bags and the society would collect them and dispose of them at the organization's second hand clothing exchange on Central avenue.

The membership committee reported that during the past year 162 new members had joined the institution, increasing the society's receipts by about $364.50, or an average of $2.25 each.

The chairman of the legal committee was directed to appoint a subcommittee of three to agitate a workhouse for Union county, while the

"IK-MIK-DIKS" WILL POSITIVELY APPEAR

Elaborate Masquerade Hallowe'en Party to Be Held at Boy Scout Camp.

A further contribution toward the equipment of the Boy Scout building in Terrill road was reported by Dr. George T. Moore, secretary of the Boy Scout Council, this morning, from Alexander Gilbert, of West Eighth street, who contributed $10 toward the fund.

Those who have in charge the arrangements for the masquerade Hallowe'en party to be held at the Boy Scout camp in Terrill road next Monday evening report having two Ik-Mik-Diks, which will positively be on exhibition that night. Every scout and scoutmaster must be in scout uniform, but it is necessary that they should appear in some special costume befitting the occasion.

Hallowe'en among Boy Scouts is known the country over as "Good Turn Day," said a local Boy Scout official this morning.

"Hallowe'en has been an occasion of dread upon the part of property owners for years. There are three hundred Boy Scouts in Plainfield who are making it their business this week to warn property owners to fasten their gates, take in their shutters, remove rugs and door mats, porch chairs and swings next Saturday and Monday nights."

BOYS ADMIT STEALING $3 FROM RECREATION TEACHER

George Antel and Nicholas DeLeMo, the two boys who were arrested by the local police on a complaint filed by Miss Lillian Lamson, the local recreation supervisor, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court this morning on a charge of larceny. They admitted stealing a pocketbook from the Lincoln School belonging to Miss Lamson.

Both were given severe reprimands by Judge DeMeza, who cautioned them that a second appearance would mean commitment to the reformatory. After returning the $3 they had taken from the pocketbook they were allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

MEN OF GRACE CHURCH HAVE SOCIAL EVENING

The Men's Club of Grace church held a most successful and enjoyable smoker and social gathering at the Hartridge bowling alleys last night. The attendance was large and bowling was the feature of the evening, the participants returning unusually high scores. During the evening a brief business meeting was called and several new members were admitted.

Refreshments were served and the balance of the time was spent in playing games and other forms of enjoyment. The next meeting of the club will be a beefsteak dinner to be held at the parish house the latter part of November for which several prominent speakers have been secured.

DRAMATIC CLUB REHEARSES.

The Columbia Dramatic Club, which has arranged to present a rural comedy entitled "The Olde Village Skule," at the Columbus auditorium the latter part of November, held another rehearsal in St. Mary's Social Hall on Liberty street last night. Great progress was shown by the principals and much satisfaction was expressed by the coaches, Miss Anna Doyle and Otto Linke. The exact date for the performance will be set within a short time. Last night's rehearsal was followed by a social during which the young people enjoyed dancing and refreshments. Rehearsals will hereafter be held twice a week as the date for the production is to be set for the near future.

PROPERTY RENTALS.

Among the property rentals reported by the Mulford agency during the past few days are the following: L. B. Smith, of New York, has rented the residence at 1139 Myrtle avenue; R. G. Bush has leased No. 834 Carlton avenue; R. J. Birmingham will occupy No. 41 Laramie avenue; Mrs. H. Thompson will take possession of 165 North avenue, November 1; W. J. Smalley has taken a lease on 422 East Second street, while Paul Jones has taken the Charles L. Baker house on Leland avenue.

G. O. P. MEETING.

The Republican county committee will hold a street meeting in this city Thursday night, the following Assembly candidates addressing the gathering: Charles L. Morgan, William N. Runyon and Arthur N. Pierson.

MASS MEETING IN BORO MONDAY NIGHT

Republican Speakers to Urge the Election of Nominees.

There was no meeting of the Republican Club of the Borough of North Plainfield last night, but all energies of party workers there are bent toward a monster mass-meeting, to be held Monday evening of next week.

At the last meeting of the club adjournment was taken subject to the call of President Smalley. It was thought that a meeting would be held last night to arrange for the gathering of next week, but many of the leaders were unable to attend.

Monday night is to be the eve of election, and an effort will be made to have all the Republicans of the borough out to hear their candidates. In addition to those who are seeking office many leading Republicans of the borough will be present and make addresses. Ogden H. Hammond, candidate for Assembly, will be one of the principal speakers, also Senator Smalley and former Senator Frelinghuysen. County Chairman Edward Cooper will probably preside.

BOX CAR SHORTAGE TIES UP SHIPPING

Eastern Manufacturers Urged to Unload Goods and Return the Empties.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission has received many complaints of car shortages from various parts of the United States. Railroads are unable to furnish enough freight cars to handle the ordinary shipments usual at this time of year. While this condition is usual in the middle west the car shortage now is serious on eastern railroads. The shipments of wheat and other foodstuffs, while blocking railroads in the middle west, is detained on sidings because of inability of eastern carriers to send cars west to relieve the congestion. Circulars have been sent to every railroad and many of the largest shippers urging that consignees having cars on sidings immediately unload their consignments and report the cars as empty.

ELKS' BIG BAZAAR PROVED ITSELF A GREAT SUCCESS

Members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., brought their week's bazaar to a close last night, with a final sale of all remaining articles. Although no official figures are available at the present time it is conceded that the receipts will run well over the $3,000 mark, this fund to be used to meet certain obligations.

Several thousand persons were entertained during the seven nights the big festival was open to the public and the nightly program of dancing was accompanied by excellent music. The success of the event reflects credit on the committee in charge and the members of the club who gave their time and efforts toward promoting it.

DEMOCRATIC MEETINGS.

Assembly and local Democratic candidates will address three mass-meetings to be held here tonight. One will be at the postoffice corner, the other at the Jefferson Club on South Second street and the third at Richmond and East Third streets. The meetings will begin simultaneously at 8:30 o'clock. Republicans, Progressives and Socialists are especially invited.

HOLY JUMPERS OUT.

Levina Leach, Laura Wilson and Grace Tomlin, the three Pillar of Fire women who were committed to the county jail last week by Judge William G. DeMeza, were released today, after serving seven days in the jail, the $20 fine levied in each case being remitted by the local magistrate at the suggestion of Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Franklin-Stillman Schools will hold an "Acquaintance Party" in the Franklin Auditorium tomorrow afternoon from three until five. Fathers and mothers are cordially invited to be present. Refreshments will be served.

DUTCH ARMS TO PLAY.

The Dutch Arms Band will furnish music for the Women's Relief Corps Hallowe'en social to be given Friday night, in Reform Hall. A general good time has been arranged for every one who attends.

SERBS RETREAT TO MOUNTAINS

Austro-Hungarian Troops Are Now Advancing at a Rapid Rate.

BULGARS ARE REPULSED

Germans Capture Petrovatz—England Withdraws Offer of Cyprus to Greece—Resignation of Peace Cabinet is Unofficially Reported.

Vienna, Oct. 26 (via Berlin and Amsterdam). The War Office announced today that Austro-Hungarian cavalry had entered the Serbian city of Valejevo. This town is about 50 miles southwest of Belgrade and the advance of the Austro-Hungarian troops is apparently becoming more rapid as the Serbians retreat to the mountain positions. It was also announced that German troops had captured Petrovatz, 10 miles southeast of Semendria.

Bulgarian War Loan.

The Neue Frie Presse, of Vienna, states that the Bulgarians are subscribing to a war loan.

Town Was Defenseless.

Berlin, Oct. 26 (by wireless).—A despatch from Sofia states that a greater part of the unfortified town of Dedeaghtach was destroyed by the Anglo-French bombardment last week.

Cyprus Offer Withdrawn.

London, Oct. 26.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, announced in the House of Commons today that the offer of Cyprus to Greece had been withdrawn.

Kaiser Makes Changes.

A correspondent of the Central News in northern France says that he is reliably informed that the Kaiser is personally responsible for the reorganization of the forces on the western front, where several hard drives are soon to be made in order to arrest the Allies' offensive.

Bulgars in Prisrend.

A telegram to a news agency from Athens says that Bulgarian troops have occupied Prisrend, which is only five miles from the Albania frontier in western Serbia.

Greece Again Threatened.

Budapest, Oct. 26.—The newspaper Villag states that the British minister, Sir Francis Elliot, has handed a note to the Greek prime minister on behalf of the entente powers, declaring that the landing of their troops at Salonica in no way possesses the character of an occupation and offering guarantees to Greece that her territorial rights would be protected. The note continued, however, that the attitude of Greece, if persisted in, would hamper the entente powers, which may be forced to break off friendly relations.

French Repulse Bulgars.

Paris, Oct. 26.—French war statement:

"On the day of October 22 the Bulgarians attacked along the entire front, the French forces forming the army of the Orient and occupying the region of Strumitza. They were completely defeated. The battle continues foot by foot in Champagne at the centre of the work of La Courtaine with slight fluctuations. A sharp attack to the northeast of Massiges made us masters of a German trench near the positions which we had recently captured."

Greek Cabinet Quits, Is Report.

Rome, Oct. 26.—Reports are current in official circles today that the Greek cabinet, headed by Premier Zaimis, has resigned. The Greek legation at Rome refused to deny or confirm the reports.

Serbian Port Captured.

Sofia, Oct. 26 (via Berlin and Amsterdam).—Bulgarian troops have captured the Serbian port of Prahovo on the Danube River and the fortified city of Negotin, the War Office announced today.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFICERS GUESTS OF SUPERINTENDENT

About fifty officers and teachers of the First Baptist church Bible school were the guests of Superintendent and Mrs. A. M. Harris, on Central avenue, last night. There was a short business meeting and reports from the various departments and committees showed a steady increase in the active membership particularly in the primary and adult departments.

It was voted to send two delegates to the New Jersey State Sunday-school Convention at Millville, November 16 to 18 and to contribute $10 to the Boy Scout Camp of Plainfield. Games and a social time followed the business meeting and refreshments were served in conclusion.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day in Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

W. H. CLARK'S HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

Daughter, Ill With Diphtheria, Rescued and Taken to the Home of Neighbor.

The home of William H. Clark, in Piscataway township, was burned to the ground yesterday. The fire, which was caused by a defective chimney, was discovered while Walter Penrose, of the Charles S. Day grocery, was taking an order at the home. Mr. Clark was away at the time and Penrose endeavored to check the flames, which were spreading rapidly over the shingled roof. He climbed out on the sill of one of the top-story windows and made futile efforts to fight the blaze with pails of water.

The flames, however, had obtained too great headway and Penrose, realizing that he was only wasting time, gave up the attempt and assisted the family in removing valuables and furniture. The daughter of Mr. Clark, who has diphtheria, was taken to the home of Lewis D. Walker, Jr.

The furniture and everything of value was removed from the house. The house was fully covered by insurance.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Miss Nancy Johnson, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Johnson, of Walnut street, has issued invitations for a Hallowe'en party to be held at her home tomorrow evening.

Oscar Runyon, proprietor of the Dunellen Apparel store, continues to be confined to his home. Mr. Runyon is suffering from catarrh and a bad cold.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY GIVES PLEASING AFFAIR

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, held a social Saturday evening. The program of the evening consisted of a partially impromptu session of the old time "Deestrict Skule," in which the A. B. C. class, the grammar, geography, fifth reader and arithmetic classes took their places before the stern schoolmaster and said "their lessons." After a recess a short school program of songs and compositions kept the audience smiling.

Deacon Isaac Randolph was the "Skulemaster." Among his scholars were the twins with their new red neckties; the bashful boy, the bow-legged boy, the boy who had the sniffles; the little fellow who had never been to school before and kept talking out loud, yet declared he "hadn't done nothin'"; the girl who came in late and had a page or two of excuses; the giggling girl; the girl who received love notes, and the girl who cried because she couldn't do the sum about a hen and a half that laid an egg and a half.

The program was concluded with the serving of refreshments and a spell down in which any might take part. The spell down was conducted by the schoolmaster. Miss Edna Burdick won.

INJURED HIS TOE.

Laverne Kirchner, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kirchner, Jr., of Lincoln avenue, is suffering from an injured toe. The little fellow was building a play-house from a pile of brick in the rear of the Walter Clawson house opposite his home. While removing one of the bricks from this pile, which was quite high, the brick slipped from the little fellow's grasp and fell on his toe.

TAX BILLS TO BE SENT OUT IN A FEW DAYS

Tax Collector Isaac J. Stites wishes to inform the boroughites that the reason why the tax bills haven't been mailed as yet is because he hasn't received the duplicate tax book from Assessor Peters. This is no fault of the assessor because he only recently received the original book from the County Board. The blank tax bills were received several days ago from the printer by Collector Stites. On these bills the annual tax budget is set forth as follows:

State school, $3,883, an increase over last year of $133,75; county, $7,013, a decrease of $674.93; special school, $12,600, a decrease of $100; borough, $16,450, an increase of $7,249.95; bond, $2,365, a decrease of $10.28. Total, $42,311, an increase of $6,619.05.

These bills show the assessed value in the borough to be: Real estate, $1,303,625, an increase over last year of $95,550; personal property, $147,425, a decrease of $6,900; second-class railroad property, $76,827, an increase of $286. Total, $1,527,877, an increase of $89,936.

PROGRESS ON PLANS FOR DUNELLEN COUNTRY CLUB

A sketch for the proposed clubhouse of the Dunellen Country Club has been made by Willard N. Apgar and is complete in every detail. The plans will be placed on exhibition in the near future. Splendid progress is being made by the committee which has in charge the securing of names of those who are desirous of joining the Country Club and the success of the plan seems almost assured.

Owing to political activities which are at present engrossing the attention of the borough, the next meeting will probably not be held until after Election Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dunham, of Center street, spent the week-end out of town.

John Vroom, Jr., of 520 North avenue, was given a party at his home Saturday evening in honor of his nineteenth birthday. The affair was arranged by his mother. Numerous guests from Plainfield, Bound Brook, Westfield and this place were present. The home was appropriately decorated with autumn leaves and jack-o'-lanterns. An attractive program of entertainment included dancing games, music and singing. Mr. Vroom received many presents in honor of the occasion.

Following the party Mr. Vroom left for Plainfield to take the Jersey Central excursion train to Washington. He was accompanied to the station by the guests at his party. He spent the day in Washington as the guest of his uncle, George Vroom.

William H. Thornton, the Democratic candidate for tax collector, has accepted a position as foreman of a Newark plant.

Mrs. Amanda Dunham, of Prospect avenue, has been ill for the past few days.

Contractor A. H. Burdick, who has been incapacitated with rheumatism, is improved.

WILL VOTE FOR LA RUE.

It is said that a large number of the Republican voters of the village who were disappointed over W. B. La Rue losing the renomination for tax collector at the primaries will vote for him any way on Election Day. One of the politicians told a reporter yesterday that it was ascertained several days ago that this can be done.

Mr. and Mrs. Patson Van Arsdale, of Front street, entertained their daughter, Mrs. Laura Reamer, of Brooklyn, over the week-end.

INSPECTS NEW MARKET ROAD.

The Board of Freeholders has made an inspection of New Market road, following the receipt of a petition circulated by Walter S. Craig, which asked the Board to fix the road up. The Board as a result of its inspection decided to fix the road temporarily for the winter and upon the arrival of spring to repair it permanently.

A. E. Smith, of Front street, who has been kept away from his duties as trolley motorman for the past four weeks by an abscess on the hand, returned to work today.

Contractors Kirchner and Vogt are erecting a garage for George Zink, the local baker. The garage will house a Ford delivery, which will be delivered this week.

Miss Eva Schneider, of Front street, entertained Charles Chandler, of Jersey City, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smalley, of Prospect avenue, entertained Miss May Conover, of New Brunswick, Sunday.

The date for the dance to be given by the Hill Top Tennis Club has been set for Friday evening, November 5.

The Board of Registry met today to register voters and to mail ballots for the general election.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The borough's runaway boy had a narrow escape from being killed last night, when he decided to take a ride in his toy automobile along South avenue. Austin Betts, who lives on LaGrande avenue, near the Westfield line, is only three years old, but travels all over and his mother has grown so accustomed to it that she does not worry much, but last night she saw him start down the middle of South avenue, which is used extensively by automobiles, and she went after him. A passing automobile knocked a dog and narrowly missed hitting the child before they had gone far, and the probabilities are that the youngster would also have been hit if he had continued his zig-zag course over the road for a much greater distance.

A considerable amount was realized by the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, last night at a Hallowe'en social held under its auspices in Meyer Hall, on Park avenue. The hall was decorated with an autumn effect for the affair with follies predominating. A program of Hallowe'en games and tricks with several musical and vocal selections completed an entertaining program, and after refreshments were served to bring the social to a close.

Although it is not yet known whether or not the State or county school taxes have increased any over last year, borough residents will have to stand a difference of $1,083.03 in the amount paid to the township for schools this year, it being $3,425.57 as against $2,342.54 last year. The raise is probably due to the new school in the Graceland section of the township. It is not known whether or not the township will have a raise in school moneys as no figures have been made public.

Arthur Kyte and Wallace York have returned from a trip to France on a vessel on which they are officers and are visiting the Misses Kyte, of Martine avenue.

Mrs. Kleistaedt has returned to her home at Upper Montclair, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hoar, of Martine avenue.

William Stansbery has sold the Stansbery homestead and the land surrounding it to Frank Keel. The sale marks the passing of what was once one of the largest pieces of property in this section. It once embraced nearly all of Scotch Plains and was the estate of the Stansbery family since the Colonial times. Mr. Stansbery became the last member of the family at the death of his grandfather some seven or eight years ago.

Mrs. Paul Tuzo, of Terrill road, is visiting friends in Baltimore, where she formerly resided.

Mr. and Mrs. George Erbele, of Martine avenue, have returned from a several days' automobile trip to Greenwood Lake.

Mrs. Joseph E. Rhodes, of Midway avenue, left today for St. Paul, Minnesota, where she will visit relatives.

The Plains Boy Scouts will hold a meeting in the lecture room of the Baptist church tonight.

Warrenville.

A masquerade ball will be held at Mt. Bethel on Saturday evening, October 30.

William R. Codington, of Plainfield, administrator of William M. Codington's estate, deceased, will sell at public sale on Saturday, October 30, at 10 o'clock, all personal property. John C. Cooper will be the auctioneer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bowers have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Maud C., to Peter Freiday, Jr., on Sunday afternoon, November 7, at 3 o'clock, at the Coontown Congregational church.

The Misses Margaret and Sadie Nash, of Brooklyn, have returned to their home after spending the week-end with Mrs. J. C. Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Harrison entertained over the week-end their daughter, Ethel, and Miss Carrie Reed, of Plainfield.

LITERARY

Another Flagg "Take Off."

In the November American Magazine, James Montgomery Flagg, the famous wit and artist, writes an amusing piece which he calls "Mrs. Pearl Prunepincher's Page in Every Lady's Magazine." Following is an extract of what Mr Flagg has to say regarding variety and a change:

"When Jack or Harold come home tired from the works, they are of a peevishness. Why? Because they know exactly what you are going to serve them for dinner and exactly where. Vary the monotony, not only in your meals but in the places they are served. I think you will find it is a welcome change to the dear boys to find, instead of the usual dinner table, that you have used your imagination and, after all, what is imagination for?—and have spread the tablecloth on the lounge? You have no idea what a surprise this simple touch will be. You say, how in the world did I ever think of anything like that? I say, nonsense! You could think of it yourself if—if you put your mind to it! I am no cleverer than the rest of you, I simply take time and think these things out.

"Another way is to spread a cutting board over the bathtub and set your table there. Your reward for these little thoughtful acts will be a bright smile and heightened color on Jack's or Harold's face, a sly squeeze around the waist, and, maybe, after dinner he will take you to a lecture on Arctic Nights at the Natural History Museum!"

Robert W. Chambers Gives Advice to Beginners.

Robert W. Chambers gave this advice to the beginner some years ago, and it holds good today: "Have something to say and learn by experience how to say it. The important thing, to be sure, is something to say. The trouble with most people who try to write stories is that they have nothing to write about. Next—don't talk about it, do it. A writer can make his own market. It is the only way to do. Write what appeals to you and find a publisher who will take it. Don't go to a publisher and ask him what he wants. Make him want what you have to offer. If it is the real thing you won't have much difficulty. You will 'break into print' with your first effort."—The Strand Magazine.

How to Tell a Woman's Age.

In the November American Magazine Gelett Burgess writing "The Maxims of Japhet" presents the following rule for telling a woman's age:

"My son, wouldst thou know a woman's age? Watch her when she putteth on her hat, whether she rameth it on carelessly, or regardeth the mirror with overmuch care; for, behold, her eyes shall tell thee where her mind wandereth."

Radicals of the Senate.

Follow the Senators to their seats and you will see the familiar line-up of radicals and conservatives.

There is something amusing in the term "radical" as applied to statesmen. It is, of course, a relative term; but think of designating a man as radical just because he advocates government leasing of a coal mine up in Alaska or votes to investigate a strike. And yet views like these define the difference between the conservative group of United States Senators—Smoot, Gallinger, Penrose, Hoke Smith, Stone and the group of so-called radicals—Kenyon, La Follette, Norris, Clapp, Cummins and a few others, some of whom are a tiny bit radical on Monday and Tuesday, but slump back to conservatism the rest of the week.

Owen, of Oklahoma; Poindexter, of Washington, and Martine, of New Jersey, are sometimes referred to as radicals; also Hollis, of New Hampshire, who, according to press reports, made a speech recently in which he predicted the coming of Socialism—in the distant future.

But make a note of this. The Democratic or Republican parties can nominate for the presidency the most soulless and visionless reactionary—something will be found in his record to make him appear "radical enough."

Even Elihu Root, with a life record of service to the interests, could be proclaimed as a fearless radical for having said something against "invisible government."—Art Young in the November Metropolitan.

Concerning Submarines.

"No case is yet on record of any submarine torpedoing a ship moving at any great speed. All the disasters to the British navy have occurred while its ships were either stationary or moving slowly; and again, it should be pointed out that nearly all these disasters have happened to more or less antiquated vessels, for, with the exception of H. M. S. Audacious, concerning which we have no authentic information, almost all the torpedoed British ships were of the older classes. In the opinion of a great number of well-informed naval students, vessels moving at a good speed and protected by a multiplicity of rapid-fire guns are still practically immune from successful under-water attacks. Indeed, if this were not so, the British navy would not at the present time hold the command of the sea that it does. The warships of this navy still go and come where they will upon the ocean; they still have practically the complete command of the sea. Not without disasters, to be sure, but war cannot be undertaken without risks and some disasters. It is the main object attained or lost that constitutes the victor or the defeated, and the assertion that Great Britain rules the waves today even more completely than she did at the commencement of the war will not be denied by any close follower of the great naval operations.

"It is possible that the value of the submarine in the future will be greatly increased by means of the 'hovering' system—that mother-ships may be constructed in which the submarine may be carried to the scene of operations, and then liberated for the discharge of its deadly work. Indeed, such ships are stated to be already in existence; but granting this, if a mother-ship 'hovering' a submarine could be hunted down by a powerful battle-cruiser, escorted by destroyers which would seek out and annihilate the released submarine, while the mother-ship fell before the great guns of the battle-cruiser. Apparently, the value of the under-water craft will depend for a long time upon its remaining comparatively close to its home port, to which, after destroying its victim, it can return again quickly."—Frank E. Channon in the November St. Nicholas.

GULF COAST FAIR.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 26.—The Gulf Coast Fair, a new venture for the southern counties of Alabama, Mississippi and Florida, opened today for one full week. The new Fair is devoted for the most part to a great agricultural and live stock exhibit, and a demonstration farm is showing the possibilities of winter crops in the Gulf counties.

"ROTHBERG CLOTHES A PERFECT FIT"

So Says College Man Who is An Up-to-date Dresser.

A Freshman at Yale in writing to a Plainfield friend, says:

"I don't believe I have ever seen a suit of clothes which was made to fit me better than the suit you sent me from Plainfield. The same can be said concerning the overcoat. The Rothberg store is to be complimented on their efficiency in making clothes fit.

"With the suit and the overcoat on I look like a regular Philadelphia lawyer or some other very important personage."

We have pleased this customer who is one of many, try Rothberg's for YOUR next suit or overcoat and you, too, will be pleased.

HUNTERS MAY GET THE KEAN ESTATE

"Longwood Valley" Likely to Become the Property of Well Known Sportsmen.

While no definite negotiations have been made, it is believed that a new organization, including some of the best known sportsmen and hunters in the State, will consider the purchase of the Longwood Valley estate of the late United States Senator John Kean. This property is so situated that it affords an unusually splendid territory for a fish and game preserve, and Charles T. Champion, of Newark, is said to be desirous of obtaining a ten-year lease of the territory for the purpose mentioned.

The property consists of 5,000 acres in Longwood Valley, Morris county, one of the most picturesque sections of the State. It comprises several farms, much other lowland and a large acreage of timbered mountain land. For many years just prior to his death Senator Kean had been buying up farm and forest land and adding to his original estate, until at the time of his death he had what was considered one of the largest and best stocked game preserves in the middle east.

In addition to the vast acreage of land, the preserve takes in Longwood Lake, a beautiful sheet of water about a mile and a half long, which was formed by damming the Rockaway river. Besides the lake and the river there are trout streams on the property.

The general territory in which the preserve is located is well known to many sportsmen of this and neighboring States, because of the excellent hunting and fishing it affords. Nearby are Green Pond, Lake Denmark—and the vast hunting grounds around it—and the lake, vainly sighed for by anglers, on the United States reservation at Picatinny.

Game of all kinds native to Jersey is said to abound in the preserve—deer, rabbits, squirrels, pheasant, partridges, quail and duck. In the lake are large and small mouth bass and pickerel and the trout streams have been stocked with native brook and rainbow trout.

Plans for the club, as outlined by Mr. Champion, provide for a membership limited to 100, not necessarily residents of this State. It will be known as the Longwood Valley Club.

POLITICAL NOTES.

October 26—Third and final registration day in municipalities of less than 5,000 inhabitants.

November 2—General Election Day.

The Progressive Assembly candidates have planned their final rally in the campaign in Elizabeth and will hold another open air meeting at the corner of Broad and East Jersey streets Saturday night.

Sample ballots are being distributed by the city clerk to the various election officers. These ballots will be sent out to the voters this week, the time limit being tomorrow noon, when all sample ballots must be in the mails. The ballot includes five sets of Assembly candidates, Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Progressive and National Prohibition, the latter being nominated by independent petition. The Prohibitionists also have a candidate for coroner in the field, but the Progressives have none. For freeholder and excise boards, the field is closed to Republicans, Democrats and Socialists.

Placing themselves squarely on record as approving a program of preparedness, the twelve Republican Essex county Assembly candidates have issued a statement in which they said they favored "adequate appropriations and measures for maintaining the National Guard and increasing its efficiency." The statement was largely iln response to inquiries and questions put to the candidates by various individuals and organizations. They place the blame for the absence of a State camp this year upon the Democratic Legislature of 1914.

A letter from Congressman Richard Wayne Parker, who is in England, has been made public by the chairman of the Essex County Republican Committee. Mr. Parker is to take his seat in Congress on December 6, to start his eighteenth term and in his letter he expresses regret at his inability to aid in the present campaign.

MELLEN STILL ON STAND.

New York, Oct. 26.—The taking of testimony at the trial of the New Haven directors this morning was delayed for more than half an hour by a discussion between counsel and the court as to the procedure in the introduction of certain evidence and the filing of objections thereto. Former President C. S. Mellen then took the stand and resumed his testimony as to steps taken while he was second vice president just before the New Haven got control of the New York and New England line crippling its business as much as possible.

PLAN OF EDUCATION FOR IMMIGRANTS

Efforts Being Made to Spread the Slogan of "America First."

The Department of the Interior through its Bureau of Education, has issued a lithographed poster, 30 by 20 inches in size, which is being sent to the various postoffices, public schools, and industrial establishments of the country, urging immigrants to educate themselves for American citizenship.

In the foreground of the poster "Uncle Sam" is represented as grasping the hand of an immigrant workingman, while in the background is seen a residence, a public school, and a naturalization judge handing "citizen's papers" to an immigrant.

Under the bold-faced title, "America First," are urgent invitations to attend night school, learn English and become citizens. These invitations, with brief sentences setting forth the advantages of such action are given in English and in six immigrant languages, viz: Italian, Polish, Yiddish, Lithuanian, Bohemian and Hungarian.

Investigation has shown that there are in this country 3,000,000 foreign born whites, 10 years and over, who are unable to read or even speak English. More than one-half of these immigrants are unable to read or write in any language.

As the posters will be hung in conspicuous places it is to be hoped that by means of this pictorial and written invitation immigrants will have their attention called to the night schools of their communities, and that where there is any considerable number of immigrants and no night schools the poster may inspire the authorities in these communities to establish such schools. This is a part of a more comprehensive plan for preparing immigrants for American life and citizenship.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"In the Palace of the King," was shown for the first time in Union county yesterday at the U. S. Astor Theatre, this city.

The period of the story is from 1540 to 1560, in the time of Philip the second of Spain. Most of the action takes place in the royal palace in Madrid. The director has succeeded admirably in creating the true atmosphere throughout. There can be nothing but praise for the acting of E. J. Ratcliffe, as Philip II, and Ernest Maupain, as Mendoza, commander of the King's guard. The fine old soldier, Mendoza, could not have fallen into any abler hands than those of Mr. Maupain. In addition today there will be several other selected comedies and dramas.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Miss Anna V. Rice, the national secretary for religious work in the city associations, will be the week-end guest of the local association this week. Saturday morning at 11 o'clock she will meet the members of the association and on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock she will be the speaker at the vesper service. Miss Rice, who was appointed the executive of the committee on the religious features for the jubilee celebration of the Y. W. C. A. next February, is a brilliant speaker and Plainfield feels especially fortunate in being able to secure her for a week-end visit. She has not as yet given out her topic for Sunday afternoon. Miss Ethel Kinnaman, contralto soloist of the First Methodist church, will sing at the service. On Monday morning, Miss Rice will attend the meeting of the board of directors at the association at 10 o'clock.

Plans for the Hallowe'en social to be given at the association Thursday night have been completed and a jolly time is promised all members who attend. The affair is open to any girl of the association.

FLOWERS A FEATURE.

One of the features of the cake and candy sale that the Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild will hold Saturday, October 30, at 39 Somerset street, will be a beautiful collection of ferns, potted plants and cut flowers sent by a local florist to be sold on commission.

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT

Maish Comfortables

Doctors, surgeons and health specilists throughout the world, all agree that "sound sleep in cold fresh air saves more lives than science." Just as essential, however, is a warm covering, the lighter in weight the better, just so it is warm.

The depressing weight of heavy bed covers is a constant strain upon the whole body, keeping the muscles tense instead of allowing complete relaxation.

The warmth of any bed cover depends upon its thickness and its heat retaining qualities, "but never on its weight."

The beauty of Maish Laminated Cotton Down Comfortables lies in the fact that they are so thick and lofty (therefore warm) and so wonderfully light in weight. They are so delightfully soft and pliable that they cling to the body, even though they are thick. Maish Comfortables are superior to any on the market.

We are showing a complete line of them in Silkoline, Sateen and Seco Silk, ranging in price as follows:

$3.25, $3.75, $5.00, $6.50

and you will appreciate the luxury of a perfect fitting corset, giving readily to every movement of the body. Not only at first, but as long as it lasts, your corset will be the same; for a Warner is designed to fit comfortably and to give long wear. Every bone—in fact every seam—is placed to give the wearer ease.

All the Boning is Double—two thin strips in a single cover gives Warner's Corsets the suppleness so necessary, with less possibility of breaking than is possible with any single steel of equal weight.

Then the "Interlinings"—the strips that hold the bones in place. The boning cannot push through or tear the corset, or can it slip from place.

The Cloth Itself is Guaranteed and will stand the strain of constant wear.

INSIDE QUALITY.

You must look deeper than the surface. It is the unseen parts that make the corset right, and only the best is used inside as well as out in Warner's. We guarantee that every pair of Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets WILL NOT RUST, BREAK OR TEAR.

Also a discontinued pattern in a high grade 9x12 size Axminster Rug for $25

Sale of Mattresses 10.50 Values for 7.50

Here's a lot of mattresses that we could sell regularly for $10.50 and it would not be asking too much for them; in fact, most stores would get $12.50 for them. They are made of excellent quality elastic cotton felt, covered with satin finished dust proof ticking, made in two parts with Imperial roll edge and weigh full 50 pounds. We bought them when cotton was very low in price and for that reason can offer you this, the biggest and best mattress value of the season.

THE Wizard Triangle Polish Mop

Lightens housework. Triangle in shape it gets in the corners, absorbs the dust, cleans and polishes all kinds of floors. The regular selling price of these mops is $1.25. The manufacturers are conducting an advertising campaign and have authorized us to offer this mop with every bottle sold a 50c bottle of Wizard Polish, a $1.75 combination for 1.25

At a meeting of the board of directors the following were named as officers for the ensuing year: President, S. T. Carter, Jr.; vice presidents, H. L. De Forest and Mrs. C. E. Ryder; secretary, Miss Mabel Pierson; treasurer, J. A. Lane.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

The bill at Proctor's Theatre this week is even bigger than the excellent program of last week, and "Billy Bounce's Circus" is worth the admission alone. There is enough variety of the excellent kind to suit all tastes. To see the boys tumbling about on the "Bouncing Board" creates an ocean of fun. The Cola Santa Band is composed of about twenty talented musicians, and the leader, because of his many gestures and curves while directing, has earned the name of the Krazy Konductor. Larue and Richmond, the comedy and singing team, scored a decisive hit. Miss Margaret Ford, with the freak voice, whose high soprano and low bass notes are wonderful, was well received. The feature photoplay was equally as popular as the headline acts. It is entitled "The Little Gypsy," featuring Dorothy Bernard, and the story is one of sweet romance and the feature as a whole is one that holds the interest. Mary Pickford is seen in one of her old favorite dramas, and a comedy film is thrown in for good measure. The management struck a happy and responsive chord in the hearts of the patrons when they inaugurated the policy of always presenting a big feature photo-play. The last half of the week will include both a feature drama and a feature comedy. Hobart Bosworth in "Fatherhood," a drama of the west, and "Silk Hose and High Pressure," a side-splitting comedy, and a big vaudeville show, with two "girl acts."

NOT WILLIAM MAYSE.

Owing to similarity in names acquaintances of William Mayse, a colored tailor with a place of business at 304 Richmond street, have confused him with the Adolph Mays living at the same address whose plans to quietly marry a Newark girl were curtailed by the appearance of the prospective bride's mother in Plainfield Saturday afternoon. Both parties live at the same address.

Gas Will Do ALL Your Cooking

Cabinet Gas Ranges have been developed to such a state of perfection that it is not necessary to have a coal fire for any cooking purpose.

You can broil or boil, roast or toast, bake or brew, fry or stew any food that you may have on a Cabinet Gas Range.

And it has long been demonstrated that Gas Ranges are more sanitary, more convenient, more economical and, generally, more satisfactory than coal fires.

The kitchen that is without a Cabinet Gas Range is lacking a time-saving, labor-saving and money-saving appliance that every modern kitchen should have.

Cabinet Gas Ranges can be had in so many different sizes and on such reasonable terms of payment that we can suit every kitchen and every pocketbook.

If you have no Cabinet Gas Range, get one—you'll never regret it.

MR. CULPRIT HEART.

f Polly lets her lashes fall
And drops her eyes with growing scorn,
Nor deigns to look on me at all—
As Polly chose to do this morn,— ly chiding mood I quick relent,
I'd fein each jealous word recall,
For, ah! I grow so penitent
As Polly lets her lashes fall.

feel that I should ponished be
For making Polly's heart to hurt;
Although, between just you and me,
She did encourage Jack to flirt!
ly heart so quick is to repent,
It bares itself to scourgings all,
And deems it righteous punishment
When Polly lets her lashes fall!

OTHER PEOPLE.

The Reason.

Twas the stork's blamed fault, I'm certain of that;
He ought t' have left me in the other flat!

NOT A TRUE PATRIOT.

First Politician—I don't like Square chin a bit. He strikes me as being an egotistical crank. He seems to have a marvelous admiration for his own intellectual ability.

Second Politician—Yes, sir; that's just the kind of a man he is! He's one of these here fellows that insists on making up their own minds on political issues before the party has adopted its platform.

TERRIFYING.

The little boy regarded the pictures of the harem skirt with starting eyeballs.

"Does it mean that I am to have twice as many trousers cut down for me?" he shrieked.

Then he fell on his knees and prayed, as never before, that several sisters might be vouchsafed him in the future.

HIGH POWER GUNS

Long Range Weapons That Are Used In Land Warfare.

TYPES OF HEAVY ORDNANCE.

Field and Siege Guns, Howitzers and Mortars Are Very Much Akin, and It Is Difficult to Say Just Where One Ends and the Other Begins.

There is no sharp and distinct understanding on the part of the average person as to the difference or distinction between the field gun, the siege gun, the howitzer and the mortar. The precise line of distinction or mark of distinction between these classes of weapons might be difficult even for an ordnance technician to define. It is certainly difficult for a layman to tell just where the gun ends and the howitzer begins, or where the howitzer ends and the mortar begins.

Considered in a broad and general way, the special purpose of the gun was and is to destroy other guns in march or in position, to destroy troops in the open and to batter down objects behind which troops find shelter. The projectile of the gun by high powder pressure was given a high velocity and a relatively flat trajectory, which means that the shot passing from the gun to the target did not rise high above the earth or above a line joining gun and target. To withstand the powder pressure required for this work the gun was heavy in relation to the weight of the projectile. From the fact that the shot traveled in a path relatively of slight curve, its slope of fall or its angle of fall was not steep. It would go through a stone wall, or perhaps smash it, or would go deep into a dirt embankment, but it was not easy to put a shot inside a narrow deep trench, or to plant a shot so close behind an embankment as to kill men sheltered there.

The shot from the gun was good at penetration, but ineffective in searching the rear of cover. To accomplish that purpose another style of gun was devised. The pressure per square inch of powder chamber was decreased, the angle of elevation of the gun was increased, the angle of departure of the shot was greatly increased and the shot after reaching the summit of its path fell so steeply that if the range were known and the practice good the shot would land in a trench or fall so close behind an embankment or parapet that men would find no shelter there.

This being possible by a reduction of powder pressure per square inch of chamber surface and consequent reduction in the speed of the projectile, it was found that the weight of the gun in relation to the weight of the projectile could be diminished, thus increasing its mobility or the facility with which it could be moved from place to place.

It was found that the barrel of this gun could be very much shortened, thus effecting a saving in weight. But in making the changes in this gun instead of absolutely decreasing its weight the gunmakers enlarged its bore and increased the size of its projectile, thus increasing its efficiency. This type of gun, though not in the narrow and technical sense a "gun," is ordnance and an element of artillery and was given the specific name "howitzer."

The mortar was a gun that could give a higher angle of fire and a more plunging fire than a howitzer. It was a very short piece of ordnance, fired from a platform and held down by ropes. Forts and mortar boats used it for getting a high angle of fire and a more plunging fire with larger shell than could be had using a howitzer. The range used to be obtained by varying the power charge. At this day mortars weighing at least four tons, fitted with an elevating device and range scale and with recoil and counter recoil or recuperator devices, are hauled around on wheels, set down on a platform also carried on wheels, and producing vertical fire with a high explosive shell weighing 250 pounds with or without a delay action fuse.

The field gun for the purpose of firing over ridges, getting at troops on the reverse slope of ridges or across hills, giving to shrapnel the proper slope of fall for effective distribution and keeping the load light on the horses has veered away from the gun as developed in ship and fortress artillery and in the direction of the howitzer-like properties. Field guns have had their trails split that the breech may be further depressed, thus giving them a higher angle of fire designed for use against air craft, and in effecting a useful compromise between power and mobility the trajectory of shots from this gun is high and the slope of fall quite steep.

Guns of high power—high powder pressure, high velocity and long range—have been built to give vertical fire or nearly vertical elevation against aeroplanes or dirigibles.

So, as announced, it is not an easy question to decide just where gun, howitzer and mortar divide.—Washington Star.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 26, 1915.

LIQUOR INTERESTS ARE BUSY.

That elusively arrogant organization in the State of New Jersey commonly called the liquor interest, has played its hand in Union county. Through its agents it has attempted to reach the voters of this section and tell them who shall be sent to the General Assembly to make their laws, or to be more exact, it has attempted to tell them who shall not be sent.

The liquor organization would have the people of Union county defeat Judge William N. Runyon, Arthur N. Pierson and Charles L. Morgan, all Republican nominees for the Assembly. It has condemned them because they refused to do the bidding of its agents, and now it would defeat them. Last year they voted in favor of a local option law.

Messrs. Runyon, Pierson and Morgan have little to worry over in this stand of the whisky organization. It has no strength in Union or any other county, and cannot even control the votes of those who subscribe to its existence. The Republican nominees are to be congratulated that they have earned its political enmity ,for they have but to let it become generally known that the organization is fighting them and they will find hundreds of decent voters eager to enlist under their standard. If Judge Runyon and his colleagues have performed an official act that made an active enemy of the liquor trust they have won the friendship and support of ninety per cent. of those who seek good men for office.

Evidences of the activity locally of the whisky organization are undeniable—it has declared war on the Republican nominees in Union county and has opened hostilities. We predict a decided majority for those against whom its iniquitious hatred is shown.

SOMEWHAT CONFUSED.

There is no wonder that the amendments voted upon at the special election did not carry if the voters generally had notions of their meaning as distorted as appears to prevail in the minds of some of the New York newspaper correspondents, says the Elizabeth Journal. It is amazing to learn from the usually accurate New York Times that the "suffragists will not be able to have another amendment providing for the enfranchisement of women submitted for at least five years," giving as the reason that "the constitutional amendment which was designed to wipe out this restriction went down to defeat." And the Times is not the only newspaper in error.

Had the second amendment voted upon carried it would have made no difference with the resubmission of the suffrage amendment. The second amendment specifically provided that "when any amendment had been submitted to the people and by them rejected, no similar amendment shall be submitted again within five years from such rejection."

At least one other newspaper is also in error in declaring that the suffrage amendment cannot be resubmitted again until seven years have elapsed, since it takes two years to get a proposed amendment through the Legislature and before the people. There appears to be nothing in the way of the suffragists taking up the matter with the Legislature at the end of three years. The provision of the constitution can be fulfilled and the full way paved for action of the electorate at the polls in 1920.

40,000 GOOD WOMEN.

No one who saw the suffrage demonstration in New York Saturday went away without being convinced the reform they ask is inevitable. No cause with such support can ever go in the lost column They may be forced to wait a few years before they are given that which they seek, but forty thousand good women, enthusiastic and determined, working for any public reform, even in New York, can accomplish what would seem to be impossible. Wise ones will get on the band wagon.

Villa is willing to come to America if this country will guarantee to protect him from his own country. We guess the Kaiser will be dickering for similar terms soon.

Dr. Eaton says war is a great blessing to the world. He might go unchallenged here, but we bet he would have an argument if he made that statement in Belgium.

Even the New York Times admitted that the suffrage parade was a success and that the marchers were to be "congratulated and thanked."

The Germans have evidently settled down for the winter. Russia has reported no stratgetical retreats recently.

A California boy held his breath for ten minutes and ten seconds. We would like to see some politicians try it.

THE FORUM

THE SQUIRREL NUISANCE.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

In common with numerous other citizens of Plainfield, I have during the past year suffered much damage from the destructive habits of the gray squirrels, which have increased so rapidly in numbers (especially in the Netherwood district where I reside) as to make them a serious nuisance.

Sometime ago I called the attention of the New Jersey Fish and Game Commissioners to the situation, but was informed that the matter is one that can only be dealt with by the city authorities. It has been suggested that the most feasible and effective way in which to abate the nuisance is through the appointment by the Common Council of a number of persons, who are familiar with the use of shotguns, as special officers, to shoot as many of the squirrels as possible during the coming "open season," which commences on November 10.

To illustrate the extent of the damage done by the squirrels, I wish to state that last fall they destroyed the awnings on my house, and when these were replaced with new awnings this spring the squirrels commenced on them immediately. They also destroyed all the fruit on the place, and after that carried away corn and other garden products. I have heard of instances where the squirrels got into houses and did considerable damage to the contents.

I have no doubt that there are a good many other residents of Plainfield who have suffered from the depredations of the squirrels, and who would be glad to join in a movement to correct the trouble. I would suggest that such residents, who are familiar with the use of firearms, make application to the mayor for appointment as special officers for the purpose hereinbefore indicated.

The Magazine Poet

To read his lovely song about the birdnotes and the breeze
You'd never know he wrote the stuff amid December's freeze.

To read his Christmas carols you would never, never guess
He wrote that copy in the shade while panting with distress.

To read his lovesick maunderings about milady's smile
You'd never know his cross-complaint (divorce!) was now on file.

To scan his songs of children you would never once conceive
That he was single, childless and, at sight of one, would peeve.

In fact, to be a poet who must write things in advance,
One has to be a faker or he'll stand no slightest chance.

Hallowe'en

In a week or so Hallowe'en will come.

It started a long time ago by being the evening before All Saints' Day.

Some village cut-up in the dark ages (and there is a perpetual dark age wherever a village cut-up is allowed to live) started carrying on, that night, and the custom has been kept up.

There is probably a good, logical reason for this.

We are not arguing against it.

We are simply admitting our own density.

But to be perfectly candid and almost utterly honest, we cannot see the connection between All Saints' Day and taking a wagon apart, carrying the various portions to the roof of a barn and putting them together again into a perfectly good but inaccessible-to-a-man with-rheumatism wagon.

We really should have our calendar equipped with a St. Idiot's Day, on which everybody, with the exception of a few, for guards against violence, should be turned loose to get the infernal dippiness out of their systems so that they could keep straight the rest of the year.

The Imperfections Of Life

"When I see those beautiful and costly homes there on the hill——"

"Yes, what!" asked the friend, attracted by the melting sadness of the speaker's voice.

"When I see those beautiful residences with their well-kept lawns, the evidences of wealth and refinement all about them, little children tripping gaily about one and another of them ——"

"Yes?" still more anxiously.

"When I see them standing as really perfect as human dwellings can be made under the most favorable circumstances, I am impressed ——" here a sound much like a sob choked his utterance.

"Go on when you can, friend," soothed the sympathizer, in a low voice.

"Well, I am impressed with the almost certain truth that there isn't a house of the whole bunch that hasn't a spigot in it somewhere that needs a new washer!"

Walnut-Hulling Time

He went out with some other boys
A little after midday luncheon.
Such haste was his he ate with noise
And left the table still a munchin'.

The gang hiked for the woods, nearby,
And thudding sounds from there were heard.
Now he's brown stains from nails to eye;
I wonder what could have occurred?

For Raw-Turnip Fiends

Say—and it isn't bad, either, to go out and pull up a big, frosty-topped turnip with its upper half lavender or purple and its subterranean parts white, wash it under the pump, peel it with your jack-knife and slice it up in nice big hunks for crunching—hey? What say!

Mumps

MUMPS is an acute contagious inflammation of one or both of the parotid salivary glands. Hippocrates described it over 5,000 years ago and we have learned very little more than the Father of Medicine taught about the disease.

Naturally, a disease about which we know so little makes a fine subject for the gossips to speculate upon—but we need not enter into the popular delusions about mumps at this time. As the esteemed keeper of the little corner store used to say: "Come, come, bhoys, find what yez want, spind yer pinny and git out!" Therefore let us tell what we know about mumps.

The incubation period is two to three weeks—that is, the time between exposure and the first sign of illness—a long time for so trivial an illness.

The invasion is interesting, however. Fever, with pain under one ear, followed by swelling which increases steadily for about forty-eight hours. The ear lobe is pushed out by the swelling. After four or five days, the other side is likely to participate in the doings. Sometimes, however, only one gland is involved.

The saliva is either increased or much diminished, but in any case there is no joy in victuals. There is little pain, but rather a feeling of tension and tightness. Here is where Sairy Gamp comes in with her yarbs. Let her! We can't help it!

The swelling persists for a week or ten days in spite of old-fashioned soporifics.

The elevation of the ear lobe by the swollen parotid distinguishes mumps from inflammation or suppuration of the lymph glands in the neck.

In rare cases delirium and high fever develop. There are some half dozen fatal cases on record.

Passing hastily over the subject of complications, we come to the treatment, which consists in keeping the patient in bed and the neighbors out of the house. Light liquid diet, cold compresses to the swelling, or for young children, hot compresses may be preferred. Or else a large pad of cotton covered with oiled silk—not to keep the patient from "taking cold," heavens, no, but to exert a mild counter-irritation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Buttermilk Not Fattening

Have heard doctors say buttermilk is not fattening. Please give us the authoritative word on it.

Answer—Buttermilk would never fatten a human being of ordinary stomach capacity. Sweet milk and cream are fattening.

Licking Envelopes

(1) Would sealing fifty envelopes or so each day with the lips have any bad effect upon the stomach? (2) Why does tea and coffee stop a bad headache?

Answer—(1) It might disturb digestion. Better use a moistened sponge. (2) Because they stimulate the cerebrum and the heart. Sometimes they will aggravate headache.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

THIS is a lovely world, full of bumper crops and palatial homes, of soft-voiced touring cars and luxurious trains, of good things to eat and absorbing books to read and jobs which get fatter every year, and patient golf balls waiting to be abused. The world has never been a closer imitation of Paradise, and we would all be happy and content if it were not for the high cost of living high.

Wages are going up all the time, but so are prices. For a nice exciting little aviation meet there is nothing that can equal the monthly altitude contest between the pay check and the price of necessary luxuries. There was once a time when a man could live well on $1.50 a day and could take off his worries with his socks at night. But how can you live on $1.50 a day now, when the theatre trust has raised the price of tickets to $2 a night and there are ten times as many theatres to be supported?

There was once a time when $60 a month was a young fortune, and a large family, including a future senator, could be brought up on it. Nowadays it costs $60 a month to put one son through college, and about the most you can expect from him is three or four golf clubs, or, if you are lucky, a permanent daughter-in-law.

There was a time when $90 a month put you in the village smart set and you could give a party now and then with ice-cream. But what does $90 a month buy you now? Two automobile tires; and you have to get credit for the third, which blew up on the 29th.

There was a time when $150 a month would buy a nice house with a stable in the back and a horse block in front, and you could have two kinds of cake for dessert and go to Chicago to grand opera once a year. Now $150 a month will just about pay for three weeks at a seashore hotel, and if you don't go your next-door neighbor will come in every evening during the winter and tell you how nice it was on the beach.

There was a time when $5,000 a year made a man so rich that he could be kind to the poor and could give $150 a year to the church, and could be universally beloved because he wore old clothes like the plain people. What does $5,000 a year get you now? Just half as much as your friend's $10,000 gets him, and he uses his extra $5,000 making you look like a misplaced Hubbard squash.

The high cost of living high is causing untold misery in this nation, and something ought to be done in the way of providing the suffering prosperous with parachutes.

Views Of The Press

Will Europe Lose Its "Middle Classes"?

THE OTHER day a banker, a railroad president, a manufacturer, and a newspaper man fell into conversation on the probable state of Europe when the war ends. Their opinions varied about which side would win, or whether it would end in a draw of sheer exhaustion.

They agreed that however it might end the people of the nations on one side or the other, and maybe the people of the nations on both sides, would find themselves under a burden of taxation heretofore never seriously imagined and almost unimaginable.

As illustrative of what he believed would happen, one man told of a conversation some years before the war with the head of a London bank with branches in several European capitals and in the Levant. He asked the banker in what country he thought a man could most safely invest his money.

The bondholder answered that he had been studying that question for two or three years, because of British legislative tendencies, and had concluded that the United States and Canada were "the best bets." He also averred that a very quiet but large migration of British wealth was taking place.

Now if such was the effect of the "social" legislation of England some years ago, what is going to be the effect, in all the European countries engaged, of future taxation to pay for the war—of taxation which it is hard to see stopping short of taking at least half of every income above the bare subsistence level, and not only from this generation but also from the next, and the next?

Whether the war will be followed by a great emigration from the warring countries has been a matter of speculation. Since the destructions of the war will have to be repaired, it is hard to see any great emigration of the masses of toilers, unless it be from countries which escape physical devastation and which will be flooded with returned soldiers whom the industrial formation cannot readily absorb. They may find it necessary to seek newer lands.

But how about the people in all these countries who are neither very rich nor near poverty—how about the Briton with £5,000, or the German with 100,000 marks, or the Frenchman with 100,000 francs?

What are they going to do? Are they going to stay in their native lands, when the grip of martial law is relaxed, and pay taxes that will take half their incomes, and half their children's and their grandchildren's incomes? During the war patriotism and other influences kept them from leaving. But when the war is over, will they feel these pressures?

Are we not likely to see when the European War ends a sort of immigration into this and other comparatively low-taxed countries that has never been known before? Not a migration of those who have little or nothing save strong hands and a willingness to work, but a migration of money?

It is not likely to be a migration of those who control great wealth in fluid form. They will find plenty of occupation and profit in promoting and financing material reconstruction. But it seems likely that the conservative class of merely well-to-do people, the "middle classes" of the warring countries, will find the situation so intolerable as to move them to seek new homes.

And since the history of modern Europe is largely the history of the growth and rise to power of "the middle class," is it not likely that its possible exodus from Europe will have effects quite different from those currently assumed on the political and social reconstruction which many expect?—Chicago Herald.

People's Legal Friend

Then And There

Q. In legal documents, one often finds the phrase "then and there." What does it mean and what is its purpose?

A. The phrase "then and there" usually means the time and place last mentioned. This will be true unless there is some other clause or phrase connected with it indicating a different meaning. Its purpose is to bring about certainty and definiteness.

Mortgaged Land—Who Owns The Crops?

Q. Suppose one should buy some property under foreclosure proceedings. The property at the time is occupied by a tenant and there are crops growing upon the land. To whom do the crops belong—to the purchaser or to the tenant?

A. It is a principle of law that the tenant of mortgaged property can have no better right than has the landlord. Consequently, if crops are growing on the land at the time of the foreclosure proceedings, and if the person occupying the premises became a tenant after the mortgage was executed, the purchaser under foreclosure will have the right to take the crops.

Dippy But Liable

Q. If necessaries of life are furnished to a person of unsound mind, will he be liable to pay for them—that is, if he requested them to be furnished? A. Yes.

A Deed Must Be Delivered

Q. Where a deed is made, does it have to be handed to the person to whom the property is conveyed?

A. A deed must be delivered. What constitutes a delivery will depend on the circumstances. Sometimes there is no actual and manual delivery.

A Nuisance

Q. In case a public highway is improperly obstructed, will such fact constitute a nuisance? A. Yes.

Some Scrawl!

Q. If a person's handwriting is in dispute, would it be legal evidence to show other samples of this person's handwriting?

A. Yes, as a rule.

Business Customs

Q. Do the customs of a trade or business enter into contracts made by persons in such callings?

A. Yes, if such customs are well established and generally known.

"Spare That Tree!"

Q. If one person should go upon another's property and damage the trees, wouldn't he be liable?

A. Yes, he would.

An Old Person's Will

Q. Where a person is old and forgetful, is such person able to make a will?

A. Mere forgetfulness will not make the will invalid. If the person has testamentary capacity, as determined by the usual tests, the will is to be given effect.

A Legal Contract

Q. If a man should make a good contract—one based on a proper consideration—agreeing to dispose of his property in a particular manner by will, would there be anything illegal about it?

A. Nothing illegal about this.

The Life Line

BY LAURA KIRKMAN

He Who Withholds The Little Word Of Help

"But what's the use of telling him he sings well? He knows he has a fine voice," he would argue if we were to take him to task for withholding the praise he often feels for people. Yes. The singer may know he sings well. But he can't hear too often that other people know it, too—that his voice strikes home—that he hasn't spent those endless, endless hours of practice in vain. Praise helps us to keep at our highest watermark. In the moment of temptation, when we are hesitating between work and pleasure, we remember some high estimate that has been put on us. "If I do this lighter thing," we hesitate, "I sha'n't be worthy of that estimate." And we put the temptation from us, and turn our rudder into the channel of hard work again. Many a singer has been saved from the Minotaur of discouragement by the remembrance of a tear his voice called forth—his voice was powerful enough to call forth! Many a writer has taken heart, again, at thought of a friend's simple thanks for a line of comforting words. Yes, it pays to speak the things one feels; it can do us no harm, at least—and it may do so much good! It pays to take the chance. Need of food is not the only hunger. But the miser of cheer sees only our fleshly needs.

He thinks we're empty boxes.

Sense And Nonsense

Make Good Your Words!

My barber said the war would cease
And twelve months see the reign of peace—
And dove to where!
My druggist said my hair would grow
If I used Dunkem's Hair Fotso—
My dome's still bare.
My iceman said his scales are right
But that his ice is colored light—
Ain't that the bunk?
My baker said his bread was fine
I took his word and went to dine—
That bread was punk.
My lawyer said my case I'd win;
The jury thought that it was thin—
I lost my deeds.
My seedman said, "Just sow this or
If you desire a velvet lawn"—
His seeds grew weeds.
My butcher said, "Make no mistake
You'll find this is a tender steak."
'Twas bullet proof.
My plumber said a fancy dome
Was really needed in my home—
He got my roof.
My dentist said, "I cause no pains,
For painful work would hurt my gains"—
My jaw aches yet.
My grocer said his cantaloupes
Were sure to meet my fondest hopes—
I'll not forget.
My broker said a stock would hump
From eighty to one hundred jump—
It dropped like lead.
My friend said, "Just slip me five I'll pay you soon if I'm alive"—
He must be dead.

Temperance

NEWS AND VIEWS

Conducted by THE W. C. T. U.

Mayor Thompson's order closing Chicago saloons on Sunday will take its place with important temperance victories of 1915. In fact, it may be the big victory of the year, which has been so replete with dry successes.

The Illinois State law plainly says that saloons must be closed on the "first day of the week, commonly called Sunday." The so-called liberal element of the city, of course, has never disputed the fact that this is the State law, but they have become obsessed with the notion that the State of Illinois is in the city of Chicago; in other words, that the city of Chicago is bigger than the State, because they have always disposed of the Sunday closing proposition with the statement that the people of Chicago do not want the State closing law enforced.

They have even bamboozled mayors into the acceptance of this doctrine. Mayor Harrison, when asked to enforce this law, went so far as to propose a referendum on the subject, which was just as sensible a proposition as it would be had he proposed a referendum on the question of whether the law against highway robbery would be enforced or not.

Mayor Thompson has taken his oath of office seriously and sees no reason why any exception should be made with the liquor interests in the matter of law enforcement.

Of course, these interests are howling with rage. They accuse the mayor of double crossing them, insisting that they had a pre-election pledge from him that he would not enforce this law.

Be that as it may, Mayor Thompson on the day he was inaugurated raised his right hand and pledged the people of the city of Chicago that he would enforce the law, and he is evidently determined to do it.

A significant statement has been issued by the leaders of the liquor interests of the city, a statement which brands the saloon as a lawless institution. It is to the effect that Sunday closing will result in the death of 2,500 Chicago saloons. In other words, 2,500 of Chicago's 7,000 saloons will die instanter if compelled to obey the law.

Like a bolt out of a clear sky on a recent morning came the order of William Hale Thompson, mayor of Chicago, closing the city saloons at midnight every Saturday night, to remain closed the following twenty-four hours, thereby making effective the State law which provides that the liquor shall be put on liquor shops on Sunday. Prohibition leaders and woman suffrage workers were immediately aroused and congratulatory telegrams and letters from various organizations and individuals began to pour in upon the city executive. The announcement came just as the white ribboners were entraining for the National Convention at Seattle and called forth from Miss Anna A. Gordon, president of the National W. C. T. U., this utterance: "We consider the mayor's edict a great send-off for the trip to our annual meeting. It certainly takes a remarkable type of courage to enforce a Sunday law in Chicago, but when Chicago does take a step we know it is a big one, for the Chicago foot is proverbially large. It will prove a great benefit to the city morally and financially." Later, from the White Ribbon Special, Miss Gordon wired the following words of congratulation to Mayor Thompson.

"Two hundred and fifty delegates representing the eastern, middle, southern and western States, en route to the forty-second annual convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union at Seattle, Washington, congratulate you on the determined stand you have taken in the cause of law and order in your announcement that the laws forbidding the sale of liquor on Sunday will be enforced. You have recognized the best sentiment of the city in the stand you have taken. We thank you."

The Rock River Methodist Conference, meeting in Chicago on the day the mayor's action was made public telegraphed Mayor Thompson:

"We congratulate the city of Chicago on your courageous action in ordering that all saloons, or dram shops, be closed on Sunday in compliance with the law of the State. We hail with joy this step toward sobriety and righteousness, this additional prophecy of the ultimate doom of a traffic that debauches every day of the week. We pledge ourselves to stand by you in such a cause with voice and vote and prayer to Almighty God."

Other organizations are sending words of praise to Chicago's mayor, and men and women of prominence are expressing their personal thanks for his advance step which many predict will bring about the enforcement of the Sunday closing law all over the State and ultimately the enactment of a State prohibitory law.

Amid vigorous applause, the Society of American Indians, at the fourth annual conference recently held in Lawrence, Kansas, unanimously adopted resolutions declaring for the strict enforcement of anti-liquor provisions in all Indian treaties and also declaring for State and national prohibition of the liquor traffic.

The resolutions which were made a part of the platform demands of the society read: "We invite attention to the fact that the first law enacted by Congress looking to the curtailment of the liquor traffic was enacted through the efforts of Little Turtle, the Miami chief; that the Cherokee Legislature began the enactment of laws prohibiting the liquor traffic as early as 1819, a quarter of a century before any such laws were enacted by white law-making bodies, and that the Indian for two centuries has pleaded for the elimination of this curse.

"We now call upon all Indians to promote the prohibition of the traffic entirely by State and national legislation."

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The Plainfield Theatre will show the first episode tomorrow afternoon and night of the greatest and cleanest serial picture film ever produced, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," from the pen of George Randolph Chester. Everybody in America is familiar with the name of "Wallingford." Thousands have read of his amazing adventures and many other thousands have seen him in the George Cohan stage version as produced several years ago. His latest money-making exploits have now been transferred to the screen and lovers of wholesome comedy pictures will be enabled to see him at the Plainfield Theatre commencing tomorrow. Succeeding episodes will be shown every Wednesday afternoon and night and if you wish to be numbered among the thousands who will follow him through this series don't miss the opening tomorrow.

A new vaudeville bill was presented at the theatre yesterday and patrons who have been attending the performances since the present policy was introduced declared it to be the best yet. It is headed by Clifford Hipple and Company, a quartet of exceptionally clever people who present a comedy playlet chock full of laughs, entitled, "Stolen Plans." It is guaranteed to cure the most chronic case of blues. A big hit was made by Stewart and Stone in their singing and talking act and the Clipper Comedy Four put over a number that produced a whirlwind of applause.

Other acts on the fine program of six numbers were Harry Fisher and Company, presenting the funniest comedy bicycle act in vaudeville; Three Musical Cronies, clever instrumentalists, and the Leon Models, in a series of classic poses. A number of one and two reel pictures, both comedy and dramatic, rounded out the fine entertainment.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The High School Commercial Club has started its activities of the school year by appointing two committees to look after the social and program end of entertainments and lectures to be held during the school year. The social committee is composed of Dorothy Hannigan, Myrtle Davis, Anna Harris, Ellen Shjarback and Theodocia Vail; while Mary Bicknell, Evelyn Dickson, Helen McAfee and Beatrice Overbaugh will serve on the program committee. William Sowden, president of the club, introduced a resolution that the constitution be amended so as to allow the holding of meetings on Friday afternoons instead of Thursday.

The two literary clubs, Alpha and Omega, recently formed at the High School by Principal Best, have taken a firm hold on the Junior and Senior classes, and at a meeting of the Omega Club held in the auditorium yesterday afternoon much interest was displayed. An original oration was given by Richard Borden in which he made a plea for fairness in judging the nations engaged in the world war. A meeting of the Alpha Club will be held next Monday afternoon and in that way each club will hold a meeting once in every two weeks. The principal has made it compulsory for the Seniors to belong to one or the other of the two clubs, while the Juniors are allowed to if they wish. Debates between the two organizations will be held during the winter and it is probable that good speakers may make occasional appearances to discuss things of literary value.

Ralph Patch, boys' physical director, is at present engaged in examining all of the boys in the High School with a view of forming them into gymnasium classes, which he will start for the winter as soon as he has completed the examinations. It is now necessary to include gymnasium on the regular schedule for at least three out of the four years unless especially excused, that applying to both boys and girls. Miss Ruth Wean will also start the organizing of girls' classes shortly.

ELECTRIC STRIKE NOT OVER.

Schenectady, Oct. 26.—When the General Electric Company's shops were opened yesterday thousands of striking employes returned to work but many walked out again to rejoin those who had stood in the way of settlement of the dispute. There was no violence.

"What a nice place to hide in."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Bibbley Wah Got Lost In A Barrel.

"DOWN the hill near the little Frenchies' house," daddy started, "Uncle Ben had a lovely fruit orchard. It lay in a sunny hollow where all fruits ripened quickly in the hot air and clung to the trees long because the wind rarely blew there. Each autumn lots of men worked hard to pick and pack the fruit for market, and one day Uncle Ben invited Bobbie and Jim and Bibbley Wah to help. The boys were to get 5 cents an hour for working, and Bibbley Wah was to get 5 cents an hour if she would not hinder them."

"That was quite a lot of money," said Jack.

"All the morning the boys worked like beavers, and many red apples and blue plums and purple grape bunches and yellow peaches went into their baskets, which they hooked onto their ladders so they could pick with both hands. Bibbley Wah had great fun eating all the nice bits that fell, and every time Jim found a very nice red apple he dropped it purposely for her. Finally when her little tummy could hold no more she wished she might run away and play with the French baby, Emile, only Uncle Ben had forbidden her to run away. So she went exploring."

"Where did she go?" cried Evelyn.

"She went to walk through the beautiful avenues of fruit trees. She found a new kind of dragon fly and two strange new mosses. She climbed a young peach tree and tore her apron, and then she found a big, new, clean barrel that Uncle Ben had brought to pack golden sweets in. 'What a nice place to hide in!' said Bibbley Wah, pushing her small person, feet foremost, into the barrel. The hot, sweet air blew against her tired little head, and soon she slept tight as a seed baby. Luncheon time came, and no Bibbley Wah. Uncle Ben sent Bobbie down to the Frenchies and made two of his best men search the orchard. Every man there shouted and searched, but two hours were lost before Jim found the sleeping mischief."

"If I had a mischief like that," cried Jack, "I would let her go without hunting for her!"

"Not if you loved her," said daddy.

"What could happen to her in the orchard?" asked Evelyn.

"She could fall and hurt herself. But Uncle Ben punished her."

"What did Uncle Ben do?" cried the kiddies.

"He persuaded Bibbley Wah that she must pay her 5 cents to the men who had wasted valuable time hunting for her."

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Olive Ellson Thinks an Evening Out May Be Helpful to the Sutners.

"It is of no use to try, really; the harder I try the less I succeed." Molly Sutner gazed in despair out of the window. "I fought all night and firmly resolved not to say anything to John about seeing him out with that stenographer. Having so resolved, I immediately proceeded to make the worst possible scene, and John was too furious to eat his dinner and left the house in a towering rage. He has hardly spoken to me since."

"Don't be so hard on yourself, Molly, dear. You were not yourself that day. No one can try all night and expect to be able to act sanely and calmly the next day. Rub your bruises, get up and go on." Olive Ellson smiled encouragingly.

A scornful smile was her only answer. Olive was busy trying to devise some means of cheering the forlorn little woman and so did not reply.

"I have the consolation of knowing I was right in my suspicions, if it can be called a consolation to have your husband tell you in so many words that he prefers other company to yours." Molly's tone was very bitter.

"Remember he was angry. You, of all people, ought to be able to make allowance for what people say in anger. You know they often regret their words and would like to unsay them.

"Now, I believe the thing to do is to forget your trouble as much as possible. You have got to get out of the slough of despond; no woman is attractive when she is so blue that her gloom colors the whole landscape.

"Here comes the doctor. Get your things on and we will go for a little ride, and you must positively refuse to think of a trouble all the way. Jack is as happy as a king when he is riding. He watches for the doctor with his cunning little face wedged in between the bars of the gate whenever he is in the yard." Olive bustled around to get ready.

"The doctor is so good to him; I surely appreciate his kindness," said Molly fervently.

"Why can't you and your husband come over here this evening? We could have a game of cards and some lively chatter, and you would go away feeling like a new creature. Would he come, do you think?"

"If somebody besides me asked him, he might." Molly visibly brightened at the prospect of a little pleasure. They were stangers in town and she had made few acquaintances.

The doctor's auto stopped in front of the Sutner home soon after John returned from the office, and he gladly accepted the invitation.

"My wife needs to get out; it will do her good," he said. He was almost as much in need of cheering as was Molly.

Molly brightened under the influence of her jolly companions. Her laughter rang out, and John stared in amazement at the transformation happiness made in her. He was not aware that he was showing as unusual a side to Molly. He had become silent and morose at home.

The doctor took them home in the auto, for little Jack was asleep and he would not allow them to awake him. Molly wondered with a palpitating heart how John would act when they were left alone together. He had been so changed that evening. She hurried little Jack into bed, hushing his fretty cry while she listened to her husband's movements about the house. Was this the beginning of better things for them, or would he relapse into his moody silence? She determined to make every effort to keep the atmosphere free from any irritation if it were possible to do it.

RUSSIAN BLOUSE COAT POPULAR

No. 9177.

For ladies and misses a no more popular coat can be found than the Russian Blouse Coat. These are made in single and double-breasted models, the latter having an appropriate somewhat militaristic appearance. These coats are particularly attractive when fur-trimmed, a feature so popular at present. The illustration shows Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 9177—one of these coats. It can be made in any one of 3 lengths, high, turn-down or crushed military collar, full-length sleeves and turn-back cuffs. Lengths of coat at center back, 40, 33 or 25 inches. It cuts in five sizes—34 to 42—size 38 requiring 4⅝ yards of 36-inch material, and ⅝ yards of 36-inch contrasting material for collar, cuffs and pocket laps, or 3¼ yards fur banding and a leather belt.

Patterns can be purchased at the store of A. E. Force and Company.

"HUB" STINE WILL PLAY AGAINST JERSEY COLLEGIANS AT HARRISON NEXT SATURDAY

Many friends of Hebert Stine, both in this city and the borough, are planning to attend the football match between the Rutgers College and Springfield Training School elevens at Federal League Park, Harrison, next Saturday. Stine is playing left tackle for the Springfield team and has been making a name for himself in collegiate circles this season. There is also considerable local interest in Rutgers' football hereabouts and this will afford an excellent opportunity for followers of the game to size up the merits of the much talked of Hercules squad of New Jersey.

Springfield captured its first game of the season several weeks ago at the expense of the strong Middlebury collegians, and the following Saturday Stine's team hung a 7 to 0 trimming on the heads of the Holy Cross warriors, this team having held the Army to a tie count the week previous. Although defeated by Yale the Training School combine was warmly complimented by the Eli captain, who said among other things that the Springfield players were the "best bunch of fighters that Yale had bunked up against up to that time."

Springfield scored on Yale and gave the Eli men some good practice in forward passing. Last Saturday the Y. M. C. A. players put the final touches on their training for the New Jersey game by walloping the University of Vermont athletes to the tune of 54 to 0.

Plainfielders who go to Saturday's game will also have an opportunity to see how a professional baseball player performs on the gridiron. Les Mann, a former teammate of Jack Martin's in the Boston Brave camp, and now a member of the Chicago Federal League outfit, plays the backfield and is an excellent punter.

Rutgers easily outweighs the rival clan, Springfield's average being 162 pounds, as against 180 for the Jerseyites. Owing to last Saturday's lay-off the Scarlet team of this State should be in excellent trim for the combat and should come out a victor. Both team plays the so-called open style of game, but Springfield is perfecting a defense to look after a lot of line plunging from the Rutgers' players.

P. H. S. ELEVEN HAS ESTABLISHED A "REP"

High School Squad Much Sought as An Opponent by Classy Teams.

That the record of the Red and Blue eleven from the City High School on the gridiron so far this fall has traveled to all parts of the State is evidenced by the amount of requests for the open date on the locals' schedule next Saturday. Following a letter from the Rutgers "Prep." manager offering to pay full expenses for a game at New Brunswick Saturday, Manager "Eddie" Crone has had a chance to book a game with the Asbury Park High School at that place with expenses; and one with Pennington Academy on Parker Field. Somerville High School was scheduled to play a return game on Saturday, but after a 71 to 0 defeat at the hands of the locals early in the season, it disbanded.

With the playing of Battin last Saturday Plainfield completed the first half of its schedule and Coach Patch has decided to give his charges a rest until the return game with Westfield on Election Day. Out of the five games played the Red and Blue goal line has been crossed but twice for a total of thirteen points, once by Passaic and once by Battin, while one hundred and twenty-five points have been hung up by Plainfield. Some of the hardest games of the season still remain to be played, including the one at Rahway on November 20, its result really determining whether or not P. H. S. is to have a championship team.

ABRAMS IS PLAYING COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Popular Little Borough Athlete One of the Best Guards in Dickinson.

When the Dickinson College Freshman Class basketball team, of Carlisle, Pa., opens its 1915-16 schedule Saturday afternoon at Pittsburgh, Hyman Abrams, captain of last year's North Plainfield High School quintet, will be in the lineup at a guard berth. Abrams, who entered the institution in September, has already exhibited his versatility as a court performer and is recognized as one of the best all-round players in the college.

Owing to the fact that the institution does not have a representative collegiate team, basketball competition is confined to class schedules and in past years the class teams have in some cases been the equal of many of the university squads. In fact, the Dickinson freshman outfit has on its schedule this year a number of college games and the bookings extend into the spring.

That Abrams, who is a ready mixer and generally popular among his associates, has earned a foremost place among the student body, is asserted in reports hailing from Carlisle. He was elected to the Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity during his first week in the college and is at present residing in the "Frat" house.

This fraternity is one of the largest in the college and numbers among its members thousands of college graduates in all parts of the country.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE MEETING TONIGHT

Important Session of New Organization Called by President Collier.

Members of the executive committee of the Plainfield City Basketball League will meet in the Daily Press editorial rooms tonight. The session will be an important one and it is absolutely necessary that each team have its representative on hand. President Paul R. Collier will be present and he anticipates putting the final touches on the preliminary arrangements for the opening game.

It is expected that the season will get underway about the middle of November and in order that the schedule may be drawn up prior to that time it will be necessary for all delegates to be on hand tonight to give their playing dates and respective courts to the officials. All rosters should be prepared for presentation tonight.

P. H. S. TENNIS TOURNEY WILL BE DECIDED TODAY

The fall tennis tournament at the Plainfield High School will be decided on the Country Club courts today with three boys having a chance to secure first honors. McAnneny and Case have one more set to play, they splitting even on the two sets yesterday, 6-2, 7-5, before darkness called a halt. The winner of that match will play Rodney Parvin, winner of the recent Princeton tournament among Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools and Leal's. The other match yesterday in the semi-finals was played by Babcock and Parvin, the latter winning on three straight sets.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE.

St. Mary's Social Club will hold its regular weekly basketball practice on the T. A. B. court tonight, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock. All young women interested in the sport are urged to report for a position on the team.

The P. E. G. S. basketball squad will practice in the P. H. S. tomorrow night from 7:30 to 9:30. All members are requested to be present as this will be the final practice before the first game of the season next Wednesday night.

The Boys' Recreation Club will hold a basketball practice in the Plainfield High School gymnasium tonight at 7:30.

"TRIANGLES" WANT GAMES.

The "Peninsula Triangles" would like to arrange a game or a series of basketball games with all 100-110-pound teams having home courts. Address H. J. Morrison, 84 West 38th street, Bayonne.

FRANK BRUGGY WILL PLAY BASKETBALL IN ELIZABETH

Frank Bruggy, former local ball player and now a New England Leaguer, has signed to play basketball during the coming winter with the Elizabeth team in the Inter-State League. Bruggy's addition gives Elizabeth one of the classiest outfits on the circuit.

Bruggy has been a much-sought-for basketballer ever since the close of the baseball season, Frank having been beseiged with basketball contracts from leaders of clubs in different sections of the east.

The Elizabeth quintet opens its league season at Stamford, Conn., Saturday night. The first home game will be played on the armory court a week from Wednesday night.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggy, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. —Adv.

URGES ELECTION OF COUNCILMEN

Mayor Calkins Says Their Continued Interest at This Time is Needed.

PRAISES THEIR WORK

City Executive Heartily Endorses Men Who Seek Re-election to City Council and Recalls Their Period of Faithful Service.

In an interview with a Daily Press reporter today, Mayor Leighton Calkins declared that it was his wish that the seven councilmen whose terms expire this year, be returned to the Common Council by the votes of the people next Tuesday. The city executive has been instrumental in securing the consent of several of the candidates to seek reelection as it is his belief that their continued relationship with issues in which they have a personal interest is needed.

He said in part:

"In a way it is unfortunate that the terms of seven out of eleven councilmen expire every other year, because experience means a good deal. Unless councilmen are willing to serve long enough to give their interest and their ability a chance to count for all it is worth there will result a constant change in the personnel of the governing body which tends to lessen its efficiency.

"Last summer we learned with regret that Mr. Clay after six or seven years in the Council, with all the accumulated experience of a long period of faithful service, and Mr. Claybrook on account of his health after a shorter term, but long enough to enable all of us to value and esteem him very highly, would both feel obliged to retire. This was bad enough. But when in addition it appeared that Mr. Cose and Mr. Babcock and Mr. Graves might be disinclined to stand for re-election on account of the time it is necessary to give, I personally expressed the hope, as I did a year ago with Mr. Edgar, that they would reconsider and not withdraw just at a time when their familiarity with our problems and plans is beginning to count the most. If we are going to make community progress we must retain each year at least a preponderance of our administrative experience. We cannot afford to lose a big slice of it all at once."

MISS WARFEL, HARPIST, HAS UNUSUAL TALENT

Another artiste of whom the Musical Club will be very proud at their concert on November 1, is Miss Warfel, the foremost American harpist. Those who have heard Miss Warfel in such organizations as the Philharmonic Chorus, of Baltimore, or the Chicago Symphony Orchestra know her to be a soloist of unusual ability.

Making her debut as a pianiste several years ago after vigorous study of harmony and composition, Miss Warfel took up the study of the harp and after three years with Dorothy Johnstone Baseler, of Philadelphia, with whom she appeared in concert, devoted herself to her favorite instrument. Heinrich Schniecker, of the Boston Symphony, was another master who developed Miss Warfel's talent and later Carlos Salzalo and Ada Cassoil have directed her.

With such constant hard work and numerous appearances before large audiences of many cities, Miss Warfel has now a repertoire of great scope. It is said that the harp in her hands becomes a living thing and that her personal charm even heightens the spell which she casts by the beauty of her musicianship.

FIRST WARD CLUB.

The First Ward Republican Club will hold an important meeting tomorrow evening at the offices of V. W. Nash, Jr., at which several matters of importance will be taken up. The session will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock.

EUCHRE AND DANCE.

The regular monthly business meeting of St. Mary's Social Club was held in T. A. B. Hall last night, a large number of members attending. It was voted to hold a euchre and dance in the hall on Tuesday night, November 16.

HALLOWE'EN MASQUERADE.

The Band of Workers of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school will hold a Hallowe'en masquerade social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hights, 826 Webster place, Friday night, October 29.

BORO MEETING TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Republican Speakers Find It Necessary to Come Earlier Than Scheduled.

The mass meeting of Republicans to be held in the borough for the purpose of urging the candidacy of party nominees before the election of next Tuesday has again been shifted. It will be held tomorrow night, instead of Monday.

It was planned to have this meeting on the night before the election, but because of engagements of speakers for that evening at other places the meeting will be held earlier. State Senator W. W. Smalley, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Ogden H. Hammond are to be the principal speakers. Mr. Hammond is a candidate for Assembly.

The meeting will be held at Republican headquarters at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

NEW JERSEY STATE FEDERATION TO MEET

New Clubs to Be Admitted at Session to Be Held at Woodbury, Saturday.

By recent action of the board of directors of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs seven additional organizations will be admitted to the federation at its semi-annual convention to be held Saturday morning in the First Presbyterian church of Woodbury.

The new clubs will be presented by Mrs. Arthur B. Broal, the vice president-at-large, who is also chairman of the department of organization. They are the Women's Club of Chester; the Fortnightly Club, of Cedar Grove; College Club, of Plainfield, Ruskin Club, of Elizabeth; Woman's Improvement Club, of the Township of Union; Woman's Club, of Succasunna, and St. Andrew's Sunshine Club, of Jersey City.

Although the fall convention of the federation is usually looked upon as the social session of the organization, a number of important matters will come up for discussion. One of the bills the department is planning to introduce is the act passed last winter repealing dower rights. Other bills the committee expects to introduce is the injunction and abatement bill which has been prepared by the Contemporary, of Newark; a new age of consent bill, minimum wage bill, a bill to harmonize the child labor and education laws and a bill to govern children in street trades.

Three speakers on educational topics will be heard at the afternoon session: Dr. Calvin J. Kendall, State Commissioner of Education, whose topic will be, "State Work and State Needs;" Miss Alice Barrows Fernandes, of New York, on "Some Issues In Vocational Education," and Rev. William Force Whitaker, of Elizabeth, "The Child Is Mother of Men."

The State officers and delegates will be the guests of the Civic League, of Woodbury, and the Woodbury Reading Club at an informal reception in the Country Club, Friday night.

G. O. P. TO HOLD MASS MEETING TOMORROW NIGHT

The City Republican Executive Committe will hold a mass-meeting at its headquarters in the Stirling building on Park avenue at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. Arrangements have been made for the presence of the Assembly candidates, W. N. Runyon, C. L. Morgan and Arthur N. Pierson, and the local councilmanic candidates.

The Assembly candidates are losing no time in campaigning throughout the county in their effort to win votes and secure their re-election. The local candidates will also be very active up to Election Day.

TWO WEEKS IN SOUTH.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hadley, and daughter, Miss Victoria Hadley, of East Front street, returned home this morning after a two weeks' trip in the south. They left here Columbus Day, boarding the Clyde Line steamer at New York for Jacksonville, Fla., and during their stay in the south visited Pablo Beach, the Coney Island of the south, and many other interesting places. They also enjoyed a trip up the St. John's river to Sanford, Fla.

FREEHOLDER IMPROVING.

Word received from Freeholder J. Hervey Doane conveys the information that he is now recovering rapidly from the effects of his recent operation. He will probably be home this week or the first of next week.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF BENNETT BRITTIN

Plainfield's Oldest Citizen is Laid to Rest by G. A. R. Comrades.

Funeral services for Bennett Brittin, one of New Jersey's oldest residents, who passed away at his home on West Front street, near Mariner's place, early Monday morning, was held at his late residence this afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, officiating. Attending the funeral was a large delegation from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of which the deceased was a member, and another body of mourners from Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, with which he had been affiliated for many years.

The floral tributes were numerous and handsome and Dr. Anderson impressively eulogized the long life of Mr. Brittin. The pall-bearers were James M. Lewis, J. W. Coddington, J. W. Fink, Edward E. Townley, James Millette and Herman Geise, all members of the G. A. R.

NEW AUTO CHEMICAL TO BE INSPECTED AT ALLENTOWN

Chief T. O. Doane, of the local fire department, accompanied by Councilmen John H. Cose and Theodore Martin, of the councilmanic fire committee, left by automobile this morning for Allentown, Pa., where they will inspect the new combination auto chemical and hose truck, now in course of construction for Plainfield at the Mack plant of the International Motor Company. The apparatus is intended for the West End company on West Fourth street and is to take the place of the present horse-drawn vehicle. The chemical tanks from the latter are to be placed on the new chasse.

The trip to Allentown is being made in the car of Mr. House, sales agent for the International Company, and he stated this morning that work on the truck was progressing favorably and that it would positively be delivered to the city between November 10 and 15. While the shift of chemical tanks is being made the West End company will use the old Alert hose wagon, which has been for many years an exercise wagon.

PLEASING MUSICALE GIVEN AT ALL SOULS' CHURCH

The musicale given under the auspices of the Woman's Alliance of All Soul's church, at the church last night proved one of the most successful events of the kind ever conducted in this city, a capacity audience of music lovers enjoying the treat. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Guy Bender and Stephen Haff.

Probably the most pleasing of the numbers rendered were the solos sung by Master Hugh Gaston, of Somerville, the boy soprano, whose wonderful control and diction brought forth rounds of applause. The remainder of the program included the following selections: Trio, violin, piano, organ, Mrs. Noel Evans, Mrs. Guy Bender and Stephen Haff; solo, Master Hugh Gaston; two baritone solos, William Holmes, soloist of First Baptist church; sextet of women, accompanied by two violins, Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. L. C. Whittalifi, Mrs. Moyer, Mrs. Guy Bender, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. H. B. Lewis; violins, Mrs. Noel Evans and Miss Smith; two songs, Wilfred Picking; violin solos, Miss Smith.

COLLEGE CLUB GIVES RECEPTION TO SENIORS

The annual reception to the senior girls of the various educational institutions in the city and borough by the College Club of the city, was held in the Plainfield High School auditorium yesterday afternoon, fully seventy-five young women attending the function. Girls from both the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools, the Hartridge School and the Plainfield Seminary were the guests. A pleasant afternoon of sociability was spent, during which several addresses by the members of the College Club were given, each being given especially to interest girls in continuing a college course after graduating from the local schools. Dancing followed later in the afternoon and refreshments were served.

"HOME COMING" NIGHT.

It will be home-coming time tonight for the delegation which attended the State Council, Degree of Pocahontas, at Atlantic City. It has been decided that the next Great Council will be in Newark.

WILLING TO MEET LOCAL NOMINEES

Republicans Not to Debate With Any Outsiders, However.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

Chairman Newcorn Insists That the Democratic Candidates Appear to Discuss Campaign Issues as Arranged.

That the Republican candidates in this county are willing to meet their Democratic opponents in joint debate, is asserted by William Newcorn, county chairman, in a letter to L. T. Russell, Democratic chairman, yesterday, but Mr. Newcorn declares that the Democrats have no right to go outside the county to get men for the debate.

Mr. Newcorn's letter to Mr. Russell follows:

"Your letter of the 26th inst. received and contents noted. I am surprised at your suggestion to use two outside Assemblymen for the purpose of backing up a challenge issued by one of your own candidates, which was not contemplated in the agreement made by us over the phone this morning.

"At the Linden Democratic meeting Mr. Leonard issued a challenge to the Republican candidates to meet him upon the public platform and debate the issues of the campaign, the object of which I presume was to substantiate from a public platform certain statements and charges that he was making against the candidates. In behalf of the candidates I accepted his challenge and upon receipt of his letter that his itinerary was complete and that he could not make any other arrangement for holding this debate, I took the matter up with you with a view of making arrangements to have the three Democratic candidates, including Mr. Leonard, who are appealing to the voters of Union county for their suffrage to present their side of the question and the Republican candidates to do the same, agreeing to pay one-half of the cost of the hall and music and for the advertisement in the Republican newspapers, you to take care of the advertisement in the Democratic papers.

"Inasmuch as your candidates have been going around the county appealing to the voters for their suffrage and making statements concerning legislative acts of our candidates, which statements we contend are irresponsible, irrelevant and in many cases untrue, I feel that the questions to be debated should be those to which your candidates have referred as well as any other acts of the Republican Legislature during a given period say for the last five years, and that they ought to be willing to reiterate their charges and allegations upon a platform from which their opponents will be ready to reply, and not delegate their task to someone in whom the voters of Union county are not interested.

"We contend that the voters of Union county are entitled to hear the respective candidates upon the issues of the day and judge them accordingly."

EIGHT HOLY JUMPERS WILL BE ARRAIGNED FOR TRIAL

Eight members of the Pillar of Fire cult will be arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city police court tomorrow morning for trial on a complaint made against them early in September when they were charged with obstructing the street traffic on West Second street, near Park avenue. The Holy Jumpers who have been ordered to appear tomorrow morning are the same ones who were given suspended sentences of $20 fine and forty days in the county jail to be invoked upon a second appearance. The present complaint, however, was made at the same time as the first one and the outcome of tomorrow's case will not be effected by the sentence now being held over their heads.

The case was originally set down for this morning but owing to the fact that Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed was unable to be present it was set over until tomorrow. Oliver R Wilson is the leader of the group, which consists of four men and four women.

SEWING SCHOOL TO MEET.

The sewing school of Warren chapel will begin its fall session in the parlors of the church, Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock. All girls between the ages of 6 and 16 are invited to join the class.

SESAME CLUB TO MEET.

The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at 10:30 at the home of Mrs. H. T. B. Case, of 914 Putnam avenue.

$30,000 SCHOOL BOND ISSUE IS APPROVED

Board of Estimate Sanctions the Proposition for New Building in East End.

Although the exact location of the new East End school building has not been made known as yet, the Board of School Estimate met last night and authorized the issue of $30,000 to cover the cost of erection.

The Wilder & White firm of architects, who had charge of the plans for the new High School, have been authorized to draw specifications for the new East End school. It will be a six room structure, with provision for an addition of six rooms when needed.

The erection of this school will meet a pressing need in the eastern end of the city. At present classes for small children are meeting in the Netherwood Reformed church, which is not adapted for the purpose, but it saves the children in that neighborhood a long walk. The East End Civic Association has been active in the advocacy of a new school for the East End.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR CLUB EUCHRE AND DANCE

Arrangements have been completed and everything is in readiness for the euchre and dance to be given tomorrow night at the Columbus Club auditorium, under the auspices of the wives and friends of the members of the club. The forepart of the evening will be devoted to the playing of cards while a number of other enjoyable forms of entertainment have been provided for those who do not play cards. A large number of handsome and useful prizes have been donated by friends of the club which will be awarded the respective winners at their tables. Refreshments will be served.

An excellent four piece orchestra will provide music for the dancers later in the evening and a large committee appointed by Mrs. D. J. Galbraith, chairman of the function, will see that every one is given a pleasant time. One of the features of the evening will be a number of solos sung by Edward Harding and several other well-known local young men.

PLAINFIELD "VETS" ATTEND 11TH REGIMENT REUNION

Eighteen members of the Eleventh Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, attended the annual reunion of the regiment, held in Westminster Presbyterian church, Easton, Pa., yesterday. The following officers were elected: President, John Schoonover, of Trenton; vice president, Alonzo B. Searing, of Dover; second vice president, William Hand, of Plainfield; treasurer, Captain Charles A. Oliver, of New Brunswick; secretary, Carl R. Searing, of Dover.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the battle of Boynton Plank Road, in which the Eleventh took part. Among those present were the following other Plainfielders: John A. Goodwin and Thomas B. Titswaller. During the past year, Bishop Maines, of Trenton, who was secretary of the regiment, died.

SPICER EMPLOYE SUFFERS SEVERE INJURY TO EYE

Alphonso Caporallaa, an Italian employed at the Spicer Manufacturing Company plant at South Plainfield, suffered a severe injury to one of his eyes yesterday afternoon, when a small piece of steel flew into his face and embedded itself beneath the lids. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the piece of steel was removed. Caporallaa will remain at the hospital for a few days.

BOROUGH TAX SALE.

The annual sale of property on which taxes have not been paid will be held in the borough of North Plainfield this afternoon. The tax sale was scheduled to start at 2 p. m. The amount of taxes due is not large this year, but the sale attracted much attention when it was advertised for Columbus Day and it is expected that there will be a crowd of prospective buyers at the collector's office on Somerset street when he begins to offer the property for taxes.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 61 degrees; 11 a. m., 68 degrees; 1 p. m., 71 degrees.

Postmaster and Mrs. Joseph A. Atkinson, of Freehold, spent the week-end with Captain and Mrs. W. C. Smith, of Grandview avenue.

SEVERELY BURNED IN POND'S FOUNDRY

Jos. S. McCloskey's Arm and Face Scalded Following Explosion of Metal.

Joseph S. McCloskey, aged 50 years, of 124 Watchung avenue, employed in the foundry of the Pond Machine Tool Works, was severely burned about the right arm and face last night while helping fellow-employes to pour hot metal from a large ladle into a huge mould for a lathe casting.

It is the belief that the sand used for making the mold was not sufficiently packed down, leaving some air holes, and when the hot metal was poured there was an explosion. McCloskey happened to be standing the nearest to the point of explosion and some of the metal struck his arm and face. That McCloskey was not seriously burned is considered a miracle. His fellow-employes luckily escaped injury.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH STREET TALKS

Democrats Gather at Jefferson Club Where Enthusiastic Meeting is Held.

Rain, thunder and lightning and a few other things upset all the Democratic plans for a series of open-air mass-meetings, last night, but a well attended and enthusiastic meeting was held in the rooms of the Jefferson Club. It was planned to hold a meeting at the postoffice corner and another at Richmond and East Third streets, in the eastern section of the city, while the third was scheduled for the rooms of the Jefferson Club in the West End. A small company had already gathered at the postoffice when the rain drops began to patter and the spectators dispersed. The same conditions prevailed in the East End.

The rooms of the Jefferson Club were well filled long before the speakers arrived and by the time former Mayor Percy H. Stewart, who presided, called the meeting to order, all seats were filled. The party candidates for the Assembly, William J. Leonard, Robert Meek and Patrick J. Reville, were the chief speakers, while the candidates for the city offices gave short talks.

In his opening address Mr. Stewart endorsed the candidates and their platform. He spoke of the admirable record of the Wilson national administration, and closed with an appeal to his hearers to get off their coats, roll up their shirt sleeves and wade into the fray to insure the election of the entire Democratic ticket.

The Assembly candidates confined their remarks chiefly to State issues, in which they endorsed the administration of Governor Fielder, arraigned the Republican policy in the Legislature and gave the usual promises of their best efforts for the public welfare if the people of Union county honored them by electing them to represent this county in the halls of legislation at Trenton.

PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATES TO SPEAK IN THIS CITY

Edgar A. Knapp, James B. Furber and Theodore F. VanDyke, the Progressive Assembly candidates in Union county, have arranged to hold an open-air meeting in front of the Frost building on Park avenue tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. This will be the first invasion of Plainfield during the present campaign by the Progressive candidates and it is expected that they will be heard by a large number of voters.

The candidates will visit all of the important place in the county between now and election day and judging by the reports they are attracting large crowds to their meetings.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

A birthday surprise party was tendered Miss Anna Doyle at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Arnold, of Elm place, last evening. The guest of honor was the recipient of many gifts by more than thirty friends who were present. Vocal and instrumental music, singing and dancing contributed to the evening's pleasure.

BALLOTS SENT TO VOTERS.

Sample ballots for the election of November 2, next Tuesday, have been mailed out to all voters in the Borough of North Plainfield by City Clerk Dolliver. These contain the names of all candidates before the people, also the act authorizing a bond issue of $1,000,000 for the purpose of buying the Wharton tract for water supply.

SERBS APPEAL TO ENGLAND FOR AID

Admit They Cannot Hold Out Against German Drive Much Longer.

ALLIES CANNOT HELP

Little Nation Will Soon Be in Hands of Kaiser—Greek King Takes Charge of Armies and May Resist Invasion of Allied Troops.

London, Oct. 27.—That Serbia cannot long hold out against the strong drives of the Austro-German armies on one side and the Bulgarians on the other, is admitted even by the Serb leaders, who are appealing frantically to England and other Allied powers for aid.

Serbia's condition is hopeless, and she will soon become a heavily guarded manoeuvring field for the Kaiser's troops. This much is practically admitted, for the Allies cannot send troops enough to reinforce her armies.

The Allies have hopes of success in their efforts to force Greece into the war, according to reports from Athens, which state that already frontier guards of the Greek army have engaged in fights. King Constantine has assumed command of his armies in the field, which is hoped to mean that he fears the threats of the larger nations and will plunge his nation into war, although it may mean that he intends to forcibly resist the invasion of his country by belligerent armies, as Albert of Belgium did. If he takes the latter course he will eventually become the ally of the Kaiser, his brother-in-law.

Roumania is momentarily expected to join the Allies.

England Will Fight On.

Premier Asquith will be asked by Annan Bryce, a Liberal member of Parliament, whether peace suggestions had come from any quarter. Mr. Bryce indicated this in the House of Commons today. He will ask, he said, the Premier whether any peace negotiations are in progress and will insist that the Premier still adhere to his Guildhall declaration that England will not cease fighting until German militarism has been crushed, Belgium freed and the safety of small countries guaranteed.

Russians Maintain Offensive.

Vienna, Oct. 27.—Russian troops are maintaining a steady offensive along the Styr River in the eastern theatre of war all the way from Kolki to the Pripet marshes. These severe attacks are evidently intended to decrease the German pressure against Riga and Dvinsk and also to prevent the transportation of any more Teutonic troops into Serbia.

5,500 Italians Killed.

Enormous losses are being inflicted upon the Italians, according to a statement given out by the Austrian War Office today. On the Doberdo Plateau, says the statement, 3,000 Italian dead were counted. In other sectors 2,500 of the enemy were killed.

Pope to File Protest.

Rome, Oct. 27.—The Tribuna announces that the Pope will forward a protest against the attack of an Austrian aeroplane on Venice, made early Monday morning, in which the Scalzi church was damaged.

Scouting Parties Dispersed.

Paris, Oct. 27.—French war statement:

"South of Loos we have repulsed and dispersed by means of our strong fire very strong scouting parties of the enemy. In Champagne during the night the Germans tried a new attack against our trenches at Le Courtaine, but they were immediately repulsed by our rifle fire, the fire of our artillery and quick firing guns. The enemy then retreated to his own trenches. On the rest of the front the night was calm."

Bulgars Abandon Istif.

The Petit Parisiens correspondent at Athens sends details of the French success at Strumitza. The Bulgarians, after a brisk cannonade by the French, were repulsed toward the frontier. The Bulgarians, as a result of this action, were obliged to abandon Istif.

Turks Reinforce Bulgars.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—The Frankfort Gazette states that 10,000 more Turkish troops have arrived at Dedeaghatch to reinforce the Bulgarian garrison. This paper declares that the Bulgarians at Dedeaghatch anticipate an attack by the French.

Breitung Surrenders.

New York, Oct. 27.—Max Breitung, who is alleged to have been connected with Fay, Scholz, Daeche and Kienzle in efforts to destroy munition ships, surrendered here this morning. His bail was fixed at $25,000. Bail was furnished by the National Surety Company.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day in Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY "ROAST" IN THE MOUNTAINS

A number of the prominent young men and women of the borough, with some out of town friends, enjoyed a "hot dog roast" at Washington Rock, Saturday evening. The party arrived at the Rock at 5 o'clock. A roaring hot fire was built and the frankfurters were roasted. Following the meal a general good time was enjoyed. Those who made up the party were The Misses Vera Smith, of Newark, Margaret Reuter, of Elizabeth; Ruth Voorhees, Dorothy Cameron, Bessie Morris, Beatrice Cameron, and the Messrs. Charles Cregar, of Plainfield; Robert Lloyd, Antone Hauser and Ernest Degerring, all of Elizabeth, and George Martin and Benjamin Dodwell.

Elwood E. Waller has resumed his position after being laid up with malaria.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon R. Dayton and children, of Center street, have returned from Flemington, where they were guests of Mr. Dayton's brother, Charles F. Dayton.

REPUBLICANS HOLD MASS MEETING AT NEW MARKET

A Republican mass meeting was held in Friendship Hall, New Market, last evening. All of the candidates, including William A. Spencer, the candidate for State Senator, were present. Committeeman C. Lester Rule presided over the meeting.

The chief speaker of the evening was Robert Carson, of New Brunswick, former Republican leader of the State. He reviewed the rapid increase of the debt of the Nation, State and county under Democratic administrations and had the data on hand to prove his assertions.

When the Republicans went out of power in 1910 he stated there was $2,000,000 in the State treasury, and in 1914, when the Democrats were turned out, this surplus had been turned into a deficit of $1,000,000. In the year the Republicans have been in control of the Legislature this deficit has been cut in two.

Following Mr. Carson, Robert Newton Crane, of Plainfield, delivered an able address which was loudly applauded. C. M. Haight, the local candidate for freeholder, in well chosen words, pledged an economical administration if he and the other freeholder candidates were elected. William Trimble, of Elizabeth, also spoke.

SHERIFF KINKEAD BOOMED FOR THE GOVERNORSHIP

Some eighteen hundred ardent followers of Sheriff Eugene F. Kinkead of Hudson county, gathered last night in the Fourth Regiment Armory, in Jersey City, to dine and applaud the speakers who proclaimed Mr. Kinkead as the rising Democratic nominee for the Governorship of the State.

The dinner was under the auspices of the G. A. R. and Spanish War Veterans and was given to commemorate the burning words of devotion to the flag which the sheriff uttered when he ended the strike at Bayonne last August. At that time, with diplomacy, guile and a stiff upper cut with the left hand, he ended rioting and destruction of property.

Representative George Loft, of New York; County Judge Mark A. Sullivan, of Hudson county, and Alexander Simpson, of Jersey City, were among those who declared Mr. Kinkead the logical Democratic standard bearer in New Jersey for 1916. A whole host of political celebrities from New Jersey and New York organized the speakers' table.

FREDERICK WILBEE'S FUNERAL IS HELD

Large Attendance of Mourners at Service in Bound Brook Church.

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends from this city and other places, the funeral of Frederick Wilbee, the former young Plainfielder who died in the Somerset Hospital, Somerville, as the result of injuries received in the Cott-A-Lap Wall Fabric factory at Bound Brook, was held in St. Joseph's church, Bound Brook, this morning. The requiem mass was said by Rev. Father Thomas Rudden, pastor of the church, who took occasion to touch upon the untimely demise of the young man. There were many handsome floral tributes, from the family and friends, among them being a standing cross six feet in height, presented by the members of the Cott-A-Lap concern.

The body was afterward brought to this city for burial in St. Mary's cemetery, where nearly one hundred local friends were in waiting for the commitment service. The casket was borne to its last resting place by six associates of the deceased: Hugh Riley, Patrick Guinee, James Conway, Cornelius McCarthy and Henry Kearns, of this city, and Michael McCormick, of Bound Brook.

A telephone inquiry to the Somerset Hospital at noon today brought the information that John Duffy, of Grove street, the borough, who was injured at the same time that Wilbee received his fatal burns, was still in a serious condition but his chances for recovery are much better than they have been for the past two days. Duffy is twenty-three years old and is the son of Mrs. Bridget Duffy. The third victim of the explosion in the Cott-A-Lap factory, James Sullivan, is also reported as doing well.

EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

One of the most interesting courses of lectures ever prepared by a college is the "College Nights" at Brown University, which started last night, when Roger W. Babson, the noted statistician of Boston, addressed the college men on "How to Get Along." Major General Leonard Wood, Warden Thomas M. Osborne, of Sing Sing, and others are slated to speak at succeeding "College Nights." An interesting speaker is scheduled for November 9, in the person of Capt. Hans Rusel, of the German liner Vaterland, which is interned at New York. Capt. Rusel will tell of his experiences in the South Polar regions while in command of an expedition.

The government of Bengal has approved a plan for the establishment of the "Indian Eton," where the sons of gentlemen in India may be prepared for Oxford and Cambridge and for the five large Indian universities controlled by the government. The Bengal government has given a building for the new school, to accommodate 50 boys, and an English headmaster is assisted by four native scholars.

The explorations of two members of the faculty of the University of Oklahoma, who have spent two years in their work of investigation, have resulted in the conclusion that the countless thousands of mounds of Oklahoma were each the "ruin of a timber-framed, dome-shaped, turf-covered human habitation," built and inhabited by a race leaving no traditions but which occupied the territory at least 600 years ago. These prehistoric people, judging from the many pieces of pottery and the implements recovered, antedated the aboriginal tribes of the United States and excelled them, especially in the making of pottery. These mound dwellings exist on an average of 2,000 to the square mile. The mounds were previously thought to be remains of building sites for Indian wigwams.

That fewer college students and fewer high school students are taking up the study of German this fall is one of the features of the early reports of enrollments. The instructors lay the blame to the war in Europe. In some colleges it is said the German courses have had heavy falling off. In the high schools the same thing is noticeable. The only figures at hand were gathered in the four high schools of Minneapolis where, in the face of an increased total enrollment of 465, only 420 in all took German, as against 495 taking the German courses last year. The drop is 15 per cent. in numbers in the classes, in the face of vastly larger entering classes. While French and Latin are holding their own, German felt the drop acutely, Spanish gaining much popularity. The increase in Spanish classes indicates the path of trade as an influence in the language classes.

Reports from McGill University, the great Canadian center of learning, show an astounding decrease in the number of men taking up science. The enrollment this fall is 400 below that of last year and 500 below that of two years ago. The biggest decrease is in the Faculty of Applied Science, where the total has dropped from 493 last year and 604 in 1913-14, to only 330 this year. There is a loss of 100 in the Faculty of Arts and in medicine and dentistry the loss reaches nearly a hundred from last year's figures. The law school has decreased from 69 last year and 77 the year before to 55 this year. To the educator this news spells a check in the great growth of Canadian education, which has kept pace with the movement in the United States.

The proposed Michigan Union building at the University of Michigan, for which a million dollars is being donated by the alumni, will undoubtedly be dedicated to President Emeritus James B. Angell, who has been for 44 years titular head of the university and has served 60 years as an educator. Dr. Angell has always had at heart the complete democracy of the students and the socialization of the forces of the university—faculty, undergraduate alumni and citizens. Dr. Angell is nearing his 87th birthday, and he has rendered notable public service aside from his great work as an educator.

ENDEAVOR RALLY.

Rev. C. S. Gillespie, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, will speak at the rally meeting of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union in the Seventh Day Baptist church tomorrow night. He will take as his topic "The Challenge of the Century." The meeting will be somewhat in the nature of a convention, the societies meeting before the opening time and giving their society yells. An award will be given to the most enthusiastic yell. The song service will be in charge of Horace Martin. Miss Etta Raybert will be the soloist.

VILLA TAKES OVER SMELTER.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 27.—Confiscation of the Chihauhua plant of the American Smelting and Refining Co. by the Villa state government of Chihuahua, has been announced by S. L. Baker, legal representative of the corporation. Mr. Baker says that there are 2,000 tons of fuel at the plant and his advices are that the Villa government is operating or is about to operate the property.

BUT THE VILYUN MISSED HIS CUE

Too Late Now to Gloat Over "For Rent" Sign on Suff Office.

The stage was set for a melo-drammer on Depot avenue, yesterday morning. All that was necessary to the plot was a vilyun who could laugh with fiendish glee, but he, or she, failed to come along at the proper time, and the story will have to be written as what might have been.

As a background for the drama there was the front of suffrage headquarters. Prominent displayed in the window, with its draperies of gold, the color of the cause, and surrounded by appeals for votes for women, and optimistic predictions of victory in the New Jersey election, was a big cardboard sign, which bore the bitter words, "For Rent." If an anti—a real, rabid anti who could gloat and grin sardonically at the same time—had happened along while a Press reporter stood viewing the strange spectacle, it would have been a great story but the anti missed her cue and who can write a meldrammer without a vilyun.

Not being able to write the story that first suggested itself to him the reporter was forced to follow his second line of thought and when he sought an explanation of the sign his story vanished.

"It doesn't mean anything," said Mrs. Champlin Riley, vice president of the Plainfield Equal Suffrage League, when she was called at her home. "We only had the building for an indefinite time, and to be frank the sign has been there for days. We just covered it up with banners and suffrage placards, but now it has been exposed to view."

"No, we have not quit, and we will not quit until we get the right to cast a ballot on all questions that concern our welfare. There is no work to be done locally just now, and all of the workers have earned a nice little rest. We are taking it, but we will go back to work soon. There will be a meeting of the State Board at Elizabeth tomorrow, and we will plan a new campaign there. After that I will be able to announce our plans for the near future."

Mrs. A. B. Jones, president of the Plainfield League, returned the first of this week from Pittsburgh, where she was called just before the election by the sudden death of her sister-in-law, as the result of an automobile accident. Her brother-in-law was seriously injured and she has been at his beside. Mrs. Jones will take charge of the local work and will announce a plan of action.

Mrs. Riley said yesterday that the suffragists would positively maintain headquarters here. If the building which they have occupied for so long a rented they will move to another within a short time.

MERICAN SIDE OF THE EXPOSITIONS TO BE SHOWN

An interesting feature of the lecture on the Expositions of 1915 on Thursday evening in the Public School course, by Arthur Stanley Riggs, F. R. G. S., will be the confining of the subject entirely to the American side of the expositions. The conventional travel lecture dealing with expositions has been done to death in the past, and Mr. Riggs says he is going to interpret the rising spirit of art and architecture. America today, he feels, is perhaps on the verge of a mighty reconstruction in matters artistic.

He believes these expositions of San Diego and San Francisco, with their exquisite and grandly symbolic architecture, landscape gardening, art and horticulture, mark an epoch and prophesy the future as no other expositions ever have in the past. It is only necessary, Mr. Riggs declares, to give the people an opportunity of seeing, and of understanding the significance of such a movement, to stimulate further the already well developed spirit of progress. The lecture will be illustrated with colored, black and white and monochrome views of the buildings, paintings, lighting effects and landscapes.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Myrtle Stedman in "Wild Olive," a Paramount picture in five parts, will be the screen feature of the U. S. Astor Theatre this afternoon and tonight. "Wild Olive" tells a story of romance and adventure and gives Miss Stedman ample opportunity to put into effect all her remarkable dramatic talent. Tomorrow's feature will be "Emmy of Stork's Nest," with Mary Miles Minter in the leading role. Mary is growing up. She has graduated from straight child's parts into characters that permit her to play a child and young woman, all in the same picture, and she does it exceedingly well.

BAPTISTS TO MEET HERE.

The Women's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of Eastern Association have announced that the society will meet in Plainfield in the First Baptist church on Friday, May 19, 1916.

Young Women's Suits with No Fur Trimming

Now that the colder weather is bringing out fur scarf and muff sets, girls are demanding suits with no fur trimming. They tell us they are difficult to find.

But we have plenty of the beautiful plain gabardines, novelty tweeds, in blue and tans, and wool velours with not a scrap of fur on them. They are just the fine, beautifully built things that a tailor might make for you, but are priced only $32.50 and $35.

No Lack of Fur-Trimmed Suits

No, indeed. But they are really fur-trimmed with thick, soft bands, not little wisps of skin. Blue, brown and green broadcloths and poplins, with beaver and nutria. Russian green is attractive with the black of Hudson seal (dyed muskrat) and skunk opossum is becoming on any color. A superb collection of these suits in some thirty models at $30, $32.50 and $35. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Wanted--A Piped-Piper to Rid Plainfield of Its Squirrels

In a divorce suit in the Union county courts last week a woman declared that she would "rather work in a Philadelphia bakery than live in Plainfield," and today certain well-known Plainfielders are responsible for the assertion that there are so many nuts in the Queen City that it has become over-run with squirrels. The nimble little mites of the rodent family are making nuisances out of themselves in the four quarters of the city, stealing crackers from perambulators, robbing pantries, nipping pretty little holes in awnings, making napping places out of porch chairs and many other things that have made the populace sit up and take notice.

Mayor Leighton Calkins has been appealed to by certain suffering citizens and the city executive is now busily engaged in a hunt for a pied piper. The four-legged fur bearers are becoming bolder every day and unless something is done before many more moons have rolled by Plainfield taxpayers fear that they will be worse off than the people of Hamlin who entertained sister members of the rodent family on a similar scale.

Thousands of squirrels have established winter quarters in the city's trees and the Indian Summer weather of late has inspired them to take daily strolls in search of a food supply. Citizens who several months ago coaxed the little animals to come up and eat nuts out of their hands are today pondering on the question of how to get rid of the boarders.

As a last resort Game Warden Hoblitzel, of Union county, was appealed to, and he suggested that the city ordinance relative to the use of firearms within the municipal borders be annulled. Mayor Calkins, however, believes that this would tend to produce a tendency on the part of juvenile adventurers to indulge in target practice on the city's streets, endangering life. He has suggested to complaining citizens that they allow their name to be presented to the Common Council for appointment as special policemen, which will carry with it the right to use firearms. The open season for squirrel hunting opens on November 10 and closes December 15, and unless some other solution to the rodent problem is unearthed before that time the city is likely to be turned into a hunting ground for lovers of squirrel shooting.

GREAT THINGS HAVE SMALL BEGINNINGS

History of Inventions That Have Become World-wide In Importance.

Great things have small beginnings. A spectacle maker, Jan Peipersheim by name, living in Holland, invented a crude magnifying glass in 1608. Anton von Leuwenhoek, born in Delft, this day 1632, improved this clumsy toy and evolved a compound microscope which has become the most valuable sanitary tool yet devised by man. That first microscope was as far removed from the high-powered instrument of today as is the modern American from the original caveman. Yet by this faulty means, Leuwenhoek, naturalist, physician and botanist, discovered certain minute bodies which he called "little animals." He made drawings of these and today we know them for those useful friends and malignant enemies of man—bacteria.

We spend our days surrounded by another world, a living world of countless billions, invisible to the naked eye, silent, tireless, destroying the living, consuming the dead, useful in the sciences and arts, yet often followed by a train of sickness, suffering and death. A curious paradox this, yet bacteria are at once the greatest and the fiercest foes of every living things. Not animals, as Leuwenhoek thought, but vegetables, bacteria consist of two classes, those which prey on living things and those which reduct to their original minerals, fluids and gases, every dead thing which they attack. They are of various shapes, round like marbles or straight like little sticks. They grow in clusters, chains and in pairs. They are ubiquitous. The dusty air, the earth and its waters, the interior of animals and plants all contain them. They cause the fermentation of foods, they make cheese, they produce disease and some of them when killed and injected into an animal protect it against the very disease which they would have produced if living. Many of them live as harmless creatures in the body of an animal for years, only to kill their host when the opportunity presents. Their study has given birth to a science, bacteriology, one of the foundation stones of public health.

Their mere presence does not necessarily produce disease. Recalling the parable of the sower, some bacteria fall by the wayside, some fall upon stony places, and some fall in good ground and bring forth the fruit of suffering, perhaps of death. A normal, temperate life, free alike from the gluttony of idleness or overwork, the sound mind in the sound body, a cheerful, normal environment, these form the stony places in which bacteria take no root. The depraved appetites of mind and body, the dark and sordid atmosphere of penury, the nerve racking and strength undermining trades, these prepare the good ground.

The great weapon against bacteria is cleanliness. The mastery over premature death lies to a great measure in our own hands. Clean persons, clean cities, clean workshops and clean lives are the makers of public health. The United States Public Health Service and other sanitary bodies of this country are gradually bringing these facts home to the general public. In this way cleanliness is becoming more general, and the span of life in America is gradually being lengthened. All of which is largely due to the microscope.

MRS. WORMAN FOUND GUILTY.

Somerville, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Matilda Worman was yesterday found guilty under an indictment of assault and battery committed on Elizabeth C. Munoz on July 17, 1915, and today Mrs. Munoz is the defendant in a similar action brought by Mrs. Worman.

GREEKS OF AMERICA FLOCK TO THE COLORS

Boston, Oct. 27.—It is estimated that from 70,000 to 100,000 Greeks from the cities of the Atlantic coast will respond to the call of King Constantine to report for war service. In New England alone some 18,000 are responding. The second shipload of reservists and other Greeks sailed Sunday from New York, and thousands of others are ready for the next sailing.

The reservists in New England were notified to call at the consul's office in Boston, and they responded to the man. They produced their little service books showing their military history. All of the men of the classes from 1892 to 1914 were called. About 9,000 reservists are booked to go from New England, and an equal number of youngsters who left their Greek homes before they reached the training age.

Each of the men called in New England was forced to pay his own fare to the Boston consulate. The government absolutely demands this, and if there be any man who has not enough funds to defray his expenses he must borrow it or take the consequences. Reservists who are ill are excused when a certificate is produced from a reliable physician.

The call has worked great hardship on some of the Greeks, but they have bravely stood the test. Many have left prosperous businesses, for the Greeks are thrifty and own restaurants and stores. One man with ten children was refused an excuse from service, and must go to the front. Many have sold out their business at big financial loss, and the savings of years of hard work are wiped out by the call of war.

POLITICAL NOTES.

November 2—General Election Day.

Republican, Democratic and Progressive candidates are winding up their several campaigns for election honors in Newark in a veritable whirlwind of political events. Meetings of one sort or another are scheduled right up to election eve. The Republicans have stumped the county from one end to the other and there is scarcely a hall of any size in all Essex that has not been engaged by one of the parties during the present week. The Democratic candidates under the leadership of former City Attorney James R. Nugent, are confident of victory in Newark next Tuesday. One of the features of the present contest in the city has been the unusual activity among the Progressives who have for the most part endorsed the Republican candidates.

Board of Works Commissioner Charles P. Gillen, independent Democratic candidate for re-election, has all through the campaign been particularly singled out by his opponents in Newark as a target for much criticism. Mr. Gillen now invokes the muse against his enemies. Referring to the Wawayanda water rights, which Newark wanted to purchase for $142,000, but which Mr. Gillen opposed on the ground that the price was $37,000 too much, the Democratic nominee says:

The dam is there yet by the mill site,
The water it still flows on,
But the mill isn't there by a dam site,
Johnny, my old friend, John.

Mr. Gillen adds that the name of this ancient water is no longer Wawayanda, but Way-way-yonder. Mr. Gillen has been rebuked by many for his opposition to the proposed purchase, which his vote defeated.

U. S. MARINES FIRED ON BY HAYTIANS

Troops From Battleship Connecticut Being Rushed to Their Rescue.

Washington, Oct. 27.—American marines under command of Captain Campbell are under attack at Bahon, near Grand Riverre, Haiti, according to a message received at the Navy Department today from Rear Admiral Caperton. Reinforcements from the Battleship Connecticut are being rushed to the troops who have hastily thrown up barricades.

U. S. MERCHANTS TO ORGANIZE TRUST CO.

Washington, Oct. 27.—In order to reduce to a minimum the detention of American ships by belligerent countries and the confiscating of their cargoes the Department of Commerce, in a lengthy statement issued today, advocates the formation by United States merchants of such organizations as the Netherlands Over Sea Trust Co., Ltd., which was recently recognized by the British Government, and is now rendering invaluable assistance to neutral shippers.

URGES REPUBLICANS TO SUPPORT WILLIAM HAMILTON

William B. LaRue, of New Market, who was defeated for the renomination of tax collector on the Republican ticket at the last primary, is indignant over a report that those who regret his defeat intend to vote for him at the coming election in preference to William Hamilton.

"Mr. Hamilton defeated me fair and square," said Mr. LaRue today "and he will have my unqualified support in the coming election. I sincerely hope that none of my friends will vote for me for the reason that they would only be strengthening the chances of the Democratic ticket for victory.

ZEEK BAKING COMPANY SUES LEHIGH VALLEY CO.

Somerville, Oct. 27.—The suit of the Zeek Baking Company, of Plainfield, against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, in which it seeks $1,800 damages for the loss of its auto delivery car, when it was hit by a railroad train at the Manville crossing in November last, is on today before Judge Silzer in the county court.

At the time of the accident Norman Force, of Plainfield, driver of the automobile, was killed. George W. Gebhardt represents the Zeek Baking Company, while George Large is counsel for the railroad company. It is not likely that the case will be completed today.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

An election of officers was held yesterday by the Alpha Literary club of the High School, but as only thirty-one votes were cast when at least fifty will be necessary, the balloting will be held over until enough have voted. The offices of president, vice-president, secretary and sergeant-at-arms are to be filled.

With the announcement by Warren Mumford that he will again go out for High School football the red and blue stock has taken a considerable jump. He was tackle last year, but disclocated his shoulder in the alumni game and did the same thing again in the first few days of Fall practise.

RECREATION NOTES

The committee in charge of the formation of a "Community Centre" in the west end section of the city will hold an open meeting in the Washington School tonight. An invitation is extended to the residents of the west end of the city to cooperate with the committee in forming this new feature.

The P. E. G. S. will meet tonight in the Plainfield High School gymnasium for basketball practice and a short business session. All members are urged to be present.

PURE MILK CONVENTION.

Washington, Oct. 27.—The fourth annual convention of the International Association of Dairy and Milk Inspectors, which opened here today, has brought to Washington many municipal officials from all over the United States and Canada. These experts are charged with the duty of seeing that milk supplies are pure and wholesome and that dairies are kept in sanitary condition. For three days the government experts will cooperate with the visitors, and every phase of the milk question will be discussed. Diseases of cattle and their relation to the milk supply, human diseases and their relation to milk and the public health, chemical analysis of milk, dairy farm inspection, and other subjects will occupy the milk experts during the first day. A. N. Henderson, of Seattle, president of the association, is presiding. The visitors will inspect the government laboratories and will get an insight into the methods by which infected milk can be detected.

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT

Maish Comfortables

Doctors, surgeons and health specilists throughout the world, all agree that "sound sleep in cold fresh air saves more lives than science." Just as essential, however, is a warm covering, the lighter in weight the better, just so it is warm.

The depressing weight of heavy bed covers is a constant strain upon the whole body, keeping the muscles tense instead of allowing complete relaxation.

The warmth of any bed cover depends upon its thickness and its heat retaining qualities, "but never on its weight."

The beauty of Maish Laminated Cotton Down Comfortables lies in the fact that they are so thick and lofty (therefore warm) and so wonderfully light in weight. They are so delightfully soft and pliable that they cling to the body, even though they are thick. Maish Comfortables are superior to any on the market.

We are showing a complete line of them in Silkoline, Sateen and Seco Silk, ranging in price as follows:

$3.25, $3.75, $5.00, $6.50

THE Wizard Triangle Polish Mop

Lightens housework. Triangle in shape it gets in the corners, absorbs the dust, cleans and polishes all kinds of floors. The regular selling price of these mops is $1.25. The manufacturers are conducting an advertising campaign and have authorized us to offer the mop with every mop sold a 50c bottle of Wizard Polish, a $1.75 combination for 1.25 and you will appreciate the luxury of a perfect fitting corset, giving readily to every movement of the body. Not only at first, but as long as it lasts, your corset will be the same; for a Warner is designed to fit comfortably and to give long wear. Every bone—in fact every seam—is placed to give the wearer ease.

All the Boning is Double—two thin strips in a single cover gives Warner's Corsets the suppleness so necessary, with less possibility of breaking than is possible with any single steel of equal weight.

Then the "Interlinings"—the strips that hold the bones in place. The boning cannot push through or tear the corset, or can it slip from place.

The Cloth Itself is Guaranteed and will stand the strain of constant wear.

INSIDE QUALITY.

You must look deeper than the surface. It is the unseen parts that make the corset right, and only the best is used inside as well as out in Warner's. We guarantee that every pair of Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets WILL NOT RUST, BREAK OR TEAR.

Sale of Mattresses 10.50 Values for 7.50

Here's a lot of mattresses that we could sell regularly for $10.50 and it would not be asking too much for them; in fact, most stores would get $12.50 for them. They are made of excellent quality elastic cotton felt, covered with satin finished dust proof ticking, made in two parts with Imperial roll edge and weigh full 50 pounds. We bought them when cotton was very low in price and for that reason can offer you this, the biggest and best mattress value of the season.

SENATOR MARTINE DISCUSSES ELECTION

Resents Attempt of Certain People to Misrepresent His Position on Suffrage.

United States Senator James E. Martine in an interview with the Hackettstown Gazette, discusses the recent election on the suffrage amendment and makes the following comment:

"I have no personal satisfaction or regret in this result. The people have in their usual dignified and impressive way met and determined a great issue or policy of their government for themselves. I differed with thousands of my good friends on this issue, differed honestly with the great President of this Republic, but it is the American way to not only tolerate but honor an honest difference of opinion. The thing I should resent, if it were worth resentment, is the effort of certain people and newspapers to misrepresent my position in opposing woman's suffrage. I haven't the happy facility of deceitful neutrality on living issues. The one big argument, or sentiment, in favor of woman's suffrage was that advanced by my great and good friend, William J. Bryan. He demanded that women shall participate in our politics that she may have a voice in fixing the environments of her children; and the answer is that father has an equal interest in fixing the environments of his children, and I am not inclined to permit father to unload any of his responsibilities on mother.

"The issue is determined for the time. The whole nation has been brought to a higher and better viewpoint by the discussion and I am not conscious of any word or act of mine which did not represent conviction. I do not stoop to dignify by denial the petty charges of abusing my position or my privileges to influence the vote of any man."

GIVES IMPRESSIVE TALK ON GOD'S WORD

Charles Taylor, "Boy Evangelist," Makes Strong Appeal to the Unconverted.

"This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners," was the topic of Charles Taylor's earnest discourse at the revival service in the Park Avenue Baptist church last night. A large congregation listened attentively to the young evangelist's interpretation of this portion of the Scriptures.

"There are not very many faithful sayings in the world today," he said. "Though young, I have met with many disappointments and broken promises. If this book we call the Bible is merely the word of man, then I am wasting your time and mine; but we know it is the infallible word of an infallible God. Friends may fail us, but the Word of God never fails—He keepeth His promises forever. There are people who have lost all faith in man and who put God in the same class. I believe this Book just as it is—from Genesis to Revelation.

"Our text says Christ Jesus came into the world. Poets wrote of His coming. Angels sang of His coming. He came unto His own and His own received Him not. His first pillow was straw. His last a crown of thorns. His first bed was a manger, his last bed the Cross. His first companions were cattle, his last, the two thieves. His first resting place was a stable, His last a borrowed grave. What was His object in coming? Some believed that Christ would come in royal pomp and splendor; had He come to this world as a God, man would have shriveled up and gone out of existence. No, His object in coming to earth was to save. Man had almost given up in despair when tidings came that a Savior was coming to save them—and then when He came they rejected Him.

"Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. We all are sinners, but some of us don't know it. I couldn't tell your name as the world knows it, but your real name is Sinner, and every sinner must be saved in the same way—the blood of Jesus cleanses the gamblers, thieves, drunkards, liars, murderers, and members of the 'four hundred aristocracy.' God is no respecter of persons.

"I have traveled over many of the large cities, and the one thing that impresses me most is the wholesale manner in which the people forget God; their God is pleasure, fashion, position, money." The young preacher pleaded with his audience not to leave Christ out of their lives. "I am a sinner saved by grace," continued the boy, "and am trying to serve Christ by bringing others to Him. We don't have to face lions and other kinds of torture today when we come out on the Lord's side; perhaps if we did, our religion would mean more to us. As it is, others don't know oftentimes when we are Christians; some of us need placards on our backs to proclaim this fact—that is why there are so many hypocrites in the world today. The devil is in this meeting, but the Holy Spirit is here too; there's a warfare going on in your hearts."

The young evangelist pleaded that his hearers might not put off this vital question. "Leave the church a Christian tonight, tomorrow a sayer of others—not saved just to get into the church and do nothing, but to bring men and women to the foot of the Cross. The greatest desire a Christian should have is to save lost souls."

The young preacher asked all who would try with the help of God to lead others to Him, and who would reconsecrate their lives to His service, to rise, and almost the entire audience rose to their feet.

This evening is to be known as "Family Night," and the boy preacher will talk about "The Eternal City." As far as possible, members of a family are asked to sit together, and all the members of a family are urged to be present. The service will be of special interest.

PLATTSBURG TRAINING CAMP NOW SHOWS PRACTICAL RESULTS

Practical results of the Military Training Camp for Business and Professional Men, at Plattsburg, N. Y., have begun to show. The camp has succeeded in impressing the need for a more adequate national defense. Similar camps have sprung up at different points. There has been one at Seattle, another in Chicago and now one is going on at Ft. Myer. All are direct results of the first camp at Plattsburg, which was attended by men from all sections.

The net result of the Plattsburg camp will undoubtedly be a working arrangement between the army authorities and civilians for a permanent volunteer federal reserve. A tentative plan now before Gen. Wood may have far reaching significance. Under its terms not only the men who served at Plattsburg, but other men of proper age and qualifications may become reserve army officers.

The plan is to give men who have served in military camps a course of training in an instruction camp each summer and a course of study by correspondence from some army post in the winter. The system will probably be made to fit in with the student camp movement, of which Dr. Henry S. Drinker, president of Lehigh University, is at the head.

Trenches of every kind known to the European battlefields line the Plattsburg camp. They were first occupied by the business men soldiers in anticipation of a "surprise" attack, in which they were opposed by regulars.

On the hike to the sham-battle, a new feature was the carrying along of three experimental soup kitchens. There was also an automobile "water-wagon," on which there was a heavy demand.

GREECE MUST FALL.

Greece is still desperately gripping her beloved neutrality, but the brutal hacking of England, France and Russia will soon cut her loose and she, too, will fall into the whirlpool of blood and madness.

The only real difference between the Greek and Belgium cases when they are finally ended will be the heroic stand that King Albert's men made to enforce their neutrality. The predicament of Greece is a pitiful one. Her men are courageous enough, but they are bewildered by the frantic attempts of their rulers to save their own skins. King Constantine is pledged to his brother-in-law, the Kaiser, to keep the country from aiding the Allies. To his credit it may be said that he has been offered rewards that only a king or emperor could give, and only a king could receive, to throw his influence with either side, but he has steadfastly refused to enter the war. When confronted with a cabinet that favored carrying out the treaty with England he overthrew the cabinet and named one that favored neutrality. Now that is threatening to quit, or has quit, and each day brings a new threat from one of the stronger nations.

Greece must fall. Within a few days it will be fighting, and on the side of the Allies, for a gigantic army of occupation and a staggering array of warships will be used to force the wishes of King George, the Czar and President Poincaire. When they have accomplished this, they will have committed another atrocity such as the invasion and destruction of Belgium.

TIME TO BLUSH.

Just as we were preparing to accept the verdict in New Jersey on women suffrage we find a news item in the basket reporting a mass meeting to be held in the interest of Republican candidates for State offices in South Plainfield in which it is stated that an address will be made in the Italian language in order that the qualifications of the aspirants may be properly placed before members of that race.

It should provoke a blush from the most rabid anti. With all due respect to the Italians who have become American citizens, and some of them are more entitled to that honorable classification than many who were born under the Stars and Stripes, it is a travesty on American liberty to place a ballot in the hands of one who must be addressed in a foreign language in order to explain his duties as a citizen, while we deny that right to the women who bore us, and who have shared our physical and mental distress ever since.

Can the son of a foreign government, newly brought to American soil, and settled in a community so similar to his foreign home across the water that he does not even need speak our language fluently, decide the all important question of government for American people with more wisdom than our own women. The voters of New Jersey have handed down a verdict, but it is a terrible indictment of American womanhood, and one that will not stand for long.

A GOOD TARGET.

If Runyon, Pierson and Morgan are elected to the State Assembly from Union county, it will be because the voters here want representation in that important legislative body. If they are defeated through the activity of the liquor interest it will be because that hybrid, parasitic organization would have men from Union who will place its welfare and wishes above the will of the people who elected them.

It ought to be an easy question for the voters to answer. The liquor dealers have determined to "punish" Assemblymen Runyon, Pierson and Morgan because they voted for the local option bill last year. They will not permit them to be re-elected to office, they say, but we think the people will render a new verdict when the case is appealed to them.

All that is needed to defeat the scheme is to give it due publicity. The liquor organization in this State has reached the point where it has but to show its head, and decent voters shoot at it. The head is up, and this time its leering, bloodshot eyes are defying good government. Be prepared to shoot next Tuesday, men.

America now holds a German secret agent who confessed that he was here to blow up neutral ships carrying munitions of war to England and France, and also boasted that he would destroy one of the largest manufacturing plants in America. We do not want him hanged or shot, but the little English nurse who aided soldiers to escape from Belgium did not sin against the German government so grieviously as he has sinned against ours. It would be horrible, but a taste of "German justice.' might not be a bad dose for Germany'

This New Age

The old-fashioned grandpa was toothless,
And walked with the aid of a staff.
The new-fangled kind's not so youthless—
To hint such a thing is to laugh.

The old-fashioned grandfather doddered
And mumbled and dreamed by the fire.
The new-fangled sort is well-foddered
And walks as though hung upon wire.

The old-fashioned kind wore a whisker
Around the top edge of his throat.
The recenter model is brisker—
Seems almost too youthful to vote!

The old-fashioned granper was pious,
Walked staidly to church, and the like.

Pantalettes

Our grandmothers wore 'em. So why the fuss over 'em now?

These new ones, of silver, etc., with lots of lace dugums on 'em, are some lookers, believe us.

Lately he attended a country club dance where several girls wore pantalettes, and now he has a job as a proofreader.

They won't be worn much longer.

He lights it with a firefly—
And hillward blows the evening mist.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Stomach Trouble

AT LAST accounts, if we remember aright, there were some ninety-odd abdominal, chest and general complaints masquerading as "stomach trouble." Some of these deceptive troubles arose in the nervous system; some in the lungs; some in the heart; some in the gall sac and the appendix; and some goodness knows where, and all alike sent but one urgent message of distress which, to the deluded victim, seemed to come from the pit of the stomach, and hence was "stomach trouble."

The poor, helpless, outraged stomach! What a target it is for the great American nostrum! What a prodigious assortment of diets, drugs and diagnostic mistakes it has to endure!

To be perfectly sober about it, the stomach stands third in the list of popular "complications." First comes "the nerves," blamed for a thousand and one difficulties with which the nerves really have as much to do as has the receptaculum chylae. Next, beyond a doubt, the liver, the good old ever-ready liver. And then, the patient, hard-working stomach. The usual innocence of the stomach under serious charges is what makes us firm opponents of circumstantial evidence. We would never hang a man on circumstantial evidence, because we know too much about the stirring events in the pit. Here we find at least ninety distinct and separate conditions—ninety, count them—all passing, in popular parlance, as "stomach trouble," and not one of them the fault of the stomach!

Take the faker who sells the alleged "cure" for gallstones. Doesn't he also include "stomach complaints" in the list of ailments his colored olive oil "cures"? He does. Well he knows the popular delusions. He is not so reckless as the old-time shell-game fellow whose nostrum was "good for all diseases of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys." But still he is as bad as the law will allow to-day—somewhat worse, rather, at least in his circular matter, even if he has to be careful how he lies on the label.

"Stomach trouble" signifies something less than the all-inclusive "cold." It means simply that the patient is conscious of stirring events in the pit. The problem presented by a case of "stomach trouble" is to find out which of the ninety-odd extra-gastric ailments may be causing the difficulty.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Fumigation After Cancer

Please state whether in your opinion fumigation should be done after the death of a bad case of cancer?

Answer—No. In our opinion fumigation is useless, except to kill vermin. Soap and water cleaning, plenty of ventilation and sunlight are all the disinfection the rooms require. This applies to diphtheria, small-pox, cancer, tuberculosis or any contagion. Personal clothing, toilet articles, things possibly soiled by any secretions, should be burned, boiled or chemically disinfected.

Nosebleed

What can be done to stop ordinary nosebleed?

Answer—Most instances of nosebleed are hemorrhages from a minute ulcerated spot on the cartilage or partition between the nostrils just inside of the nose (produced by the finger nail). Hence light and prolonged pinching of the nostrils stops the bleeding. Sometimes the spot can be touched with a suitable caustic by the doctor, to stop frequent alarming hemorrhages. Do not blow the nose. Apply ice or cold to back of neck.

FINISHING SCHOOLS

WHEN a girl is too refined or too exclusive or too stupid to be sent to a public school any longer, her fond parents send her to a finishing school. These schools are so named because of what they do to father.

Finishing schools are conducted by eminent finaaciers. Their object is to get $800 a year and extras per head from their students. The finishing school can take a raw, timid girl with a fair-sized bundle of money and by judiciously separating the two can produce in time a beautiful young lady who can read French, play "The Rosary," talk about the drama, get in and out of a room like a princess and snub a poor relation so tactfully that the latter will thank her with tears in his eyes for the favor. It costs from $800 to $5,000 a year to varnish a young lady in this style, and after she is properly finished it costs $5,000 a year for upkeep and decorations until some brave young man comes around for her. The education part comes cheap in these schools, but the extras are better than they are in the contracting business. There was once a private school proprietor who radiated a wonderful atmosphere of repose, and he used to make $10,000 a year charging up extras for the wear and tear on his atmosphere.

Private schools are very strict in discipline, and it really seems a pity that so many efficient guards are wasted on nice young ladies all over our land while desperate criminals are leaking from their prisons on every hand. In the best private schools parents are only allowed to see their daughters once a year, and then only if their influence is deemed desirable by the head jailer.

The life of a girl in a private school is very arduous. She must rise at seven and manicure for an hour, after which she must go to chapel and thence to breakfast,

Parents are only allowed to see their daughters once a year where her father is fined for everything she drops. After breakfast she must study dancing, drawing, sitting down in a fluent and graceful manner, the names of the apostles, dramatic criticism, French for both hands and face, piano playing, shoulder shrugging, small talking, eyebrow elevating, gown wearing, father taming, housework dodging, and many other useful sciences. She is also allowed half an hour a day in which to think, though in the best schools this is considered ill-bred.

The trouble with private schools in this country is that they are not half private enough. They are too easy to find.

Views Of The Press

American Fortunes

THAT we were once, and not so long ago, afraid of our great fortunes is remembered. That we are less so, if at all now, is also felt. One reason is that our owners of great fortunes, unlike those of Europe, have the good habit of giving away vast sums for educational and charitable ends. Another is that having no law of primogeniture, great fortunes are divided among many children. But back of this, the World's Work thinks that the real reason is economic. In 1887 Commodore Vanderbilt left to his son, William H., a majority interest in the New York Central Railroad. The heir held it only three or four years, and then with proceeds from the sale of nearly all of his holding invested in United States bonds. His reason was that he wanted rest from the great responsibility and preferred an investment that did not require nerve-racking and incessant personal attention. And this seems to be a general quality. There is only one family that was pre-eminently rich several years ago that is so now—the Astors. And its wealth is based on land, like that of the mediæval aristocracy.

Aristocracies of all civilizations, ancient and modern, are based on wealth, those of Europe being chiefly based on land ownership as the most stable and least exacting form. But there is a difference of social distinction in wealth so based and in that based on more complicated forms, such as railroads. Under feudal conditions one family can easily hold landed wealth for generations, but no American family has been able to control a railroad system for generations. It requires the highest skill and personal attention and is subject to constant rivalries and attacks. And the same conditions practically embarrass all forms of industrial wealth in this country. So the general theory that great American fortunes seem to be fleeting phenomena is based on economic conditions as they prevail among us.

Twenty-three years ago Jay Gould died. In a generation the great railroad properties that he left passed out of the family's control. The Goulds surrendered control of the Western Union Telegraph Company half a dozen years ago. In 1883 they gave up the Manhattan elevated lines in New York City. And so the Gould fortune is broken into smaller bits and invested in permanent, non-worrying shape. Thirty years ago the Vanderbilts controlled the New York Central and other Vanderbilt lines; the Garretts of Baltimore controlled the Baltimore & Ohio; the Huntingtons controlled the Southern Pacific, and a group of Boston families controlled the Burlington system. None remains. The economic forms of pressure in this country have, one by one, taken from all these great centralized fortunes their character and wrested from them the properties on which they were based, their wealth being separated and passing to "invested" forms. American fortunes inevitably break, divide and disappear, while active control of the forms of wealth on which they were based pass to other hands.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

On The Second Bounce

Q. I am a farmer residing a short distance from town. A railroad track runs parallel with an adjoining landowner's property. Last summer, sparks from a locomotive set fire to a haystack in this man's field. There was a high wind prevailing at the time and the sparks were carried by the wind from the haystack to my land and set fire to my barn, about a quarter of a mile away. My barn was destroyed. Could I hold the railroad company liable?

A. It is very doubtful, in view of the facts in your case, whether the railroad company would be liable. As your barn probably would not have been damaged if there had been no wind, the original cause of the fire would seem to be rather remote. The law looks to the proximate, rather than the remote cause. If your statement is correct, the railroad company could hardly be held liable.

The Photographer's Fee

Q. I had some photographs taken and disagreed, later, with the photographer about the price. Do you think I would be compelled to pay an exorbitant price?

A. You will be governed by your agreement, unless it was grossly unfair or some fraud or imposition was practiced. If you had no definite agreement with him, he will be entitled to a reasonable compensation for his work.

Twice Sold

Q. Some time ago I bought an interest in some goods. Later, I found that the goods had been sold by a certain person to the man from whom I purchased, but the purchase price had not been paid. After I bought an interest in the property, the first man—the original seller—told me he had not been paid for the goods and he then claimed them as his. What do you think of my rights?

A. If there was nothing of record showing that the original seller reserved a lien on the goods, you will be protected, unless it can be shown that you actually knew the facts before you purchased.

Business Rivalry

Q. Suppose a merchant has a business competitor who makes use of circulars and advertisements for the purpose of deceiving customers and making them believe they are purchasing the first man's goods. Can't the first man have a legal remedy, especially if the goods of the first merchant are protected by a trade mark? Could he file an injunction suit? A. Yes, to both questions.

When The Fat Man Came Along

Q. My father was walking along a sidewalk which was not protected by guard-rails. The place is dangerous and the walk is elevated, at this place, six or eight feet above the ground. Some one, in passing, accidentally pushed him off the walk and he was seriously injured. Could he sue the city and recover damages?

A. Yes, if the city's negligence in failing to provide the guard-rails or in otherwise making the sidewalk reasonably safe was the proximate cause of the injury.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper

The Commonplace

So many of us wear out our Eyes looking for the Unusual in life that we daily miss the Wonderful Values hidden away, though very accessible, in The Commonplace affairs and things.

We learn the Great things by first understanding The Commonplace things.

In themselves, the Bricks, Stones, and pieces of Lumber that go to make up the places where we live and work are Commonplace enough, but in their places as important parts of the Whole, they become Unusual and Important. Just so is every Act and Thought that enters your day, but in the Completed Whole of your life. The Commonplace hourly enters as something very tremendous—a real factor in Success.

Realize the contributed Service that enters every Commonplace Effort that you make.

Get everything that you can out of the Experience and Inspirations that The Commonplace duties and Services of everyday life render and you will forthwith have opened to you Opportunities and Revelations both Unique and Startlingly Thrilling.

Fiction shows steady improvement. Very few of the current novels present a beautiful Indian maiden as the heroine of the tale.

Pride, as we understand the word, is a woman's expression of joy in her first baby.

Tank Beverly has a good word for the safety razor. He says it doesn't talk football.

Inez Haynes Gilmore wants to know if women should propose. Well, that, we believe, is the custom.

What, by the way, has become of the old-fashioned woman visitor who brought a few jars of fruit with her?

The Modocs have been permitted to return to return to their old home in the lava beds of California. This indicates that the white men have been unable to operate the lava beds at a profit.

If the "straw" vote shows your candidate running second it is a very foolish and inconclusive proceeding.

Current Poetry

A Mitten

I wooed her in the wintertime,
And won her, so I thought, forever;
She vowed that she was fond of rhyme,
And doted on my least endeavor.
Her eyes were of cerulean hue;
She had a merry way of mocking,
And though she loved to dress in blue,
She was not a "bluestocking!"

Sometimes before the sea-coal fire
Close side by side our toes we toasted;
Sometimes we braved the north wind's ire,
And skated gleefully or coasted,
And once, when raged the bitter storm,
And she by cruel cold was smitten,
To keep her little fingers warm
I gave the maid a mitten.

She treasured it, or so I deemed,
Through days inviolate and vernal;
And still within her glance there gleamed
A tender light that seemed eternal.
And so love's tide flowed on and on,
What time the year was at its Juning,
And ever in my slumbers shone
Fond dreams of honeymooning.

But, lo! this morning in the mail
I found a wedding invitation,
Announcing (ah, the woeful tale!)
That she had caught a rich relation.
And with the word (alack a-day!)
There was a brief note neatly written.
The maiden had but this to say:
"I send you back your mitten!"

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Sticky Doors, Windows and Drawers—Use a candle to rub along the edges. The result is that they slide easily.

When Using Gas or Electric Irons—Get a ten-cent bird cage spring. Hang it either on light fixture or on wall near your iron, so it comes above the ironing board; loop cord through hook. The spring gives when you iron, also saves wear and tear on cord.

When Peeling Peaches and stone is hard to remove, before peeling cut peach lengthwise of the stone, give peach a quick twist, and you will be surprised how easily you can remove the stone.

Sure Grease Remover—If grease is not old and hard, go over it thoroughly with common white chalk, and let it remain a few hours. Then brush chalk until it is completely brushed out of the fabric; chalk and grease will entirely disappear.

For Cockroaches—Take two can covers; put plaster of Paris in one and water in other. Lay piece of cardboard as a bridge between. The roach will eat plaster of Paris and drink; the water will harden the plaster and roach will die. Also sprinkle borax under papers, etc., in cupboard and it will scatter them.

To Dry Corn—Cut corn from cob (do not cook), to each gallon of corn add one cup sweet cream and one cup sugar, mix well, put in pans and put in oven to dry, then put in jars for keeping. This is most delicious.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

Canned Vegetables for Soup—Take one dozen ears sweet corn boiled and cut from cob, one quart lima beans, one quart string beans, one quart small onions or five large ones, one quart small onions, one head cabbage, two mangoes (green and red), two bunches celery, four carrots, half peck tomatoes and a little parsley. Boil each vegetable separately until thoroughly done, adding a little salt to each. Put all together, add mangoes chopped fine and parsley. Boil and can like fruit, having jars well sterilized. Set jars upside down in boiling water until water becomes cool. When ready to make soup, boil beef and add canned vegetables to broth one-half hour before serving.

When Preserving Tomatoes—When preparing tomatoes for preserves, chili sauce or catsup, have a kettle ready into which squeeze the tomatoes quite dry. In making preserves you will find this helps keep them whole. If you are using a food chopper, drain juice into the kettle, then add a little onion and salt, cook for a half hour and seal, either in bottles or jars. In the winter it is very convenient to have your strained tomato juice ready for soups, spaghetti, etc. You will also find your catsup and preserves improved in flavor and they will take much less time to cook.

THE TABLE.

Hamburger—This quantity supplies a family of four with a nourishing meal. Put two quarts of water in kettle, add fifteen cents' worth of hamburger steak and one large onion chopped fine. Boil half hour, then add six large potatoes diced. Cook until potatoes are tender. Salt and pepper to taste. One can also add noodles and green peppers to vary the dish.

Peach-Pepper Salad—Pare and slice six good peaches, sweeten to taste. Wash dry one medium-sized green pepper, remove seeds and white part, slice in circles, mix with the peaches, place in refrigerator until chilled. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonaise or French dressing. Canned peaches can be used when fresh ones are out of season.

Graham Cracker Cake—One cup sugar, half cup butter, three-fourths cup milk, three eggs, twenty-one crushed graham crackers, two teaspoons baking powder, half cup chopped walnut meats.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Peterborough, N. H.—"Colonizing Creative Capability" is the unusual work which Mrs. Edward MacDowell is carrying out in this hill-town of New England. The dream that her husband dreamed long years ago has become an accomplishment, and a successful season is just finished. She has sent back to the cities a score of men and women workers in the creative arts renewed in health and courage, and with ample fruits of good work done in the peace of the hills. And she is now facing her annual deficit, which she has met year after year by giving recitals of MacDowell music from the Atlantic to the Pacific. A woman of frail health, she has astounded her most intimate friends by the tenacity of her spirit. She attributes her success with the colony to her unobtrusive management. She keeps herself and her husband's music in the background. She believes there should be no dominating influence in a colony of creative beings.

Boston.—Miss Alice Henry, former editor of "Life and Labor," in an address before the members of the Women's City Club, stated that women now work in all but 44 of 400 trades. She pointed out that because of the ever increasing number of household labor saving inventions, vacuum cleaners, etc., women are finding more and more work outside the home. She argued that girls should be allowed to obtain a knowledge of trades in which there is at present little demand for female workers. Her statistics were gained from the census tabulations. Among the unusual trades in which women work she found 11 women managers of livery stables.

Trenton.—Candidates for police women in this State will be given official tests next week. The Civil Service Commission will conduct the tests on November 3, and the candidates will be limited to ages between 30 and 40. Trenton will have the first eligible list in the State.

Atlanta.—While sweet-scented letters are finding their way to the battle-front in France from Georgia maidens, in the campaign to cheer up friendless soldiers, the women of France are to have their souls healed by the cheery letters from Uncle Sam's fighters. Just as lonesome as the men in the trenches are Uncle Sam's boys who are doing duty in the lonely "Black Republic" of Haiti. They heard of the sweet missives that Georgia girls are writing to the men in the trenches, and so they have laid their case before Dr. F. E. Mays, executive secretary of the Georgia War Relief Committee. Dr. Mays received the names of a hundred French fighters who were lonesome, and he distributed the names among Atlanta girls. Now he must heed the misery of the boys in Haiti, and he has consented to send to the pretty girls of France the names of the lonely marines of Uncle Sam.

Philadelphia.—Mrs. Joseph Fels, the single tax lecturer who took up the propoganda which her husband was spreading before his death, has just completed a fourteen weeks' lecture tour in the West and Canada. Mrs. Fels believes that all taxes will be removed save one, the tax on land. A year ago, she returned from England, and has since lectured in nearly every large city in the country.

New York.—The final week of the suffrage campaign in New York State has been reached, and there are 6,000 campaign workers stumping, buttonholing and shouting throughout the State. A thousand meetings are held each day, and every city, town and hamlet is being combed for suffrage votes. The big parade of last Saturday is being followed by the last grand rallying week, in which the efforts of the volunteer workers are being doubled.

San Francisco.—One of the most pitiful of war's victims is a Russian girl, Maria Possen, who arrived here last week, after having walked 1,500 miles in Siberia and China to get to America. Orphaned by the war, she traveled over the Siberian Railroad, abandoning the train to walk 1,500 miles to Shanghai.

Christiania, Norway—The next move for the privileges of women in Norway is to open up the pulpits to them. This month for the first time women voted in the general elections. They have held the right to vote in the local elections since 1907. They have many privileges and rights not enjoyed by American women, but the preaching of the gospel is not among them.

London—The "most dangerous woman in Europe," Madame Sorgue, is now one of the most highly praised. Because she fomented so many strikes an English police official classed her "the most dangerous." She has been doing Red Cross work at the front, and is now lecturing in England for unity. She is the daughter of a French philosopher and the granddaughter of a Russian general. She has been in jail many times and at one time was forbidden to land in England.

SMART WINTER DRESS FOR THE YOUNG GIRL.

No. 9079.

There are many styles from which the young girl can select her winter frocks—princess, empire, sailor, norfolk, smock and other styles in excellent taste. There are few, however that make up more charmingly for school or afternoon wear than the one shown above, Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 9079. This is a girl's frock closing in the front with the waist cut with a deep yoke front and back, finished at the neck with a round sailor collar with removable chemisette. Three-piece gathered circular skirt. Sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, size 18 requiring 6⅛ yards 36-inch material.

Patterns can be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

J. Rufus Wallingford, the cleverest young man of the present century, and his brainey hinchman, Blackie Daw, are coming to the Plainfield Theatre for a series of weekly visits beginning today. These two notorious personages as created by George Randolph Chester will be seen in new and startling adventures, from all of which they immerge with more money that they had before. The scheming of Wallingford and Blackie has made wonderful material for books and plays and the latest escapades as transferred to the picture screen are certain to bring them thousands of more admirers. The exploits will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre as a serial film every Wednesday afternoon and night, commencing with this afternoon.

Assurance that every scene in the Wallingford serial will be given by the announcement that the principal roles will be portrayed by Max Figman, Burr McIntosh and Miss Lolita Robertson. All three of these are well known to Plainfielders through their work in other big feature productions. The film has been made by the Pathe company and a specially selected company was gotten together for the purpose, while no expense was spared in giving the pictures a proper mounting.

In addition to the picture numbers every bill at the Plainfield Theatre comprises six acts of vaudeville secured from the leading circuits in the country. A complete change of program is made every Monday and Thursday with popular prices prevailing, both matinee and night. Another picture feature not previously mentioned is the presentation every Monday and Friday of the Pathe Weekly, an animated newspaper which gives the latest important happenings in all parts of the world.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"The Little Gypsy," as presented by Wm. Fox, starring Dorothy Bernard, is giving splendid satisfaction to the film fans who have taken to the new policy with keen delight. The advantage of the feature photoplays and the high-class vaudeville, makes a happy combination. The feature films and the vaudeville are of the very best and furnishes a splendid variety. The features for today are Billy Bounce's Circus, Cola Santas and his musical organization, Miss Margaret Ford, the girl with the marvelous voice; Larue and Richmond, the clever songsters and comediennes, and the feature films. Tonight will be "Bazaar Night," which has been inaugurated every Wednesday. The last half of the week will include Elsie Gilbert and Girls, Ray Conlin, comedian, and other acts. The feature photoplay will be Hobart Bosworth, in "Fatherhood," a western romance beautifully told, and the screaming comedy feature "Silk Hose and High Pressure." Neal of the Navy will be presented as usual Friday, and Saturday will bring the toy matinee for the children.

Again and Again He Would Dive.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Little Italian Dived For Pennies.

"THIS is a travel story," said daddy to two eager children. "Off the coast of South Italy is a huge pile of rocks which every traveler wants to visit. You reach them from a big steamer, which sends you off in a small rowboat if the tide is right. Men earn their living rowing these boats to the rocks, which form the mouth of one of the most wonderful caves in the world. Even fairyland has no more wonderful caves."

"What is its name?" asked Jack.

"The Blue Grotto. As soon as your rowboat scrapes off the rocks the tide pushes you into a big blue cave so wonderfully lovely that you do not feel on earth. The sides of the cave shine as if a blue electric light poured on them. The rippling water glistens blue. The faces of everybody in the boat become unreal, and if you put your arm in the water it will look sky blue. Strange echoes live in this cavern, and ripples make a soft sound like fairy whispers. When people speak they sound far and eerie."

"How long may you stay there?" asked Evelyn.

"Not long. Like all beautiful things, the Blue Grotto does not give up its secrets for long. The day Uncle Ben visited it the Italian rower brought along his small son, a beautiful little chap, who, soon as the boat reached the middle of the cave, stripped off his clothes and dived into the water. Every one admired his little blue body and threw pennies on to the wonderful sands for him. Again and again he would dive for them while the tide boomed against the rocks outside and everybody watched and listened in the unnatural loveliness. Suddenly the little fellow sprang for two coins and in coming up with them struck his head against his father's oar. He fell back into the fatal blueness and if it had not been for Uncle Ben might never have come up. His father was so excited that he fainted instead of diving for him."

"What did Uncle Ben do?" cried the children.

"He jumped out of the boat, grabbed the little fellow by the neck and handed him to another American, who rowed the boat back to the steamer where the boy and his father soon felt all right," finished daddy.

"What makes the water blue, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Scientists give different reasons, like chemicals mingling with the salt," said daddy. "But I prefer to believe that this beautiful blue cave is the home of sea fairies who keep their home attractive."

"Tell us more about it, daddy!" cried Evelyn.

"It's bedtime, my dear."

So both children kissed daddy and ran off to sleep.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

John Sees a New Side to His Wife, and a Few Words Start Them Toward Happiness.

"Molly," began John when she came out of the bedroom after getting little Jack to sleep, "I——"

Molly looked up expectant, but John did not go on. Instead, he cleared his throat and toyed with a paperknife on the table. Molly drew a chair up to the light and sat down.

"I was going to say," he began lamely.

"I'm listening, John." Molly reached a timid hand toward the paperknife.

John caught it, and made a desperate plunge into his subject.

"I promised Julia Osgood that I would correct a false impression I gave you, or rather allowed you to keep, the other day." Molly tried to draw her hand away, but John held it tight. "All hands were working the night you saw us together, and as it was late when we finished, I saw her home. She said she did not want you to think she would run around with married men. She's not that kind."

Molly dropped her head on her arm. John waited for her to break the silence, but, as she said nothing, he continued:

"It all comes of my having such a grouch on that I could not speak. I should have told where I was going."

Molly raised her eyes full of happy tears and smiled into his face.

"I am ashamed to own how much I doubted you," she began, reaching for her handkerchief. "It was partly that I was so deadly tired. I try to think I would not have been quite such a fool if I had been rested."

"We haven't hit it off very well together lately. I've been nearly crazy over money matters and——"

"And I was irritable and unreasonable," interrupted Molly eagerly. "But I'm doing better. I've kept within my allowance this month and——"

"We have had a happy evening, Molly. Let's not begin on our sore subject. We surely have earned one evening with no money worry in it. Don't you think so?"

"Hasn't it been a happy evening?" chimed in Molly, taking the cue. "The Ellsons are such delightful people."

"Do you know, I believe I could be quite a decent sort if I had money enough coming in to meet expenses. I do not mean luxuries, but just plain, ordinary expenses, so I could meet the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker and look them in the eye."

"I thought we were to cut out all frenzied finance," said Molly, rising. "Let's go to bed with the taste of a good time in our mouths and see if we can wake up light-hearted. I want to try it. I haven't been light-hearted in the morning for so long I can't remember the time."

"You talk as if your blues wore off when the sun rose." John was evidently making a great effort to be amusing and Molly smiled amiably. She was too happy to be disturbed by anything.

"Is my prayer to be answered? Am I to have another chance? Oh, I surely will not be the same kind of a fool twice," she thought.

She was too happy to sleep, but lay listening to her husband's regular breathing with eyes bright and starry.

"Are you the woman who cried the whole night through less than a week ago?" she asked herself, and put out her hand to touch her husband to make sure that she was not dreaming. Finally she fell asleep, praying: "Help me to use this chance. Oh! help this chance of happiness."

(To be continued.)

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should Be Answered Easily By Plainfield People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens, of people you know, or depend on statements made by utter strangers residing in far-away places? Read the following:

C. L. Treat, painter and paperhanger, 411 East Third street, Plainfield, says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble and for years couldn't get relief. My back ached constantly and I had pain across my kidneys. My kidneys were in bad shape and I was all run down, in fact, was almost a physical wreck. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at Randolph's drug store and my experience was so satisfactory that I cannot make my endorsement too strong. I simply wouldn't be without Doan's Kidney Pills on hand."

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB PAINS FROM SORE, LAME BACK

Rub Backache away with small trial bottle of old, penetrating St. Jacob's Oil.

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back and out comes the pain. It is harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had a backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.—Adv.

IRISH A. C. APPEALS KIVIAT-SMITH CASE

Attorneys Say Athletes Were Not Given a Fair Hearing.

Counsel hired by the Irish-American A. C. in connection with the cases of Abel Kiviat and Harry Smith, the two athletes whose registration cards have been taken from them by order of the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, have stated that the case would be appealed to the board of managers of the Metropolitan Association as soon as the necessary papers can be made out.

Justice Bartow S. Weeks, who acted as legal advisor for the registration committee, is declared by the Irish-American A. C. lawyers to have been prejudiced against the athletes and Chairman Matthews, of the committee, is said to have ordered the registration cards vacated after previously stating that the meeting had been called for the purpose of taking evidence, looking to the preferment of charges.

There is said to be a strong feeling that the Irish-American A. C. may decide to withdraw from the Amateur Athletic Union if the cases against Kiviat and Smith are not reopened. Statements are made to the effect that the A. A. U. committee recently exonerated Platt Adams, a member of the New York A. C., on charges, and that his case received more consideration than the cases of Kiviat and Smith. All in all, a regular hornet's nest seems to have been stirred up with club partisans, all having a say.

LEHIGH VALLEY SEEK PROTECTION OF DOGS

To safeguard valuable hunting dogs which may have an attack of artistic temperament while riding on a train, the Lehigh Valley Railroad has issued an order which will be of interest to all hunters.

A. P. Beam, general baggage agent, has given instructions to all baggage agents that dogs must be provided with "properly fitting collars, and strong leashes or chains." In other words, dogs will not have the run of the baggage cars. Each dog must be checked by the station baggage-master, or if no such official is at the station, must be checked by the train baggage-master, to be surrendered upon presentation of duplicate check by the owner of the dog.

The reason for these regulations is that in the past not a few dogs have escaped from the baggage cars and have never been seen or heard from again.

BICYCLE TIRES and SUNDRIES

PHILLIES FANS HOT OVER MORAN CASE

If He is Allowed to Get Away They Will Boycott Team.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 27.—Philadelphia fans are aroused. The fact that lines are being carefully cast out by the Pirate baseball owners in an effort to get Pat Moran for the local leader, has resulted in a demonstration of the scribes and fans in the City of Brotherly Love. Sport writers are up in arms because Moran has not been signed for next season. They do not want to see him get away from Philadelphia. Even though the Phils were defeated in the world series, the fans have lost none of their ardor, as the winning of a pennant, after a wait of 33 years, has caused the bugs to hope for higher things in the future. The fact that Pat Moran was the boy to turn the trick has made him a great hero in Philadelphia. If the Baker crowd allows Pat to get away it will mean a rebellion, and next season the Athletics, even though tail-enders, will probably draw the attention of the bugs.

Nothing has been done definitely relative to a manager for the Pirate club. In certain quarters, as voiced in these columns several weeks ago, Bill Hinchman seems to have the inside track. One of the latest men in the field is Charlie Dooin, former pilot of the Phils. McGraw is interesting himself in Dooin's behalf and trying to induce Barney Dreyfuss to accept the red-headed pilot. Soon a definite choice will be made, comes the information from Pirate headquarters.

LATONIA CUP RACE.

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 27.—The racing season in Kentucky comes to a close today with the running of the Latonia Cup Race, over a two miles and a quarter course. There are 17 entries. $2,500 is up in added money, and a solid silver loving cup is the trophy. The entries include the champion long-distance Canadian racer Rancher; Hodge, the winner of the Louisville Cup recently; Raincoat, winner of the St. Leger at Churchill Downs this fall, and Ringling, who won the last named race last season.

RITCHIE BARELY GETS DRAW WITH DUNDEE

Loses First Rounds of Ten Period Fight at Madison Square Garden.

Willie Ritchie, former American lightweight champion, had to extend himself to the limit to get a draw in a speedy, slashing ten-round bout with Johnny Dundee at Madison Square Garden last night. The bounding Italian's fast work early in the bout puzzled the champion, and he missed repeatedly. It wasn't until the last few rounds that Ritchie got Dundee's measure, and then he gave him a severe lacing.

The eighth round was a whirlwind, and while Dundee was dancing rapidly around his opponent Ritchie clipped him with a right on the jaw, which took the little Italian off his feet and shot him against the ropes. Ritchie drove Dundee around the ring under his fierce attack, and when on the other side of the ring he again hit him on the jaw and partially knocked him off his feet.

NEW BASKETBALL GUIDE FOR 1915 OUT

One Code of Rules to Govern All Amateur Play This Season.

The annual issue of the Spalding Official Basketball Guide has just made its appearance and rivals the football guide, not only in size, but in the variety of its contents and illustrations. This is due in a great measure to the fact that for the first time since the expansion of the game to its present size, one code of rules will govern amateur play—the Young Men's Christian Association, the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association having adopted a uniform code of rules prepared by a joint rules committee to govern the play in those organizations. This course has met with the heartiest approval of all those who have the interest of the game at heart and undoubtedly will have great influence in furthering this popular pastime.

PUPILS WILL TRAVEL AS PIG ATTENDANTS

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 27.—Dartmouth collegians have solved the problem that has balked Pennsylvania State College. The college desires cheap travel to the Amherst game. The Pennsylvanians hit upon the idea of doing their traveling as livestock, but the Inter-State Commerce Commission ruled that "humans" were not "livestock," but they failed to limit the number of caretakers for the "livestock."

The Dartmouth boys have purchased several pigs and will journey to Amherst to care for them. One pig will have a whole car full of attendants, each of whom is paying fifty cents for the round trip.

ELIZABETH STARTS WELL.

Elizabeth bowlers made an excellent start last night, when, on their own alleys, they took three games in a row from the Rahway quintet, the contest being the first of the season in the Elks' League. The Betsytown pin-knights not only rolled in exceptionally clever style, but also displayed remarkable consistency in their performances, having successive totals of 987, 925 and 924. The visitors were far behind in each instance. Henry Clauss was in great form, with marks of 225, 204 and 227, for an average of 218-2. Maloney folled 205 and Fiehl 204. Schmidt led the Rahway team, with 227, while McCartney turned in 207. Here are all the scores:

RAHWAY.

McCartney	207	161	172
Schmidt	194	227	170
Langton	177	152	141
Albright	112	189	170
Koops	152	137	181
Totals	842	866	834

ELIZABETH.

Maloney	198	205	173
Nolte	182	153	154
Fiehl	194	172	204
Clauss	225	204	227
Bock	188	191	169
Totals	987	925	924

NEW BRUNSWICK OUT.

The New Brunswick representatives have notified the Knights of Columbus Bowling league officials that, owing to their inability to engage alleys, they have decided not to start in the tournament. Elizabeth council may take New Brunswick's place, and will decide definitely at a meeting tonight.

HOLY CROSS TO PLAY EIGHT MORE GAMES

Wyoming Team Comes November 13—Full Season Schedule.

Eight games are to be played by the Holy Cross football team during the remainder of the season. Arrangements have been completed to bring the team of the U. S. S. Wyoming here on Saturday, November 13, and this will probably be the best game of the local season. The Wyoming team will be accompanied by the ship's band and a large bunch of rooters. Last year Holy Cross defeated them 6 to 0.

Cliff Smith will reorganize the old Orange Field Club and will play the Holy Cross team Saturday, November 27.

The schedule for the season follows:

October 30th—Metuchen Field Club, of Metuchen, N. J.

November 2d (Election Day)—Franklin A. A. of Newark.

November 6th—Midwout A. C., of Brooklyn.

November 13th—U. S. S. Wyoming.

November 20th—Olympic A. C., of Brooklyn.

November 25th (Thanksgiving Day)—Dexters, of Perth Amboy.

November 27th—Orange Field Club, of Plainfield.

December 4th—Viking A. A., of Bayonne.

HORN'S DOGS CARRY OFF FIELD HONORS

Many Entries in Animal Trials of New Jersey Beagle Club.

Dogs owned by Fred Horn, of Newark, carried off the honors yesterday in the field trials held under the auspices of the New Jersey Beagle Club at Roseland, N. J. The feature was the race for thirteen-inch bitches of all ages. The winner was Charmion Pearl, who made two kills in the time limit of one hour. James Van Dyke, Sunbury, Pa., took second prize, with Rosedale Belle. Midget, entered by Harry M. Bosburg, Newark, received the yellow ribbon. By also taking the reserve with Charmion Mettie, Fred Horn won not only the silver cup, but both money purses.

There will be two races today, the first for the Charmion Cup, for thirteen-inch dogs of all ages. The time limit will be two and a half hours. The other event for the champion trophy is an open affair, for fifteen-inch dogs and bitches of all ages.

August Belmont, Jr., has entered a number of beagles from his Islip (L. I.) kennels. The other entries include dogs from Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

MISS POWERS CAPTAIN OF ST. MARY'S TEAM

Miss Margaret Powers was elected captain of the St. Mary Social Club basketball team, which met in T. A. B. Hall last night for regular practice. The young women are unusually enthusiastic about the indoor game and indications point to the fact that they will have a fast team within a short time. The young women who reported last night were the Misses Margaret Powers, Anna Regan, Margaret Gill, Bessie Gill, Marion Harrington, Helen Hagen, May McAfee, Helen McCauley, Julia McCauley, Jennie Higgins and Nora Regan.

RITCHIE MAY NOT FIGHT.

Milwaukee, Oct. 27.—Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion boxer, who recently signed an agreement to box Charlie White, of Chicago, at 135 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the bout, now refuses to make the weight according to notice given the State Athletic Commission yesterday by the promoters. Ritchie, it is said, prefers to box at catch weights, which is not satisfactory to White. The bout was to have been held here some time in November.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

General Secretary Estes wishes to impress on the minds of team captains for the membership campaign that the list of available workers for the campaign is fast becoming exhausted. Those who have not yet completed their teams will have to hustle or they will be unable to secure workers to fill their ranks. The organization should be complete by Saturday night, if it is possible to do so.

The first meeting of the High School and Employed Boys' Bible classes will be held Friday night, when supper will be served at 6:15, followed by Bible study at 6:45. There will be three classes for High School boys and one for the employed boys. The program for the year, beside the Bible study, includes several college nights. On these occasions speakers will be present from nearby colleges and tell of the advantages of their schools and the opportunities for boys to work their way through college and the professions for which they should prepare. Business and professional nights will also be held, at which time successful business men will tell of their work and how to prepare for successful effort, together with the opportunities in business and professional lines. An educational night will be held one night each week for the employed boys, when elementary commercial instruction will be given.

VETS OF SENATORS MAY BE CAST ADRIFT

Left to right: Morgan, Ainsmith and Boehling.

By the time the 1916 season has begun, it is believed that Clarke Griffith will have divorced himself from three of his veterans—Catcher Eddie Ainsmith, Pitcher Joe Boehling and Second Baseman Ray Morgan. Each of the three is said to have failed to keep in condition, and Griffith, like most other managers, will not stand for a player who will not give his team the best he has.

THE COLONEL'S BIRTHDAY.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 27. Congratulations to Col. Theodore Roosevelt poured in today from all quarters of the earth at the Roosevelt home. Cheery missives they were, and they came from friends in all walks of life. All parties and all political beliefs were represented by the well-wishers.

PLANS BID BOND ISSUE.

THE TRIUMPH OF TEMPERANCE

NOAH WEBSTER says that "Temperance means restrained or moderate indulgence."

So carelessly has this word been applied by some of our fellow men that we have almost been stampeded into believing that temperance means total abstinence and a firm belief in the doctrine of PROHIBITION.

Temperance, according to Webster, must mean moderate indulgence in everything—Work or Play, Eating or Drinking.

Successful men succeed because they practise temperance.

If you would find happiness, practise temperance—Work moderately, Play moderately, Eat moderately, Drink moderately.

Leading physicians have long recognized the food value of pure wholesome Beer, and heartily recommend its moderate use as a medium of bodily nourishment and alimentary gratification.

RUPPERT'S
Knickerbocker
The Beer That Satisfies

is absolutely pure and when used in moderation is the ideal beverage of the temperate and the logical food drink of temperance. It is the product of hygienic brewing, careful filtering, proper aging, sanitary bottling and thorough pasteurization, making it a beverage that is unsurpassed by any Beer made anywhere.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

In your issue of yesterday [illegible] that Chairman L. T. Russell, of the Democratic County Committee, [illegible] ected to the Democratic candidates for the Assembly entering a joint debate with the Republican candidates for the reason "that they were not familiar with the issues of the campaign," and requested to be permitted to select some Democratic member of the last Legislature in their stead. Now this suggests the very pertinent question why these gentlemen were selected by Mr. Russell and his fellow leaders to be candidates if "they were not familiar with the issues of the campaign." When will they acquire familiarity with those issues, and who will be their teacher? Are these gentlemen, if elected, going to represent the interests of the people of New Jersey by exercising the judgment that their natural intellectual powers may enable them to, or are they going to seek the advice of Mr. Russell and some Democratic member or members of the last Legislature? Is this statement of the county chairman calculated to inspire confidence among the Democrats of Union county in the wisdom and fitness of these candidates who have been forced upon them, and not chosen by them? No other names were printed on the primary ballot, and we all know the reason. The machine bosses are again in control, and the Geran act has been successfully nullified. True, the same conditions exists as to the Republican candidates, but they are at least sufficiently familiar with the issues of the campaign, and have sufficient command of language, to set them forth in person, without being subjected to the ignominy of being suppressed by their county chairman, and being supplanted by him with some person or persons to hereafter named. By the way, what are the issues of the campaign that they should arouse an excited party feeling? Of late years it has been impossible to see any great difference between the State policies of the two parties. The Democratic candidates may well pray to be delivered from their friends.

A WISE MAN JUST SAID

My advise is to buy only the best kind of insurance, for these pieces of paper that you receive in exchange for your good hard cash today may be your only assets tomorrow. Buy your insurance of the agents who live in your town representing the best companies, then in case of loss you will have some one to call upon to adjust it with you.

This is sound advice, given by one of the biggest business men in the country.

MISSIONS TOPIC OF CONFERENCE

Annual Meeting of Congregational Societies Being Held Here Today.

REVIEW OF THE WORK

Able Addresses and Interesting Reports Mark the First of a Two-Days' Session—One Hundred Delegates in Attendance.

That from the ice clad coasts of Alaska to the sunny climes of Dixieland the Macedonian cry of "Come and Help Us" is continually ringing in the ears of the missionary workers, was shown by the reports read at the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Union of the New Jersey Conference in the Plainfield Congregational church today.

The morning session, with Mrs. H. P. Douglas presiding, was opened with a devotional service at 10:30 o'clock. About 100 delegates were present, a number of whom were from distant cities, including Washington, D. C., Baltimore, and Philadelphia.

Following the address of welcome by Mrs. J. M. Whiton, and the response by Mrs. H. P. Douglas, the report of the executive committee was made by Mrs. F. A. Coombs, of East Orange. This report, while general in its scope, told of the progress of the work in the home missionary field, of the need for greater efforts, and of the great amount of work accomplished under handicaps that at the outset seemed impossible to overcome. The greatest need in carrying on this work was for more workers. The field of endeavor was unlimited throughout the length and breadth of the land, but the workers were few. Considerable progress, however, has been made along all lines.

Mrs. W. H. Lum, of Chatham, northern vice-president of the auxiliaries, told of increasing interest and more intensive work in her department. How nearly every individual unit under her charge was endeavoring to swell the funds to carry on the work as well as sending supplies to the mission schools north and south, east and west.

"The Young People's Work" was the topic ably handled by the secretary, Mrs. Harold Armstrong, of Montclair. Mrs. Armstrong laid particular stress on the rapidly growing need for young men and young women to become trained for work in the missionary field. Conditions have so changed in all parts of the country that training in the work is imperative if any large measure of success is to be achieved.

One of the features of the morning session was to have an address by Rev. G. W. Hinman, of San Francisco, on "Orientals in the United States," but the speaker was unable to appear and Mrs. Mills, of the Schauffler Schools for the Education and Missionary Work among Immigrants, was substituted.

Mrs. Mills gave a short historical sketch of the school, its foundation, its early struggle for existence and its final success in being placed on a firm foundation. She told of the work among the immigrants and the continual growth of the field for endeavor. She said that it appeared as if God had tired of waiting for America to send the missionaries to the people of Southern and Central Europe and had sent the people of those lands to America.

Mrs. H. P. Douglas outlined the work for the ensuing year before the union, telling what was required in the various missions throughout the country, under the care of the union. She mentioned a number of young people who were being trained for the work at the expense of the organization.

Word was received from Mrs. George Donaldson, of Grantwood, stating that she would be unable to be present at this meeting. Her "Report of the Field" was read by Mrs. Harold Armstrong, of Montclair. This report comprised the reports of the individual societies and what each had accomplished during the past year.

Luncheon and a social hour was enjoyed between 12:30 and 1:45, at the close of which the afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock with a quiet hour in charge of Mrs. H. E. Birdseye, of Glen Ridge.

TAX SALE POSTPONED.

At the request of a number of North Plainfield property owners Tax Collector Vanderhoef yesterday afternoon consented to postpone the sale of properties for unpaid taxes to November 10, thereby granting a two weeks' respite.

BLAZE IN CHIMNEY.

A blaze in a chimney at 314 Plainfield avenue called out the fire company from headquarters at 4:09 yesterday afternoon. The damage was slight.

ZEEK CO. WINS A VERDICT OF $1,690

Damages Given for Accident in Which Norman Force Met Death.

Somerville, Oct. 28.—A verdict for $1,690 was rendered by a jury in the Circuit Court here this morning, in favor of the complainant in the case of the Zeek Baking Company, of Plainfield, against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company.

The baking company sued for damages as the result of an accident that occurred December 4, 1914. One of its auto delivery trucks was struck by a train at the Manville crossing. Norman Force, driver of the truck, was killed. The automobile was demolished.

Chancery Clerk W. C. Gebhardt represented the plaintiff and Large & Large the defendant company.

GIVES VIEWS ON EXCISE QUESTION

Councilmanic Candidate C. S. Sminck Favors the Present Policy.

Charles Stewart Sminck, Republican candidate for City Council from the First ward, makes clear his position on the excise question in the following communication:

"Having been courteously asked by a number of citizens of the First ward concerning my views on the excise question, I feel that it is my duty as a candidate for the Common Council to make it cearly understood that I stand for the existing excise policy of the city of Plainfield.

"High license, in my judgment, is the best and the most correct method of handling the problem. If the Plainfield idea was in practice throughout the State much of the agitation on the question would disappear.

"The important thing in a cosmopolitan population is to secure respect for the law which must be practical and founded on the wisdom of experience. No attempt should be made to enforce sumptuary legislation unless we are positive in advance of the support of an overwhelming majority of the people. Any other situation would create an unwarranted tax on good order, society and the State. The police must preserve law and order, protect life and property, and keep the streets safe and free from objectionable characters. Their ability, however, would be taxed beyond capacity if called upon to enforce sumptuary laws not supported by a great majority of the people. That is why I believe the Plainfield system is the only proper solution of the excise problem.

"This statement is made because I do not think it is right to remain silent on the question having some think I favor no license while others are declaring I advocate reasonable regulations of the excise question.

"The object of this declaration is not to win votes on election day. The idea is to let the people of the First ward know fairly and squarely just where I stand on excise matters."

GIRL FAINTS ON STREET, BUT GOES ON TO WORK

A young girl on her way to work fainted in front of the North Plainfield fire hall early yesterday morning, but revived after a few moments and left without telling her name. The young woman was walking along Somerset street when she was seen to fall. Mike Farrar ran from the engine house to her side, and she was picked up and carried to the home of Mrs. Haulenbach, where she was given attention. After a few moments the girl regained consciousness. She thanked those who had assisted her, but smilingly refused further help and walked away.

JOSEPH S. FRELINGHUYSEN TO SPEAK IN BOROUGH

Joseph S. Frelinghuysen will be the principal speaker at a rally of Republican voters to be held in the Borough of North Plainfield tonight. The meeting will be called to order at 8 p. m. in Republican headquarters. Others who will speak will be William S. Smalley and Ogden H. Hammond. Mr. Hammond is a candidate for Assemblyman. The purpose of the meeting is to urge the candidacy of Republican nominees in the election of next Tuesday, and a big crowd is expected.

COMMISSION TO PAY COMMITTEE

Somerset and Middlesex Co. Appraisers Will Be Reimbursed for Work.

MUCH MONEY PAID OUT

Monthly Meeting of Joint Sewer Commission Productive of Considerable Routine Business—Legal Adviser Present.

An attorney representing the firm of Lindabury, Depew & Faulks, legal advisers for the Joint Sewer Commission, appeared at the October meeting of the commission last night, and informed the members that the right of way committees appointed by the court for Somerset and Middlesex counties would have to be paid by the Joint Sewer Commission. Three men were named as a committee for each county to appraise the value of lands to be condemned and used as a right of way for the laying of sewer mains. The court fixed the compensation for Somerset county appraisers at $225.08 each and those from Middlesex county will receive $120. The Somerset county committee had expenses amounting to $37.66 and the disbursements of the Middlesex county committee totaled $33. These latter items will also have to be paid by the Joint Sewer Commission.

The legal adviser also reported last night that a settlement had been made for the right of way through the Brown property and that $823 more would have to be paid to the owners of the estate for the right to cross the tract in laying mains. A check for $52 was received from E. L. Fitch for rental of the sewer farm during the months of July, August and September.

The Caldwell, Wingate Company, holding contract A, reported that forty-two inch mains had been laid through the Tuttle property in North Plainfield township and that a total of 71,000 feet of piping had already been put in place. Relative to contract B, the Edward L. Bader Company reported that 450 feet of concrete had been laid at the joint sewer disposal plant.

The following bills were ordered paid: Caldwell, Wingate Company, $3,755.13; Edward L. Bader, $9,826.55; George W. Fuller, the engineer in charge, $575.22; John Downs, $15, and the Trembath Printing Company, $825.

TAX BILLS READY FOR BORO CITIZENS

All Will Be Mailed Out as Soon as Discount Rate is Established.

Tax bills for the current fiscal year are being made out in the office of Collector J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of the borough of North Plainfield, and are being mailed to property owners as fast as made out.

Taxes for the year 1915 will be payable as soon as the Borough Council fixes the rate of discount to be allowed and this will be done at a meeting to be held Friday night, November 5. The discount rate has been 6 per cent. in past years, but may be changed to 5 this year. Taxes that are not paid by December 20 will not be subject to a discount. The tax rate in the borough is $2.54 on each $100, distributed as follows:

HONORS AWARDED IN ADV. CONTEST

N. P. H. S. Pupils Receive Ten of Fifteen Prizes Given by Plainfield Trust Co.

AMELIA BRIZZIE FIRST

Vincent LaPorte and Alex Diplock Given Second and Third Prizes, Respectively—R. F. R. Huntsman Makes Address to Pupils.

An enthusiastic gathering of pupils and members of the Parent-Teacher Association was assembled in the chapel of the North Plainfield High School this morning to await the verdict of the judges of the "Advertising Contest" which has been conducted by The Plainfield Trust Company in both local High Schools and there was great excitement when it was learned that out of the fifteen cash prizes offered by the trust company the first prize and nine others had gone to North Plainfield.

The advertisement prepared by Amelia Brizzie won the first prize of $10, and the other successful contestants were: Vincent LaPorte, the second prize of $7; Alex. Diplock, the third prize of $3, and the following to whom were awarded the $1 prizes: Almon Doty, Dorothy Jacot, Charles Monney, Margaret Hughes, Raymond Kirch and Adelaide Ricketts

On the platform were D. Fred Aungst, superintendent of schools; Albert Earley, principal of the school; R. F. R. Huntsman, chairman of the judges' committee; DeWitt Hubbell, secretary of The Plainfield Trust Company, and Miss Adele H. Kirby, assistant treasurer of the company. After the regular opening exercises, Mr. Earley introduced Mr. Huntsman, who is a practical advertising man of wide experience in this line of business and who gave an entertaining and instructive talk on the subject. He warned the students against extravagance of expression and cited some amusing instances of exaggeration in advertising, illustrating his remarks with examples of advertisements which have become famous. Mr. Huntsman made it clear that the prizes in this contest had been awarded, on merit alone, the elements of success in the winners being accuracy of expression, originality, construction and general appearance.

At the close of Mr. Huntsman's remarks, Mr. Hubbell, in behalf of The Plainfield Trust Company, awarded the prizes and as the names of the successful contestants were announced they came to the platform amidst the applause of their fellow pupils. As the last prize winner took his seat the children gave a rousing yell for the trust company. In his presentation speech, Mr. Hubbell stated that there were a number of advertisements submitted to the committee to which prizes could not be awarded for the reason that they were too long or were otherwise disqualified but which were entitled to honorable mention and that many of these will be printed from time to time in The Plainfield Trust Company's regular advertising space in the newspapers, as will also the ads. which won prizes. The name of the pupil who prepared the advertisement will be given in each instance. The one written by Amelia Brizzie, which won first prize, will appear Saturday on the last page of this paper. Following the presentation of prizes Superintendent Aungst gave the pupils some practical suggestions on the general subject of advertising.

As the Plainfield High School holds its chapel exercises tomorrow morning, the names of the prize winners in that school will be announced at that time, when it is hoped that Leslie R. Fort and Charles H. Frost, members of the judges' committee, will be present.

ST. MARY'S T. A. B. TO GIVE ANNUAL RECEPTION

The second fall reception given under the auspices of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society tomorrow night in the West Fourth street hall promises to be a gala event in the history of the organization, the committee appointed in charge of the function exerting every effort to secure an evening of enjoyable features for their friends. Prof. Squier's six piece orchestra will furnish music for the dancers, while refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

William Boyle, who is chairman of the affair, has been ably assisted by all the members of the club, and each will act on the floor committee to see that each guest is given a good time.

AUXILIARIES OF STATE TO MEET

Will Hold Two Days' Conference at Y. M. C. A. November 4-5.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Interesting Addresses, Reports and Reception to Delegates Will Comprise Features of Twenty-first Annual Session.

The twenty-first annual conference of the Women's Auxiliaries to the Young Men's Christian Associations of New Jersey will be held here on the following dates, in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium: Thursday afternoon, November 4, at 3 o'clock, the conference will open its first session with devotional exercises led by the Rev. Dr. John Sheriden Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. An address of welcome by the president of the Plainfield auxiliary, Mrs Philip Suffern, will follow and reports will be received and other matters of business brought up. Mrs. Potter, of Orange, will preside during the discussion.

In the evening an informal reception and musicale will be held in the auditorium and it is earnestly hoped that the men of the association who are interested in the work of the auxiliary will assist the women in according the visiting delegations a most hearty welcome.

On Friday, November 5, at 10:15, the morning session will open with devotional services under the leadership of Mrs. Syers, of Elizabeth. Mr. Rugh, of Shanghai, China, a member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., will speak on the work in foreign lands. Charles R. Scott, State secretary of boys' work, will give an illustrated talk with the stereopticon slides showing glimpses of the association work in our own land and Canada. The convention will close by a luncheon being served the delegates in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church at 1 o'clock by the local auxiliary. The women deemed themselves especially fortunate in having for their speakers these men of prominence who are in touch with matters of vast importance pertaining to work of the Y. M. C. A., and their knowledge and enthusiasm will be a source of encouragement to the women of the auxiliaries throughout the State. It is earnestly hoped that the people of Plainfield will avail themselves of this opportunity and attend the meetings.

FAREWELL RECEPTION FOR CLARENCE GOSS

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., Honors Its Retiring Treasurer.

A farewell reception, attended by fully two hundred members of the Masonic fraternity from Plainfield and nearby places, was tendered Clarence Goss last night by Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M. An informal program of music, vocal selections and speeches was rendered, but the feature of the evening was the presentation of a Knight Templars watch charm to Mr. Goss.

Mr. Goss for nearly a score of years has held the office of treasurer of Jerusalem Lodge and expects to remove to Philadelphia within a few days. The members of the lodge, which he had served with marked satisfaction, planned the reception and presented the charm as a farewell testimonial of the general appreciation of his faithful service.

After the presentation a social session ensued in which the pipe of peace and harmony was enjoyed by all as they discussed the various designs portrayed on life's trestleboard. Besides the members present from Plainfield there were visitors from Bound Brook, Somerville, Westfield and elsewhere present.

STRUCK WAGON WITH AUTO, IS ARRESTED

Dudley Welsh, charged with reckless driving of an automobile, entered a plea of not guilty when called before City Judge DeMeza in police court this morning and asked for a continuance of his case. It is charged that Welsh struck a wagon on Front street with his machine while driving at a fast rate of speed. The wagon belonged to Miss Harriet Terry. A rear wheel was knocked off in the accident. The case of Welsh was continued until Saturday morning.

HOLY JUMPERS GET CASES CONTINUED

Eight Members of Cult Will Be Tried in Police Court at Later Date.

The cases against eight members of the Pillar of Fire for obstruction of street traffic were not tried in police court this morning. Judge DeMeza granted a further continuance to a date to be agreed upon by counsel. John Reger, of Somerville, has been retained by the "Holy Jumpers" to represent them in court, and he will set a date with Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed.

These people are the ones who were arraigned in court some time ago and given fines of $20 and sentences of 40 days in jail, but the suspended sentences will not be invoked in the cases now pending because both complaints grew out of the same cases.

BURGLARS' HAUL WAS TEN DOLLARS-MEX.

Man Who Ransacked Front Flat Also Got Baby's Pennies.

A burglar who entered the home of Mrs. John Bowman, 523 West Front street, Sunday afternoon, got away with a haul that must have brought a howl of merriment from his pals, if pals he had, when it was shown. He broke into the flat when there was no one at home, and after ransacking the building took everything that looked like money. Mrs. Bowman reported to the police yesterday that nothing was missing but a baby's bank, and a ten dollar bill—Mexican. The bill is worth less than a dollar in this country and the bank contained a few pennies. The burglar has not been apprehended.

MUST PAY $2 WEEKLY TO SUPPORT OF CHILD

Walter Smalley, arraigned in police court this morning for the non-support of a small child, asked that he be allowed to go free on condition that he would contribute $2 a week to the child's clothing and food, and City Judge DeMeza granted his request. The money is to be paid to the overseer of the poor to be expended by him.

TRAVELER IS GIVEN LIFT BY POLICE JUDGE

City Judge DeMeza started a traveler on another leg of his "See America First" tour this morning when he gave Frank O'Rourke, a wandering Mick, as long as necessary to get out of town. Frank was before the judge on a charge of being drunk and panhandling. He said he was from a nearby State and that he was "just traveling." He was released with a warning to "get to going" and the last seen of Frank by police officials he was on his way.

PASSING AUTO STRIKES BICYCLE AND DISAPPEARS

Axel L. Leonardson, of 68 Randolph road, reported to the police this morning that he had left his bicycle standing in front of the postoffice building last night for a few minutes and when he returned he found it demolished. A passing auto had struck the machine when driven too close to the curbing. The driver hurried away, bystanders told him, but one got his number. It was given to the police and the owner of the car will be ordered to court.

MUSICAL AND SOCIAL.

An evening of entertainment has been planned for tomorrow night at the Oak Tree, Marconnier Reformed church, at which time a musicale and social will be enjoyed by the attendants. The principal feature of the affair will be a drill and dance, entitled "Sunflower Picaninnies." Coffee, pie, cake and ice cream will be on sale and the proceeds will be added to the church fund. Everyone is assured of a good time.

COMPANY INCORPORATES.

Elizabeth, Oct. 28.—Papers for incorporation of the Cohen-Esrowsky Building Company were filed yesterday in the county clerk's office. The capital is $25,000, with $1,000 paid in. DEMOCRATS HOLD ROUSING MEETING

Issues of the Campaign Discussed by County and Local Candidates.

An enthusiastic mass meeting of the Democratic voters of New Market, South Plainfield, Middlesex borough and Dunellen, was held last night in W. G. Holton Hall. All of the candidates, including W. E. Florance, who is running for State Senator, were present and spoke. Willard N. Apgar, county chairman, presided. The speakers included besides Mr. Florance, Anthony J. Gebhardt, who seeks re-election as freeholder; Freeholder Kerr, Assemblymen Charles Anderson and Leblein.

The issues of the campaign were discussed in vigorous fashion and a strong plea was made for the support of the entire county and local tickets. The meeting was largely attended and all listened closely to the arguments as presented by the office-seekers and others.

BUSY SESSION OF P-T. ASSOCIATION

Efforts to Be Made to Provide Playgrounds for School Children.

At the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association yesterday Mrs. Fred Vail, Mrs. T. H. Platt, Mrs. William E. Terry, Mrs. George T. Schenck, Mrs. H. S. Townley and Mrs. Edward Ayers were appointed a committee to overhaul clothing contributed for the poor children of the borough, a number of whom are not able to attend school because of lack of suitable wearing apparel. As soon as the committee has finished its task a meeting of the whole association will be called to sew. The association wishes to inform the parents who are unable to purchase the needed clothing for their children that they need have no hesitancy about letting the fact be known to the teacher of the grade in which their children are in as the matter will be kept entirely confidential.

The matter of the procuring of playgrounds for each of the two schools was discussed at length and it was the concensus of opinion of the members, in view of the limited play space at present afforded the pupils, that they were needed. The president was authorized to appoint a committee to ascertain at what figure the necessary ground adjacent to each school could be procured and also to find out the cost of apparatus common to school playgrounds in other places.

A resolution expressing sympathy and regret over the loss by death of Mrs. William Snyder was placed upon the minutes. Several new members were added to the association. No action was taken upon the appointment of delegates to attend the annual convention of the Mothers' Congress to be held at Trenton on the 12th and 13th of November.

Miss Edith Neller, of Manasquan, is spending a week in the borough as the guest of Miss Helen Swackhamer, of Dunellen avenue.

BURGLARS VISIT THE HAZLIN HOME

Miss Hazlin Awakened by Barking Dog, Frightens Intruders Away.

An attempt was made to break into the Hazelin home on the Bound Brook road, Wednesday night, but the intruders were frightened away by Miss Helen Hazlin, who was awakened by the barking of a dog. She raised the window over the kitchen porch in time to see a man at the back door. She also noticed four men standing some distance from the house.

Hastening to the room of Edward Kralek, a hired man, the latter was aroused and when informed of the presence of the strangers he grabbed a revolver and in short order frightened the burglars away. His range was so close that he could easily have killed any one of the strangers, but only desired to chase them away. Joseph and John Gallagher, neighbors, also saw the strangers and they gave chase, but the latter had too much of a start and escaped in the darkness.

TOTAL REGISTRY 630.

The Board of Registry and Election of the respective polling districts sat all day Tuesday to mail sample election ballots and to register voters. In the first district four voters were registered, bringing the total of those entitled to vote next Tuesday in that district up to 376. In the second district none were registered. There are 254 registered voters in that district. The total registry in the borough stands at 630. The contests between Isaac J. Stites and Forman G. Neighbour for the collectorship and J. H. L. Peters and Charles A. Coriell for the assessorship, will result, it is believed, in a heavy vote Tuesday.

S. B. MERRELL SERIOUSLY ILL.

SAY DEMOCRATS 'BACKED DOWN'

Debate Between Candidates for Assembly Will Not Be Held.

REPUBLICANS WANT IT

Chairman Newcorn Tells of Repeated Efforts to Arrange For a Meeting—Russell Wanted to Bring In Outsiders, He Says.

There will be no public debate between Republican and Democratic nominees for the General Assembly from Union county.

Such an event was scheduled for Saturday evening in Elizabeth, but indications are that it is off.

Republicans charge that the Democrats "backed down" after demanding that their opponents face them on issues of the campaign. Candidates Leonard and Meek refuse to meet Assemblymen Runyan, Pierson and Morgan, and want to run in outsiders to talk for them, which the Republicans claim is unfair. Chairman Newcorn, who is in charge of the Republican campaign, says that nominees of his party are willing to meet their opponents in a public discussion of issues and State questions, but that the voters of Union county do not care to listen to arguments of paid orators. That the Republicans are anxious for the public mass meeting is shown by the following statement of the controversy which Mr. Newcorn gave out this morning:

"At the Democratic rally held at Linden Thursday evening, October 1, which was reported in the newspapers of the county on Friday evening, October 22, Messrs. Leonard and Meek, candidates for the Assembly, attacked the legislative acts of the Republican party and particularly the record of the Assemblymen from Union county, who are now candidates for re-election.

"At the meeting, according to the published report in one of the Elizabeth newspapers, the following statement was made:

"'Candidates Leonard and Meek stated that they would like to participate in a rally with their Republican opponents, stating that anything said concerning the Republican administration of affairs in the last Legislature would be backed by them in the event of the arrangement of a joint rally.'

"Mr. Pierson's attention was called to this request on Saturday evening and he called up Mr. Leonard and advised him that he would have no objection to meet him. Mr. Leonard declined, stating that his itinerary was already complete.

"My attention was called to the matter on Monday morning and immediately in behalf of the candidates I issued the challenge to have the Republican candidates confront the Democratic candidates on the same platform to reply to the charges made by the Democratic candidates.

"I received a reply from Mr. Leonard advising me that by reason of engagements already scheduled, copy of which he enclosed, he could not accept my proposition, at the same time expressing the idea that if any Republican candidate desired to talk at a Democratic rally they would be welcome.

"The matter was then taken up with Mr. Russell, the chairman of the Union county Democratic committee, and tentatively an agreement was made to hold a debate at the Hippodrome, as already outlined in the newspapers.

"After my conversation with Mr. Russell a communication was left at headquarters which did not reach me until later in Plainfield, in which the basis of the arrangements made between Mr. Russell and myself was changed, making the proposition to import two outsiders to take up the gauge of battle which had been thrown down by his own candidates.

"Yesterday morning Mr. Russell called me up and advised me that the matter had been referred to Mr. Stein, chairman of the campaign committee of the Democratic party, to make the arrangements, as he was leaving the city for the day.

"I immediately went to Mr. Stein's office and found that he had gone to Newark. After ascertaining where he was, I called Mr. Stein in Newark and had him called to the phone, and was advised by him that he was engaged in a hearing before the public utilities board and could not take up the matter at that time.

"It was then suggested that Mr. Stein call me up upon his return, and after waiting until five-thirty last evening, not being called, I called Mr. Stein's office and ascertained that he was at the prosecutor's office. He was called up at that place and the result of our conversation was that I was informed by Mr. Stein that he would refer the matter back to Mr. Russell.

"Mr. Stein was then advised by me that I would be at Republican headquarters during the evening and that he could advise Mr. Russell to that effect.

"Up to the present time I have heard nothing further in regard to the matter.

"As Messrs. Leonard and Meek were the persons who expressed the desire to meet the Republican candidates upon the same platform and as they have been making statements and allegations, which if they know what they are talking about they ought to be willing to try to substantiate, I do not see any reason why any outsiders should be permitted to take up their side of the contention."

FRANCIS W. AYER CHOSEN PRESIDENT

New Jersey Baptists Close An Interesting Three Days' Session in Newark.

For the twentieth time, Francis Wayland Ayer, of Camden, yesterday was re-elected president of the New Jersey Baptist convention, which closed last night, after a three-day session held in the First Baptist Peddie Memorial church, Newark. The action of the convention was unanimous, as it was also in the case of Rev. Dr. Delavan Dewolf, of Newark who was re-elected financial and recording secretary for his twenty-fifth term. As soon as the results of the balloting were announced, Dr. Dewolf was presented with a chest of silver, as a token of appreciation of his long service, from the convention. Delegates to the convention contributed the funds with which the gift was purchased.

The other officers elected follow: Vice presidents, D. G. Garabrant Bloomfield; C. W. McCutchen, Plainfield; Rev. John W. Lyell, Camden and Rev. Judson Conklin, Trenton; executive secretary, Rev. Dr. Raymond M. West, Newark; secretary of education, Rev. Frank A. Smith Elizabeth; secretary for young people and Sunday-school work, Ivan I Flood, Newark; treasurer, B. F. Fowler, Haddonfield. Rev. Frederick Blaser, of Somerville, was elected a member of the board of managers and Rev. J. Madison Hare, of Scotch Plains, was elected associational manager of the East Association of the Baptist associations in the State and Rev. W. R. Reed, of New Brunswick, heads the Central association.

Asbury Park was selected by the convention for the annual session in 1916. The meetings will be held in the First Baptist church. Before the decision was reached to the next convention in Asbury Park, invitation were considered from the First Baptist church, of Paterson, and the First Baptist church, of Atlantic City.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MRS. H. L. STATHAM HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet L. Statham, eighty-seven years old widow of Jonathan B. Statham, was held at her home in East Whitehouse this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. William M. Trumbower, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated, and burial was made in the Methodist cemetery of that place. Mrs. Statham died after a long illness, Monday from dropsy and complications. She was one of the oldest residents of East Whitehouse, and was born at Readington, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Lane. She is survived by eight children, one of whom is Miss Carrie L. Statham, of this city.

BORO FIRE ENGINE IS IN PERFECT CONDITION

The steam engine of the North Plainfield fire department was given a severe test last night and stood up well. Chief Chandler and his men took the steamer from the Somerset street engine house shortly after 6 o'clock to a point on Manning avenue, where they connected it with a fire hydrant. Several lengths of hose were connected and the engine pumped water valiantly for over three hours, working with perfect precision. These tests are made frequently because the engine is not often called into use and officials must resort to practice trials in order to know that it is always in good running condition.

MASQUERADE DANCE.

The Dunbar Club will hold a masquerade dance tomorrow night at the Washington School. The Friday evenings socials conducted by the organization have been very enjoyable and the attendance has been excellent. A special effort is being made to make this Hallowe'en dance especially attractive and all those who attend will surely spend a most enjoyable evening of fun.

NO LIGHTS—ARE FINED.

Sheldon Caudray and Arthur Kretz, charged with riding bicycles after dark without lights, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in police court this morning. They entered a plea of guilty and were fined $5, but the fine was suspended with a warning that if they came back again they would be forced to pay both the old fine and a new one.

KING'S DAUGHTER SOCIAL.

Brightside Circle, King's Daughters, will hold a dime social at the home of Mrs. C. Frank French, 25 Washington avenue, Monday evening, at 8 o'clock. All members are invited to bring a friend. A chorus from Rutgers College is promised.

MUMMER'S PARADE WILL BE A FEATURE

Boy Scouts Plan Elaborate Program in Celebration of Hallowe'en Party.

The Boy Scouts of this city will have a mummer's parade on Hallowe'en. All the troops who expect to meet the Ik-Mik-Diks at the Scout Camp will foregather in the City Park, opposite the High School, at 7 o'clock Monday night, and proceed in a body to the camp, in charge of their scoutmasters. Dr. George T. Moore, secretary of the Scout Council, reports $10 additional toward the Boy Scout camp fund from the Holy school of the First Baptist church.

A meeting of the executive committee of the council will be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors on Friday evening, to discuss plans and scope of the coming year's activities in the local scout movement. The meeting has been called by President Theodore G. Davis. The committee consists of Judge William N. Runyon, chairman; President Davis, First Vice President L. M. Leek, Second Vice President F. M. Genung, Secretary-treasurer Dr. George T. Moore, and Edward Harding, of Fanwood, chairman of the finance committee, with advisory members, comprising First Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., Second Deputy Commissioner E. A. Sprowl and Third Deputy Commissioner F. E. Bach.

Plans are underway for an indoor Boy Scout demonstration of handicraft in the Plainfield High School auditorium sometime in November when A. J. Van Brunt, director of safety of the Public Service Corporation, will give a lecture on "Safety First," as applied to street car and other vehicular traffic. It is planned to have all the Boy Scouts in Plainfield who have built furniture, CCC ridges, trek carts, barriers, lamp shades in metal work, household equipments, wireless sets, etc., to exhibit them in the hall on that occasion so that parents and the public in general may see just what scout work involves. The Board of Education has kindly provided the hall for this purpose without charge. The actual date depends upon the engagements of Mr. Van Brunt, but it will be announced in due time. All scoutmasters are urged to take this up with their troops and to report to their district deputy whether there will be special marching, barrier work or exhibition from their troops.

There are special matters to come up before the next meeting of the Boy Scout Council on Monday evening, November 8. Among them is to hear the recommendations of the executive committee in relation to plan and scope of the scout work for the coming year. All registrations should be in the hands of Dr. George T. Moore, secretary-treasurer, 525 Park avenue, by that date.

Scoutmasters are still needed for two troops. Special efforts are being made to induce young men over 21 years of age to volunteer for this work of training the boys of this city in general preparedness for the responsibilities of citizenship, manhood and general personal efficiency. National Headquarters has recently passed a resolution to the effect that while the Boy Scout movement is not military, the use of arms and other weapons of destructiveness are not approved, that sort of preparedness that will make the boys of our day and generation better and more efficient citizens, give them an actual working knowledge of how to develop their own resources and conserve their minds and bodies for bigger and broader and more unselfish lives, is not only endorsed, but encouraged. The Boy Scout motto has always been "Be Prepared."

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Samuel B. Howe will give the second of his series of lectures on current topics at the association this afternoon beginning at 4:30. He will take as his subject, "Germany, the Great Contradiction."

All members of the association are invited to attend the Hallowe'en party to be held in the parlors tonight at 8 o'clock. The affair will not be in the nature of a masquerade, but a jolly time is assured all attendants.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Mary Miles Minter will be seen in the chief screen attraction at the U. S. Astor Theatre this afternoon and tonight, in "Emmy of the Stork's Nest," a Metro production of strong dramatic appeal, which affords the charming star plenty of opportunity to put into effect all of her dramatic resources. In addition today the twenty-fifth episode of "The Diamond From the Sky" will be exhibited and there will be other fine films.

Tomorrow, Victor Moore will be seen in "Chimmie Fadden," the story of which was written by former Congressman Townsend, of New Jersey, when he was a reporter on the New York Evening Sun.

Reading Character

is always interesting, but a study of a tradesman's business character as indicated by his advertising is even more interesting and always profitable.

Just glance over the advertisements in the Plainfield Daily Press of the merchants whose places you know.

Does not the merchant write his store character into his advertising? Is it not possible to form a pretty good idea of the store from the manner in which it makes its announcements in the newspapers?

Merchants are coming to realize more and more that when they write an advertisement they are painting a business portrait of themselves—indicating their business character.

They are more careful in their statements, more modest in their language and pay more attention to typography and illustration.

Advertising is prepared now-a-days more carefully than ever before and there is more of it every day.

And by the same token it is going to be more interesting and profitable to the readers.

PIERCE OPPOSES BIG BOND ISSUE

Senator From Union Says It Would Be a Waste of Money.

LAND IS NOT NEEDED

State Could Not Realize On Investment, and $1,000,000 Would Be But Initial Payment—He Urges Voters to Reject Proposed Act.

That the proposed bond issue for the purchase of the Wharton tract by the State of New Jersey would be an unwise act, is the opinion of Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Union county. Senator Pierce today gave out a statement in which he bitterly opposed approval of the issue by the voters.

This question is a live one because it is a part of the election of next Tuesday. At that time voters of the State must approve or reject the bond issue already contracted for by the State Water Supply Commission.

Senator Pierce said that the $1,000,000 would be but an initial payment on the cost of the proposed purchase and improvement of the property, which is not needed. He gave the following as his reasons for opposing the bond issue:

"It is conceded there is no present need for the water. The territory that would naturally be supplied (that part of the State south of Trenton), is at present adequately supplied from other sources. It is estimated by the State Department of Conservation and Development that twenty years will elapse before a single municipality of consequence will be a probable customer for water, and that then the State will be obliged to enter into competition with other and nearer sources of supply with which the southern part of the State abounds.

"The million dollars proposed to be paid for the land is merely an initial expense. If the State commits itself to the proposition, through the proposed purchase, additional money will be needed for development. Other land must be bought for reservoir sites and to complete the system, reservoirs and pumping stations must be built, and water mains laid. Though this expense is an integral part of the proposition and will cost many times the million dollars now asked for, inquiry reveals the fact that no estimates have been made, or information is available, as to what the outlay will be, beyond the item that a pipe line conveying surface water to Atlantic City can be built for a quarter of a million dollars. We are asked to buy without knowing the cost.

"Should the State acquire and develop this property, the rest of the State will be in the situation of paying in full for its own water supply and contributing besides to the Wharton supply—which is not a fair proposition. I am aware that the State Water Supply Commission proposes that the cost of development shall be borne by applying customers, and that rates will be charged for water that will reimburse the million dollars now asked for, but with no customer in sight for a generation, and competition then certain from nearer sources of supply, there is no reasonable assurance that development will ever occur except at State expense, or that money expended by the State will ever be returned.

"Upon the other point—the policy of inaugurating bond issues—I am one of the many opposed to a State bond issue for any purpose. The State has been handed to us free of debt, and I think we should transmit it to the next generation in the same condition. New York city and State yielding to the attractive easy money of bond issues, are now on the verge of practical bankruptcy from that cause. Our policy should be different. If permanent improvements are needed beyond our income, I think we should meet and pay for them by a State tax and have done with it. In no other way will State expenditures be watched and extravagance checked."

TRU-TRED SHOES

Any one who entertains any doubts about the satisfaction given the wearers of Tru-Tred Shoes should consider the fact that we have been selling Tru-Tred Shoes to some families in Newark and round-about for as long as 18 years.

These people would not buy a make of shoe that did not give complete satisfaction—and continue buying them for themselves and their children.

No stronger evidence of the worth of Tru-Tred Shoes should be required than this very fact of continuous patronage on the part of those who have tried them.

No argument should be necessary to convince any one of their worth.

Why be uncomfortable? Why suffer with tired and aching feet when Tru-Treds are available at the price of any other good shoes?

Tru-Treds Are Made for Men, Women and Children.

PORTRAYED BEAUTY OF "ETERNAL CITY"

"Boy Evangelist" Speaks to Capacity Audience at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Before an audience that filled the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening, Charles Forbes Taylor, the young evangelist, preached an impressive sermon on "The Eternal City." Men and women who perhaps had never given this subject any thought at all, were made to see a glorious city where there is no sin, no sorrow, no pain, no tears, no death. Truths that have been preached over and over again seemed to have a new meaning as they were heard from the lips of this boy. That the people of Plainfield and vicinity are beginning to realize this fact is evidenced by the crowds that nightly attend these services.

"When we have finished this earthly journey where shall we spend eternity?" asked the speaker. "You men and women who have already lived sixty or seventy years, what provision have you made for that journey which you must take? This city is not only eternal but holy. Every city we can think of is defiled by sin—we have only to stand on the street corner, or go into any home or look into our own hearts, to see sin. We can never get into that city with our sin, for nothing that defileth entereth there; but Jesus suffered pain on Calvary that we might have an entrance; He was forsaken by his friends and His God as He hung upon the Cross, for your sake and mine. Do you know what it is to be left alone, without a friend in the world? In that Eternal City we shall see the man that saved us, face to face; we shall want to thank Him for his life of sacrifice for us. It may be uphill work to reach that glorious city, but it takes a man, a woman, a true boy or girl, to go up hill."

With tenderness the young preacher pleaded with the audience to accept the sacrifice that Jesus Christ has made for them; he pleaded for father, mother, son, daughter, brother, sister, to seek an entrance into the Eternal City where there is no more parting, no more death. It was an impressive moment and many responded to the invitation to reconsecrate their lives to God's service.

The solo "The City that is Called Square," was rendered by the leader of the choir, Mr. Winter. The young evangelist will preach every evening this week.

POLITICAL NOTES.

October 28—Progressive meeting at Singer factory at noon. Progressive meetings at Broad and East Jersey streets and in Plainfield at 8 p. m. Democratic rallies in Kenilworth and Cranford.

October 29—Democratic meetings in Springfield, Union and Hillside.

October 30—Debate between Republican and Democratic Assembly candidates in Hippodrome Hall. Progressive rally at Broad and East Jersey streets, Elizabeth. Democratic meetings in Linden and Rahway.

November 1—Progressive meeting in Roselle Park School.

November 2—General Election Day.

One of the Republican candidates for City Council in Plainfield who is said to be almost sure of election is Charles S. Sminck, candidate from the First Ward. Mr. Sminck was at one time secretary to former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, and during his six years at Trenton acquired a thorough knowledge of the theory of government, as well as its practical workings.

The Republican smoker tonight in Republican headquarters, Elizabeth, will probably turn out to be one of the biggest campaign rallies of the season, and it is probable that the accommodations at the headquarters will be taxed to their utmost. Latest advices are that State Senator Carlton B. Pierce will speak at the rally, as well as the three Assembly candidates, and former Congressman Charles N. Fowler. G. Bartram Woodruff will talk for the excise candidates. The Assembly candidates will take up the Democratic charges and answer them in detail.

Governor Fielder has declared, finally, that he will not interfere in the Bergen county campaign. The Governor has been on the stump in various counties for the Democratic candidates for the Legislature, but on account of the bitter factional fight in Bergen, he has refused to visit that section. In Bergen, State Committeeman Dan Fellows Platt has repudiated five of the seven Democratic freeholder candidates and come out for the Republican ticket.

As a climax to the campaign, the Progressives have arranged a meeting for Saturday night to be held at Broad and East Jersey streets, Elizabeth, which will be addressed by former State Senator Everett Colby. The Assembly candidates will also speak, as well as Roland F. Calhoun and Elwood W. Phares, two local followers of the Bull Moose standard. The meeting is one of a series arranged by the Progressive Assembly candidates, Edgar A. Knapp, James B. Furber and Theodore F. Van Dyke, who are making a strong campaign for their election. At the Singer factory at noon today, William H. Bright, ex-sheriff of Cape May county, spoke, and tonight will address a meeting at Broad and East Jersey streets. Other speakers at the uptown gathering will be J. W. W. Hopkins, State chairman; Roland F. Calhoun, Harwood Fish, county chairman, and the three Assembly candidates. The latter will go to Plainfield later in the evening and talk at a rally to be held in front of the Courier building.

The last meeting will be held on Monday in the Roselle Park School building, where the three Assembly candidates and Harwood Fish will talk.

The last chance for unregistered voters to register expired Tuesday, the last registration day in cities of over 5,000 in population. Those who neglected their opportunity Tuesday, provided they were not previously registered this year, will lose their vote next Tuesday.

Mayor Charles A. Mohn, of West Hoboken, the Republican candidate for sheriff of Hudson county last year, has started a suit for slander against one of his townsfolk. The case is an outcome of the sensational scandal of a few months ago, when Mayor Mohn was tried and acquitted on a charge of sanctioning a disorderly house.

Ex-President William Howard Taft is scheduled to be the principal speaker at a dinner to be held by the Lincoln Association, of Jersey City, on Lincoln's Birthday. The association is headed by Colonel Austen Colgate as president and includes in its membership such men as Supreme Court Justice Swayze, George Warren and J. W. Hardenbergh.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Marion Lockwood is taking measurements and orders for the senior graduation rings all this week and they will probably be sent for the forepart of next week, so that the order may be filled by the middle of November.

A mass meeting will be held in the auditorium tomorrow afternoon and possibly Monday afternoon also, to practice cheers and songs for the Westfield game on Election Day. Carlton Dunham is cheer leader, but wants more of a crowd than the usual turnout to lead.

Report cards will be out in a day or so and in the meantime a number of those on the football squad are on the anxious seat. It will not hit more than one or two regulars, but the second string men may be out for the rest of the year.

Coach Hanson had the swimming team out for practice in the pool yesterday afternoon. They are now ready for the first meet to come along, but when it is will depend upon the time their suits arrive.

The probabilities are that field hockey will not be revived among the girls again this year as Miss Ruth Wean, girls' physical director, was not able to create the necessary interest.

Fall track practice has been held up by the inability of Jack Fritts, the coach, to take charge of things owing to an injury received in a meet recently. It was planned to hold several meets before winter, but lack of practice may force postponements.

A COLD WAVE IS DUE SHORTLY

Be Prepared to Meet it in Comfort With a Warm Overcoat.

Some combinations at Rothberg's.

The hard thing to find in this world is a combination which shall embrace in a single unit virtues which do not commonly roost together.

There are plenty of beautiful women in the world, and some mighty good cooks, but a man's luck has got to be running right to get a woman whose CURVES and COOKING are equally to his liking.

Same with Overcoats—some overcoats look well and some don't—some overcoats hold their shape and some lose it—some overcoats are well made without style—some have style and no merit in the making.

But if a man wants an Overcoat that combines all the merits of fine workmanship, of quality and of style — THE KEY TO THAT COMBINATION IS ROTHBERG'S.

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT

Maish Comfortables

Doctors, surgeons and health specilists throughout the world, all agree that "sound sleep in cold fresh air saves more lives than science." Just as essential, however, is a warm covering, the lighter in weight the better, just so it is warm.

The depressing weight of heavy bed covers is a constant strain upon the whole body, keeping the muscles tense instead of allowing complete relaxation.

The warmth of any bed cover depends upon its thickness and its heat retaining qualities, "but never on its weight."

The beauty of Maish Laminated Cotton Down Comfortables lies in the fact that they are so thick and lofty (therefore warm) and so wonderfully light in weight. They are so delightfully soft and pliable that they cling to the body, even though they are thick. Maish Comfortables are superior to any on the market.

We are showing a complete line of them in Silkoline, Sateen and Seco Silk, ranging in price as follows:

$3.25, $3.75, $5.00, $6.50

THE
Wizard Triangle Polish Mop

Lightens housework. Triangle in shape it gets in the corners, absorbs the dust, cleans and polishes all kinds of floors. The regular selling price of these mops is $1.25. The manufacturers are conducting an advertising campaign and have authorized us to offer this week with every mop sold a 50c bottle of Wizard Polish, a $1.75 combination for 1.25 and you will appreciate the luxury of a perfect fitting corset, giving readily to every movement of the body. Not only at first, but as long as it lasts, your corset will be the same; for a Warner is designed to fit comfortably and to give long wear. Every bone—in fact every seam—is placed to give the wearer ease.

All the Boning is Double—two thin strips in a single cover gives Warner's Corsets the suppleness so necessary, with less possibility of breaking than is possible with any single steel of equal weight.

Then the "Interlinings"—the strips that hold the bones in place. The boning cannot push through or tear the corset, or can it slip from place.

The Cloth Itself is Guaranteed and will stand the strain of constant wear.

INSIDE QUALITY.

You must look deeper than the surface. It is the unseen parts that make the corset right, and only the best is used inside as well as out in Warner's. We guarantee that every pair of Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets WILL NOT RUST, BREAK OR TEAR.

The Shoe Dept.

offers for this week woman's patent leather button dress boots with Louis heels, kid top and light welt soles; black or fancy button. Ask for style No. 5; a regular $5.00 shoe, this week for 3.98 says he is selling Printed Linoleum from 45c to 69c a yard, and Inlaid from 85c to $1.65, and that they are extra good values.

The Carpet Man

Also a discontinued pattern in a high grade 9x12 size Axminster Rug for $25

Sale of Mattresses
10.50 Values for 7.50

Here's a lot of mattresses that we could sell regularly for $10.50 and it would not be asking too much for them; in fact, most stores would get $12.50 for them. They are made of excellent quality elastic cotton felt, covered with satin finished dust proof ticking, made in two parts with Imperial roll edge and weigh full 50 pounds. We bought them when cotton was very low in price and for that reason can offer you this, the biggest and best mattress value of the season.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

An Appeal to Americans

BY

The Commission for Relief In Belgium

Sole Clearing House for all Belguim Relief

We, as Americans, are enlisted for the war to save seven million men, women and children. It is the greatest commissary undertaking in the history of the world, and in the lexicon of America there is no such word as fail.

We Need Food Supplies as Well as Cash

Railroads, express companies, postoffices, governors and state committees are aiding. Our Flotilla of Mercy, comprising thirty-five chartered ships, is constantly carrying food. But—Our Supplies Are Far too Short!

Are You Helping? If Not, Send in Your Name Now!

Make out your check or money order, or send cash either to your state committee co-operating with this Commission or to the New York Headquarters:

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

London.—Lady Scott, the widow of the explorer, has completed three months of manual labor in the munition works at Erith. She leaves her bed at 5 each morning, and makes the trip from her home in Buckingham Palace road to the munition factory in time to report for duty at 7. There she works with other women until 6 at night. "I am simply helping," she says, "because I want to be of service in some way. I am in the electrical department, and have to wind electric coils. I take the same hours as the other workers, and would not miss my work now for the world."

Boston—A mother's perseverance was rewarded in the courts of Japan last week, when the district court of Tokio awarded Mrs. John Ellis, of Boston, the custody of her nine-year-old daughter Olga. The little girl had been kidnapped by her father to Japan, after the mother had been given the child in Massachusetts. Mrs. Ellis traced her husband and the little girl to Japan, after she had been liberated from an insane asylum into which she had been thrust by her husband. The husband was formerly a minister, and is now an instructor in Tokio.

Chicago.—Miss Helen L. Nicholson, who was married on Tuesday at Fort Sheridan to Hebert H. Crean, is on her way to England with her new husband to begin a new chapter in her romantic career. She first met Crean in Manila two years ago, when her father, Col. Nicholson, U. S. A., now commandant at Fort Sheridan, was serving in the Philippines. Crean's father was formerly commander of a British territorial regiment, and the young man has tendered his services in the war. His bride will offer herself for hospital work to be near him.

New York.—The Daughters of the American Revolution are dedicating today the memorial which they have erected on the site of the White Plains battle of 1776. A fort and a memorial cannon will be dedicated with appropriate exercises.

Peoria, Ill.—The 46th annual convention of the Illinois Equal Suffrage Association opened here today, with four hundred women delegates present. One of the important bits of news going the rounds is that Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, the president, will not be a candidate to succeed herself. She has been doing an enormous lot of work for the vote, and declares she wants to have a rest. She will deliver her annual address this evening. The raising of a "liberty fund" for the purpose of gaining full suffrage for the women of the State will be proposed in the convention. The plan is to start getting in the money so that the association will be financially prepared to carry an amendment through to a successful conclusion.

New Haven, Conn.—Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the former president, is another member of the Taft family to become connected with Yale. She intends taking a doctor's degree, and has joined the first-year class in the graduate school. She was graduated from Bryn Mawr last June, and judging from the talent she has displayed in writing, it is probable she will seek her Yale degree in literature or history. It is expected she will take her degree in June, 1918, the same year that her younger brother, Charles Phelps Taft, 2nd, hopes to get his A. B.

Lakewood.—The women's autumn golf tourney has brought to Lakewood some of the best women golfers of the country. The first round is under way today at the Country Club. Among the entries are Philadelphia, New York and Boston women. The final round will be played on Saturday.

Newark.—The fall convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs will be held on Saturday at Woodbury. Mrs. Charles W. Stockton, president of the federation, will be a leading speaker. The present status of the plan for securing a State college for women will be discussed at the morning session.

ENEMY ALIENS BARRED.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—An alien enemy who has not registered with the authorities, and who is interned, cannot proceed with any civil action he may have taken, until the close of the war. This has been decided by Justice Maclennan in the case of an Austrian, Mihai Gisetu, against Mrs. Tillie Lang. The court cited the decision of Lord Reading in England that "by the existing law the mere fact of war operates ipso facto to suspend any rights of action which at the time of the outbreak of the war any alien enemy may possess."

XMAS COMMITTEE TO MEET.

The Community Christmas Committee will hold its first fall meet at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon when plans for the annual celebration will be made.

ANNUAL BAR DINNER.

The annual dinner of the Plainfield Bar Association will be held at 5:30 this afternoon in the Kensington Hotel.

MRS. MARY E. LOOMIS DIES IN JERSEY CITY

Mrs. Mary E. Loomis, of Mountain and Randolph streets, Jersey City, died this morning at her late home in that city following an illness that lasted for three months. She was in her fifty-eighth year. Surviving her are three sons, Edward and Harold, of Jersey City, and Walter Loomis, of John street, this city.

The funeral will be held at her late residence tomorrow night, and the interment will take place Saturday morning in the Evergreen cemetery in Elizabeth. The news of Mrs. Loomis' death was received in this city with sincere regret. She has visited here on numerous occasions and holds a large circle of acquaintances in both city and the borough. Mrs. Loomis' husband died about a year ago. Many will remember the time when he was visiting his son here and suffered an attack of appendicitis which compelled his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital for an operation. After leaving the local institution he went to his home in Jersey City and two weeks later suffered an attack of pneumonia, which resulted in his death several days later.

BOROUGH TAX SALE POSTPONED TWO WEEKS

Because only two men showed up at the advertised tax sale of North Plainfield property yesterday afternoon the sale was again continued. It is now set for Wednesday, November 10.

There are thirty-four pieces of property in the borough in which the 1914 taxes have not been paid and which have been advertised for sale. The original delinquent list contained more than twice that number of names and it is possible that many more will be paid off before the two weeks' respite is passed because there is little possibility of a further continuance. Collector J. V. E. Vanderhoef has authority by law to continue the sale for eight weeks, and can postpone action again next month, but it is not likely that this will be done.

WILL GIVE DANCE FOR HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Plainfield High School Alumnae Association composed of Dr. Sidney Titsworth, chairman; Martin B. Stutsman, Dr. William D. Murray and Miss Iola Moore, held last night steps were taken toward giving a dance to the seniors sometime in the near future and the following committee was appointed to take charge of arrangements: Miss Iola Moore, chairman; Pauline Gates, Jessie Stewart, Jennie Whelan, Murial Cockburn, Roger Cockburn, Elston Hoagland, Burnett Doane, Harold Williams, Roy Titsworth, Charles Morse.

It was also decided to hold the annual alumnae Christmas dance on Tuesday, December 28, in the High School auditorium.

MORRIS COUNTY MAN HELD IN SOMERVILLE

Somerville, Oct. 28.—Edgar Dorman, who gave his home as Lancaster, Pa., was arrested here by Marshal Holmes yesterday charged with larceny. Dorman was wanted in Morristown for the theft of a horse from W. Wright there last Saturday. Since that time he swapped Wright's horse to Enoch Van Doren for another, and sold the horse he got from Van Doren to Christopher Columbo. Sheriff Thompson, of Morris county came for the man this morning and took him back for trial.

PROMPT SETTLEMENT MADE.

George R. Lyman, of the firm of Charles H. Lyman & Son, representing the Insurance Company of North America, today adjusted the fire loss at the store of the Woolston, Buckle Company on North avenue. The loss caused by the fire Sunday morning totaled about $4,000. The Woolston, Buckle Company is not only pleased with the prompt settlement, but also praise the efficiency of the local fire department for the way it prevented further damage.

JACK M'QUEEN GETS PONY.

Jack MacQueen, of 212 Clinton avenue, is the lucky winner of the pony and outfit valued at $350 in the McKeon pony contest, conducted by the Daily Press, which closed or Monday. A complete list and the vote of every contestant will be announced in the issue of the Daily Press, Monday, November 1. The name of the winner of the suburban pony will also be named at that time.

COAL THIEVES ARRESTED.

Somerville, Oct. 28.—Seven coal thieves arrested by detectives of the Lehigh Valley railroad were tried before Judge Sutphen here today. Five of them paid fines of from $5 to $10 and two were sent to jail.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brokaw, of Codington avenue, the borough, are parents of a boy born to them yesterday.

Boiler Explosion at St. John's Results in Many Deaths.

Peabody, Mass., Oct. 28.—A boiler explosion in the basement of St. John's Parochial School here today cost the lives of at least 30 small boys and girls, according to police estimates. Twenty-one bodies had been taken out at noon.

PLAINFIELD WOMAN IS HURT IN JITNEY BUS

Mrs. E. L. Nash, of Plainfield, had several fingers badly cut last night in an accident which occurred on a jitney bus near Elizabeth. Mrs. Nash was on her way from Newark to Elizabeth when the machine in which she was riding struck a rough place in the road, throwing her from her seat. She threw out an arm to catch herself, and her hand went through a glass window in the car. Several fingers were badly cut.

NO MORE TROOPS ARE NEEDED ALONG BORDER

Washington, Oct. 28.—Although the situation along the Texas border grows more alarming daily no additional troops will be sent to reinforce General Funston, it was learned at the War Department today. It is believed by War Department officials that General Funston, with enough troops under his command to handle any situation however serious that may arise.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

"Bazaar Night" brought out more people to Proctor's than they could accommodate in one show last night and many had to wait in line that extended to the street before there was enough room to admit them. Among the gifts distributed were quabs, ducks, a beautiful big clock at least twelve feet high, and many other presents too numerous to mention. The important screen announcements made last night were that "The Birth of a Nation" would be an early production at the theatre, and that contracts had been signed with the Triangle Company whereby all of the big features shown at the Knickerbocker Theatre will be seen here at Proctor's, including Billie Burke, Raymond Hitchcock, Dustin Farnum, Eddie Foy, Dorothy and Lillian Gish, Frank Keenan and other well known celebrities. The show for the last half of this week will include the photo play "Silk Hose and High Pressure" and the Western romance "Father's Good" with Hobart Bosworth, and the vaudeville will include Dainty Little Beth Chalice & Company, The Pleasons, Houlihan and Company, Ray Conlin and Elisie Gilbert and Mrs. Neal of the Navy will be one of the features tomorrow and Saturday will be "Toy Day" for the children when all attending will receive one.

COAL TRUST SUIT DROPPED.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Judge McPherson, Buffington and Hunter filed a final decree in the U. S. Court today in conformity with the opinion handed down some time ago in the government suit against the Reading Company, and others, brought to dissolve the so-called anthracite coal trust, directing that the bill of complaint be dismissed.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in, the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

Measuring Party and Tea to Be Given at Park Club on Saturday.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM

Vaudeville Entertainment Will Be a Feature of Affair—Proceeds for Wounded Soldiers and Sailors Among Allies.

The tea and measuring party to be given Saturday afternoon at the Park Club under the auspices of the New Jersey Branch of the Prince of Wales Relief for Soldiers and Sailors, promises to be a gala event, an afternoon of pleasing features being arranged by the committee in charge of the affair.

The program consists of the following numbers: Sextet, Mrs. Guy Bender, Mrs. William Burnett, Mrs. H. R. Moyer, Miss May Robinson, Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. L. C. Whitall; piano, Mrs. Charles Lewis; violins, Miss Lyle Smith and Mrs. Noel Evans. They will sing Elgar's "The Snow" and "Fly Singing Bird." Magic feats will be exhibited by Henry Rankin, assisted by Mrs. Rankin. Hugh Gaston, of Somerville, the boy soprano, who has delighted audiences in many cities, will render a number of solos. Probably one of the most pleasing of the numbers on the program will be the classic dance, Shubert's "Moment Musicale," as originated by Mme. Anna Pavlova, the noted Russian dancer. The following young girls will take part in the interpretation: Stella Butler, Jane Van Zandt and Margaret Beck.

Banjo selections will be rendered by Alfred Farland, while William Holmes will render a number of baritone Irish songs. Sir Frederick Smith will direct a toy symphony orchestra consisting of the following instruments and their players: Violins, Miss Helen Harmon, Miss Alice Titus, Miss Mary Fiske, Miss Margaret Burnett, Miss Lyle Smith, Mrs. Edward Cox, and Mrs. Noel Evans; cellos, Dr. Leonard Waldo and Henry Fiske; pianos, Miss Ruth Waldo, Miss Elizabeth Burke, Mrs. Howard Craig, Mrs. Coddington; triangle, Miss Mary Faber; drum, Miss Violet Johnston; shuffle, Miss Ruth Titus; trumpet, Miss Lillian Fiske; nightingale, Miss Antoinette Barclay; cuckoo, Miss Adele De Leeuw; cymbals, Noel Evans; rattle, Miss Marion Brown.

Tea and cake will be served throughout the afternoon. Admission will be charged according to the weight of the person. Ten cents will be assessed for every foot and a cent for each inch above the foot. The proceeds will be used to purchase such materials as are needed by the society to carry on the work of making surgical dressings for the wounded of the Allies. One of the principal attractions at the function will be a table in charge of a score of young women who will demonstrate to the attendants the way the bandages are made, as well as many finished products, such as shirts, slippers, kit bags, sponges, and many other useful articles. One of the mottoes of the society is as follows: Ten cents may save a life; one dollar will give untold relief to many; while five dollars will bring ease from pain to scores of sufferers."

The executive committee of the Plainfield branch of the Prince of Wales Relief is composed of the following women: Mrs. Rufus Delafield, chairman; Mrs. Henry Titus, vice chairman, Miss Florence Huntington, secretary; Mrs. Edgar Hyatt, treasurer.

At the meeting in the parish house of the Grace church this morning, announcement was made that about 16,000 articles had been shipped abroad by the committee already. Such enthusiasm was also manifested when a presentation was made of a bale of muslin consisting of 1,857 yards as a gift of fifteen women. The money to purchase the latter was gotten by means of small banks distributed throughout the country, in which sums were deposited for the purpose.

TO DISCUSS LOCAL OPTION.

There will be a meeting in the auditorium of the Plainfield Public Library tonight of those interested in furthering the interest of local option and for a consideration of the candidates who are in favor of this measure. Representatives of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs will be present to join in the discussion.

MARY GEDRICH.

The funeral of Mary Gedrich, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gedrich, of 213 Spooner avenue, who died yesterday afternoon in Muhlenberg Hospital, following a brief illness, was held this afternoon from the home of the parents and was private. Interment took place in St. Mary's cemetery.

NO PLACE FOR INCOMPETENTS.

Edward C. Pearson, in an open letter to the Press, asks why Democratic candidates for the Assembly are aspiring to important legislative office if they "are not familiar with the issues of the campaign," as explained by Chairman L. T. Russell, in dodging a joint debate with Republican candidates. Mr. Pearson asks a very pertinent question.

The greatest need of the American republic of today is the need of experienced men for office. When we select a man to run a factory, manage a clothing store, operate a newspaper plant or drive a dray, we do not ask how he stands on Wilson's break with Bryan, or whether he believes Lincoln was a greater man than Andrew Jackson, but we do demand that he deliver the goods, and that he submit substantial proof of his ability to make good before he gets the job. A manufacturer who employs a factory superintendent does not care whether or not the applicant is a fluent speaker, a "good fellow" or whether his cousin beat his wife. He wants to be convinced that the man can make good on the job—that he knows his business.

It is a pity that the same common sense is not used in selecting men for public office, because our government is the greatest business enterprise in all our country and the one that affects each individual citizen most vitally. If your business fails you can start over again with the aid of your friends and business associates, but if your country is mismanaged all suffer with you and no one can help you.

If the Democratic candidates for Assembly "are not familiar with the issues of the campaign," and we have the word of the county chairman who is interested in electing them for this, it would be criminal to elect them. They are imposing on their friends by asking for votes, and are not worthy of support. No man who is not familiar with State questions—with the subjects that must be fought over and decided in the next session of the Assembly—is competent to represent his fellow citizens in that important body.

William N. Runyon, Arthur N. Pierson and Charles L. Morgan were members of the last General Assembly and they made a record for conservative, constructive, sane legislation. They were three of the most able men in the Assembly and were recognized as leaders in all State matters. That they made enemies of the whisky trust by voting for the local option bill they but added to their laurels in this and won the respect of every advocate of good government in the State. We do not believe that the voters of Union county will reject men of their known ability and give these important jobs to mere office-seekers, whose best political friend admits that they are not qualified.

Incompetence may not be a crime, but to put an incompetent into public office is so foolish as to be almost criminal.

MECHANICS ARE PROSPEROUS.

Plainfield mechanics, and they form one of the best classes of our citizenship, are enjoying one of the most prosperous periods in the history of their trade. A world war was necessary in order for them to realize on their service to the community, but through increased output of all Plainfield factories they now have eight-hour day schedules and adequate pay. For years this trade has been overworked and under paid in Plainfield. There are more than 3,000 mechanics in this community and they are deserving of the best that capital can give them because they are the backbone of our citizenship. When they prosper the community is prosperous. Some fear that a cessation of hostilities across the water and a subsequent falling off of American exports in articles made by them will result in a return to the old scale of prices, but we believe that the eight hour day and the higher wage for mechanics has come to stay, and those who earnestly attempt to analyze the "good times" we are now enjoying will soon be convinced that it would be wise to insure the permanency of the mechanics' present prosperity.

Harvard students have shown the true sport spirit in asking for the reinstatement of Yale players declared ineligible because they received board in payment for their services as baseball players last season. It will probably not be effective, but it is evidence that American football is on the same high plane as American baseball, and that the true athlete is one of our best citizens.

Coincident with the announcement of Senator Curry, of Montreal, that his company made more than $150,000,000 manufacturing shells for the Allies last year came the notice of his son's death at the front. We wonder if congratulations are in order at his home.

According to a Chicago justice a habitual hobo is 20 per cent. laziness, 10 per cent. hard luck, 10 per cent. criminal instinct and 60 per cent. physical and mental defectiveness. Ought to be a little liquor in there somewhere.

Those Dartmouth students who are going to the Amherst game as pig tenders in order to save fare would kick like thunder if their father asked them to carry a market basket to save a ten cent messenger fee.

After divorcing and remarrying a man seven times, woman shot him to death at Sullivan, Ind. She ought to have ended his agony sooner.

Jess Willard is said to have paid $33,000 to get rid of two of his managers. Almost as hard to lose them as it is a wife.

COURT MARTIAL OF CAPTAIN.

Newark, Oct. 28.—A general court martial will convene here this afternoon to try Captain George J. Hattersley, of Company D, Fifth Infantry, of Paterson, on charges of disobedience of orders, growing out of his refusal to answer questions put to him by the brigade examining board unless he were allowed to be represented by counsel. Captain Hattersley was tried about a year ago on charges that he failed to attend the school of instruction as ordered and had failed to account properly for the military property in his possession. He was acquitted and was restored to his command. Some months ago he was ordered to appear for examination as to his fitness for duty. He appeared at the session accompanied by a lawyer. The board refused to allow him counsel, on the ground that the proceedings were not a trial and that the captain was not called upon to defend himself. Thereupon, Captain Hattersley refused to answer questions, and charges of disobedience of orders followed.

Off Again On Again

STRICKLAND W. GILLILAN

They're Coming!

When the nights are full of shivers
And the extra blanket's out,
When the bile deserts our livers
And the kitchen smells of kraut,
When the time is drawing nearer
For the oak-and-hickory blaze
On the hearthstone and—what's dearer—
For the old boiled-cabbage days.

If you've smelled that preparation
Only in a boarding-house
In some beehive of the nation
Where the clerks and actors browse,
Then you're not to blame for hating
What I'm speaking of—but, say,
We young rubes were always dating
Things from ham-and-cabbage day.

They came when winds were raw and bitter
And the whole bleak out-of-doors
Made each man and dumber critter
Shudder 'round at feed and chores.
And to get in by the fire
And to smell, 'midst warmth of blaze,
Ham-and-cabbage—my desire
Is for old boiled-cabbage days!*

Coming Back

The man who can't come back never had much of an excuse for coming in the first place.

The fellow who can't get up after the first few knockdowns wasn't worth knocking down.

Some people seem to think when they are handed a stiff uppercut in business or some other way, that it is their duty to lie there and wait till the world comes around and apologizes for the wallop.

It's a good, long wait—believe us! You never get any apology from the world unless you go out and cut a good, heavy elm club, hit the world a swat over the ibex, take it by the throat and compel it to take it all back and promise to be good.

The world never sees a man who is lying on his spinal column waiting for voluntary reparation.

Some people have a personal grief and proceed to feature it.

That is almost as bad from the standpoint of mental and physical health as it is bad in taste.

It is an insult to a living world and does no good to the dead to send up rockets in the face of live humans proclaiming your own selfish sorrow.

Live people not only expect, but really need, all the attention you can spare from yourself.

So the human being who is of the slightest importance should bestir himself and impersonate a good, live rubber ball—spend as little time as possible on the ground, and bounce just that much higher when thrown down harder.

A Letter From The Czar

Inaditchovitch, Near Ruszky, October Steenth.

Dear Offaginsky—

Sensational news has recently reached me from the army. I understand it has got confused and turned around. This, according to my advices, has got them mixed up with the following persons. I mean, with the Germans, who have been chasing them for so long. I am much concerned lest my troops become imbroiled in some disgraceful row, and that some of my men may use violence. Let us hope none of them may forget himself and do anything rude to a German. That is no way to treat guests from a neighboring country. That is why I took all the guns, etc., from my soldiers before sending them to attend the meeting near Warsaw. Somebody must have meddled with my plans and slipped some firearms or brass knuckles or hat-pins to them. I shall look into the matter as soon as I think I can do so without straining my eyes or otherwise endangering my health.

Yours worriedly,
Nick Romanoff.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

What's In A Name?

OFFHAND we estimate that there are some forty odd diseases of the stomach requiring different kinds of treatment, and, still offhand, about ninety common conditions in no wise connected with the stomach itself which may cause pain or distress in the epigastrium—the area where you think your stomach lies—making in all a grand total of one hundred and thirty separate ailments which are popularly labelled "stomach trouble." One hundred and thirty—yet many a sufferer "tries" a remedy for his "stomach trouble" without having the slightest knowledge of what really is the matter. Perhaps heart disease, perhaps brain tumor, perhaps anemia, or nephritis, or tuberculosis of the lungs, or arteriosclerosis—the good doctor only knows what may be the real cause of your "stomach trouble," and he has to examine you pretty thoroughly to find out. Sick people are quite properly averse to experiments at the hands of their medical attendants, but think of the amount of experimenting done by the thousands of victims of "stomach trouble" who select their own remedies!

"Catarrh of the stomach" is another name which signifies absolutely nothing but a spurious diagnosis. "Gastritis"—from gastrum (stomach) and itis (inflammation)—is in the same category in practically every instance. "Dyspepsia" is the crudest diagnostic joke ever played on a semi-invalid. "Acute indigestion" as an alleged cause of death is nothing but a cloak for diagnostic ignorance or carelessness. "Gas colic" as a condition purporting to explain pain in the abdomen is a very bad guess made by the patient and acquiesced in by the doctor for the sake of convenience or to gain time. Gas, whether swallowed or developed from fermentation, never causes pain. Conditions, functional and organic, in the stomach or elsewhere, which cause the gas may also cause burning or pain.

"An acid stomach" is a make-believe diagnosis designed to cover both horns of a dilemma. If the normal hydrochloric acid of digestion is secreted in excess, as it often is in ulcer cases and others, that is one thing; if food ferments, as it often does in obstruction from cancer, ulcer, ptosis, dilatation of the stomach, and other conditions outside of the stomach, butyric, lactic and acetic acids are produced, and that is a very different thing. What would be good for one kind of acidity would be likely to add fuel to the fire of the other.

Names in the art of medicine are treacherous things, especially so in cases of supposed "stomach trouble." If test meals and chemical analyses were more popular in diagnosis the stomach would be spared a lot of abuse. At any rate much good medicine would be saved.

WATER

WATER was first discovered and investigated by Noah, who succeeded in living on it for forty days.

Most men admire Noah for his bravery, but very few have any desire to break his record.

Water is one of our most useful and necessary possessions. Without it the earth would be a desert and worthless, stocks would only yield a beggarly six or eight per cent., and mankind would curl up and die. A great many men avoid water and try to get along with a substitute which they claim is just as good. But their widows and creditors seldom speak of the experiment as a success.

There is an unlimited supply of water on the planet, but most of it is badly seasoned and is unfit for drinking purposes. There are five great oceans containing 150,000,000 square miles of water and surrounded by 200,000 miles of sea beach, giving room for 2,000,000,000 bathers at one time. And yet a great many people in this world are no cleaner than they should be.

Water is very thin and transparent, except in the Chicago and Missouri Rivers. It is very restless, and is continually climbing up into the sky and falling down on baseball games and picnics in the summer, and on new millinery in all seasons. Water is very gregarious, and loves to collect in ponds, rivers, lakes, gulfs, oceans and corporations. It is very unstable, and the man who tries to wander around in it without a life preserver soon sinks and dies from swallowing too much of it. Too much water is just as fatal as too little.

Water is useful for running steam engines, making soft drinks, soaking soiled citizens, increasing the supply of milk, putting out fires, making Baptists and insulating Americans from kings and dukes and Waldorf Astors. Among the most noted collections of water in the world are the Great Lakes, which are 1,000 miles long over all and entirely drinkable; the Mississippi River, the father of waters; the

Jonah used Noah's houseboat idea with modifications

Amazon River, the greatest female river in the world; the Great Salt Lake, the Dead Sea and Wall Street. Niagara Falls and the Old Faithful geyser are the two most athletic bodies of water. The most industrious water is the Colorado River, which has burrowed its way 6,000 feet into the ribs of the earth. The most imposed upon water is the Chicago River, which was turned around, loaded full of sewage and made to run backward. The most restless water is the Missouri River, which changes its bed every night. The most neglected water is found in Kentucky, where it is not used for anything but storing catfish. And the most over-advertised water in the world is Minnehaha Falls, which only fall when a stout man in overalls turns on a spigot and begins to pump.

How Englishwomen Are "Saving The Land"

ALICE MARTINEAU writes in The Englishwoman (London) that perhaps the only blessing that has been bestowed by the stern necessity of war is the giving to woman her rightful share of the world's work. Now that there are not enough men in England to do the necessary work, women have been given the opportunity that was denied them previous to the war, and they are proving to the Englishmen that Englishwomen are able to shoulder the work of a nation with entire efficiency. The author writes that working women are wanted in thousands throughout England, particularly in the country districts. She gives her own establishment as an example of the many estates that are stripped of their working men by the call of the army.

"In this small village over one hundred and twenty men are serving. My last men go this week, and a woman left behind in one of the villages has three days in which to learn to milk, feed, make butter and take her husband's place. . . . Here, where six men are kept normally, I find myself with two boys, one sixteen and one thirteen. Left first with no head gardener, I undertook that duty myself, without difficulty, as I have made gardening my profession the last few years. The chauffeur went, so I learned to drive the car, and it is washed by the small boy (who loves it). Gradually, they (the men) have all gone, and their places are being taken by women—two of whom come and weed and pick fruit with great ability—and I have been able to get an old man two days a week. Now that my foreman and cow-man are leaving, I shall take a well-trained woman-gardener as head and let her get her own assistants, beginning them as pupils."

While not every girl can aspire to positions which have been filled by carefully trained men, still there are thousands of girls and women who are so quick and deft that in a short time they can be trained to perform all the duties of a gardener under slight supervision. Given the same instruction, the girl of fifteen will outstrip the boy of fifteen in the art of gardening by months.

"Women have their place wherever it is a question of the breeding and caring for animals. They have an innate sympathy with them which is most helpful, especially in the milking of cows, where they are usually more successful than men. Never have I had such success with poultry as when a Scotch cook took charge of my hens. They laid all winter and ate less wheat in six months than they usually do in three."

The National Political League has obtained a small grant from the English Government to assist girls to get training in gardening and other trades, and Mr. Farrar, a well-known authority on poultry-breeding, fruit-farming, etc., proposes to take pupils without fees.

The whole question of putting women to work in these rural occupations, drained of their men workers, is the question of "saving England," of "saving the land for the men who are fighting."—The American Review of Reviews.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

Must Stick To The Agreement

Q. A man made a written agreement with me to sell me certain property. This property, consisting of a nice cottage and considerable ground, is situated in a desirable neighborhood. He does not seem inclined to carry out his agreement. What rights have I?

A. You could sue for a breach of the contract and recover damages or, probably, could have the contract specifically performed.

"Wait Until I Get Off!"

Q. Couldn't a street railway company be sued for damages for starting up a car too soon and not allowing a passenger time to alight?

A. The company, acting through its employees, should give the passenger a reasonable time to alight in safety.

An Old Custom?

Q. An ordinance in my town makes it compulsory upon an individual, upon moving from one part of town to another, to fill out some blanks giving definite information as to where he is moving. Is this ordinance legal?

A. The constitutionality of ordinances such as the one you describe has not been finally determined. Such ordinances have been attacked and the holding of some courts, in some cases, has been against the validity of the ordinances.

An Offer Withdrawn

Q. If a business man should make an offer to another person could he withdraw it?

A. Yes, if the offer has not been accepted or acted upon by the other person, or if there was no agreement, based on a valuable consideration, to keep the offer open for a specified length of time.

Get A Court Ruling

Q. I am the custodian of a certain fund. Two different persons claim it. It is immaterial to me as to which person should receive it, except that I want to know, in case I should pay one of them, whether I would be legally protected.

A. Consult your lawyer and have him institute the proper proceeding in court to determine who is the rightful owner. After the court has passed upon the question and entered an order directing to whom the money is to be paid, you have nothing to do except to obey the court's instructions.

A False Compromise

Q. Suppose a man should owe a number of men considerable money and a composition with his creditors is drawn up. Then suppose one of the creditors is persuaded by the debtor to sign the agreement, the debtor claiming that other creditors have signified their willingness to sign the agreement, whereas, in fact, such statements made by the debtor are false. Will this creditor be legally bound by the agreement?

A. His creditor would not be legally bound.

A Salesman's Authority To Sell

Q. May a commercial traveler legally have authority to sell goods for his house, or does he merely receive the merchant's order? In other words, when is the sale complete?

A. The answer to your question must depend upon the extent of the salesman's authority. Sometimes he is given special authority to complete the sale. On the other hand, if he has no such special authority, all he can do is to solicit trade and send in his orders, and in such case the orders must be approved and accepted by the house.

A Handwritten Will

Q. Aren't wills sometimes entirely in the handwriting of the person disposing of the property?

A. Yes, sometimes.

Not Much

Q. If a certain kind of a contract is forbidden by law, it can't be enforced, can it? A. Certainly not.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper

The Life Line

BY LAURA KIRKMAN

The Christian Who Never Goes To Church

This is the man who doesn't see the brevity of life. If he did, he'd know that in no time—a mere handful of years—he'll be standing before God; and this realization would drive him to a closer devotion to God. God would seem more real to him—more necessary. He would feel the need of going to church—of learning from the Great Adviser how to make the most of that handful of years. And each Sunday he would leave church as an athlete leaves his coach—resolved that when he next returned to its doors, he would have a good report to make of himself. But the passive Christian is a wounded athlete. He has been wounded for lack of his church-coach's advice and interest and encouragement. He could "come back," but he is blind to the means. So he sits helplessly watching stronger athletes carry off the trophies.

He's strapped himself to a chair.

The Old Plaid Shawl

Not far from old Kinvarra in the merry month of May,
When birds were singing cheerily, there came across my way,
As if from out the sky above an angel chanced to fall,
A little Irish colleen in an old plaid shawl.

She tripped along right joyously, a basket on her arm,
And oh! her face, and oh! her grace, the soul of saint might charm;
Her brown hair rippled o'er her brow; but greatest charm of all
Was her modest blue eyes beaming 'neath her old plaid shawl.

I courteously saluted her, "God save you miss!" said I;
"God save you kindly, sir!" said she and shyly passed me by.
Off went my heart along with her, a captive in her thrall,
Imprisoned in the corner of the old plaid shawl.

Enchanted with her beauty rare I gazed in pure delight,
Till round an angle of the road she vanished from my sight,
But ever since I sighing say, as I that scene recall,
"The grace of God about you and your old plaid shawl."

Oh! graceful the mantillas that the signorinas wear,
And beautiful the bonnets of Parisian ladies fair;
But never cloak, or hood or robe in palace, bower or hall,
Clad half such witching beauty as that old plaid shawl.

I've heard of highway robbers that with pistols and knives,
Made trembling travellers yield them up their money or their lives;
But think of me that handed out my heart and head and all
To a simple little colleen with an old plaid shawl.

Words.

Words are great forces in the realm of life;
Be careful of their use. Who talks of hate,
Of poverty, of sickness, but sets rife
These very elements that mar his fate.
When love, health, happiness and plenty hear
Their names repeated over day by day;
They wing their way like answering fairies near,
Then nestle down within our homes to stay.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Anger and Fear.

Naturalists declare that the venom of snakes is generated by anger and fear; that it is rapidly collected in a special receptacle and thence discharged at the object of its anger and fear, and it is further explained that we have no special organ to receive it, and it, therefore, disperses in the blood, acting against ourselves instead of for our protection. Be that as it may, it is generally conceded that we are literally poisoned by the emotions mentioned, and by any sentiment or passion which upsets the smooth workings of our minds—expression.

The Maternal Instinct.

The child is now acknowledged to be the most important factor in the State. Woman's place in the future of the race is an important one. The maternal instinct only needs enlarging to be the most effective power of modern times.

"Harmless Sparklers."

A girl twelve years old was burned to death in Philadelphia while taking the part of an angel. To make the scene more realistic the angels carried lighted "sparklers," supposed to be harmless, and the child's dress was ignited from these. Parents should know that these sparklers are not harmless and do all they can to have the name changed, which is leading more and more people astray each Fourth of July.

Rights of Others.

"The first training for the child to observe the rights of others should be parental. How often our vagrant desires and impulses and proclivities appear in our children. It is a great thing to have come from a law-keeping, law-abiding, law-loving people. It is a great thing to have come from a race who counted it a duty and joy to observe the rights of others. We can be that kind of parents.

"Secondly, all those influences in the home should be such as to train the child to observe the rights of others. The first thing to be taught is loving and prompt obedience. In fact, obedience is the foundation virtue of all true character structure. Over-indulgence may be a mark of affection, but it is a mark of unwise affection. A child should be taught that there are some things that he should leave alone. This is one of the first things that a wise parent should firmly and lovingly insist upon. For example, the child should learn to respect the toys and playthings of his brother and let them alone. Where one is visiting one should insist that her child should not handle all the bric-a-brac of her hostess. To permit a child to do so lessens its sense of the sacredness of possession. Further when one is shopping she should not permit her child to take oranges or pears or grapes from the boxes of the grocery, even though the genial tradesman offers no objection. The child should be taught that these things do not belong to him or you, and that he must refrain from taking them until you have purchased some."

"Luther Burbank says: 'That it is a good thing for a child to live with thorns, bees and nettles, for he will early come to understand there are some things that it is not wise to handle.' There is still real value in fear; but there are many higher motives. Pride, sense of honor, respect for family name and affection, and they should all be utilized to influence respect for the rights of others."—Child-Welfare Magazine.

Changed Into a Pair of Doves by the Gods.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—What Happened To the Faithful Chinese Lovers.

"ONCE upon a time and hundreds of years ago," daddy told the children, "there was a beautiful Chinese maiden whose father was a mandarin."

"What is that?" cried Jack.

"A mandarin is the strong man who governs a whole province of China. He has power of life and death over millions of people, and everybody has to obey him."

"Did his daughter obey him?" asked Evelyn.

"We shall see," said daddy. "They lived in a wonderful palace with many servants, and their garden, around a crooked river with a quaint old bridge and a charming pagoda, had some of the most beautiful willow trees in all the land."

"What is a pagoda?" exclaimed Jack.

"A pretty knobby tower, all windows and carvings, where the old mandarin and his beautiful daughter worshiped their god," daddy explained. "Well, one day a palace servant reported to the old mandarin that nightly a beautiful young man climbed over the palace wall and made love to the maiden under the old willow trees. The old mandarin went into a terrible rage, called his daughter and ordered her never to see her lover again. The maiden wept bitter tears and pleaded with her angry father, telling him she could not live without her lover. But the old mandarin hardened his heart. And because the young man, although he was very good and intelligent, was not so well born as was his daughter, he gave the order of death if ever the lover was found in the garden again.

"That same night the lover came and was adoring the maiden under a willow tree when the old mandarin stormed down upon them, followed by three strong servants with huge weapons in their wicked hands. The lovers saw them coming and put their arms around each other to meet death so, when the gods took pity on their faithfulness and changed them into a pair of beautiful doves."

"Goody, goody!" The children clapped their hands.

"If you will ask mamma to show you her Chinese plate you can see the terrible old mandarin with his two servants racing over the bridge past the pagoda, while the lovers turned to doves by the gods are spreading their wings above the willows, flying off into everlasting happiness," daddy finished, with a good night kiss.

"You tell such beautiful stories, daddy!" cried Evelyn.

"I'm glad. Kiss me again," said daddy.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS DA VINCI LEONARD

A Few Irritating Words at the Wrong Moment May Do Much Harm.

"Where is my fall underwear?" asked John Sutner one raw morning. "This gauze is too thin." He was pawing through the bureau drawers like a dog in a woodchuck hole.

"Oh, don't mess things up so, John. Let me look," said Molly coming to the rescue. She took all the garments out and piled them on the floor, but the missing underwear was not to be found.

"I can't remember putting it away." Molly was sitting Turk fashion on the floor, the garments piled around her.

"No such thing, I bought that underwear a year ago. It couldn't have had more holes in it. If you would attend to business and mend things when they need it, they would last longer. I suppose I must freeze in this summer stuff."

"One could never guess, to hear you talk, that the bulk of my sewing was patching and darning," said Molly petulantly. "If there was one thread to hold to another you may be sure the things are around here somewhere. I'll look everything over and see if I can find them." She rose with a sigh. Her head ached and she was utterly unstrung.

"Why is it," she thought, "that John chooses the time when I can hardly keep about to jump on me for something? If there is a thing amiss, that is the time he discovers it."

"And here is that button I spoke about last week. It's still hanging by a thread. I suppose if I ever have buttons sewed on when they are needed I will have to learn to do it myself," continued the irritated voice.

"Well, better men than you have done it. Men who earned enough to hire a little of the heavy work done. You never think you can make any allowance for anything on account of my having all the work to do washing and all." Molly was on guard this morning. She had been so careful to say nothing irritating and for days things had been going very smoothly. She kept saying to herself, "Stop! You will undo all you have worked so hard to gain," but the hateful words tumbled over each other to get out and sting and rankle.

"I told you I did not want you to do the washing. If you insist, I can not stay at home and keep you from it." John's face was sullen and his brows contracted.

"Do you think I do it from mere obstinacy?" snapped Molly. "What would you have me do? There is no money to hire it done."

"Do! Why, nag me as if I had the money up my sleeve. It is enough to drive a man to break into a house. I'm perfectly desperate." He looked it.

Molly went into the kitchen to start breakfast, but John called angrily:

"You needn't get any breakfast for me! I am not hungry," and he banged out of the house.

Molly ran to the door and called: "John, please come back; you must not go off to work with nothing to eat; you'll be sick. Please——"

John continued to trudge doggedly down the street, never deigning to look around.

She closed the door and sank down on the couch, burying her face in her hands.

"All my good resolutions are nothing but a house of cards," thought Molly. "The least jar sends them toppling over. I thought there was some hope of success. We have been so cheery these last few days, and now——" She sank down on her knees and began to sob.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

Live News From All Branches of Winter Sports

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Many changes have been made in the 1915 basketball guide, the one issued yesterday containing many additional features which will aid teams and managers during the coming season. It has been decided by the Joint Editorial Committee not to publish a list of the officials in the guide this year and until such time as a revised list can be made out the A. A. U. has advised team managers to avail themselves of the list published in last year's issue. Heretofore considerable trouble has been encountered in singling out competent officials and the new plan is to inquire thoroughly into all applications and to publish a separate leflet about December with the names of accredited referees in it.

Despite the fact that Coach Patch's Plainfield High School football warriors have been ambling along with a clean slate this fall little attention has been directed their way. Taken as an all-around combine the red and blue outfit this year is the classiest put out in recent seasons and we'll be numbered among the unsurprised if it happens to pull down the county championship. All of the tussels to date have resulted in victories and the Plainfielders have exhibited a calibre of the gridiron pastime that puts them in the running for the title honors.

Giving the Holy Cross schedule the once-over we notice that no Plainfield High School combat is included. Nothing would please local followers of the pastime than to see these two local combines get together in football togs this fall, and as a Thanksgiving attraction it should prove just about the juiciest morsel that could be cooked up. Get your heads together, managers, and give us something real before the season ends.

BOWLING COMING INTO POPULARITY

Real Healthful Sport and One That All May Indulge in Anytime.

Bowling, the game which has progressed from the Elizabethan period until the present time as a popular sport, and the pursuit of which many physicians recommend as being a safeguard against appendicitis, is with us again. This means that thousands of "Knights of the Maple," or, in other words, thousands of bowling enthusiasts who have been walking down the main aisle with their hats in their hands, longing to do something lively, while the fascination of baseball and myriad other outdoor activities held the fans in their throes, are sallying forth to wage war on the long suffering and defenseless tenpins.

It is the demand for play born in us, bred by our parents and encouraged by them and the State, that cries out for expression in the midst of the whirl of business. The benefits derived from an hour's recreation at noon, or more at evening after toil, and the fellowship of others bent upon the same pursuit. It is these things that have led hundreds of men in the city to turn to bowling in the quest of diversion, and which has led many commercial and industrial organizations to promote the sport among their employes.

It may be put down as a safe proposition that bowling will be under the spotlight this year when the calcium is turned on the indoor sporting stage, for not since about ten years ago, when the pastime enjoyed great popularity, has there been so much interest shown in the game.

WILLARD PAYS $33,000 TO LOSE MANAGER

New York, Oct. 28.—Jess Willard, the world's heavyweight champion, has only two managers now, Tom Jones, the active manager, and Jack Curley, as assistant. Willard sent on a lawyer here who purchased for $33,000 the interests that Harry Frazee and Lawrence Weber, the theatrical men, had in him. It is understood that quite a little friction developed between the cowboy and the theatrical men, with the result that Jess suggested that they sell out. They named $33,000 as a price for letting him out, and Willard quickly paid over the money and they turned over their contracts.

AHERN COMING BACK.

Young Ahern has recovered from his long illness and will take on Jack Reed, the Toledo heavyweight, for ten rounds at the Clermont A. C., of Brooklyn, on Saturday night. Jack Britton, the clever lightweight, and Terry Mitchell, of Brooklyn, will also swap punches at the same show. If Ahern wins he will probably be signed up to fight Dillon or Weinert.

FEDS WILL LET OUT KANSAS CITY CLUB

Must Hold on to Newark Franchise and Also Invade New York Next Year.

Kansas City is about to be dropped from the Federal League.

Instead of shifting the Newark club to New York, as was planned when the invasion of Manhattan was first mapped out, the Missouri town will have to get out. Although Kansas City finished high in the race it lost $35,332.13 for its owners, according to a report made to stockholders by its president, C. H. Hahn.

Newark fans do not want to lose the Federal League club, and the officers have decided that it is too good a proposition to throw away, so they will move the Kansas City club to New York at the opening of the coming season.

"MATTY" IN COURT BUT IS RELEASED

Famous Pitcher is Arrested for Blocking a Coal Hole.

"Christopher Mathewson," called a court attendant in Yorkville Court yesterday, and the star pitcher for the Giants stepped up to face Magistrate Barlow.

"You are charged with violating traffic regulations by blocking the street in front of the Imperial Hotel when three coal trucks were waiting to discharge their loads yesterday," he was told. "Patrolman Suhr, of Traffic Squad C, said your machine was directly over the coal holes, and it took him twenty-five minutes to locate you. What have you got to say?"

"I'm afraid I'm guilty," the pitcher said, smiling, "But I did not mean to delay traffic."

"I find you guilty and suspend sentence," said the magistrate.

Mathewson gave his age as 35, occupation a ball player, and address 87 St. Nicholas avenue.

THOROUGHBREDS AT AUCTION.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 28.—The sale of thoroughbreds, which began today at Elmdorf Farm, the 8,000 acre estate of the late James B. Haggin, marks the passing of the famous breeding farm where the wonders of the racing world on three continents were bred. Haggin was for twenty years the greatest breeder of race horses in the world. There were upward of 250 mares and 50 or more stallions at Elmdorf when some five years ago Mr. Haggin decided that the restrictions on racing in various States would make it impossible to market the thoroughbreds and he began to disperse his great collection of thoroughbred breeders. The last of the lot will go under the hammer today, when the stallions Ballot, Sain and Hessian, with 68 brood mares and 31 weanlings are put up for auction. Previous to his breeding venture here, Haggin maintained a 30,000 acre breeding farm in California, where he had from 600 to 1,000 stallions and mares. Today's sale is an old-fashioned affair, and it has attracted to Lexington the greatest collection of horsefolk the blue grass capital has entertained in many years.

HOLY CROSS PRACTICE.

P. H. S. SECONDS BEAT WESTFIELD 18 TO 7

Fumbles and Lack of Team Work Feature a Fast Contest.

The second string men of the Plainfield High School football squad defeated the Westfield second team yesterday afternoon at Parker Field by an 18 to 7 score. It was the first time the P. H. S. boys had played together and teamwork as a result was lacking, but some good football was shown.

Near the end of the first quarter the visitors got a touchdown on a forward pass from Davies to Klothworth. Plainfield lost several chances for scores by fumbling just as they were marching down the field but following one on the Westfield thirty-yard line in the last part of the second period the Mt. Ararat eleven was held on two plays for losses and when Wright fumbled behind his own goal post when he was tackled, Mumford fell on the ball for a touchdown. Snyder failed to kick the goal.

In the second half Kline shifted to the backfield and did some good running. Several good runs by Snyder and Alpaugh took the ball to the ten-yard line, where Kline carried it over in two line plunges, but Snyder again failed at his attempt for a goal. Westfield never got within scoring scoring distance for the remainder of the game, although several forward passes were completed for good gains. Shortly after the opening of the last quarter a forward pass from Alpaugh to Butler gave the former a chance a few minutes after to carry the ball over, Snyder losing the seventh point in his kick for a goal. Line plunges carried the ball to Westfield's yard line before they lost it on downs, but Wright's partly blocked kick enabled Alpaugh to have his chance on the next play. Several pretty forwards were snared by Butler and the ball was on the fifteen-yard line again when time was called.

The game marked the return of Warren Mumford, who has been out with a dislocated shoulder since the first days of practice and his work should strengthen the line. Wright was injured in the third quarter when he was tackled by two men and in falling bit his tongue so badly that a number of stitches were taken.

The lineup:

SMALLEY'S BEAGLE WINS SILVER CUP

"Biliken" Captures Prize in Fifteen-inch, All Age Contest.

Fred Horn, of Newark, won the trophy offered by himself yesterday at the beagles trials held under the auspices of the New Jersey Beagle Club at Roseland. The Charmion Cup, donated by Horn, was captured by Charmion Pearl in the race for thirteen-inch dogs of all ages. The time limit was two and a half hours. Rosedale Bobbie, owned by James Van Dyke, of Sunbury, Penn., received the reserve. The contest, in which ten dogs took part, was close and exciting from start to finish.

Biliken, owned by W. L. Smalley, Plainfield, won the fifteen-inch all-age dog championship, which carried a silver cup and a $50 purse. J. W. Trimte's Mountain Biz was a close second. Prince Opal, belonging to the owner of the winner, came in third. There were twelve starters.

NO BASKEKTBALL FOR RAHWAY.

Owing to lack of funds and inability to engage a suitable court, basketball was abandoned by the Board of Education Tuesday night. This means that the High School will not be represented on the court this season.

SEASON WILL OPEN WITH DOUBLE HEADER

Boys' and Girls' Basketball Teams to Meet at P. H. S. November 3.

The basketball season in Plainfield will formally open next Wednesday night in the Plainfield High School gymnasium, when the P. E. G. S. team and the Recreation team line up against the North Plainfield High School girls' and boys' teams respectively, in a double-header attraction. The game will start promptly at 8:15 and will be followed by a dance.

The two games are considered especially good ones for the lovers of this sport at this time of the year, inasmuch as both aggregations are a little above par among the common run of basketball quintets, and players on the teams have won distinction individually on many other fives. The P. E. G. S. team, which is made up of the cream of former High School players, have been holding weekly practices in the High School gymnasium and are in the pink of condition for the first encounter. The borough young women began their out-of-town season last Friday, when they defeated the fast Flemington five by a score of 10 to 7.

The girls will probably line-up as follows:

P. E. G. S.

Helen Hummel	forward
Ida Hummel	forward
Jessie Stewart	forward
Helen Bryniarski	center
Mildred McAuliffe	side center
Bessie Morris	guard
Ellen Doughty	guard
Ruth Voorhees	guard

N. P. H. S.

Marjorie Burtis	forward
Lillian Spencer	forward
Theresa McCullough	center
Adelaide Ricketts	side center
May Doughty	guard
Bertha Keller	guard
Rose Cooper	guard

The Boys' Recreation team, which is captained by Jack Ricketts, former Y. M. C. A. player, has been holding weekly scrimmages in the High School gymnasium while the North Plainfield boys have practiced in Saengerbund Hall. This contest will be the initial game of the season for both aggregations and no doubt will prove an interesting game. The young men will line-up as follows:

RECREATION TEAM.

Jack Ricketts	forward
Frank Allegar	forward
Don Adams	forward
"Rube" Marston	center
Paul Pesce	center
Dorgen Naylor	guard
Norman Smith	guard

N. P. H. S.

Conroy	forward
Townley	forward
Dunning	center
Dilkes	guard
Kirch	guard

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Indian League.

Basketball—Iroquois, 4; Omaha, 1; Sioux, 8; Wawayanda, 5.

The fine shooting of Elliott and Wilson were the features of these games.

Indian League Standing October 27.

Iroquois	154
Wawayanda	118
Sioux	77
Omaha	46

The employed boys' class has been organized to compete in athletics. The following boys were elected captains: Harry Day, captain of the Vikings, and Dave Miller, captain of the G. O. P. team. The following is the athletic schedule:

Employed Boys' Schedule—November 1, 15-yard dash; November 8, running high jump; November 15, standing broad jump; November 22, 8 lb. shot put; November 29, running hop, step and jump; December 6, potato race; December 13, running broad jump; December 20, tug of war.

BASKETBALL DATES CANCELED.

The entire basketball schedule for the coming season has been canceled by the Rutgers College management, and the game will be abandoned hereafter unless the alumni contribute a sum large enough to defray the expenses of the season. Last year the money was raised by student subscription, but this season it was thought the same plan would not be feasible.

SOCCER NEW RUTGERS SPORT.

Rutgers College will add soccer to its list of sports this fall, and an effort will be made to arrange games with Princeton, Yale, Cornell, Pennsylvania, and Haverford. As soon as the football schedule closes, many members of the eleven will turn their attention to soccer. Nash and Toohey have played the game and will coach the candidates.

WILLIAM TAYLOR IS CHOSEN CAPTAIN

Y. M. C. A. Basketball Team Organizes With Abundance of Good Material.

William Taylor and Benjamin Berse were unanimously elected captain and manager, respectively, of the Y. M. C. A. basketball team for this season at a meeting held last night. The latter reports that arrangements are already being made to insure the local fans of a home game on Saturday night, November 20.

The election of the two leaders is considered an especially good one, inasmuch as both Taylor and Berse have been identified with the team of the association for several years, Taylor playing in the position of forward. Prior to his joining forces with the Y. M. C. A. five, Taylor was a member of the North Plainfield High School aggregation and beside being a valuable forward of the school quintet was active in other lines of sport. He was the winner of the Yale cup from the borough school upon his graduation in 1912, the annual trophy given to the boy of the graduating class who proves himself the best all-round athlete and scholar.

Although never playing with the first team of the association, Berse was captain of the Mohawk team, of the Y. M. C. A., and has played in the position of guard on other fives in the city.

The first call for candidates for the representative squad of the association has been set for Wednesday night, November 3, at which time any member of the Y. M. C. A. may come out and try for the team. Those present last night were: Love, Dunning, Burner, Taylor, Moulton, Brandt, Hummel, Boehl, Berse. Robert L. Meermans, physical director of the association, will coach the aggregation.

NATIONAL LIBRARY IS CENTURY OLD

One Hundred Years Ago That the Library of Congress Was Established.

Washington, Oct. 28.—It was just a hundred years ago this month that the Library of Congress in its present extensive and efficient form was established. It had been established fifteen years previously, but was destroyed with the burning of the Capitol by the British in 1814. In October, 1815, was consummated the deal with Thomas Jefferson, by which the government secured as the nucleus of its new storehouse of knowledge his collection of 6,700 volumes, for which Uncle Sam paid $23,950. Jefferson himself prepared a catalogue of these books, and the foundation of the present efficient national library was laid.

The collection of books now in the library is the largest in the Western Hemisphere and the third in the world. In June, 1914, it included 2,253,309 printed books and pamphlets, including the law library of 164,382 books at the Capitol. The total of maps and charts last year was 141,712, there were 663,474 pieces of music and 376,812 photographs, prints, engravings and lithographs. Special collections of value in their respective fields are also sheltered in the big library.

The progress of the Library of Congress from the days of Jefferson to the present time has had one serious setback. In 1851, when the collection of books totaled 50,000, a second serious fire, of accidental origin, wiped out all but 20,000 of them. At the close of the Civil War the volumes were 84,000 in number, and in fifty years the library has grown twenty-five times its size in 1865.

Eventually the Library of Congress is destined to be the largest in the world. It is now exceeded in number of volumes only by the great library of France, the Bibliotheque Nationale, with 3,500,000 volumes, and the British Museum with 2,500,000 volumes.

The great building which shelters this vast storehouse of information for the use of the American people and for posterity is one of the showplaces of Washington. Its beauty attracts people from all parts of the world. It outshines the old Capitol which it faces, as an architectural work. Its frescoes and statuary are the product of the best skill of the times. The building is big and roomy and everything is arranged with precision and constant care so that the treasures of the library may easily be found.

The building cost $6,932,000, and it was completed in 1897, eleven years after the cornerstone was laid. It covers three and a half acres. The shelves, if placed end to end, would extend from Philadelphia to New York, and ten miles beyond. The future growth of the collections have been provided for, and it is estimated the building will easily care for seven million volumes.

One of the interesting points about the care of the books is the method of stacking them. The book-stacks and shelves are of iron. They are of a gridiron pattern, to help ventilation; for books, like human beings, need fresh air. The musty smells and collections of mould that one finds in other libraries is missing here, and the books are certain to live longer under the system of "sanitation."

The growth of the field of usefulness of the big national library is a matter of great importance in the development of America. Congress originally had the use of the library to itself. With reluctance the politicians admitted the public. Members protested many times against any such development of its utility. Only within recent years has this opposition to opening up the treasures to the people been overcome. It is now a national institution, for the benefit and use of the people at large. The library goes so far today as to make a business of lending its books to other libraries all over the country. The importance of this extension cannot be overestimated. For comparatively few Americans can afford to go to the national library; and the growth of American education demands that scholars be able to turn to the library for help as naturally as farmers turn to the Department of Agriculture.

And the scope of the library will not end here. A system of international library loans is planned. Books are now being freely sent to the national libraries of other countries. But when the plan is worked out, it will be possible for a reader anywhere in the world to avail himself of information existing in any great library of the world, the plan being reciprocal among all the national libraries.

The Library of Congress is supported by an annual appropriation of about $650,000. Of this amount about $100,000 is spent each year for new books. The copyright office, which is now a distinct division of the library, yields an annual revenue of about $100,000, bringing the cost of operating the library down to half a million a year.

WANT DONATIONS.

The Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild will hold a cake sale at 39 Somerset street, Saturday, October 30. There will be a good assortment of home-made cake and candy. Attendants will also have the opportunity of beautifying their home by purchasing ferns, palms, potted plants and bulbs for winter flowering. The object of the sale is to raise funds to carry on the work of the guild during the coming winter. The guild last winter was obliged to curtail the work for lack of funds.

HIS PINCH KICKING MAY SAVE YALE

Otis Guernsey.

Otis Guernsey is still officially on Yale's sick list, but that does not prevent him from appearing on the gridiron in uniform and taking a boot at the pigskin for old times sake. Guernsey will be Old Eli's chief reliance and pinch punter and drop kicker at the big game, although it is unlikely that his injured shoulder will allow him to scrimmage again this year.

CHINESE MARKETS FOR U. S. LUMBER

Future Will Witness Large Shipments of American Timber.

Washington, Oct. 28.—For many months Franklin H. Smith, a commercial agent of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, has been traveling in the Far East and Australasia, conducting a thoroughgoing investigation into the markets there for the products of American forests. In his report on China, which has just come from the press, he reviews in detail the lumber situation in the great oriental republic. Mr. Smith is optimistic with respect to China, believing that the future will witness a largely increased use of American woods. The population, he says, "is slowly shaking off the old order of existence and turning toward the new—toward greater agricultural and industrial activity—absorbing new ideas and adopting modern methods. With increasing development along many lines and with the extension of the railroads, with their civilizing and trade-creating effects, there must of necessity come a larger, wider call for lumber. The United States with its durable, easily worked, and comparatively cheap timber will, with proper precautions, control this trade."

Yet, notwithstanding the confidence here expressed and the fact that the United States already gets about half of the Chinese business, Mr. Smith sounds a note of admonition. He points out the desirability of a standard list price, advises closer adherence to grades, touches on the possibility that new competitive sources of supply may come up, and emphasizes the need of direct representation in the Chinese field and of a campaign of education to acquaint prospective purchasers with the superior qualities of American woods.

Mr. Smith's new booklet is entitled "China and Indo-China Markets for American Lumber," and is No 104 in the Special Agents Series. The practical, pertinent information contained in it includes many tables of import and export statistics and a careful examination of the situation in each of the principal markets. Attention is given to railroad demands for timber, the market for boxes, barrels and shooks, and practically all other aspects of the trade that are of interest to American manufacturers. Five cents is the price of this publication, obtainable from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The United States Minstrel Girls, a female blackface troupe numbering seven clever young misses, will be the feature headliner of the new vaudeville program at the Plainfield Theatre commencing today. The Minstrel Girls give a twenty-minute turn filled with up-to-date songs, absolutely original jokes and clever dancing. The act has been touring the principal cities of the East for the past year and is continually called upon to fill return engagements. Special musical numbers have been arranged for the Plainfield performances.

Another big number on the bill will be the first appearance in this city of "The Great Gingras," the peer of all cannon ball jugglers. This modern Samson handles cannon balls and other things equally as heavy as though they were baseballs. The act is at once amazing and startling and can be best appreciated only when seen. "The Great Gingras" has never been in Plainfield before and the engagement was made only at great expense, but was decided upon by Manager Shannon in order to give his patrons the best the booking offices afford.

Beside several photo-play features other numbers on the program for the last half of this week will be The Baggarr Brothers, in a horizontal bar act; Baker and Dixson, blackface comedians; Harry Evans and Company, presenting the comedy playlet, "Snowbound," and Edward and Dorothy Hayse, in a comedy variety skit, entitled, "The Soap Peddler."

The first episode of the greatest of all serial photo-plays, "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," was presented at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday afternoon and last night and will hereafter be seen in weekly installments. The initial presentation made a big hit and the picture will undoubdtely be followed by hundreds of screen fans.

A whole trainload of people, scenery and animals doesn't sound much like an operatic organization, but that is exactly what it is—the Aborn Opera Company's spectacular version of Balfe's immortal opera "The Bohemian Girl." Great as was the popularity of this work previous to four seasons ago, when Milton and Sargent Aborn first offered it in its present form, it would seem from the substantial support thus far given to it that the esteem in which it is held by theatregoers in general augurs for its continuance as the most popular of all operas. "The Bohemian Girl" will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, matinee and night, Wednesday, November 10.

PROOF OF GUILT SAY DEMOCRATS

Refusal of Republicans to Meet Outsiders is So Construed.

NEWCORN MAKES REPLY

Says That Russell, Leonard and Meek Have Made Charges They Cannot Substantiate, and They Have backed Out After Issuing Challenge

That the refusal of Republican candidates to meet outsiders in a debate on State issues is "sufficient proof to the voters that the charges made by Democratic candidates are true" is a statement of Democratic Chairman L. T. Russell, in a letter sent to Republican Chairman Newcorn this morning.

Mr. Newcorn's reply follows:

"My Dear Mr. Russell:

"Your communication of the 27th inst. has been duly received, and in reply thereto I desire to state that after all is said and done, the one point most pregnant with interest to the citizens of Union county is this:

"Were Messrs. Leonard and Meek sincere, and did they really mean what they said at Linden on the 21st inst., when they claimed that 'they would like to participate in a rally with their Republican opponents stating that anything said concerning the Republican administration of affairs in the last Legislature would be backed by them in the event of an arrangement of a joint rally,' or were they indulging in irresponsible talk and hurling high-sounding challenges for the sole purpose of gulling the voters, and with no thought or intention of being called to account?

"If they were sincere, and have aught of proof with which to substantiate their fateful charges, there is no necessity that others should be imported to talk in their behalf, even though they were not members of the last Legislature. The proofs will speak for themselves.

"But if they were not sincere, and had recourse to splurge and bluster for the sake of hoodwinking a few unthinking citizens, then let them continue, if they so desire, assured that their harvest will be small.

"The legislative enactments of the last session, and the part taken by the present Republican candidates with reference thereto, as well as the detailed doings of the Assembly, are all matters of public record, and as possible to all who desire to familiarize themselves therewith. There is consequently no excuse for the pitiful plight of your doughty candidates who evidently know not whereof they speak, and whose only familiarity with the points at issue has confessedly been gained 'through hearsay.' Truly a fine foundation upon which to build claims and charges of so serious a nature.

"Our candidates have nothing for which to apologize, and the insinuations concerning them as contained in your communication I consider altogether unworthy of serious attention. They constitute a studied evasion of the merits of the situation and a lame attempt to creat by innuendo a result which the telling of the whole truth could never accomplish. Were there any foundation whatever for the same, you, as Democratic county chairman, would naturally have been the first to make exploitation thereof, through the agency of one or more Democrats, who would not have been compelled to rely upon hearsay, but upon an exact knowledge of the situation and the facts. Your failure so to do must be regarded as significant at least.

"Your evident and continued unwillingness to have your candidates follow up their breezy charges with actual performance disposes of any idea of a joint debate, and that decision on your part I am reluctantly forced to accept."

At Smalley's Market.

Smalley Brothers' famous sausage is again to be procured at their market, 197 North avenue. If you are not now buying this sausage you should try a pound and be convinced that it is the best sausage on the market. They are also offering fresh killed broilers, roasting chickens and fowls. Another product of their own rendering is the lard which so many Plainfielders have found better than any other offered in the market.—Adv.

ERNEST A. LUTHMAN WEDS BOROUGH GIRL

Takes Miss Anna F. Kreutzfeldt for His Bride at Quiet Ceremony.

Miss Anna F. Kreutzfeldt, daughter of Mrs. Henry L. Kreutzfeldt, of North Plainfield, and Ernest A. Luthman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Luthman, of this city, were married at 8 o'clock last night by Rev. Frederic L. Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, the ceremony being performed at the parsonage.

The bride wore a traveling gown with hat to match and carried a bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by Miss Etta G. Bremmer, of the borough, while Arthur B. Thorn, of this city, was the best man. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's parents, where supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Luthman left later in the evening on a wedding trip. They will reside on Wilson avenue, the borough upon their return.

Both the bride and bridegroom are well-known in the city and borough where they have many friends and acquaintances. Mr. Luthman is the popular captain and catcher of the Hope chapel baseball team. He is a painter by trade, being associated with the firm of Luthman & Hanson, of this city.

WILL SUPPORT G. O. P. ASSEMBLY NOMINEES

Poster Campaign Committee Meet and Discuss Question of Local Option.

Under the auspices of the Poster Campaign Committee, the members of which are interested in the cause of Local Option, and the election of Assembly candidate who will support the measure, a meeting was held in the auditorium of the Public Library last night. There was present representatives of the Federation of Men's Bible Classes and Federation of Men's Church Clubs. Samuel P. Carter, Jr., as vice chairman of the committee presided in the absence of R. Henry Depew, chairman, and opened the discussion.

It was unanimously voted to support the Republican Assembly candidates, William N. Runyon, Charles L. Morgan and Arthur N. Pierson, for the reason that last year they voted for Local Option in the Assembly and are known to be in favor of such a bill.

It was also decided to increase the campaign of publicity by taking space in the local newspapers and to continue the plan of putting up posters on the fifty or more bill-boards now controlled by the committee. There was an informal discussion of what has already been accomplished and what the committee hopes to do during the campaign and the coming year.

TIER PROPERTY BROUGHT BUT $8,844 AT A SALE

Property owned by George Tier located on Bank place, this city, was sold yesterday for $8,844 to Charles W. McCutchen. In the foreclosure action instituted by Katharine Tier-yon, for the Tier property, the price paid for the Bank place tract was $2,000; $5,611 for the East Front street property near the Butler tract and $1,233 was Mr. McCutchen's bid for the Bank place land near the Titsworth property.

Three lots in Arlington avenue near Laramie road, involved in foreclosure proceedings instituted by Carl A. Busch, against Ennie Kapelsohn, were sold to the E. & W. Company for $100 each.

NEW HARDWARE STORE.

The Standard Hardware Company, at 184 East Front street, will open their new store tomorrow with a full line of hardware and household articles at the lowest prices.

DISCUSS ISSUES OF CAMPAIGN

Assembly and Local Candidates Address Enthusiastic G. O. P. Mass Meeting.

CHARGES ARE REFUTED

Disappointment Expressed Over Refusal of Chairman Russell to Allow Democratic Nominees to Enter Debate—Mayor Calkins Also Speaks.

That charges without substantiation and challenges without courage to make them good is mighty poor campaign material, even for Democrats, formed the keynote of three rousing addresses last night at the Republican rally in the Sterling building, when the three Republican candidates for the Assembly, Arthur N. Pierson, William N. Runyon and C. L. Morgan addressed a representative gathering of voters. The company was made up of voters of all parties, and judging from the applause each speaker received their remarks found favor even with those who bore a different party label.

John J. Carroll, who presided, in announcing the speakers, said that the Republican party of Union county, unlike the Democratic party, was not ashamed of its candidates. The Republican candidates were willing to state their positions on all occasions, and the party was not afraid to have them do so at all times, and on any issue.

Mayor Leighton Calkins, who was the first speaker, referred in eulogistic terms to the records of the Assemblymen from Union in the last

MISS GERTRUDE HEAD GETS SECOND PRIZE

Plainfield Trust Company Completes its Awards in Advertising Contest.

Following an entertaining address made to the pupils of the Plainfield High School at the chapel exercises this morning by Charles H. Frost, manager of the Courier-News Publishing Company, and a member of the committee of judges who passed upon the advertisements which were entered in the Plainfield Trust Company's advertising contest, DeWitt Hubbell, secretary of the trust company, awarded the prizes. The second prize of $7 was won by Gertrude Head, the third prize of $3 by Ruth Enander and the three $1 prizes by Leon Weintrob, Alexander Carver and Edna B. Smith, and as their names were called the successful contestants came to the platform and received their rewards.

Principal Lindsey Bost, in introducing Mr. Frost, called attention to the fact that the judges, Messrs R. F. R. Huntsman, advertising manager of the Brooklyn Standard - Union; Charles H. Frost, manager of the Courier-News Publishing Company and Leslie R. Fort, managing editor of the Plainfield Press Company were all eminently qualified to pass upon the merit of the advertisement submitted to them, and that he knew their impartial judgment would be gladly accepted by both successful and unsuccessful contestants.

This practical contest has done *great deal toward stimulating the in*terest of the High School pupils in advertising, that important factor in modern business, and the advertisements written by the pupils, which will appear from time to time in these columns will testify to the efficient work done by those who have really given thought to the subject.

MRS. JAMES E. MARTINE FRACTURES HER WRIST

Catching the heel of her shoe in her skirt, while alighting from an electric automobile in North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, Mrs James E. Martine, wife of United States Senator Martine, of Cedarbrook road, fell on the pavement and fractured her right wrist. The break was a clean one, both bones being fractured. She was removed to the home of her sister-in-law, Miss Ella L. Martine, of Watchung avenue, where a physician attended her. The fracture will probably take about a month to knit.

AUTO STRUCK BOY.

J. W. Rogers, a local automobilist, reported to the police last night that his car had hit a small colored boy at Arlington avenue and West Fifth street late yesterday afternoon. The youth was not seriously hurt, an examination revealing a few cuts and bruises.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY GIVEN AT Y. W. C. A.

More Than 100 Members Enjoy Unique Affair Arranged by Association.

More than one hundred members and friends of the Young Women's Christian Association attended a Hallowe'en party given last evening. The rooms were appropriately decorated with autumn leaves and pumpkins. Apples swung on strings from every doorway, and bats and witches appeared to be flying thickly through the air. The chandeliers were covered with orange-colored paper to give the desired mellow light, and at the front entrance a large jack-'o-lantern grinned a welcome to all who entered.

A clothespin race and a newspaper costume contest occupied the company merrily for some time. Miss Mary Mair and Miss Ellen Doughty were awarded prizes for being the most artistically dressed couple in this contest.

Later in the evening a living manikin and a darky "mammy" added their drolleries to the entertainment and refreshments of fruit punch and doughnuts were enjoyed.

SENTENCE DAY IN SOMERSET COURTS

Judge Beekman Hands Out Severe Penalites in Cases Brought Before Him.

Somerville, Oct. 29.—Judge Daniel H. Beekman, sitting in the Somerset County Court, this morning, disposed of a number of cases.

Harry Lifland, of North Branch, was put on three year's probation and fined $50; his son, Jack, was fined $25 and put on three years' probation, and Charles, another son, was fined $75 and put on three years' probation, on a charge of assault and battery and resisting arrest in an attachment suit.

Martin Bizub, of Raritan, found guilty of a charge of assault and battery, was fined $200 and put on probation for two years. Philip Becker, of Flagtown, was given a sentence of from one to three years in State Prison on a charge of stealing chickens and taking $28 from the Central Garage, of Somerville.

Abram Crosby, found guilty of stealing chickens, was given a sentence of from one to three years in State Prison. Mrs. Matilda Worman found guilty of an assault and battery charge, was put on probation for two years and fined $50. Mrs. Eliza Munoz was the complainant.

Somerville, Oct. 29.—Motor Vehicle Inspector George Thompson has Wednesday arrested Fred W. Bird of West Fourth street, Plainfield, for operating an automobile without a license. Bird has been driving without a driver's license since last May. He was fined $10. It was paid. Paul Eli, a youngster under sixteen years of age, residing on Arlington avenue, East Orange, was also arrested. Fined $25. The above cases were heard before Recorder Fred Hand at North Plainfield

SLIGHTLY INJURED WHEN AUTO STRUCK HER WHEEL

An automobile owned and driven by William T. Clark, a New York banker, of 571 Clark street, Westfield, ran into and slightly injured a woman bicyclist at Watchung avenue and Second street late yesterday afternoon. The victim was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where she gave her name as Mrs. John Yamietz, of 114 West Second street.

At the hospital an examination of her hurts revealed the fact that they were not of a serious nature and she will probably be discharged today. Cuts and bruises about the head and body comprise her injuries.

HOME MISSIONS ARE CONSIDERED

45th Annual Meeting of Philadelphia Branch of Congregational Church Held.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Activities in the Foreign Field Are Also Presented by Enthusiastic Workers—Synopsis of Addresses.

While the attendance was scarcely as large as at the sessions yesterday there was no lack of enthusiasm at the forty-fifth annual meeting of the Philadelphia Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions this morning in the Congregational church. No time was lost in starting business as soon as the meeting was called to order. Following the devotional service and routine business the reports of the various departments were read.

Mrs. E. H. Neff, of Upper Montclair, spoke on "Our Home Work," during which she told of the progress being made in various parts of the country at the home mission stations. "Our Foreign Work" proved an interesting theme of discussion by Mrs. J. H. Demorest, of Closter. She told of the hardships endured by missionary workers, their progress and final success. She emphasized the need of more support at home for the missionaries abroad as well as for those at home. She said that the greatest drawback in the mission fields was the lack of funds to carry on the work.

Miss Martha N. Hooper, of Washington, reported on the condition of

100 SUFFS ATTEND STATE CONFERENCE

Get Consolation Out of Election Result—Will Continue Work.

More than one hundred women from all parts of the State attended the meeting of the executive board of the New Jersey Equal Suffrage League held yesterday in Elizabeth. Mrs. E. F. Feickert, of Plainfield, president of the organization, presided, and many others from this city were in attendance.

Plans for an extension of the campaign were discussed, and it is authoritatively announced that the suffragists will continue to fight, but details were not given out.

There was much consolation for the workers in analyzing the vote in New Jersey, even though they lost. Before election they had figured that they could win with 125,000 votes and had bent all their energies to reaching this figure. They got 135,000, but stirred up so much opposition that even the extra 10,000 failed to win. It was reported that the organization in this State had been congratulated by officials of the Associated Press for its work in reporting election returns. Out of the 1,891 election districts in the State 1,657 were covered by the organization, and they got returns from 70 per cent. of the State in time for publication in morning papers. The A. P. workers said that they did not expect the suffragists to report more than 40 per cent. in time for use that night, and declared that the result was much better than that obtained by any other political organization the State has ever known.

Miss Lucy Burns, of the Congressional union, reported that there was a good prospect of favorable action from Congress within a short time. Miss Burns told of the efforts of women in the West who already have the vote to secure enfranchisement for their Eastern sisters, and said that one-fourth of the members of the Senate came from suffrage territory and one-sixth of the members of the lower House. In 1916 and afterward 4,000,000 women will vote to elect Congressmen, said Miss Burns, and about every one of them will vote for a representative who is in favor of suffrage.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mrs. H. E. Demler, of Grove street, today announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Carolyn E. Demler, to Newton W. Lambert, of Westfield. ROBERT KYTE WEDS MISS IRMA HART

Rev. Francis Green Performs Ceremony in the Presbyterian Church, Cranford.

Miss Irma Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred V. Hart, of Cranford, and Robert Kyte, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kyte, of Fanwood, were married last evening in the Presbyterian church, Cranford, Rev. Francis Greene, the pastor, officiating. The bride was attended by Mrs. William N. Bartow as matron of honor, while John M. Kyte, a brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. L. B. Anthony, a sister of the bride; Miss Josephine Holman, Miss Alma Angevine and Miss Ethel Kyte, sister of the bridegroom. The ushers were Arthur Kyte, Paul Thompson Eugene Lidgate and Charles Kyte.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, court train and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids also wore gowns of white satin and carried bouquets of roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the guests including the members of the two families. Upon the return of Mr. and Mrs. Kyte from their honeymoon trip they will reside in Elizabeth.

23 LAWYERS ATTEND LOCAL BAR BANQUET

Event to Be Monthly Affair in the Future—Will Change By-Laws.

Out of a total of thirty-three members of the Plainfield Bar Association, twenty-three attended last night's banquet given at the Hotel Kensington, and the event was so successful that it was decided to hold a similar one each month.

William A. Coddington acted as toastmaster at the banquet, and many of the leading members of the local Bar responded to toasts in a happy, good-humored vein. The dinner and get-together session that followed lasted until midnight. Among those who made short talks were Judge Walter L. Hatfield, ex-Mayor G. W. V. Moy, W. R. Codington, William Stillman, Harry Runyon.

Before the dinner a short meeting of the Bar Association was held in the Kensington. Several amendments to the by-laws were considered by a committee composed of W. S. Angleman, W. G. DeMeza and Henry C. Suydam. It was decided to hold another meeting in two weeks, at which final action will be taken.

A committee, consisting of Judge Hatfield, ex-Mayor Moy and Judge DeMeza, was appointed to go before the finance committee of the Common Council tonight to urge that a telephone be installed in the district court chambers.

The dinner committee that arranged last night's event was appointed to stand, and will plan another dinner next month. It is mad up of Henry C. Runyon, J. Henry Crane and V. W. Nash, Jr.

MANY ENJOY COLUMBUS CLUB EUCHRE AND DANCE

Eclipsing all previous social functions, the euchre and dance given at the Columbus Club Auditorium last night by a committee of women, wives and friends of the members of the club, will undoubtedly be a record for all future affairs. Fully four hundred persons were entertained.

The hall was artistically decorated for the event. American flags, palms, ferns and cut flowers being used in large numbers throughout the building. The women members of the committee wore yellow chrysanthemums, while the men wore white flowers, the colors of the organization.

Sixty tables were necessary to accommodate all the players of euchre, the winners of which were awarded many handsome and useful gifts. Following the play, Professor Squires' orchestra furnished music for the dancers. One of the features of the evening were a number of selections rendered by the Elks quartet, which consisted of Edward Harding, Joseph Martin, William Smith and Harry Blimm. Refreshments were served throughout the evening by a score of young women.

GOVERNOR FIELDER SPEAKS IN BOROUGH

Accompanied by County Candidates on Auto Tour of Middlesex County.

Governor James F. Fielder delivered a ten-minute talk to a gathering of about fifty men here yesterday afternoon. His visit to Dunellen was a part of a program in which a complete campaign tour of the county was made. The Governor's party as it entered the borough, coming from the borough of Middlesex, included five automobiles. William E. Florance, candidate for State Senator, was among those in the party. The other cars contained the various other candidates with prominent members of the Democratic organization of the county. From Dunellen the party went to New Market. The wind-up was at Perth Amboy.

Governor Fielder was introduced by Democratic Committeeman Willard N. Apgar. The Governor was given an ovation when he arose in his car. He said that he was making the campaign for the sole purpose of enhancing the chances of election on Tuesday of those who would work in unison with him in furthering and protecting the interests of the State. In this connection he urged the election of William Edwin Florance as State Senator and Charles Anderson Richard J. Galvin and E. Leon Lobstein as Assemblymen.

He said that the voters, instead of going to the polls on Tuesday and voting for one party all the way through just because they had always voted for that party, should only cast their ballot after deliberation and thought.

A Hallowe'en party will be held Saturday night at the home of Miss Francis Wahl in Springfield avenue.

Harold Fitzgerald, of Springfield avenue, West End, will sail today on the yacht White Wing, owned by Dr. Frank von Schultz, lately of Orange. He will go to the Everglades in Florida and will cruise in Southern waters during the winter.

Mrs. George McCartin and son, of Jersey City, are visiting William H. Mahony and family in Springfield avenue, West End.

An industrial exhibit for all Chatham township schools will be held this afternoon in the Boulevard School. It will consist of exhibits of corn, vegetables of all kinds, needlework by girls, and manual training work by boys. Heretofore Chatham and Passaic townships joined in the exhibition. This year, however, each will hold separate exhibits. Passaic township's will take place next week. These are preliminary to the county exhibit held annually in Morristown.

THEATRE PARTY AND DINNER FOR MR. AND MRS. KLINE

A theatre party and dinner were given in New York last night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Kline, of West Front street, this city. The affair was arranged by the Benjamin J. Kline Lodge, No. 569, Independent Order Brith Abraham, and was a mark of appreciation by the organization of the services of Mr. Kline, who has held the office of standard-bearer in the lodge for four years.

All the officers of the lodge, members and friends to the number of sixty attended the affair.

SOCIETY SPECIAL! THE V. P. HAS MOVED!

Washington has shifted its center of social activities. The Vice President, around whom the social satellites revolve, has moved and society is in a flutter. Vice Presidential headquarters are now at the New Willard.

The Vice President is at the head of Washington's official social life. Generations of custom have made his place for him and he must take it.

When the Vice President and his wife first entered Washington life, they refrained from taking a big house. Immediately Washington society sighed. They went to a hotel and society found that it really had more fun at Mrs. Marshall's hotel receptions than it had in the spacious drawing rooms of the Vice President's predecessors.

Washington will enjoy itself even more this winter because there is promise of a lively social season. The President will resume the White House receptions and around the Vice President and his wife will be a succession of social festivities. This is one of the main reasons, it is understood, why the Vice President has taken more elaborate quarters at the Willard.

It is there the Gridiron Club spreads its famous feasts. The President and members of his cabinet often dine there. There is no time during the season at which this famous hostelry does not house some noted guests. Prince Henry, of Prussia, now fighting at the front, distributed silver cigarette cases lavishly among the hotel employes on his only visit to this country.

"Peacock Alley," famous the world over, will, this season, witness some brilliant functions brought about by the Vice President's residence.

A NEW FIGURE IN WORLD DIPLOMACY

RICHARD HOOD COLE

With the recognition of General Carranza, a new figure has risen in international diplomacy. He is a plain American business man, whose shirt-sleeve diplomacy has done more for Carranza's cause than yards of gold lace and official red-tape could accomplish.

The new business diplomat is Richard Hood Cole, of Pasadena, Cal. He is in the diplomatic game because he is Carranza's close friend and was requested by the "First Chief" to keep an eye on the Constitutionalists' affairs in Washington.

As a protege of Lyman J. Gage, former Secretary of the Treasury, Cole has been interested in large financial affairs for years, devoting himself especially to the financing of large enterprises.

Living in the Willard hotel with his wife, who has been received in the most select circles of Washington society, he has really been the directing force behind the movement to obtain American recognition for the Constitutionalist government.

Men from California say Cole's hobby is helping others. He is the man who gave Jess Willard his big start toward the world's heavyweight championship by seeking him out and supplying money for him to go and sign up the Jack Johnson fight.

Cole knows a slough of world-famous people, some of whom are almost always to be found at his beautiful home in Pasadena. He and Mrs. Cole have lived here in elegance, yet in the greatest simplicity. Both have been lionized since the fact of his close friendship with Mexico's "First Chief" leaked out.

Cole's work for Carranza has brought mention of him for an appointment to a prominent diplomatic post under the American Government, where he may yet be a power for American prestige.

It is proper that the housewife should know as much about the business of buying for the home as her husband knows about the business in which he earns his income.

New Arrivals in Up-to-Date Models in

WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR SECTION

Beautiful Creations in Suits, Coats and Dresses That Women Will Revel in.

The Tepper prestige for quality, exclusiveness and good style is maintained in this new exposition of fashionable wearables. Not merely "good looks" and style will command them to the favor of Plainfield's smart dressers, but these other essentials sometimes lost sight of but never absent in Tepper's showing--there's superb quality in the cloth and trimmings; there's expert tailoring; there's that nicety of finish and that air of refined simplicity that distinguishes the better from the ordinary kinds.

These new Suits and Coats you'll see here tomorrow embody these good points, but the one big essential point of interest is that the price of each garment is remarkably low for the high quality and smart style.

Suits at $14.98, $17.50, $20.00, $25.00 to $35.00.

Coats at $5.00 up to $30.00.

Dresses at $5.95 up to $25.00.

DISCUSS CAMPAIGN ISSUES

islature, and emphasized the fact that men, tried and competent, were to be preferred at all times. He also spoke in glowing terms of the party candidates for the local city offices and how desirable it was to return them to office to further the work already under way for civic betterments.

Assemblyman Pierson, answering his Democratic opponent's assertion that the Republican party in 1912 left a depleted State treasury, read from the Democratic Comptroller's report showing the conditions. This report showed that when the Democrats took control there was in the treasury $5,270,000, of which $2,827,000 was school funds tied up by litigation, and could not be paid over to the schools, and a still further sum of $868,751, payable to contractors, which left a balance available for State purposes of $2,443,000, according to the Democratic Comptroller's figures when the Democratic regime began. In two short years this balance was converted into a deficit of more than $1,000,000. Mr. Pierson also furnished documentary evidence refuting all the other Democratic charges, and asked if there was any wonder that the Democratic candidates would not meet the Republican candidates in public debate?

Assembly William N. Runyon laid particular emphasis on the disappointment caused by the refusal of L. T. Russell, Democratic county chairman, to permit the candidates of that party to meet the Republican candidates, after the former had made charges and challenged the latter to a public debate. Mr. Runyon declared that it was only logical, only just and only fair that after such charges were made and such challenges were issued that those making and issuing them should be willing to substantiate the charges and make good their defiances in a public debate with those against whom they were made. But, he said, not only did the candidates of that party decline to debate, but the Democratic chairman, Mr. Russell, admitted that his candidates not only made the charges on hearsay, but that they were incompetent to defend themselves in an argument, and wanted to bring in outsiders to defend the Democratic candidates.

Mr. Runyon said that he and his two Republican colleagues stood firmly on their records. On every measure that came before the Legislature they acted and voted as they believed for the best interests of their constituents and as they believed was right. He said they were not ashamed of anything they did, and were ready to stand squarely on their records in their entirety.

Assemblyman C. L. Morgan spoke briefly, saying that if the voters of Union county approved of the work of the legislative representatives last year, he hoped that they would, without regard to party affiliations, give them their support again this fall. He said that he was proud of his legislative record, for he believed that he had acted on right principles for the best interests of all, and while he wanted to be re-elected, he would rather be defeated for doing right than elected for doing wrong.

The various candidates for city offices made short addresses defining their positions and askig for support.

CONSIDER HOME MISSIONS

the treasury, showing that the receipts during the past year were slightly less than those of a year ago, but under the adverse conditions this decrease was not by any means discouraging.

The association presidents, Mrs. L. W. H. Giese, of Philadelphia, and Miss Alice H. Clark, of Washington, gave short sketches of the work in their districts, while Mrs. Theodore Crosby Bliss, of Washington, told of what was being done in the southeastern section of the country.

Miss Alice M. Kyle, secretary of the Woman's Board of Missions, made an appeal for more workers at home and abroad, more organizations and an increased membership. She said there was a great demand for volunteers to go to foreign lands.

After Mrs. M. L. Stimson had given a short address the session was adjourned until 1:45 this afternoon, when singing, followed by the roll call, opened the afternoon session.

All the world is a wrold of work with work aplenty and workers few, formed the basic topic of an interesting address yesterday afternoon before the Women's Home Missionary Union of the New Jersey Conference in the Congregational church, by Mrs. Alice Freeman Firman, of Chicago. Mrs. Firman has been engaged in home missionary work in Chicago for many years and has also traveled extensively all over the United States and in foreign fields, in pursuing her chosen calling. She related many incidents of her work that were sometimes amusing, sometimes pathetic and always instructive. She told of her work among the foreign population of Chicago; what had been accomplished in the way of education and improving the conditions under which the foreigners lived.

Mrs. Firman declared that no one need to go to the further ends of the earth to engage in missionary work for there was abundant room for all right at our door; in our own nation in our own State, and in our own homes.

Rev. George W. Hinman, of San Francisco, told of his work among the "Orientals in America." His field was chiefly in San Francisco and on the Pacific coast among the Chinese and Japanese. Mr. Hinman was emphatic in his assertion that real progress was being made there. The Japanese were bright, alert and anxious to acquire any knowledge available. The Chinese were equally apt pupils and the students educated in the United States gave great promise that they would be powers for good when they returned to their own land. He said that the work among the Orientals, as in all other fields, were necessarily limited by lack of funds for extending the work.

Mrs. H. W. Hicks, of Glen Ridge, gave a short but interesting talk on the federation and emphasized her belief that much could be accomplished through united effort and while the many branches of missionary work was doing much in evangelizing the people of foreign lands and in home field much greater results could be achieved by federated efforts.

The nominating committee reported that all the officers of the organization had consented to accept re-election and recommended that they be elected to succeed themselves, and these recommendations were unanimously adopted.

The officers elected were as follows: [illegible] Upper Montclair; treasurer, Mrs. V. E. Buell, Washington, D. C.; recording secretary, Mrs. F. A. Coombs, East Orange; corresponding secretary, Miss Martha F. Waterman, Glen Ridge; northern vice president, Mrs. W. H. Lum, Chatham; southern vice president, Mrs. John Frizzell, Washington, D. C.; field secretary, Mrs. George Donaldson, Grantwood; secretary young people's work, Mrs. Harold W. Armstrong, Montclair.

On re-occupying the presiding officer's chair, President Douglas, on behalf of the officers and herself thanked the members of the organization for re-election.

Montclair was selected as the place for holding the next annual meeting. Before adjournment the delegates gave a rising vote of thanks to the people of Plainfield and to the Congregational church for the pleasing way in which they had been entertained and for the many courtesies extended to the visiting delegates.

The evening session was largely of a devotional nature, while Mrs. Hastings H. Hart, of White Plains, N. Y., gave an address on "The Least of These," accompanied by the stereopticon. Her remarks were listened to with rapt attention, while the slides were studied with close attention.

Somerville

The second annual banquet of the New Jersey Fanciers' Association was held in Foresters' Hall last evening. Frederic G. Thomas, president, was toastmaster, and introduced Charles D. Cleveland, secretary of the Madison Square Garden Poultry Show, as the first speaker, who gave an interesting talk on "Fancy Poultry Raising." The next speaker, H. R. Lewis, husbandry expert, New Jersey Experiment Station, advised the poultrymen to conduct their business on a business bases and good results would be seen in the course of a few years. Mr. Lewis recited ten rules which, he believes, every poultry men should follow.

F. W. Delancey, editor of the Poultry Press, also spoke. Thomas Dobson, of New York, entertained with songs and stories.

About one hundred and sixty members and guests enjoyed the banquet served by the women of the Second Reformed church. Music was furnished by Jungman's orchestra.

Miss Mildred Harsell will entertain about fifty friends Monday evening at the Hamilton Farm at Gladstone.

J. T. Stryker gave a supper and card party at the Somerville Country Club last evening. The dining-room was decorated with autumn colors. Twenty-four guests were present.

Miss Cora Dow, daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. James Dow, was united in marriage last Wednesday evening to Alexander Hunter, of Washington Valley. The ceremony yas performed by Rev. Charles E. Hoyt, pastor of the Pluckemin church, in the parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter will make their home near North Branch.

Alexander Carnavela, of the Raritan Gun Club, presented a handsome watch fob to Charles W. Hoffman, of Pluckemin, yesterday, he having made the highest score of the season. Hoffman broke 92 out of a possible 110 clay pigeons.

—It there's a new owner in charge of the little store down the street, the chances are that a "Business Opportunity" advertisement has been "at work."

WOMEN'S GUILD GIVE HALLOWE'EN TEA

Pleasing Features Mark Affair at the Home of Mrs. Cyrus Small.

The Hallowe'en tea given at the home of Mrs. Cyrus Small, on Myrtle avenue, yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the Holy Cross church, was a huge success both socially and financially, a large gathering of friends attending the function. The home was beautifully decorated for the affair, autumnal foliage, jack-o'-lanterns and yellow chrysanthemums being used in large numbers. Tables containing candy, favors, cakes, and fancy articles were all well patronized.

One of the features of the afternoon was the telling of fortunes by a "spirit," who occupied a hidden place in the conservatory, enclosed by palms and other potted plants. Mrs. Small was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Gertrude Conklin and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, Mrs. F. O. Ball, Mrs. Charles Eddy, Mrs. F. L. Sill and Miss L. A. Davis. Tea was poured by Mrs. Irene Murray and Mrs. Charles Eddy.

The following young women served the waitresses for the occasion: Miss Dorothy Langford, Miss Katherine Sill, Miss Declos. Mrs. H. L. Langford and Mrs. Fred Grant were in charge of the fancy articles, and Miss Laura Long had charge of the candy. Miss Grace Brown presided at the cake table, while the art gallery was in charge of Miss Stevens and Miss Carman. Mrs. S. Wadhams, Mrs. Grand and Mrs. Harvey Eddy assisted the various other committees.

MR. AND MRS. M'KELVEY GIVE FIRST "AT HOME"

The first fall "at home" given by the Rev. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey in the Warren chapel parlors, last night, was one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever given, over one hundred members of the church attending. Mrs. McKelvey was assisted in receiving by Mrs. George Demarest and Miss Day. The parlors were handsomely decorated for the occasion, chrysanthemums being the chief flower of decoration. While the guests were assembling, J. Herbert Harold organist of the First Presbyterian church, rendered a pleasing organ recital. Vocal selections were given by Mrs. Joseph Edgar and William J. Holmes, of the First Baptist choir, accompanied by J. Herbert Harold.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Higgins, assisted by the following women: Mrs. William Bacon, Mrs. Alfred Cousbrook, Mrs. Peter Seader, Mrs. David Kline, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. David Smith and Miss Hattie Taynor.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The cake and candy sale which the Girls' Athletic Association planned to hold Monday afternoon and evening, has been changed to Debele's Auditorium, owing to the generosity of Mr. Debele, the proprietor. A Democratic mass meeting will be held in Saengerbund Hall that evening, thus necessitating the shift.

Mr. Earley has announced that the annual five dollar prize will be given the pupil who writes the best essay on "International Conciliation."

Vincent LaPorte, '17, who received second prize in the recent advertising contest, also submitted another advertisement which the committee selected as a prize winner, but owing to the regulations of the contest he could only receive one award.

Mr. Earley, Miss Loetzer and Miss Montague have been appointed judges to select the best poster submitted for the A. A. play.

Each pupil will be required to read ten books in conjunction with their regular English course. Mr. Earley gave a lengthy talk on the different literary classics which the pupils will read, stating that a High School course in this subject is not complete if a pupil is not familiar with the great literary masterpieces which have been written.

The sophomores will hold their masquerade party this evening in the Harrison Avenue School. Each sophomore has the privilege of bringing a friend, while the faculty has also been invited.

The annual Teachers' Institute of Somerset county will be held November 15 and 16, at Somerville. The school will be closed for these two days.

BELLOT IS ACQUITTED.

Elizabeth, Oct. 29.—Joseph Bellott, of Plainfield, tried in the Court of Quarter Session yesterday on a serious charge, was acquitted by the jury. Lillian Drake the complainant.

HIDE AND SEEK WITH THE TELEPHONE IN WAR

AN OBSCURE BUT ESSENTIAL UNIT AMONG FIGHTING MILLIONS.
Upon the telephone in all the armies often depends the tide of battle.

The ingenuity with which the telephone apparatus is hidden is the theme of the Telephone Review's latest story on the telephone in the European war.

One of those sharp contrasts between conditions of war and of peace which are not significant in themselves but insistently make their presence felt, is that of the telephone exchange which must be so ingeniously hidden when it is performing its war service, although in peace it is a marvel which everyone may see and wonder at.

The cleverness with which the telephone stations are concealed from the enemy, continues the Telephone Review (N. Y.), is described by E. Alexander Powell of the World.

After passing through a tunnel for about an eighth of a mile Mr. Powell reached an opening which proved to be "one of those secret observatories from which French artillerists keep an unceasing watch on the movements of the enemy and by means of telephone direct and control the fire of their own batteries with incredible accuracy." The place was entirely screened by branches and was so arranged that one would not suspect its presence. Powerful telescopes were mounted on tripods and used to keep track of the enemy's movements, the telescopes being directed through the interstices between the leaves and branches. A military telephone man sat near by and was as busy as any operator, pulling out plugs and making connections. As Mr. Powell says, "This artillery warfare is after all but a gigantic edition of the old-fashioned game of hide and seek. When you see your opponent, however, instead of tapping him on the shoulder and saying politely, 'I see you, you try to kill him with a three inch shell."

The wire sections of the various corps have specially designed vehicles on which great drums of cable are placed, with particular apparatus for unwinding it as the vehicle is moved hastily forward. As the cable is unwound a soldier riding behind, uses a long pole and to place the cable at one side, or hide it in the ditch beside the road.

Hiding the telephone equipment sometimes does no good. An Italian commander found himself in need of a telephone and ordered his men to "fetch the telephone" from the Austrian outpost a thousand feet above him in the mountains. The men were gone about three hours and returned bringing the telephone. The Austrians had not let it go without a struggle, for it subsequently proved that the Italians had bayoneted every Austrian in the outpost, before they could bear away the precious telephone.

A Russian outpost was huddled in his hiding place when a German attack found him the only Russian on the ground. But his telephone was still working, so protected as best he might be by sand bags, he spoke the message to the Russian guns, "Fire at me and you'll get the Germans." The battery altered its aim, and the outpost continued to report the results of the fire. The Germans were driven back, and the telephonist by a miracle was still alive in his hole, when the Russians reoccupied the position.

GUERNSEY MILITIAMEN LISTENING TO CHURCH SERVICES.
Owing to Zeppelin raids militiamen in Guernsey, Channel Islands, are constantly on the lookout for airships. Being unable to attend their church services, they have had telephones installed from St. Peter Port church to their station, five miles away, where they can listen to the services without leaving their post.

ENLARGING TRADE TERRITORY BY TELEPHONE.

In the Telephone Review, N. Y., B. H. Disbrow of New Rochelle tells how a large dry goods concern of that city extended its trade territory and thereby greatly increased its business, by a progressive and up-to-date use of the telephone. New Rochelle, Larchmont and Pelham customers traded by telephone very extensively with the New Rochelle store, but Mt. Vernon, Bronxville, and Tuckahoe offered an inviting territory which was as yet undeveloped, since a telephone toll charge of five cents prevented people from trading regularly with New Rochelle.

In order to add these other towns to their active trade district, the members of the firm installed a private branch exchange with a trunk line to the Mt. Vernon central office and a Mt. Vernon telephone number. Thus the citizens of Mt. Vernon, Bronxville, and Tuckahoe, could call up the New Rochelle store without toll charges.

A full page advertisement in a Mt. Vernon newspaper, called attention to the fact that special telephone service had been installed for the particular convenience of Mt. Vernon, Bronxville and Tuckahoe people. This and a systematic canvass, by telephone, of prospective customers in these towns, gave the new telephone plan a good start, and soon the whole territory of these three towns was almost as much a part of the trade district of the concern as was New Rochelle itself.

The expense of this arrangement is more than offset by the new business it makes possible. In fact, a well-known bank of Boston, Mass. is listed in the New York City telephone directory with a New York exchange number and can be called as a local New York subscriber. The long distance charges are incidental compared with the value of being "on the spot," as it were, in New York. The practice is by no means a rare one even in the case of such distances, and for reaching out over towns within the same county it offers a striking opportunity.

$3,000,000 STEEL SUIT.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29—The Churchward International Steel Company, a Delaware corporation, with its principal plant in Wilmington, today filed two suits in the U. S. District Court against the Bethlehem Steel Company to recover upward of three million dollars. It is alleged that the Bethlehem Company had made profits illegally by the infringement on three patents held by the Churchward Company for the manufacture of alloyed steel.

WALLACE SERRELL'S FUNERAL.

The burial of Wallace Serrell, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrell, of this city, took place in Hillside cemetery yesterday afternoon, following the arrival of the body from Willimetter, Ill., where the young man died Sunday. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, conducted a short commitment service at the grave before the interment.

The Dunbar Club will enjoy a Hallowe'en social tonight. Everyone is requested to come in fancy costume. A good time is in store for everyone.

The municipal dance will be held tomorrow night at the Washington School.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Eight splendid features are included in the program at Proctor's today with a variety of attractions. The program opens with Mary Pickford in photo-play, followed by "Fatherhood," with Hobart Bosworth; a three reel special comedy entitled, "Silk Hose and High Pressure;" the famous "Neal Of the Navy," and these vaudeville numbers: Elsie Gilbert and Girls, which includes a troop of trained dogs; Beth Chalice, dainty dancer and company; Ray Conlin, comedian; and The Gleasons and Houlihan, in novelty act. Tomorrow has been set aside for toy matinee, for the "Kiddies," and an enjoyable time is promised. All the little ones attending will get a toy. The feature program of photo-plays for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be headed by Valeska Suratt in "The Soul of Broadway," an attraction that is in a class by itself as a big feature. A vaudeville feature will be the "Hicksville Minstrels." Wednesday night will bring the "Bazaar." Special announcement is made of the early booking of "She Birth of a Nation," the famous Liberty Theatre film success, and the Triangle feature photo-plays from the Knickerbocker Theatre. All of these big film attractions will be shown at Proctor's soon.

CLOTHES MAY NOT MAKE THE MAN BUT THEY HELP A LOT

The real question is—how to choose clothing of good style, fit and service ability—you positively can't go wrong when you choose a Rothberg Suit or Overcoat.

We specially invite comparison between Rothberg clothes and the average clothing sold at most stores at the same prices.

STATE CONFERENCE OF OLDER BOYS AND LEADERS

The New Jersey State Conference of older boys and leaders of boys will be held at Woodbury, Gloucester county, November 12, 13 and 14. The conference is planned under the auspices of the state executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations. These conferences hav been held since 1891 and the objects are, first, to bring together representative older boys and men interested in boys' work, for helpful fellowship and conference; second, to consider the leading problems and the best methods of work for and with boys in each community; third, to gain inspiration and a clearer view of the possibilities of work with boys.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE.

When Milton and Sargent Aborn first presented their modernized and highly spectacular version of Balfe's masterpiece, "The Bohemian Girl," several seasons ago it made an instantaneous hit in every city where it has been presented. In keeping with their policy of continual improvement the Messrs. Aborn have given great care to the selection of a grand opera cast for this season. The artists have been chosen for the special fitness to every requirement of his or her particular role, and they safe in promising a most meritorious performance. A special orchestra will add greatly to the rendition of Balfe's beautiful ballads. "The Bohemian Girl" will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, matinee and night, Wednesday, November 10.

REDFIELD NOT TO RESIGN.

Washington, Oct. 29—Reports that Secretary of Commerce Redfield is to resign were denied today at the White House. The rumor spread, it is reported, by information furnished the press that Secretary Redfield would recommend to Congress such a step as would prevent the dumping of European goods on the American market at the close of the war. The administration is not yet ready, it is declared, to favor any drastic action on the anti-dumping clause of the tariff bill. The information given out at the White House was construed to be a rebuke to Secretary Redfield.

SUGGESTS TRAPPING OF PESKY SQUIRRELS

Phillip Jahn Says That This Method Will Rid City of the Animals.

Philip Jahn, of Scotch Plains, has become interested in the public appeals made for relief from the thousands of squirrels which are to be found in various parts of the city, and suggests as a means of ridding the different neighborhoods of these pests that the squirrels be trapped, taken to the woods in the mountains and there released. He says that the variety of squirrels in this city are the kind that will not travel any great distance.

Mr. Jahn says that a French trap could be used here with success for the reason that the squirrels are so tame. He is opposed to the plan of shooting the animals, and does not favor temporarily suspending the city ordinance as to the discharge of firearms in the city limits.

A number of women living in the West End have also interested themselves in the matter, and they say that if any attempt is made to shoot the squirrels or destroy them in any way, they will seek to prevent such action through the courts. One woman said yesterday that she was a lover of animals, and would do everything in her power to prevent wanton destruction of them.

DOG PICKS SKUNK FOR A PLAYMATE

"Sweet Little Pet" Comes Home and Nobody Wants to Play With Him.

A "sweet little doggie" that belonged to a social leader in the Rockview Heights section of North Plainfield, came home late yesterday afternoon in such a condition that none could, even out of their love for the pet animal, call him "sweet." The doggie name is not known, and the name of his owner will not be given here for obvious reasons.

The household pet tired of his indoor playmates during the afternoon and went out to the woods nearby to seek a companion of the wild. He found one. A handsome, squirrel-like creature, clothed in all the golden colors of the October woods, was waiting for him. The doggy thought he was a pretty squirrel and started to give playful chase, but it wasn't a squirrel, and it wouldn't run, and the little doggie went home wiser and not so sweet. It was a skunk. A nest of them, or covey, or school, or bevy, or whatever it is when you talk about a lot of skunks together, seems to have established a winter home in the Rockview Heights section, and they have proven very unsatisfactory neighbors to those who were there first, but no one is brave enough to drive them out.

MRS. R. H. BARLOW MAKES RECORD IN GOLF TOURNEY

Playing golf that was only two strokes below men's par, Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, of Philadelphia, former Eastern champion, made the last nine holes at the Lakewood Country Club yesterday in 39 strokes, and won the medal in the qualifying round of the three-day tournament for women, with a record card for the links of 86. These Plainfielders returned the folowing scores:

Mrs. H. R. Stockton, 5245—97; Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, 58—52—110; Mrs. A. MacDonald, 71—53—124.

MANY ENJOY PICTURES OF "EXPOSITIONS OF 1915"

"Expositions of 1915" was the subject of the public lecture given at the Plainfield High School auditorium last night, by Arthur S. Riggs. A capacity audience listened to an interesting discourse on the Panama and San Diego expositions, which Mr. Riggs treated entirely from an artistic and educational standpoint. He emphasized the fact that each decoration and each piece of art had some particular meaning. Mr. Riggs, who is an interesting speaker, illustrated his remarks with many handsome stereopticon views and slides of the principal buildings of the two expositions.

Last night's lecture was the second of the series to be given during the winter months by the Board of Education of the city, and the large attendance at the two given already reveals the fact that the public of the city thoroughly appreciates the efforts of the Board in securing such instructive talks from time to time.

BIG STEAMER ON FIRE.

Lisbon, Oct. 29.—Fire broke out today on a steamship on which there were 400 men, women and children. The ship was only forty miles from port and fishing boats went to her assistance. It is believed all on board were saved.

Before you have followed the plan of reading the ads for very long you become an EDUCATED judge of values. This education must be kept up to the hour.

Buying for the home cannot be done wisely and economically unless the "buyer" is a student of the advertisements—no more than a store may be made prosperous without advertising.

The shopper may often reduce the VALUE-GETTING POWER of her dollar to fifty cents—simply through neglecting to read the ads, or to know values—and by buying at "the nearest place."

If values and prices ruled about alike in all stores at all times, there would not be any such thing as store competition. And, as finding desirable values would require no especial knowledge or insight, store advertising would be superfluous.

...ashington, covers ... square miles of territory and rises ...408 feet into the air. In shape it is ... a simple cone tapering to a slender pointed summit like Fujiyama, the ... volcano of Japan. It is rather a broadly truncated mass resembling an enormous tree stump with spreading base and irregularly broken top.

Its life history has been a varied one. Like all volcanoes, Rainier has built up its cone with the materials ejected by its own eruptions—with cinders and steam shredded particles and lumps of lava and with occasional flows of liquid lava that have solidified into layers of hard basaltic rock. At one time it attained an altitude of not less than 16,000 feet, if one may judge by the steep inclination of the lava and cinder layers visible in its flanks. Then followed a great explosion that destroyed the top part of the mountain and reduced its height by some 2,000 feet. The volcano was left beheaded, with a capacious hollow crater surrounded by a jagged rim.

Later on this great cavity, which measured nearly three miles across from south to north, was filled by two small cinder cones. Successive feeble eruptions added to their height until at last they formed together a low rounded dome—the eminence that now constitutes the mountain's summit. The higher portions of the outer crater rim rise to elevations within ... hundred feet of the summit and especially when viewed from below, stand out boldly as separate peaks that mask and seem to overshadow the central dome.

FUTURE OF THE HORSE.

Can the Heavy Draft Animal Survive the Motor Truck?

The heavy draft horse is doomed. He will not vanish suddenly, but his hour has struck. Motor vehicles already are displacing him in cities. The cheap farm tractor will do the same in the country. In a few decades the great, magnificent brutes will be little more than a memory. Their places will be taken by bloodless machines, that never whinny greetings to a kind master, never search one's pockets for sugar—and never break their legs on icy pavements or drag out a friendless old age under the whips of stupid, greedy drivers.

When one thinks of these last considerations the horseless age doesn't seem so gloomy a prophecy. But if man is wise there will be no horseless age.

If man has any real wisdom—and that belief, though often disappointed, never dies—the horse will be promoted to the position of humanity's chief pet and plaything, but always with a substratum of usefulness which will keep him from degenerating into a mere toy. The draft horse, the trotter—even the "general purpose animal"—may go, but the saddle horse ought to stay and thrive. Just as a medical prescription, he is well worth while, for the old English phrase that "the outside of a horse is the best thing for the insides of a man" still holds true, and as an instructor of youth and a means of real contact with nature he has no rival but the dog.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He Could Wield an Ax.

The skill of the old Maine shipbuilders in the use of the adz and broadax was wonderful. One old time yarn is of a carpenter who applied very drunk at a shipyard for employment. In order to have a little fun with him the foreman set him to give a proof of his skill by hewing out a wooden bolt with no chopping block but a stone. The carpenter accomplished his difficult task without marring the keen edge of the broadax and showed the foreman a neatly made bolt. Then he brought the ax down with a terrific blow that shattered its edge upon the stone. "I can hew fust rate on your chopping block," he hiccoughed, "but I'll be blamed if I can make the ax stick in it when I git through." The story runs that the foreman lost no time in employing such a workman.

Judges' Wigs.

The wig is only worn by English barristers to give them a stern, judicial appearance, and no one can say that it fails in this respect. The custom was originated by a French judge in the seventeenth century when, happening to don a marquis' wig one day, he found it gave him such a stern and dignified appearance that he decided to get one for himself and wear it at all times in court. This he did, and the result was so satisfactory from a legal point of view that not only judges, but barristers also, took up the custom throughout Europe.—London Graphic.

Warship Pennants.

The commission pennant on United States war vessels goes up when the vessel is placed in commission and is flown continually while she remains so. The jackies have many pet superstitions based on the way this bunting behaves.

It Sure Is.

Patience—Do you ever look back over the past?

Patrice—Why, bless your heart! That's the only way one can look at the past."—Yonkers Statesman.

Disguised.

Customer—I'm going to a masked ball, and I want something that will completely disguise me. Costumer—Certainly, sir. I will give you something nice.—Pele Mele.

Exercise is the chief source of improvement in all our faculties.—Blair

How to Keep Our City Moving

We must keep moving. A city booms only so long as its manufacturers and merchants keep moving. The wheels of every line of endeavor must be kept turning if the city is going to develop, and what is of deeper concern than the wheels of Plainfield kept turning?

Should every one who has the interest of Plainfield close at heart buy goods from our merchants, the benefits all around can easily be seen. Thousands of dollars that would otherwise go out of the city will be kept circulating here and contribute a big share towards making a bigger and busier Plainfield.

A dollar spent at home will keep that dollar at home and all will share in the profits.

RUTGERS READY FOR SPRINGFIELD GAME

Student Body Will Accompany Team on Special Train.

The Rutgers team held the final scrimmage in preparation for the Springfield game yesterday afternoon on Neilson Field, New Brunswick. The varsity and scrubs went through forty minutes of hard work before Coach Sanford was satisfied with the work of the first team men.

The game with Springfield, which will be played in the Federal League Park, Newark, tomorrow afternoon, promises to be a good one. Rutgers will outweigh the New England aggregation, but the Y. M. C. A. boys are fast and tricky, and will keep the big Scarlet eleven on the jump every minute. The entire Rutgers student body will accompany the team. A special train, leaving New Brunswick at 12:30, Rahway at 12:48, and Elizabeth at 12:57, will reach the grounds in plenty of time for the contest.

Rutgers will present its strongest line-up. The backfield will be composed of Bracherm, Wittpenn, Talman and Barr, which is a veteran combination. Talman will do the kicking. Miller will be back at his old position in the centre of the line, and will be flanked by Mason and Garrett. Nash, the big rangy tackle, who is considered one of the best players in the East, will be at left tackle, with Rendall on the other side of the line. Austin and Rockefeller will start the game as ends.

PLAINFIELD ELKS WIN TWO GAMES

Bowling Team Defeated Jersey City in Opening Game.

Plainfield and Jersey City bowlers met in an Elks' League match on the Jersey City teams' alleys last night, the Plainfielders taking two games out of three. In the opening contest the home five, with 942, had an advantage of thirty-nine pins. Plainfield came back strong with 975 and took the second game by ninety-one pins. In the final and deciding game the visitors, with 918, were forty pins to the good. The match was the first for the season for both teams. Waldorf was high for Plainfield with 236, while Vail turned in 232, and Frank Blatz had 222. Both Wright and Murphy rolled 203.

The scores:

NATIONAL HORSE SHOW TO BE MONSTER EVENT

Horses valued at more than $1,000,000 are speeding toward New York this week from the four corners of the continent to compete for prizes worth $30,000 at the National Horse Show which opens next Saturday in Madison Square Garden. In the list of 1,300 entries made public yesterday are officers' chargers from United States army forts at Fort Huachuca, on the Mexican frontier, in Arizona; hackneys from the far-away Province of Alberta, almost half way to the Arctic Circle; Shetland ponies now crossing the continent by fast express from the horse show just ended at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco; cavalry mounts from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and horses of all sorts from other distant points.

Never has the Horse Show attracted so many exhibitors from remote parts of this country and Canada; a striking proof, incidentally, of the sentimental value which owners everywhere set upon a bit of blue ribbon won at this oldest and greatest of American shows, for in few cases can these distant exhibitors hope to win enough money to defray the heavy expense of shipping their horses hundreds, or even thousands, of miles to the show.

RIVERSIDES WANT GAMES.

The Riverside A. C., for years regarded as Newark's strongest light junior team, is out stronger than ever this year. Games with 100 and 110-pound teams throughout the State are desired. They will travel within sixty miles of Newark. Last season the Newark boys won twenty-two out of twenty-five games played. In the line-up are Johnny Mulhare, Bud Kirwin, Eddie McKenna, Francis B. Neilon, Frankie Brown, Dick Donovan and Joe (Ibby) Mayer. Acting Manager Edward McKenna, of 99 Wakeman avenue, is taking care of the challenges.

ARRANGE PRACTICE SHOOT.

The Climax Gun Club will hold a practice shoot on its grounds on Plainfield avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. There will also be a prize Thanksgiving Day shoot at the same place on November 20.

CHAMPION LEADER WINS BEAGLE CUP

Kills Four Rabbits in Four Hour Run and Finishes Strong.

Charmion Leader, owned by Frank Horn and George C. Hooley, won the championship of New Jersey in the beagle trials held under the auspices of the New Jersey Beagle Club at Roseland in the competitions for beagles, fifteen inches, all ages, all dogs. After the four hour run, in which he killed three rabbits, Champion Leader finished first and strong. Charmion Ben took second place in this competition. There were seventeen entries and some of the dogs dropped out exhausted after they had run two hours.

The championship in this event carries the State title, a silver cup and a cash prize of $75. Second place wins a cash prize of $25. Charmion Ringer, from the same kennel as Charmion Leader and Charmion Ben, won the Empire State championship at Salem, N. Y., a week ago.

Sinnock Banjo, owned by W. J. Sinnock, of Newark, won the silver cup offered by George Flanner, president of the New Jersey Beagle Club, for the best handled dog during the trials. The winner, Banjo, was bred by Mr. Flanner, the donor of the cup, and was sold to its present owner several weeks ago.

BRANCH RICKEY'S MISTAKE.

Develops Headache Every Time He Looks at National Averages.

Every time Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Browns, happens to look at the National league batting averages it is said he develops a severe headache. The reason? Because of the hitting record of Frank Snyder, who batted more than .300 all season and who on several occasions has led the National league.

Rickey saw Snyder first in the bushes when the backstop was catching for the Flint team of the Michigan State league. Frank signed with Flint to play in the outfield, but soon was sent behind the bat after he had made good one day in that position in a pinch. He was catching his twenty-second contest when Branch clapped eyes on him.

"I'll give you $2,500 for Snyder," said Rickey to the Flint manager.

"Make it $3,000 and he's yours," was the answer.

"Nothing doing; $2,500 is my limit," said Rickey, and when he could not obtain the player for that sum he abandoned negotiations and left Flint.

Thus a paltry $500 kept the always tottering St. Louis American league outfit from taking possession of the man who McGraw declares is the best catcher in baseball today, on whom the smallest number of bases has been stolen since the season opened and who, though practically a newcomer in the big show, already is one of the national pastime's leading hitters.

BOOSTS AMATEUR SPORT.

War Has Taken Many English Professionals Out of Competition.

Amateur sport has been given a big boost in England because of the war, it is declared. This is particularly true of football, which has been largely a professional sport.

Many of the pros have enlisted, and it has been found difficult to play out the schedules. But there are thousands of young men who have not gone to the front, who are serving the king in factories that are keeping the country fed and clothed and the soldiers supplied with the wherewithal to fight.

They seek exercise and have found it largely in football of the amateur sort. It is believed that the amateur game will be so strongly intrenched by the time the war is over that the professional game will never regain its prestige.

Halfback Law Puts on Weight.

Law, the Princeton halfback, has been slow getting into the game this season, but the fact that he has added greatly to his weight since last fall is pretty certain to make him more formidable and earn him a place in the lineup. When Law first played for Princeton he was one of the lightest players in the intercollegiate football ranks.

COLUMBIA TO ROW YALE.

Two Varsity Crews Will Clash on Water Nov. 12.

Yale will meet Columbia in their first varsity race in a number of years Nov. 12. The race will be over a course one and seven-eighths miles long and will be held either on Lake Whitney or Lake Saltonstall.

The Eli crew will quarter the Columbia oarsmen overnight and have them as its guests at the Yale-Princeton game on the following day. The renewal of relations on the water between the two institutions will do much to encourage fall rowing and make the long grind on the machine less monotonous.

QUARTERBACK LESS IMPORTANT

No Longer Need to Be Great Field General.

ONLY PART OF TEAM NOW.

Frequent Direct Pass From Center to Runner Shifts Pivotal Position—Premium Is Still Set Upon Speed of the Attack.

About four years ago the suggestion was made by several experts that the days of the football quarterback were past; that modern football would develop formations which would result in four back field men whose duties virtually would be the same and whose relative importance would be equal.

Half a dozen coaches were questioned, and, while none derided the idea, Coach Stagg of Chicago was the only one who openly declared that such was his belief. That was four years ago. Now there scarcely is a team in the middle west which uses formations that does not relegate the quarterback's duties to a level with the other three backs.

Quarter Calls Signals.

In only one respect nowadays is the quarterback more of a pivotal position than any of the other three positions behind the line. This is in directing the field attack by calling signals, and even in this it is not unusual for a coach to relieve the man playing the position of this work. Oftentimes even the work of signal calling devolves upon the team captain or upon some back whose experience and generalship are known to be better than those of the quarterback. Several cases of this have occurred recently in the middle west.

The lessening of the quarterback's importance, of course, is the direct result of the rule that permits the first man to receive the ball from the center to advance any place through the line. In the pre-reform days, when the ball had to pass first from the center to the quarterback and then to a runner before an advance could be attempted, to more recent times, when only the quarterback could run with the ball himself and then only cross the line five yards from the spot where the ball was put in play, the duties of the quarter were obvious and important. He had to be a quick, accurate handler of the oval and, whether he carried in the ball or not, easily shared at least a quarter of the responsibility of each attacking play.

Is Less Important Today.

Nowadays, however, with the direct pass from center to runner, the quarterback has no responsibility on such plays, as he does not carry the ball save in the ordinary responsibilities of interfering and assistance which are shared in equal measure by all the other members of the team. As often as not a man playing quarterback is even less accurate and speedy in handling the ball than one or more other members of the back field quartet.

Of course, some of the formations used by coaches still require the ball's passing through the quarterback's hands before an advance is attempted, but these are becoming fewer in number with each succeeding year.

At least half the formations now used call for direct pass from center to runner, the growth of such plays, of course, having been the result of the abolition of the push and pull, which sets a premium upon speed of attack rather than the tremendous, delayed concentration of the old attack.

FREDDIE WELSH TO RETIRE.

Featherweight Champion Will Meet Four Men and Then Quit.

Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion of the world, has announced his retirement from the roped arena. He is in earnest, he says, and no end of persuasion will make him change his mind. But before he casts aside the padded mitts for all time he wants four bouts with the four men he considers the most logical contenders for the championship.

These are Willie Ritchie, the former holder of the world's title; Charley White of Chicago, Johnny Dundee of New York and Joe Mandot of New Orleans.

ONE COG SAVED MACHINE.

Lord to Mack and McLean to McGraw Spelled Success.

Connie Mack once bolstered up his outfit in midseason by getting Bris Lord from Cleveland and giving that club the Athletics' claim on Joe Jackson, the clouting outfielder. The scheme worked well, for Lord played great ball, and the Mackmen won the pennant.

In 1913, when Chief Meyers was injured and the Giants had a good chance for the pennant, McGraw made a trade for McLean. The latter jumped in and made good. One cog sometimes repairs the machinery.

FEW GREAT EVILS HURT FOOTBALL

Secret Practice and Chasing After Players the Worst.

WORK "IN DARK" FUTILE.

This Was Amply Proved at Yale Recently—Offering of "Inducements" to Player Is Most Harmful—Methods of This Sort Should Be Abolished.

Secret practice, intricate scouting systems and the offering of all sorts of "inducements" to schoolboy stars stand out as the greatest evils in intercollegiate football. Every season brings them out in more exaggerated form, and the outlook is that they will continue to grow until either they throttle the game or pass the limit of elasticity and just naturally burst. That limit is certainly fast being approached.

Secret practice is the biggest lot of buncombe perpetrated in college activities. It fools nobody and in many cases can be said to retard rather than aid the progress of a team. If it keeps anybody in the dark it does not fool those for whose discomfort and mystification it is held. Just at the time when it most needs the encouraging presence of the student body at practice the team is worked behind barred gates, with only the coaches as spectators. The psychological effect at least is not to be underestimated.

If any demonstration of the futility and foolishness of secret practice were needed it was provided at New Haven recently when Yale was whipped by Virginia. For three weeks Yale had been doing the greater part of its scrimmaging "in the dark." Frank Hinkey is known to be opposed to secret practice, yet it is the rule at Yale. It seems that in a matter like that the head coach ought to have the last word, especially after that trouncing.

Harvard to Blame.

Blame for the scouting evil can be laid largely to Harvard, for it was the crimson which inaugurated it and brought it to its present ridiculous proportions. Reggie Brown and his corps of assistant scouts compose a system that, in its field, is almost as farreaching as any thorough military spy organization. How effective it is can be only conjectured, but we have an idea that it, too, is a huge joke.

This matter of spying in amateur sport is a profound mystery to those who are not thoroughly familiar with intercollegiate football of the twentieth century. It exaggerates the commercial side of the game and emphasizes to the player the necessity of winning at all cost.

The trouble is not confined to the big colleges, for the little fellows are very quick in aping the evils of the big ones. Even a week before Princeton opened its football season a young man with a notebook concealed in the voluminous covers of a geography was spied in the Palmer stadium. The young man was taking notes and was asked to retire to the outside.

"Inducements" to Players.

The evil which is probably doing most harm is the promiscuous chasing after players by colleges, big and small, with the larger ones having the edge on their rivals on account of the superior "inducements" they can offer.

At some colleges there is such a laxity about the entrance requirements of football players as to make them a mockery. A certain player who flunked out of Fordham Prep and had no license to be even in the last year of a high school was taken into a certain college without that college even writing down to Fordham for his scholastic standing and his marks. A man who was [illegible] below the entrance requirements and was rejected at Fordham not so long ago has found himself welcome at another college not a thousand miles from New York—all because he can play football.

There can be no denying that certain small colleges pay their men, some directly and others indirectly. The bigger colleges offer other inducements—social, scholastic, housing and epicurean comforts, and in some cases agencies for various things, like tobacco companies and laundries, which require very little work from the player.

The way the colleges chase after some of the players is enough to turn any lad's head. The colleges fight for him, and he is made to feel that the destinies of the nation hang on his going to this, that or the other college.

MACK SIGNS BABIES.

So Says Baseball Scout Jack Doyle About Athletics' Leader.

Jack Doyle, who scouted for the Chicago White Sox last year, tells a story of how Connie Mack got Davies, now one of the Athletics' young outfielders.

"I got a tip about Davies last year," says Doyle, "and I watched him in several games in New England. Then I followed him to his home in New Hampshire and decided to sign him for Comiskey.

"As Davies was under age, I had to call in his relatives to witness and approve the contract. His father, mother, sisters, brothers, cousins and aunts were all there when I fished out the document.

"Then, to my astonishment, I learned that Connie Mack had signed Davies when he was seven years old and that the boy was only seventeen. Connie gets them when they are infants."

MADDOX MADE SACRIFICE.

Pitcher Ruined His Arm to Win World's Series For Pittsburgh.

World's series heroes have come and gone and others are in the offing, but there is one in the archives of Fred Clarke's memory that has no room in the hall of fame. Nick Maddox was more the martyr than the hero of the season of 1909 when the Pirates won the title from Detroit. The day of the fifth game in Detroit was terribly cold and drizzly. Adams had been used up, not another pitcher was fit, and Clarke walked impatiently up and down in front of the bench.

"What fellow can handle a wet ball?" asked the Pirate leader.

"I'll handle the wet ball if you'll let me or I'll break my arm trying," eagerly volunteered Maddox, tearing off his sweater.

Maddox, with determination and joy in his face, warmed up under the encouraging words of Gibson. In that miserable weather he pitched as though his life depended on it. In a late inning he weakened. Relief was sent, and Pittsburgh pulled through with one of the badly needed four games. That was Maddox's last great game, but Barney Dreyfuss never knew the conditions until the middle of the next season, when he said to Clarke:

"Why don't you let Maddox go? You are not pitching him."

"No," replied the Pirate chief sadly, "I'm not pitching him. He ruined his arm helping Adams win the world's series."

And Fred narrated more of Nick's gameness on that bleak and drizzly October day in Detroit when he gave his arm for a championship. Nick was carried for a whole year, and the club has been interested in his welfare ever since.

CAPTAIN WILSON AT HALF.

Coach Hinkey Put Yale Leader in Halfback Position.

The shifting of Captain Aleck Wilson of the Yale eleven to a halfback position, relieving him of the responsibilities of quarterback, a position for which he never [illegible], gave him the opportunity to do the fine work in the halfback position of which he is capable. This has left him free to give to the team the inspiration of personal support to individual players as they seem to need it.

CAPTAIN WILSON OF YALE ELEVEN.

Thompson as quarterback has made an impression which leaves little doubt that he will be the first choice for field general. Not only does he possess a fine sense of generalship, workmanlike power to handle the ball and carrying ability, but he is formidable either in an open field or in a jab through the line.

PLAINFIELDERS TO ATTEND BIG GAME

Hub Stine Will Play Against Rutgers at Federal League Park Tomorrow.

Many Plainfield and North Plainfield football enthusiasts are planning to make a trip to the Federal League baseball park at Harrison, tomorrow afternoon, to witness the gridiron struggle between the Springfield Training School and Rutgers' College elevens. Herbert Stine, of Mountain avenue, has been a member of the Springfield team for two years and tomorrow afternoon will oppose the Jersey eleven in a tackle position.

Although outweighed by a considerable margin the Springfield player are primed to give the herculean Rutgers outfit a hard rub and the match should be a keenly contested and interesting one. While in North Plainfield High School, in the days when that institution was a leader in scholastic football circles, "Hub" Stine made an enviable record for himself, and later played football for the Holy Cross club. Since entering college he has been a leader in the athletic life of the institution and besides earning his football insignia last year he was first "string" catcher for the baseball combine.

The New Jersey and New York alumni of the Springfield college, which trains men for Y. M. C. A. work, will attend tomorrow's contest in a body and the attendance is expected to tax the big ball park to its limit capacity.

METUCHEN FOOTBALLISTS WILL PLAY LOCAL TEAM

Holy Cross will line up against the Metuchen Field Club football warriors on Cricket Field tomorrow afternoon, the contest having been arranged to satisfy a challenge coming from the Middlesex athletes. Last night's practice put all of the local players on edge for the issue tomorrow, and it should develop into one of the best exhibitions of the season here.

The Metuchen team is composed of the cream of the gridiron talent in that vicinity, and rumor has it that the visitors will outweigh the homesters by a good margin. Tuesday the Holy Cross men line up against the Franklins, of Newark, in the usual spicy Election Day attraction.

The lineups for tomorrow:

Metuchen.	Holy Cross.
C. Clarkson	Caulfield
left end.
R. Crowell	Smith
left tackle.
H. Wilbert	Glover
left guard.
J. Massaput	Carty

H. Ten Eyck	Bremble
right tackle.
R. Lundy	Webster
right end.
W. Thompson	J. Ricketts
quarterback.
F. West	Barton
right halfback.
S. Robinson	J. Manning
left halfback.
P. Kempson	Wilson
fullback.

VISITORS AT THE FAIR.

Some of the distinguished visitors at the New Jersey building this week were Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. William McAdoo, Senator Oscar Underwood and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison. Among the Plainfielders registered at the building this week were W. & W. Gamble and Frank Wilson.

—The Chi Gamma Chi will meet in St. Joseph's Hall tonight. All members are requested to be present.

The young men's choir, of Warren chapel, will meet in the church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock promptly. All members are urged to be present.

Reading Character

is always interesting, but a study of a tradesman's business character as indicated by his advertising is even more interesting and always profitable.

Just glance over the advertisements in the Plainfield Daily Press of the merchants whose places you know.

Does not the merchant write his store character into his advertising? Is it not possible to form a pretty good idea of the store from the manner in which it makes its announcements in the newspapers?

Merchants are coming to realize more and more that when they write an advertisement they are painting a business portrait of themselves—indicating their business character.

They are more careful in their statements, more modest in their language and pay more attention to typography and illustration.

Advertising is prepared now-a-days more carefully than ever before and there is more of it every day.

And by the same token it is going to be more interesting and profitable to the readers.

MONEY STONES OF YAP.

Natives of the Island Do Not Carry Change in Their Pockets.

Propped up against the house of the native chief of Yap, which is one of the Caroline islands lying southeast of the Philippines, may be seen a row of "money stones," the current coin of the island. In shape these stones are like millstones, but they do no grinding. They serve simply as a parade of the wealth of the village. Their value lies solely in the difficulty with which they are obtained.

The yellowish granite of which they are made is found only in the island of Palao, 200 miles away, and when the monsoon favors forty or fifty natives voyage there in their canoes. After pacifying the king of Palao with presents the work of hewing the walaka, or money stones, begins, lasting for months until the monsoon changes, when the toilers start homeward with their "coin."

The smallest of these stones is about a foot in diameter and three inches thick, with a round hole through its center. It will buy food for a family for a month. The large stones, about three feet in diameter and eight inches thick, have relatively much greater value, since it is more difficult to transport them in cranky canoes over such a long stretch of sea. Indemnities can be paid with such a stone or the aid of neutrals purchased in time of war. —William L. Cathcart in St. Nicholas.

THE NUMBER NINE.

Easy to Multiply by It if You Will Remember This Rule.

Examine any one of the statements of equality in the multiplication table of nine, up to and including nine times ten. Select, for example, 9×7=63; or 9×2=18.

Observe that in each case the first digit in the product is one less than the number by which nine is multiplied, and the second digit in the product is such that when added to the first digit, the sum of the two is nine.

You may make practical use of this peculiarity of nine and its multiples by applying it in the following way:

If nine is to be multiplied by eight, for example, think at once of seven (which is one less than eight, the multiplier); then think of two, which must be added to seven to make nine, and you have seventy two, the product of nine and eight.

Or, if nine is to be multiplied by five think of four, which is one less than five; then think of five, which must be added to four to make nine, and you have forty-five, the product of nine and five.

By using this method the nines, usually among the hardest of the tables to fix in the memory, may, in a short time, be fairly classed with the fives and tens and elevens, which are said to "remember themselves."—Youth's Companion.

A High Priced Fricassee.

Lord Alvanley, a noted wit and high liver in England a hundred years or so ago, insisted on having an apple tart on his dinner table every day throughout the year. On one occasion he paid a caterer $1,000 for a luncheon put up in a basket that sufficed a small boating party going up the Thames. Being one of a dozen men dining together at a London club where each was required to produce his own dish, Alvanley's, as the most expensive, won him the advantage of being entertained free of cost. This benefit was gained at an expense of $540, that being the price of a simple fricassee composed entirely of the "noix," or small pieces at each side of the back, taken from thirteen kinds of birds, among them being 100 snipe, 40 woodcocks and 20 pheasants—in all about 300 birds.

Cold Baths.

A few years ago the remarkable discovery was made by Profesor Winternitz of Vienna that general cold baths have the effect of increasing the number of active cells in the blood to a very remarkable extent, the increase sometimes amounting to one-fifth or even more. This is one of the ways in which the cold bath increases the resisting power of the body, and rallies the blood cells, so to speak, calling them out from their hiding places and preparing them to fight with vigor the battles which must be waged every moment in defense of the body.—Good Health.

Barrister's Fees.

The barrister's fees are irrecoverable in law, but he can pick and choose his customers and can also insist on cash in advance. Until recently every barrister had on his table a gentle reminder in the way of a fee bowl. In earlier times the client used to drop surreptitiously the money in a little bag at the back of counsel's gown. A trace of this receptacle still figures in legal costume.—London Chronicle.

Eliminating Risk.

"I hope the motto of this railroad is safety first."

"It is," replied the man who thinks only of pecuniary precaution. "I notice it never lets anybody travel a mile without paying in advance."—Washington Star.

Still In Advance.

Boarder—You made me pay in advance at first because I was a stranger. That was all right. But I am not a stranger now. Landlady—No; I know you now.—Boston Journal.

Deferred to the King.

During the latter years of George III.'s reign all performances of Shakespeare's "King Lear" were forbidden in consequence of the madness of the king.

ENDEAVOR WORKERS HOLD FALL RALLY

More Than 200 Attend Meeting of Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

The Bible school auditorium of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was the scene of an enthusiastic rally meeting of the Christian Endeavor Societies of the Plainfield Union, last night. The Evona chapel society was the winner of the contest for the attendance banner. For good team work in giving the most snappy yell the Hope chapel society was presented with an efficiency chart offered by the president of the local union, Robert B. Butler. The chart is designed to assist in promoting efficiency in the individual members of the society and in church work.

Two resolutions were adopted, one expressing the appreciation of the local union of the action of Judge Beekman in refusing to grant two saloons licenses in North Plainfield, and the other urging the voters of Somerset county to support S. S. Swackhamer for the Assembly because he stood in favor of local option and Messrs. Morgan, Pierson and Runyon in Union county, who voted for local option in the Assembly last year.

The Rev. G. S. Gillespie, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, of North Plainfield, was the speaker of the evening, taking as his subject, "The Challenge of the Country." Mr. Gillespie painted a vivid word picture of the material achievements of the present century which are mostly instruments of evil. Concluding he urged the endeavorers to take their religion into their every day lives. The musical portion of the program was in charge of Horace Martin with Miss Etta Raybert at the piano.

LINCOLN STUDENTS PAY VISIT TO "BROWNIELAND"

The kindergarten room of the Lincoln School was a pleasing scene this morning, when forty children, all members of the class, with brownie hats and ruffs, and brownie baskets, marched in to music from the piano. When the little elfs had taken possession of the room they gave an exhibition of fancy marching, singing appropriate songs and dancing, after which they sat down to a party table laden with goodies and decorated with jack-'o-lanterns and flowers. The room was brilliantly decorated with brownies, black cats, paper chains and pumpkin faces, all the work of the little ones. The many mothers of the children who were present were enthusiastic over the Hallowe'en party and said they felt repaid for their visit to Brownieland.

KENNETH RUNYON SLIGHTLY INJURED IN AN ACCIDENT

Kenneth Runyon, the local undertaker, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon, when he was thrown from his buggy at the corner of Eighth street and Park avenue. Mr. Runyon's horse caught one of the lines under his tail and began to kick and jump. He overturned the buggy and threw the occupant to the street. Percy H. Stewart took Mr. Runyon home in his automobile, where he was attended. He was not badly hurt.

POLITICAL NOTES

October 29—Democratic meetings in Springfield, Union and Hillside.

October 30—Debate between Republican and Democratic Assembly candidate in Hippodrome Hall, Elizabeth.

Democratic meetings in Linden and Rahway.

November 1—Progressive meeting in Roselle Park School.

November 2—General Election Day.

Continuing his campaign tour, Governor Fielder invaded Middlesex county yesterday, where extensive arrangements were made for his reception. The Governor, who has taken the stump mainly for the legislative candidates, spoke for the three Democratic Assembly and the one Democratic Senatorial candidates. The tour in Middlesex wound up in Perth Amboy, where a big dinner was held in honor of the Chief Executive of the State. The dinner was preceded by a big demonstration with an old-fashioned street parade with red lights and transparents and the regulation big brass band. Governor Fielder has been devoting much of his time for several weeks past to a general tour of the State asking for a Democratic Legislature that might work in harmony with the State Executive.

Democrats in Hudson county are wondering what political significance is attachd to the trip to Washington which Sheriff "Gene" Kinkead made yesterday. Kinkead left on the midnight train, and while he said there was nothing significant in his going, wiseacres are connecting it up with his gubernatorial aspirations.

Wittpenn men in Hudson are chuckling over the results of the big Kinkead banquet on Tuesday night at which they say Alex Simpson "put one over" on the battling sheriff. Simpson started Kinkead's boom for Governor. Simpson is a Wittpenn candidate for the Assembly. Kinkead, it is stated, wanted to run for United States Senator, but the Wittpenn men, evidently thinking that he would have less chance in the gubernatorial race, got in ahead of his own followers, and the gubernatorial boom was started first.

Democratic and Progressive candidates held a joint meeting Wednesday noon at the Edison plant in West Orange. The Democrats had just pulled up, preparatory to starting their rally, when Everett Colby arrived, with former Sheriff William A. Bright, of Cape May county. A short conference ended amicably, and the Progressives started to talk first. After the Democrats had their inning Colby entertained both Democrats and Progressives and the Country Club at lunch.

Jim Nugent, Democratic boss of Essex, has a new plug hat, of the finest silk. It arrived at his office Wednesday via the dark male, and turned out to be an election bet from Everett Colby, which Nugent had forgotten. It seems that the two men had a bet on over the suffrage election and Colby came out second best.

The rank and file of Democrats in Elizabeth see a good chance for the re-election of Freeholders Hennessy and Bourdon, but from what can be learned there is not any great amount of enthusiasm for Carroll or Meyerholtz. The excise issue naturally spreads to the two latter. Carroll was defeated last year by William F. Marsh, Republican, and it is predicted that both Carroll and Meyerholtz will go down this time.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Protect Your Eyes From the Movies

The progress made in the character of subjects presented in the movies today, makes it desirable for all enquiring people to at least attend occasionally. Annoying after-effects on the eyes of many prevent them from enjoying the social diversion and often the educational advantages thus derived. The great majority of those who suffer from eye strain after watching moving pictures can find much, if not complete relief, in perfectly fitted glasses. The picture may not be quite so sharp, but this is more than compensated for by the increased comfort. For those with very sensitive eyes, a colored glass, either amber, yellowish green or amethyst, may be necessary to give complete relief. There have been put on the market recently several varieties of colored glass, each of which has some advantages, so that some suitable color can usually be secured. A subdued light in the theatre is much less irritating than when the only light visible comes from the screen. It is also advisable to avoid sitting in a place where it is necessary to look upward, as the additional strain becomes very tiresome, and frequently leaves a headache.—Journal of the American Medical Association.

PATHETIC AFTERMATH OF G. A. R. REUNION

Century Old Georgia Darky, Goes to Washington to See General Sherman.

Washington, Oct. 29.—An aged darky, tottering under the weight of a hundred years, reached Washington a few days ago. He had come all the way from Georgia to see General Sherman and to express to him the thanks of his late mistress for saving her home from ruin during the war days of the March to the Sea.

Like a relic of the past the negro appeared in the streets of Washington. Dressed in a worn broadcloth suit, with a battered silk hat which his master had worn before the war, and carrying a carpet bag and a palmetto cane, he shuffled along the streets. He leaned heavily on his cane and his blinking, eager eyes scanned the strange scenes about him.

He asked to see the procession, the Yankee procession, the one that General Sherman was to lead. When told that the old soldiers had come and gone and that the big parade was a thing of the past, he made inquiries of General Sherman. The policeman restrained a smile as he explained to the aged stranger that the general had been dead many years. Disappointed, yet with a feeling of duty done, the colored patriarch then unfolded an interesting tale of war days, when he was the bearer of a note from the Yankee leader to a southern woman, who had been the object of his love in the days before the war. The General had saved her home from destruction during the March to the Sea, and he gave to Josiah, her servant, the note which told her he was carrying out his youthful promise of protection.

And so the aged Josiah was bringing to Washington, where he believed the General was living, the thanks of his mistress. "I stood by my white people long as they lived," he explained, "and what I came here for was to give the Gen'ral the thanks of my mistress." His duty completed, he has gone back to finish out his late days, a relic of times that were.

The story that the aged negro told is an authenticated page already written in history. This incident of romance and war dates back to the time when General Sherman was a cadet at West Point. Miss Celia Stovall was a reigning belle in military circles. Conspicuous among her admirers was young William Tecumseh Sherman. He was deemed cold and harsh, and had proven insensible to the charms of women. But to the deer-eyed Georgia girl he became a willing slave. In reply to a vehement protestation of love, the girl once said to him: "Your eyes are so cold and cruel. I pity the man who ever becomes your antagonist. Ah, how you would crush an enemy." Young Sherman is said to have replied with feeling, "Even were you my enemy, I would love and protect you."

Not long afterward the young woman married a Georgia planter by the name of Shellman, and the young cadet began a military career which dazzled his contemporaries. Near the close of the Civil War, when Sherman was making his famous march through Georgia, he reached the Shellman home in time to save it from the torch. He found his soldiers looting the place, and he ordered them away. The valuables were replaced, and strict orders were given to protect the home.

General Sherman remained on the spot for some time. Before quitting the grounds, he said to the negro servant who had been left behind when the family sought safety, and who proves to be the aged negro who came to Washington, "Take this note to our mistress." He placed in the negro's hand a card on which was written:

"You once said that I would crush an enemy, and you pitied my foe. Do you recall my reply? Although many years have passed, my reply is now the same as then—'I would ever shield and protect you.' That I have done. Forgive me for all else. I am but a soldier. W. T. Sherman."

The victorious army marched away, and Mrs. Shellman returned to find her property safe. Until her death, she occupied the mansion, and through all the years old Josiah remained her faithful servant. Pleasant A. Stovall, U. S. minister to Switzerland, is the nephew of the late Mrs. Shellman, the heroine of this incident.

ELECT TRIED MEN.

There will be no debate between Democratic and Republican candidates for Assembly from this county tomorrow night, because the Democrats refused to meet their opponents. It does not matter who issued the challenge, or who first suggested the meeting. The point that voters must consider is that Democratic candidates have confessed that they are not competent to discuss State issues with Republican nominees. In this they admit their incompetence for the office to which they aspire. If they are not familiar with the issues that are now pending in the State of New Jersey how can they expect to meet the questions fairly and decide them intelligently when they become legislators? They will have no time to learn after they have reached the legislative chambers, for even the most experienced member of the General Assembly is kept constantly busy by his current work, without being allowed time for research and study. Assemblymen Runyon, Pierson and Morgan are trained to these duties. They have been tried and found to be true to the best interests of the people who elected them. Are they to be turned down for men who admit their inability to cope with questions that must be faced? We think not.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

The statement of Senator Pierce that a bond issue of $1,000,000 for the purchase of the Wharton tract, as requested by members of the State Water Supply Board, would be an unwise move is but one of many reasons why that question should receive a negative vote by the people next Tuesday. One million dollars is not a sum to be expended without sober reflection. No matter how capable members of the Water Supply Board may be, there are men who have served just as long and as well in public affairs who disagree with them, and we believe that public officials who oppose the bond issue are in the majority. Members of the Conservation and Development Commission, which takes over the work of the Water Supply Board within a short time, do not want the Wharton tract purchased, and they have a greater right to decide this matter than the men who are going out of office. With so much opposition from men in a position to weigh the matter from all sides, it is hardly possible that the bond issue will receive a favorable vote next Tuesday.

Now that Serbia has fallen, and Teuton and Turk have joined hands across Europe, we may settle down for another winter of incessant battling from trenches. The Kaiser's armies will fortify themselves in the strongest positions they can secure and await a day of vantage before they attempt to gain more territory, and in the meantime England, Russia and France will attempt to settle internal dissential so as to put in the field the armies that should have represented them at the outset. So far brave little France and Belgium are the only ones who have done their part, excepting Servia, who was first into the struggle. Success has crowned the latest drive of the Germans, but the beginning of the end is not distant.

Villa has seized a big American smeltering plant and will operate it, but he will not use the gold or silver to make money. He puts nothing but paper in his moneys, and all the valuable minerals he can collect are sent to this country to be saved against the time when he must leave his "dear people" to fight for their own liberty.

Along about this time of the year, when the tongues of Republican orators are loosed, we wonder how a Democrat ever got to be constable, let alone president of the United States.

Germany denies that the dynamiters arrested in New York the other day are connected with the government. Germany also denied that it would invade Belgium.

A despatch from Roumania says that its people are clamoring for war. Evidently they do not read Hearst papers over there. Louder, Mr. Sherman.

The new premier of France is a socialist, but he does not believe in peace at any price, and is called a "man of iron."

It looks like Bryan set a bed precedent. First it was the Greek cabinet and now that in France has resigned.

The "For Rent" sign on suffrage headquarters is just a sort of "not at home to you" notice.

Greece is still neutral—if this is printed quick.

100 REPUBLICANS AT BORO MEETING

Voters Hear Campaign Speakers in Pre-election Arguments.

More than one hundred attended last night's rally of the North Plainfield Republican Club. The meeting was held in club headquarters in the borough, and the building was packed.

W. L. Smalley, president of the league, presided. Speeches were made by W. W. Smalley, Assemblyman Ogden Hammond and J. S. Frelinghuysen. Mr. Hammond told how Republicans had cut down appropriations in the last Assembly to save money for taxpayers of the State. Mr. Frelinghuysen attacked statements of Governor Fielder and other Democrats who were saying that the lack of money for the National Guard was due to Republicans.

He said this was but campaign talk, and showed that the Democrats were to blame. Another meeting of the league will be held next Monday night.

WILL BE "DEPORTED."

Alleged to have wielded a razor in a menacing fashion over the heads of colored residents on West Fourth street, near Plainfield avenue, Mable Carey, colored, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning. She denied her guilt but the court adjudged her guilty of disorderly conduct and gave her the choice of going to the county jail or returning to her former home in Virginia. She accepted the latter sentence and the police department will "deport" her at 6:44 tonight.

Big Doings

(The foreign loan of half a billion is a first lien on France and England.)

When Germany has won the day
(As Germans think will come to pass),
When Allies have no coin to pay
The money we have loaned en masse,
We'll have to take those nations over
And rent them out for pastures green—
This nation sure will be in clover
When we foreclose that foreign lien!

I'll try to make a low-priced dicker
For "Bucknem Palace," don't you know?
I'll try to make the place look slicker
Than it appeared when, years ago,
I went to call on Ed-the-seven—
Who wore a crown upon his bean.
It sure will be one dose of heaven
When we foreclose that foreign lien!

No doubt our government would sell
Those hovels out to lowest bidder.
So we are speaking very well
Ahead of any other kidder
Who might desire estate or palace
In la Belle France or Albion green—
It sure will fill our pleasure chalice
When we foreclose that foreign lien.

Paraphrasing A Little

A young Italian in Wheeling, W. Va., recently disclosed the existence of a school for assassination by means of stilettos, and other heavy and shelf hardware.

"Delightful task to rear the tender wop—
To teach the young idea how to chop!"

as one Pope might have said if he had lived to our, in a manner of speaking, day.

Strictly Germ-Proof

The antiseptic Baby and the Prophylactic Pup
Were playing in the garden when the Bunny gamboled up;
They looked upon the Creature with a loathing undisguised,
It wasn't Disenfected and it wasn't Sterilized.

They said it was a Microbe and a Hotbed of Disease;
They steamed it in a vapor of a thousand-odd degrees;
They froze it in the freezer that was cold as Banished Hope
And washed it in permanganate with carbolated soap.

In sulfureted hydrogen they steeped its wiggly ears,
They trimmed its frisky whiskers with a pair of hard-boiled shears;
They donned their rubber mittens and they took it by the hand
And 'lected it a member of the Fumigated Band.

There's not a Micrococcus in the garden where they play,
They bathe in pure iodoform a dozen times a day;
And each imbibes his rations from a Hygienic Cup,
The Bunny and the Baby and the Prophylactic Pup.

Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Acute Follicular Tonsillitis

WHEN a child has an acute tonsillitis in which the crypts or small openings of the tonsils become filled with yellowish or whitish material, the mother, and sometimes the doctor, fears diphtheria. The disease is infectious. It is followed, or complicated, in a certain proportion of cases, by joint or acute heart manifestations, and for this reason requires careful treatment.

It begins with chilly feelings, and aches or pain in the back and limbs. But these pains in the limbs do not signify that the trouble is rheumatic.

The throat becomes sore, fever develops, the child complains of difficulty or pain when swallowing.

The throat looks worse, the child is more feverish than is usually the case in diphtheria. In diphtheria the fever is generally not pronounced—in other words, the system does not put up the same active fight against diphtheritic infection that it does against the usual streptococcus or staphylococcus infection of follicular tonsillitis.

The tongue is coated, the breath heavy and foul. For about three days the child is pretty sick in most cases.

In doubtful cases a culture from the throat tells the doctor exactly what he is dealing with. But the doctor's opinion is better than the laboratory report, for diphtheria germs are often found in healthy throats, and unquestioned cases of diphtheria sometimes fail to give a positive culture, especially after gargles have been used.

In the way of home treatment, cold compresses are efficacious. Wring out a towel in cold tap water, fold it several times and place it across the throat and under both ears. Over it apply a piece of oiled silk or a dry flannel. Change it, applying another cold compress, about every hour.

Gargling is perhaps only stirring up things to no purpose at first. A good substitute is frequent washing of mouth and throat with nose held in the fingers. This cleanses the mouth and throat without hurting. What solution to use is a matter of choice. A good all-round solution for the purpose is made by mixing about half a teaspoonful of tincture of iodine, two teaspoonfuls glycerin, a few drops of oil of wintergreen, in a pint of boiled water.

An active cathartic, and a liquid or light diet is advisable in all cases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

As The Patient Sees It

Mrs. H. W., describing her trouble, says that one doctor looked at her tongue, felt her pulse, and said he guessed it was her "nerves and stomach." She then goes on ingenuously to say that "the other doctor is a good doctor. He examined my heart and chest, and he made me remove every stitch from my chest, too."

Answer—The other doctor is treating Mrs. H. W. with success. Here's hoping the "nerve and stomach" soothsayer may see this and glean the moral. Nowadays it is pretty hard to diagnose diseases by second sight.

A Word To Our Correspondents

We cannot too strongly call our readers' attention to the necessity for signing their letters which they address to us. It is regrettable that so many letters must be left unanswered because this rule is overlooked. Also stamps must be attached to addressed envelopes which are enclosed for return. This is imperative.

GREEK LETTER SOCIETIES

THE Greek Letter Society was invented over 100 years ago in an American college and there are now so many of them that the Greek alphabet is becoming sadly overworked and must soon be enlarged to take care of the rush of business.

Contrary to popular supposition the members of these societies do not spend their time writing letters in Greek. No doubt they could if they chose, but the kind of letter that father understands and answers most kindly must be written in English, and the Greek letter member is usually a most faithful correspondent as far as his father is concerned.

A Greek Letter Society is commonly supposed to be a gang of desperate young men who have sworn over a bloody skull to stand firmly by each other and never to reveal the name of the brother who blew up the court house. It is supposed to be so powerful that when twenty or thirty young men with pompadour hats get together in a black cellar under a red light and whisper in case-hardened voices they can defeat the noble young candidate for Congress who is supported only by a few shivering magnates or a plucky little railroad.

Greek Letter Societies are also supposed to lead lives of crime and to encourage their devotees to engulf large vats of virulent stimulants. Many a bright young man who has gone to college with a pocket full of picture cards for perfect attendance at Sunday-school is supposed to have emerged from the first meeting of his secret society with a fierce yearning for hasheesh and the blood of tender young children.

All of these suspicions arise from the fact that the Greek Letter Society is secret and that its members are supposed never, no, never, to reveal what has happened behind the black curtain with the cross-bones on it. Anything secret is suspicious, as John D. Rockefeller has found out. But at the risk of invoking the horrid vengeance of the Alfalfa Delts, the Delta Kappa Sonofaguns, the Eta Bita Pies, the Sigh Whooperups, the Mu Kow Moos and the Omega Salves we are about to divulge the four principal secrets of the Greek Letter Society.

Turn down the lights, please.

They are as follows:

1. The rent of the chapter house is now two months overdue and tomorrow the high priest of Delta

Emerged from the first meeting with a fierce yearning for the blood of tender young children

Flush chapter is going to try to jolly the landlord along another month.

2. If a certain tow-headed freshman is made president of his class he can be snagged away from the other frats and into our noble order. Vote, Brothers, vote.

3. On the third of next month an informal dance will be given with an imported orchestra and when the Fli Gammas hear of it they will expire with envy.

4. On next Saturday night at midnight three shuddering neophytes will be inducted into the awful mysteries of our mighty band. Let no brother forget to bring a barrel stave.

There are a few other dark secrets but none as black as these.

Greek Letter Societies are harmless and moreover are of great good. Many a collegian has, through them, learned the Greek alphabet so thoroughly that he has remembered it after French and Trigonometry have cantered from his memory.

Figures Say War Will End November 11th

TO THE Paris Figaro one of its readers has contributed a rather original prognostication in regard to the duration of the present war. The prophecy, which is based on a play with figures, reads like this:

Take the figures of the two years covering France's last war with the Germans and add them up this way:

1870

3741

Of the sum obtained the first two figures, 3 and 7, make together 10, while the last two, 4 and 1, make 5. The treaty of peace was signed at Frankfort-on-the-Main, on the tenth day of the fifth month, that is May 10, 1871.

Apply the same method to the war now going on. We then get:

1914

3829

Adding 3 and 8 gives 11, and 2 and 9 also make 11. Consequently, reasons this mathematical soothsayer, the great war will come to an end on the eleventh day of the eleventh month, or November 11 of the present year.

Carelessness

THE POSTMASTER at Chicago says 43 per cent. of the mail handled at that post-office is improperly addressed, and it costs $85,000 a month to look up the addresses and correct mistakes. From these figures one would conclude that carelessness is a national sin, and a costly one, too, says the Ohio State Journal.

"Carelessness is one of the symptoms of character, also of mental efficiency; and indicates a weak character, and a dull mind. Think of 43 per cent. carelessness in directing letters. We might argue that much carelessness occurs when one fails to do what he promises, or neglects to pay a debt, or return a book. All these forms of carelessness go to make up national character, which is probably 43 per cent. off.

"It does seem that our education should attend to this fault and try to make it less than it is. Knowledge of arithmetic and parsing wont do. The only way to train one away from carelessness is to stiffen up the impulsive and intuitive abilities. A course in the Golden Rule will help a good deal. Keeping company with a true personality will assist powerfully."—Emporia, Kansas, Gazette.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

On A Long Visit

Q. If a person has lived in one locality for a long time, will such fact constitute proof that this is his place of residence for all legal purposes?

A. Not necessarily. Intention and conduct combined usually have controlling effect in determining an individual's place of residence. The fact that he has resided in one place for a prolonged period is to be taken into consideration in determining this question, but is not conclusive proof.

The Eight-Hour Law

Q. What is the usual scope of an eight-hour law? Does it prescribe what constitutes a working day?

A. Eight-hour laws vary in the different states. Frequently, they point out what constitutes a working day, and sometimes they contain provisions allowing additional pay for overtime work. The statutes of the particular state must be consulted.

Drainage Assessments

Q. Where special assessments are levied for drainage purposes, isn't it true that such benefits must be direct benefits before they can be lawful?

A. No. They may be indirect.

Firm Liable For Employees

Q. Is an elevated railway company liable for negligent acts of its employees?

A. Yes, if such acts are within the real or apparent scope of their duties.

Nobody Buying

Q. Is a real estate agent entitled to compensation if he fails to find a purchaser?

A. This depends on your contract. Usually, a commission is given for bringing buyer and seller together, and effecting a sale of the property.

A Specified Purpose

Q. Where land is sold with the understanding that it is to be used for certain specified purposes, and for such purposes only, can the deed be framed in such a way as to give effect to this intention? A. Yes.

An Eminent Domain

Q. I should like to inquire whether a private contract is subject to condemnation proceedings, under what is known as eminent domain? A. It is.

A Valuable Consideration

Q. I have been informed that a "valuable consideration" is essential to a contract. Is this true of a building contract? A. Yes.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper

The Vigor Of Life

There is no Asset of more value to a human being than that of The Vigor of Life. For it means that every Energy and Ability that is yours is soundly backed by a Brain and Body, fearless, willing and ready for every Emergency that arises.

You who fail to muster into service The Vigor of Life, possible to you, daily lose the most precious Power that is in the world for the uplifting of a human Soul to make it great.

But to get the fullest measure of The Vigor of Life, it is necessary to get away from yourself—out among the Hills, into where the Trees Commune with each other, across where the Rocks poke out their Heads, and to where the Birds nest and the Animals of the wild run and play. For there, God has stamped on and about each of these—The Vigor of Life. To get it, you must go where it is.

The Vigor of Life awaits you in God's out of Doors.

A sound Mind in a sound Body precedes the sound Soul. And the sounder the Mind and the Body, the sounder the Soul. Those who reap most from the work of the world have nearly always been those to whom The Vigor of Life meant most. The business of Life and Achievement is no Feather Bed Enterprise.

Life and successful Work is an expression of Conflict and Obstacle eliminating. And to him who searches most that he may gain most, The Vigor of Life, secured through hardship and Toil, GIVES most. The Vigor of Life was meant for ALL—for You. GET IT.

When The Car Goes One Way, She Another

Not for money would I say
That a woman hasn't sense.
She can prove it every day—
Prove it at a man's expense.
She has loads of sense to show—
Not in that is she remiss.
Why does lovely woman, though,
Leave
a street car just like this?

No, it wouldn't do to say
That a woman isn't wise,
Wisdom of the sages gray
Lies enchanted in her eyes.
Wise she is and charming, too,
Filling all the world with bliss.
But why does she, tell me true,
Leave
street
just like this?

Woman knows enough to vote,
She can run affairs of state,
Or an auto or a boat.
She can mingle with the great,
Bear a child or train a man.
Seeing that there's naught amiss,
But pray tell me, you who can,
Why
she leaves a car like
this?

DATA ON JAPANESE COTTON INDUSTRY

A 13 Per Cent. Increase in Production Marked the Activities for 1914.

A 13 per cent. increase in the production and one of 22 per cent. in the exports of cotton yarn marked the activities of the Japanese cotton spinning and weaving mills in 1914, according to reports from an American consul, despite the unsettled conditions in the world markets that affected industry and trade everywhere during the last six months of the year. Piece goods, however, remained practically stationary as to the total value of exports, although radical changes occurred in the shipments to China and Kwangtung—to China, 27,042,188 yen worth against 19,874,882 yen in 1913; to Kwangtung, 3,408,548 yen against 9,260,554 yen. At the close of 1914 the industry boasted 369,910 more spinning spindles, 19,094 more twisting spindles, and 1,660 more looms than it had a year and a half previous.

These are among the interesting facts disclosed by the additional statistical data on the Japanese cotton industry that has recently been obtained by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, and embodied in a 12-page booklet, "Japanese Cotton Goods Industry and Trade," Special Consular Reports No. 74. While primarily issued as a supplement to an earlier publication of the Bureau ("Cotton Goods in Japan," Special Agents Series No. 86—a 282-page monograph that reviews the history of the Japanese cotton industry from the establishment of the first spinning mill) the tables presented in the new booklet are worthy of study in themselves. Copies may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., or from the various branch offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce; price, 5 cents.

POLITICS ARE WARMING UP OUT IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 29.—The heat of politics in Indiana is not reduced by the repeated entry of the political leaders into court. The victory of Mayor Bell and Tom Taggart has cleared the Democratic atmosphere, and the machine is being oiled for the nominations for the next election. The governorship and a United States Senatorship are the plums for the next election.

Hon. John W. Kern probably will be renominated for the Senate. He has always succeeded in keeping in the good graces of both the machine Democrats and the anti-machine element of the party. He exemplified his loyalty by giving out a statement in praise of Mayor Bell shortly before the trial of the latter in the courts. There followed a conference between Kern and Taggart, and it is assumed that Kern will get the nomination.

It is probable that the Republicans will pu up to oppose Kern either James E. Watson or Hugh T. Miller. The former was whip when Cannon was speaker of the House, and is an avowed candidate for the nomination. It is said that he is opposed by factions backing James P. Goodrich for the governorship. Miller was a candidate for the Senatorship in the last campaign. He is a prominent business man and served two terms as Lieutenant-Governor. Other possibilities for the Senate nomination are Charles A. Bookwalter, former Mayor of Indianapolis, and Arthur Robinson, leader in the State Senate.

The Democrats are expecting a close run for the governorship, and may nominate Frank C. Dailey, U. S. District Attorney, who prosecuted the Terre Haute election frauds and sent a number of politicians to jail. W. H. O'Brien is the machine's logical candidate, but it is predicted that he will be forced to give way to Dailey if the latter will make the run. Still other timber for the nomination is Fred VanNuys, the young Democratic leader in the last session of the Legislature.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Bernard Miller, who was hurt in the Battin game at Elizabeth last Saturday, is able to get about, but it will be two weeks before he can get into the game again.

The initial call for candidates for the freshman and sophomore girls' basketball team has been sent out and the two upper classes will probably follow suit next week. The sophomores met yesterday afternoon and from all appearances will make the other three teams in the interclass league travel quite a pace to win.

Preparations are complete for the annual freshman reception to be held in the High School tomorrow night. A meeting of the school council was held yesterday morning to discuss several matters. There will be dancing in the auditorium throughout the evening and for those who cannot dance a program of games and other amusements has been arranged to be held in the library.

COMPULSORY GARDENS TO FIGHT PELLAGRA

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 29.—The alarming spread of pellagra in this State has led to the suggestion that compulsory operation of private vegetable gardens is the most logical method of stemming the tide. The greatest spread of the disease was among the negroes of the delta where their rations consist chiefly of cornbread and fat meat. It is the lack of fresh vegetables in the diet that throws the human system wide open to the disease, say the experts. The proposal of compulsory vegetable raising is advocated by many prominent physicians and leading men throughout the State. It may lead to a new system of farming on the big plantations, requiring every tenant to cultivate one acre of garden for his own family.

An investigation by the leading medical society of the State reveals the fact that there are 11,000 cases in this State, that 1,192 deaths from the disease were reported last year and the spread of pellagra was increasing at a terrific rate. Last year 256 whites were included in the total deaths, and in the year previous there were 209 deaths of whites in this State from pellagra, out of a total of 795.

Just what to do with the cases now existing is one of the greatest problems that faces the people of Mississippi. Hospitals would cost millions, and therefore the problem has been put up to each county to care for its own cases. Accommodations are furnished on the county farms for many of the afflicted. The change of diet, with the addition of vegetables, begins at once to make new men out of them.

That diet is the cause of the disease, and therefore its cure, is the attitude taken by the Mississippi men. The rapid spread of the loathsome disease is now recognized by the State and local authorities, and it is expected that radical action will be taken to compel families to protect themselves by eating proper food.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Plainfield Theatre patrons are getting the worth of their money in the diversified show which Manager Shannon is presenting, judging from the applause and patronage incident to the performances yesterday afternoon and night. There were three capacity houses yesterday and all joined in giving the acts a rousing welcome. The "U. S. Minstrel Girls," with special scenery and electrical effects, beautiful costumes and catchy songs; "The Great Gingras," the European cannon ball juggler, who catches a ball on the back of his neck, as it is shot from a cannon, and four other big features were all considered winners.

The old fashioned "Country Store" will be observed at the popular playhouse this afternoon and tonight, and handsome and useful prizes will be given away absolutely free to the patrons of the theatre. Included in the large assortment of awards is a diamond ring, which will go to some one in the audience. Come and see if you are the lucky person. Take your choice of the seats at the house tonight. Manager Shannon will announce numbers and if you sit in the seat bearing the number specified you will win one of the many gifts.

The photo-play features which the management offers between the acts of vaudeville are of the usual high calibre, only the best in the motion picture field being procured for the West Second street theatre patrons. One of the most popular of the screen showings exhibited at the theatre are the Pathe Weeklys, the animated newspaper which shows happenings of current interest throughout the United States and abroad.

SMOCK DRESSES BECOMING AND SMART.

No. 9081.

Smocking has enjoyed a well-deserved popularity, not alone because of its attractiveness in appearance but because of the convenient method of gathering material that it offers. The above dress, Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 9081, illustrates smocking nicely, and is an excellent dress for fall and winter use. It consists of a smock in a straight or scalloped outline to slip on over the head, having full-length or shorter sleeves and deep girdle. A three-piece circular skirt, with slightly raised waistline. Length of skirt at center-front from regular waistline is as follows: Size 14, 34 inches; 16, 36 inches; 18, 38 inches, and 20, 40 inches. Skirt is cut 1½ inches above regular waistline. Pattern cuts in six sizes—3 to 42—size 36 requiring 6⅜ yards of 36-inch material, ¾ yards 22-inch or wider allover lace for fichu and cuffs, and ⅞ yard of 36-inch lining for sleeveless foundation waist.

Patterns can be obtained at the store of A. E. Force & Co.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Little Girl Doctored The Sick Robin.

The Little Girl Was a Good Doctor.

"A STORY, a story!" cried Jack and Evelyn.

"Once upon a time," began daddy, "there was a little girl who was especially fond of animals and birds. Her papa had put nice little houses in all the tall trees in their yard so that many birds came every summer and built their nests in these trees, where they could so easily get crumbs that the little girl scattered for baby birds to eat. If you want birds to be friends with you," said daddy, "you must be kind to them, feed them and do nothing that frightens them away."

"Could we have some bird houses in our yard?" asked Jack.

"We will get some the next time we all have a holiday," promised daddy. "One day when the little girl was playing in her yard she found a baby robin lying on the walk, very sick and struggling to walk or fly. She went to it, took it very tenderly in her hands and carried it up on the porch."

"Was the robin afraid?" asked Evelyn, who remembered how Bibbley Wah tried to catch robins by putting salt on their tails.

"Yes, and cheeped for his mother to come and get him. But his mother was off in a meadow scratching for the worms that he was too sick to swallow. So the little girl made a better doctor than his own mother, you see."

"What did the little girl do for him?" Jack wanted to know.

"She ran into the house and asked her mamma for a little box of wool. The first thing to do for sick babies that have no fever is to keep them warm. Then when the robin was all cozy and quiet, but still so sick that he gasped for breath, what do you think she gave him?"

"A drink of milk!" cried the children.

"No. Guess again."

"A pill!" tried Evelyn.

"A dose of castor oil!" cried daddy.

Both kiddies giggled and squirmed, for that was just what they had to take when they were sick.

"A few minutes after the baby robin got his dose of medicine down he stood up, and when the little girl took him to the window for a breath of fresh air out he flew away into his treetop."

"Couldn't she keep him for a pet?" asked Evelyn.

"No. But she had the pleasure of saving his life," said daddy.

"It's the same with squirrels," said Jack. "Every time I feed one he runs away instead of staying to play with me."

And both children gave daddy a big hug and a bedtime kiss.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

John Confesses That His Debts Make Him Feel Desperate.

"You look like the day after," said Julia Osgood, smiling across John Sutner's table.

"Well, my looks do not belie me," he answered moodily.

"I never knew a man with such an expressive face," continued Julia. "It is a regular barometer, registering the mental atmosphere."

"That is unfortunate when there is a falling barometer, local storms and general atmospheric disturbance. I am afraid an injunction will be issued and I will be turned out if I'm such poor company."

"Anything new?" she asked sympathetically.

"No, just a little more of the same thing. I sometimes think anything would be relief, even a change for the worse." His tone was bitter.

"Don't say that. It is tempting Providence," exclaimed Julia in real distress.

"Don't worry; nothing worse can come to a man than to be ground between the upper and nether millstones of sharp financial distress. To put forth every effort and still feel the wolf snapping at my heels day after day makes me panicky. I know I cannot keep this thing up much longer, and I wonder what is going to break."

"Going to break; you mean your health?" asked the girl.

"My health or my honesty, or both," he replied.

"Don't talk like that. You do not mean half that, but it makes me shudder." The girl put her hands in her lap and stared at him.

"I am dreadfully upset this morning, that is a fact." He passed his hand over his head and gave his shoulders a shake. "When a man cannot control his nerves; when he makes his family miserable because of the nervous tension he is under trying to supply their wants, it's time to throw up the sponge."

"Take a brace, man! Take a brace! You are a regular coward today. It's probably your liver that is speaking. You need exercise. Anything but a man that has slumped into himself." John made no answer, but worked away in silence.

"I can't quite see what the trouble is. Eighty dollars a month is no big income, but with care a man and wife ought to be able to live on it; at least they might have the necessities of life."

"It is the debt," he said briefly. "If we could ever start clear I would have hope. Every mail I get threatening letters from my creditors back in Alpine. I am afraid they will garnishee my wages, and that would probably mean the loss of my position."

"How did you get so deep in the hole?" The girl was so interested that she did not realize that she was asking leading questions.

"Oh, sickness for one thing, but mostly extravagance, stupid ignorance of how to spend our money. It is almost unthinkable that people could be so blind to the facts of life as we were. When once a couple of fools dig such a pit for themselves there seems to be no way out. Molly does better now; she keeps inside her housekeeping allowance, but clearing off debts on our small savings is slow work.

"I do not know why I am unloading all my woes on you. To say the least, it is very bad taste, but I have no one to talk things over with, and you seem so friendly, so sensible; it makes me feel better to have it out."

"I wish I could be of some real help to you," said Julia earnestly.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffing, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.—Adv.

A Galley o' Fun!

REVOLUTIONARY RESOLVES
(By the News Editor.)

I will not announce the death of King Menelik of Abyssinia more than four times.

I will use my influence to get the man fired who makes "Prison Gates Yawn" in a headline.

I will dash every "pretty romance" between a nurse and her wealthy charge unless it is certified to.

I will resign before permitting a cow to browse through this paper, eating dairymaids' purses containing one hundred and fifty dollars.

I will see to it that poor relatives who receive $2,000,000 each from an unidentified aunt in England have to chip in and buy the paper to get their names into it.

I will not permit the "fair defendant" to be described as "beautiful," and then print a picture showing her to be a lemon.

I will crumple up and throw in the faces of the writers all stories of men finding $500 pearls in oysters.

I will give space to the deaths of the "oldest Mason," the "oldest alumnus," and the "oldest survivor of the Mexican War" but one time each during the coming year.

I will take a course of training that I may be able to rub paste in the hair of every reporter who allows the victim to be killed by "some blunt instrument." It will take a ton of paste but I'll get it somehow.

JUNE AND DECEMBER

Ah! Breeze that flows while growing the rose
That never knew December's snows
Ask if she knows the woes of those Whose purse felt dissolution's throes
When winds so cold and bold unrolled
A counterplane upon the wold,
And roses sold for gold tenfold
As much as e'er their cups would hold!
Ask why the rose that grows and blows
Glass-shielded from December's snows
When winds so cold and bold unrolled
A sheet of white upon the wold—
Would always bring a smile for beauty
Whose untold love was thus welcomed.

When spring has winter overbowled
And once more around June has rolled,
Why is it smiles are sparcely doled
For roses wrought in nature's mold?
Why is it such caprice she shows
When nature's lavish hand now throws
A ransom for the Queen of Snows
Into her lap? Well, I suppose,
When all at last's been said and told
She's just a maid—the story's old!

IN STATUARY HALL.

Mike—She can use both hands—and her without suspenders.

STRIKING BACK

"I tell you, Congressman Grabmore is a fierce partisan of the Administration's."

"What has he done?"

"Introduced a bill providing that the government publish a colored supplement to the Congressional Record in which to caricature its caricaturers."

WORSE LUCK.

Mrs. Brown—You know I went to the employment agency—

Mrs. Jones—Yes? Did you get a cook that suited you?

Mrs. Brown—Why, no! I couldn't even get a cook that didn't suit me!"

FUTURE AND PRESENT.

He—What was the result of your visit to the pianist?

She—I've got a fortune coming to me some day, and I'm five dollars out now.

HOW IT LOOKED.

First Novice—The game seems deuedly shy!

Second Novice—Yes; somebody must have been shooting at it besides us!

WAS DONE

Struckoyle.—I suppose while you were in Paris you did as the Parisians did?

Newriche (hotly).—Do you mean to call me a robber?

THE EDUCATIONAL TEST.

"Yes, sir!" exclaimed the Intense American; "I would exclude every foreigner who can not figure baseball averages!"

C. E. CONFERENCE HELD IN RAHWAY

Rev. C. S. Kemble Addresses Endeavorers on Subject of "Christian Citizenship."

The Christianship Committee of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union held its annual conference in the Second Presbyterian church, of Rahway, on Tuesday evening. The Christian Endeavor Society of that church served a luncheon to the visiting delegates and were accorded a rising vote of thanks for the excellent entertainment afforded.

The principal speaker of the evening was the Rev. Charles Kemble pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, of Rahway, who handled the subject of "Christian Citizenship" in a very able manner, showing how, by the coming of "Millennium Legislation," we could successfully combat the evils in our present-day politics.

Mr. Kemble was followed by short speeches from Miss Nellie K. Foote chairman of the committee, and from Messrs. Mintel, Warner, Brown, Barton, Lounsbury and Mingus, who spoke on the various phases of this matter as it affected the localities which they represented.

Miss Edna Schmidt, of Elizabeth and Mr. Mingus, of this city, render a beautiful duet, which was heartily applauded.

A motion was made and carried that this committee extend to the various societies in Westfield an expression of their best support and goodwill in the fight which they are making for the betterment of that city.

POWER OF CHOICE, THEME OF SERMON

"Boy Evangelist" Touches Hearts of Young and Old in Impressive Discourse.

Long after the young evangelist, Charles Forbes Taylor, has finished his work in Plainfield, no doubt hundreds of people who have listened to him in sermon, song and prayer, will remember the truths he gave them and will try to live up to them, for his childlike simplicity in dealing with the vital things of God and Eterity has apparently touched the hearts of young and old, and many men and women who have seldom darkened the threshold of a church door are seen night after night in these services.

Taking for his text Matt. 27:22: "What shall I do with Jesus which is called Christ" the boy preached a strong sermon last evening on the necessity of having this vital question answered by each individual heart. "Every man and woman has the power of choice to say yes or no even in the face of Almighty God. Esau had this privilege of choosing and he sold his birthright in order to satisfy his appetite. Judas sold his soul for gold, and Pilate bargained away his soul for fame. They all had the power of choice and they all lost their souls—from choice.

"The destiny of your soul and mine depends upon the way we answer this question. If you're playing with your eternal destiny, God pity you. Pilate was face to face with truth, for God said, 'I am the way, the truth and the life,' and Pilate was very uncomfortable. You won't like it either, if you die a sinner, for you too must face that truth. Pilate took Jesus aside and said, 'What hast Thou done?' And Jesus answered not a word, but, Oh, He might have replied, 'I have healed the leper, restored sight to the blind, raised the dead. What good thing has He done for you and for me? He died on Calvary's Cross for every soul here tonight.

"Oh, it was a wonderful love that bought us. Pilate washed his hands before the multitude, thinking this would remove the stain from his heart; but let me tell you, nothing short of the Blood of the Lamb will wash away our sins. Won't you accept His love, His sacrifice?"

The boy closed his sermon with an appeal to the unconverted that must have touched a heart of stone; with tenderness, sympathy, power and love, he pleaded with the unsaved to turn to God. The audience was deeply moved and many men and women signed the cards that were passed, signifying their desire to reconsecrate their lives to the service of Jesus Christ. It was an impressive service. This evening the "boy preacher" will talk on "Bidden By Sin."

Plenty of Snap in These Men's Suits at $15

Men are perhaps more fussy about quality in the clothes they wear than women are. Yet, many put style before quality.

We satisfy both classes with the Suits we sell at $15.

They are assured quality in every suit in this big line of ours. They are assured of good tailoring. They are guaranteed highly satisfactory service. Any man will be glad to pay $15 for such a Suit as we can sell him at that price.

And the man who wants style will find all that he desires in these $15 Suits, for they are cut along lines that go from the ultra-smart to the more modest models.

Young fellows liking plenty of snap and go to their clothes will find models in the $15 line that will tickle them. Somewhat older men, or men desiring clothing for business wear, will find models pleasing to them, and the still more conservative man will find plenty of Suits of plain fabrics modeled along lines that are pleasing, yet not too dashing.

Just step in when you have time and give us an opportunity to show you the class of Suits we are featuring at $15.

Wide Choice in Suits

Besides the Suits told of above at $15, we show attractive lines for as little as $12, and others run to the higher prices, $25 and $30—finer fabrics with plenty of hand tailoring, better linings, etc.

Silk Lined Suits for Young Men, smart as can be, made of Oxford and Fancy Mixed Cheviots, are a particularly desirable proposition at $22.

Swellest Overcoats in Town

We've been giving glimpses of the dressy Overcoats which now crowd our racks and tables, by revealing some of them in our show windows, but you can't have any idea of the variety of the handsome coats we are showing until you have come into the store and given us a chance to show them to you and until you have tried them on.

It is really surprising how cheap we can sell you first class Overcoats this season.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

The store's advertisement is the store's daily message to you—and there is not often a day in which there is not something new and interesting in that message.

Did you decide, not long ago, that you could not buy some particular thing because the price was a little too high? See if the store advertisements bring to you today any interesting "news" on this question.

The Earning Power of Money

is what makes men and women wealthy. Your money is capable of earning 4% compound interest, provided you put it to work in our Special Department, but remember that with money, as with men, it is steady employment that brings results.

On an account opened before November fourth, interest will commence from the first. Why not let your idle funds take advantage of this opportunity.

MISSION SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

Miss Emma L. Bridges Chosen Pres't of Woman's Board of Philadelphia Branch.

INTERESTING TALKS

Mrs. D. Foster Updike Tells How Children of Foreign Countries Are Taught the Gospel—Mrs. J. R. Jones, of India, Also Speaks.

At the afternoon and closing session of the Philadelphia branch of the Woman's Board of Missions yesterday in the Congregational church Mrs. D. Foster Updike, of this city, gave an interesting address, supplemented by specimens, on how she taught the junior pupils missionary work. Mrs. Updike had an array of dolls that would have dazzled the eyes and delighted the hearts of the inmates of several day nurseries, but each specimen had its lesson to impress on the juvenile minds. There were brown babies representing Turkey, Persia, Syria and India; yellow babies from China, Japan and Korea; Esquimaux babies, Indian babies and American babies, all presenting to the children, future preachers or missionaries, perhaps, the needs for greater efforts in the missionary work. Besides the display of dolls, Mrs. Updike had many cards, pictures, flags and toys from the lands about which she taught. This address seemed to fascinate the delegates and to some it suggested entirely original means of reaching the mind of the child receiving its first lessons in missionary matters.

Mrs. W. R. Westerfield, of Montclair, and Miss Catherine Crane, of Philadelphia, gave interesting talks on the junior work and how desirable it was to begin early in a child's life to awaken interest in this all-important branch of church endeavor.

Mrs. John P. Jones, of Madura, India, who has spent many years in the missionary fields of that distant land, told of the great work being done there, where the missionaries are not hampered by government restrictions. She said that the natives have come to look on the missionaries with favor akin to reverence and every consideration was shown them, with the possible exception of some of the high dignitaries of some of the other religions.

Mrs. H. W. Hicks, of Glen Ridge told of "Our Share in the New Hospital in Madura.

"Adversaries in the King's Highway" was the topic of an interesting discourse by Mrs. Charles H. Daniels president of the Woman's Board of Missions.

The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Miss Emma L. Bridges, Westfield; vice-president, Mrs. William G. Frost Montclair; associate vice-presidents Mrs. L. W. H. Giese, Philadelphia and Miss Alice M. Clark, Washington; recording secretary, Mrs. David E. Brown, East Orange; home secretary, Mrs. F. D. Green, Upper Montclair; foreign secretary, Mrs. I. H Demorest, Closter; secretary for young people's work, Mrs. W. R. Westerfield, Upper Montclair; treasurer Miss Martha M. Hooper, Washington

TO ARREST OFFENDERS ON HALLOWE'EN EVE

In anticipation of the annual pranks of sprites and elfs that are attendant upon Hallowe'en, Chief Wiss, of the police force of the borough of North Plainfield, has added seven extra men to his force for tonight, and he assured a Press reporter this morning that some of the elfs and sprites would be jailed and held for a daylight view. Boys began their Hallowe'en pranks as early as last night in the borough and several clothes lines were reported cut during the night. The chief will keep a close watch on clothes lines and other property tonight and he will arrest all offenders who really damage property.

POSTPONE EUCHRE PARTY.

The euchre and "500" which was to be given for the benefit of St. Joseph's church, on Tuesday night, November 16, has been postponed until Thursday night, November 18. The affair will be held in the new hall and will begin promptly at 8:15. Miss Anna Daly is chairman of the general committee, while Mrs. Andrew Kenney is chairman of the reception committee. The latter will be assisted by the Misses Elsie Moulton Helen Bryniarski and Anna McGinnes.

The following places of business will be closed Election Day, November 2: Gayle Hardware Co., Powilson & Jones, J. W. Gavett, E. A. Kirch & Co., and A. M. Griffen Co.—Adv.

UNDRESSES FOR BED ON SOMERSET STREET

Crowd of Men and Women Watch Man Take Off All Clothing.

Passersby on Somerset avenue near the corner of Front street, shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, were treated to the unusual spectacle of seeing a man undress on the sidewalk in the glare of daylight.

The man had succeeded in getting rid of every article of clothing that he wore when Chief Weiss of the borough police department arrived, and was standing stark naked on the curbing trying to pick a soft place on the sidewalk to sleep. His clothing hung on the gasoline service tank in front of the Somerset garage.

A crowd of more than 100 men and a large number of women witnessed the unveiling. Those who were present said that they did not see any women run.

Chief Weiss recognized the nude figure as soon as he reached his side. It was Jack Hogan, a peddler, who had been arrested during Thursday night for being drunk and had been held at the station until he sobered up. Hogan was showing the aftereffects of whisky, but he was perfectly sober.

"What's the matter with you, Jack?" the chief asked.

"What's the matter with you?" retorted Hogan. "A man's got a right to go to sleep in his own barn, hasn't he Get all these people away so I can sleep."

It was with difficulty that Hogan was made to clothe himself. He was taken to the home of a relative, where he slept until this morning. No charge was made against him.

WANT PSYCOPATHIC WARDS ESTABLISHED

Representatives of Hospitals in County Confer With the Board of Freeholders.

Elizabeth, Oct. 30.—Frank Hubbard, representing Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, and other representatives from the hospitals of the county conferred with the hospital committee of the Board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon in reference to the establishment of psycopathic ward in county hospitals. The county jail officials have recently taken the ground that persons mentally unbalanced should not be sent to the jail but should be cared for at some more fitting place pending the final disposition of their case.

No decision was reached, but it was the concensus of opinion that some place of temporary detention should be selected. The committee will probably report back to the board at its next meeting.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NEEDLEWORK GUILD

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Branch of the Needlework Guild of America will be held on Thursday afternoon, November 4, at 3:30 o'clock in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church. The meeting will be addressed by Mrs. John Wood Stewart, of Glen Ridge, the founder of the Guild in America, and also of one in Lyons, France.

At this meeting the garments collected by the directors during the year will be exhibited and the day following will be distributed among the various charities of the town. Tea will be served and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

NOTABLE VISITORS AT PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

Dr. A. L. Johnson, county superintendent; H. A. Albright, director of manual arts work, Easton, Pa., and C. J. Jefferies, manual training instructor, North Plainfield High School, were visitors to the borough manual arts department this week.

H. A. Albright was so pleased with what he saw that he intends sending some of his teachers to observe our work.

GETS $1,600 FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

Mrs. Mary McCormick Brings Suit Against Spicer Company for Damages.

Following a hearing before Judge Peter Daly in the Middlesex county courts at New Brunswick, yesterday, Mrs. Mary McCormick, of 446 West Fourth street, was awarded $1,500 in compensation money and $100 to defray funeral expenses, in her suit against the Spicer Manufacturing Company to recover damages for the death of her husband, Thomas E. McCormick, who was killed in the concern's plant at South Plainfield, August 14 last. Mrs. McCormick was represented by Francis J. Blatz, of the local law firm of Codington & Blatz, and the compensation covered a period of 300 weeks at $5 a week, this being the minimum damages under the Employers' Liability Law for death.

McCormick, who was employed in the shipping department of the Spicer plant, tore a gash in his wrist while engaged in wiring a shipment of goods. Loss of blood caused him to become faint and he was advised to go outdoors and wait while surgical material was being prepared by fellow workmen. Partially dazed, he seated himself on a pile of debris in the shop yard directly in the path of a big steel scoop.

He was holding his injured wrist in the air in order to stop the flood of blood when the jaws of the big steam shovel closed in upon him. His arm was torn from the socket and his lung was punctured by a broken rib. McCormick died in the Spicer plant before medical aid arrived.

WOMEN HOLD TWO DOLLAR SOCIABLE

Each Earn Money for Church and Tell in Rhyme How They Did It.

"How we earned two dollars" was an interesting story told by each of the members of the Pastor's Aid Society, of the First Presbyterian church, yesterday afternoon, at a luncheon in the Sunday-school room of the church. The society is composed of all the women members of the church.

After luncheon was served at 1 o'clock each woman told in rhyme how she earned two dollars which each was to contribute to the church. To say that some of the reports were amusing does not amply describe it, some were droll, all were unique and some were most original.

Nearly one hundred women were present and the aggregate of the $2 offerings totaled a sum that will go far toward paying for the improvements to the church property which the women have planned.

The latter part of the afternoon was spent in social intercourse.

MASQUERADE PARTY AT HARRISON AVENUE SCHOOL

A masquerade party given by the sophomore class of North Plainfield High School was enjoyed last evening by over eighty pupils and mothers, at the Harrison Avenue School. A grand march, with everybody in masque, was one of the features. Kenneth Bennett received a box of candy for having the most original costume. The program was an excellent one.

The executive committee in charge consisted of Agnes Griffiths, chairman; Douglas Stewart, Clifford Feiring, Edward Moraller and Marion Blair.

ELECTED MARSHAL.

Aaron Hirsch, who is registered in the freshman class of the New York School of Dentistry, was elected marshal of his class at a meeting held yesterday. Hirsch received more votes than any of the other candidates for other offices. Mr. Hirsch was graduated from the North Plainfield High School with the class of 1915.

APPROACHING WEDDING.

The wedding of Miss Grace Trowbridge Woolston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Woolston, of Fairview avenue, North Plainfield, to John Edmund Fox, of Woodbury, will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday afternoon, November 6, at 5 o'clock.

DR. EMERSON MOVES.

Dr. R. W. Emerson, who has held his dentistry offices at 234 Park avenue for many years, announces his removal to 148 East Front street, opposite the Woodhull & Martin building.

HEBREWS TO HOLD BIG MASS MEETING

Prominent Speakers Will Discuss Jewish Organization in America.

Arrangements are completed for the mass meeting of the Jewish people of Plainfield and vicinity to be held in the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow afternoon, when addresses will be made by speakers of national prominence, including Dr. N. Syrkin Rabbi A. Kaplan and Mr. M. Röthenberg, of New York.

These speakers represent almost every shade of opinion on the Jewish question and will speak at length on the need of calling a Jewish Congress, which shall represent all American Jewry, on a democratic basis.

The committee invites all who are interested in the subject to attend and bring their friends to gather information on the organization of the Jews in America

DEMOCRATS DENOUNCED BY G. O. P. CANDIDATES

Cranford, Oct. 30.—Denouncing the Democratic candidates for their wilful misrepresentation of facts, justifying their attitude on various measures they voted for in the House of Assembly last year, and attempting to show the fallacy of the financial problem of the Democratic party while in power, Assembly candidates Charles L. Morgan, of Elizabeth, and Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, received a big ovation from the Cranford Republicans last evening.

Mr. Morgan made a further reply to Mr. Leonard's questions recently asked in Plainfield.

DR. SAUNDERS TO SPEAK AT MEN'S CLUB DINNER

Dr. William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, will be the chief speaker at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Men's Club dinner to be held Tuesday night, November 9. This will be the organization's first dinner of the season and Dr. Saunders will take for his subject "Preparedness."

His intimacy with national affairs and the fact that he was recently elected chairman of Secretary Daniels' Naval Advisory Board makes Dr. Saunders a particularly acceptable speaker for this occasion and it is expected that the attendance at the inaugural event of the season will be a large one.

HALLOWE'EN SURPRISE FOR MISS MARY DUFFY

A surprise and Hallowe'en party was given Miss Mary Duffy last night, at her home on Franklin avenue, when about thirty of her young friends called. Games appropriate to the season were enjoyed. The home was decorated for the occasion, orange and black being the prevailing colors, while pumpkins and jack-o-lanterns were placed in nooks throughout the dining room and parlor.

Among those present were the Misses Mary Duffy, Rose Cooper Grace Vandenberg, Jennie Higgins May Meggs, Lauretta Carney, Bertha Frazer, Elsie Zeller, Margaret O'Connor, Dorothy Sutton, Albertine and Margaret Klemser, Francis Siedel Robert Carson, Theodore Zeller, Henry Vandenberg, Raymond Carney, Howard Schlin, Louis Chandler, James and John O'Connor, George Schump, William Firing, Newton Lunger, James Brown, John Johnson Walter Harper, Bruce Rutledge, William Carson, William Cooper, Joseph Carroll. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Vandenberg entertained the young people with selections on the victrola.

FIREMAN CUT BY AXE.

Fireman Roy McDonough, who is attached to the hook and ladder truck at headquarters, sustained a severe injury while working at the Hetfield fire on East Second street last night An axe he was wielding glanced from a beam and cut a bad gash in his left knee. He was taken to the office of Dr. Pittis, who found it necessary to insert several stitches to close the wound. McDonough was afterward sent to his home on East Second street and will be off duty for the next few days at least.

CHURCHMEN WAGE VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

Local Organizations Working for Election of the G. O. P. Assembly Candidates.

A campaign of publicity in the interests of the candidacy of Assemblymen Runyon, Pierson and Morgan, is being waged by the local Federation of Men's Bible Classes, the Men's Poster Committee and the Federation of Men's Church Clubs.

The purpose of this activity on the part of three of the leading organizations of laymen in Plainfield and community is to offset work being done against the Republican nominees from Union county by the whisky interests.

Last week The Press carried news of the war on Messrs. Runyon, Pierson and Morgan by the liquor trusts in this State and through this publicity the laymen are active in their behalf. Officials of the three clubs named are carrying advertisements in the local papers today, in which they urge all voters to support Republican candidates for the Assembly and express their confidence in the men in the following statement: "We support them because of their attitude on that question (local option), in view as well, of their excellent record on public matters in general."

The advertisement also states that officials who sign it were instructed to do so by the boards and clubs they represent. The advertisement is signed by G. H. Batchelor, president of the Federation of Men's Bible Classes; R. H. Depew, chairman of the Men's Poster Committee, and W. H. P. Veysey, president of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs.

ACQUAINTANCE PARTY ENJOYED BY MANY

Successful Affair Arranged by Ladies' Aid Society of Hope Chapel.

About two hundred members of the congregation of Hope chapel gathered in the Sunday-school rooms last night for a get-acquainted social and the event proved to be a success in every way. A special program of music, recitations, drills by the Boy Scouts and a company of young people in Hallowe'en attire. The object of the gathering was to enable the individual members to become acquainted and promote a spirit of unity in the church.

The High School orchestra rendered several selections, Miss Sorenson, in a pleasing manner, gave several piano solos; Miss Mattox recited, J. P. Richards sang bass solos; W. F. Richards, on the harmonica, was entertaining, while Mr. Mulford read Josh Whitcomb's trip to New York. Troop 12, Boy Scouts, gave several exhibition drills, while a company of young people in Hallowe'en attire unexpectedly appeared and gave an impromptu and characteristic drill

Refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was given over to social intercourse. The occasion proved to be a most enjoyable one and successful in every way.

WILLIAM NEWCORN SPEAKS ON "WOMEN IN ISRAEL"

In the absence of Rabbi Herman Martin last night, William H. Newcorn addressed a large congregation in Sholem Temple. His topic was "Women in Israel." Mr. Newcorn told of the work of Hebrew women throughout the world, in the educational field, in civic betterments, and in all things pertaining to progressive civilization. He told of the prominent part which the Jewish women had taken in the world's stage of action since the earliest days, but it was the part they were taking in Sholem temple that Mr. Newcorn particularly emphasized.

He said that Sholem temple was already recognized as a factor in town welfare and with the united desire of the women of the temple to accomplish much for the good of the entire community, Sholem temple would become a power for good, not only for the congregation but for the public at large.

CHILD TOOK LONG STROLL.

William Banks, of 651 West Third street, reported to the local police shortly after midnight that his five-year-old daughter was missing from home. A short time later the police of Bound Brook communicated with the local authorities to the effect that the child had been picked up by L. W. Guernsey, of that place, and was being cared for at the latter's home on Union avenue. The child had walked from Plainfield to Bound Brook.

2 ALARMS IN FEW MINUTES LAST NIGHT

Firemen Spend a Busy Half Hour in Running Over City.

Two fires within twenty minutes had all members of the Plainfield department out shortly after 9 o'clock last night. The first fire was in a residence at 511 East Second street and the second destroyed a lumber shed on Laramie road.

Engine Company No. 1 answered the first alarm, which came in at 9:07. The second street residence was occupied by Mrs. H. V. Hetfield, and the fire was in her room in the attic. Mrs. Hetfield was in the bath room when the fire broke out, and all her clothing was in the room that was ablaze. Men from the chemical company found it necessary to climb a narrow, winding stairway and then go down a long hallway filled with smoke in order to reach the blaze, but they put it out with chemicals only by good work under difficulties. Mrs Hetfield reported the loss of three diamond rings and a necklace immediately after the blaze and Chief Doane and his men searched her room until the missing articles were found under a pile of clothing. The damage was about $125

While firemen were out box 75 reported and engine companies Nos. 1 and 3 answered the alarm. They found a lumber shed on the Kapelsohn property on fire. It had caught from sparks blown by the wind from a rubbish fire set early in the day. Chief Doane and members of Engine Company No. 2 returned to the hall to learn of the second alarm and answered it immediately, but the shed had burned down before they arrived. The loss was about $200.

ARTHUR RUGH, OF CHINA, WILL SPEAK

Attractive Program Announced for Meeting of State Y. M. C. A. Auxiliaries.

The twenty-first annual conference of the Women's Auxiliaries to the Young Men's Christian Association of New Jersey will open its session in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, Thursday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The presiding officer will be Mrs. J. E. Hyde of Orange, president of the Women's Executive Board. Devotional services will be led by Rev. J. S. Zelie and an address of welcome from Mrs Phillip S. Suffern, president of the Plainfield auxiliary, will follow. Reports will be presented and business transacted and the discussions will be led by Mrs. C. H. Potter, of Orange.

Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock an informal reception and musical for delegates and visiting representatives will be held in the auditorium. The men of the association who are interested in the work of the auxiliary are invited to assist the women on that evening. Friday morning at 10:15 o'clock Mrs. James W. Sayers of Elizabeth, will lead the devotional services. Arthur Rugh, of Shanghai China, the national secretary, will give glimpses of association work in foreign lands. Charles R. Scott, of Newark, State Secretary of Boys Work, will illustrate his talk with stereopticon slides showing the work in the United States and Canada Quiet moments with Mrs. Riley A Vose, of Newark, presiding.

The conference will conclude at 1 o'clock, when luncheon will be served to the delegates by the Plainfield auxiliary in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church. All people who are interested in this work are cordially invited at 10:15 on Friday morning to hear the splendid speakers who will discuss the importance of the association work.

CASE AGAIN PUT OFF.

William T. Clark, of Clark street, Westfield, a New York banker, whose automobile struck a woman at Watchung avenue and East Second street Thursday afternoon, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning to answer to a charge of reckless driving. Owing to the fact that the woman had not been discharged from the hospital, where she was removed following the accident, the case was put off for one week.

HEARING POSTPONED.

Dudley Welsh, who was charged by the local police department with reckless driving; after his machine had struck Mrs. Harry Terry, on South avenue, Wednesday afternoon, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning for trial but the case was postponed at the request of counsel until next Thursday morning. Welsh was represented by Francis J. Blatz, of the law firm of Codington & Blatz.

SUPPLY BASE OF SERBS IS TAKEN

Germans and Bulgarians Draw Closer Together in Drives on Nish.

PIROT HAS FALLEN

Troops of Von Mackensen in Control of Kragujevas, Where Guns and Ammunition of Serbians Are Stored—Resistance is Weakening.

London, Oct. 30.—One important German victory and another for Bulgarian troops, both in the Serbian theatre, are important developments of the past twenty-four hours in the war situation.

Bulgarian troops have captured Pirot, the strongest fortress in eastern Serbia. It was taken by the advance guard of the Bulgar invading army. A report from Sofia states that the Serbs are in full retreat before the invaders in that section.

The heaviest blow yet suffered by Serbia comes in the capture of Kragujevac, the Serbian arsenal between Nish and the Danube River. It was taken by German troops under Field Marshal Von Machensen yesterday. Bulgarians are within a few miles of Nish on the other side and soon the Serbian capital will be in the hands of the Central powers. The resistance of the Serbs is gradually being wiped out, and they have little aid from the Allies.

King George All Right.

The condition of King George, who was thrown from his horse and injured while reviewing troops on Thursday, is satisfactory, the attending physicians announced today.

German Attack Fails.

Paris, Oct. 30.—The following official communique was given out by the French War Office today:

"In Artis during the night we made progress in Bois En Hache, occupying part of an enemy trench southeast of Souchez. The Germans this morning attempted an attack in neighborhood of hill No. 140, but they were repulsed by our rapid firers and curtains of artillery fire. In Champagne the fighting continues in the neighborhood of La Courtaine with greatest fierceness.

"The enemy atempted four times to retake trenches captured by us yesterday. These four counter attacks completely failed."

Torpedo Sunk Hesperian.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The steamer Hesperian, of the Allan Line, was torpedoed and was not sunk by a mine as contended by Germany. This announcement was made by the State Department following the report of experts who examined pieces of metal that fell on the boat.

SILVER CROSS CIRCLE PLAN HOLIDAY DANCE

The Silver Cross Circle of the King's Daughters is planning a holiday dance for young people on Saturday, November 27, at the Park Club. There will be dancing for small children from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, with music by Denton. There will be a lucky member contest with a prize to add to the fun and refreshments will be served.

The older boys and girls will have their dance from 9 until 11:30 with a lucky member contest and refreshments. Tickets for the affair may be secured at J. W. Gavett's store on West Front street and Miller's drug store.

The committee in charge of the affair comprises Mrs. Wilbur Rogers chairman; Mrs. Francis E. DuBois, Mrs. Donald McGee, Miss Ethel Millar, Mrs. Everett Murray, Mrs. H. A. Robinson and Mrs. W. J. Roome. The proceeds from the affair will be used to help in the support of the Day Nursery and for other charitable purposes.

"YEAR IN ENGLAND."

"A Year in England During the Present War" will be the subject of the lecture given under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club, Monday afternoon, in the parish house of the Congregational church. Dr. Arthur Harmount Graves, formerly assistant professor of government at Yale University, will be the lecturer. He is a brilliant and breezy speaker and the club feels fortunate in securing his services.

PRAYERS FOR THE DEAD.

The parish of St. Mary's church will hold its annual service for the dead in St. Mary's cemetery tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Father B. N. Bogan and his assistants, Rev. Father MacDonald and Rev. Father Sciolla, will be in charge and a number of visiting priests will be present.

LEROY SCANDELL KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE

Le Roy Scandell, of the Scandell Consolidated Jitney Bus Company escaped serious injury Wednesday evening, when he was pinned against the side of the entrance of the company's garage by the mud guard of a jitney.

The engine stalled as Mr. Scandell was about to run the jitney into the garage. He jumped out and turned the crank. In his haste he had neglected to release the clutch and the engine sprang into second speed and the jitney leaped forward.

Mr. Scandell, with presence of mind, gave a mighty leap sideways, but the mud guard just caught him. After he was extricated he was assisted to the office of the company and after resting there for a while he proceeded home alone.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES AT BOROUGH SCHOOLS

A number of the teachers of the local schools were given Hallowe'en surprise parties by their pupils yesterday afternoon. In the Whittier School the seventh grade pupils surprised Miss Rita G. Brokaw and the sixth grade pupils Miss Mabel Crawford.

In the Lincoln School the fifth grade pupils surprised Miss E. May Higgins; the fourth grade pupils, Miss Pough, and the third grade pupils, Miss Edna Hardcastle.

Each of these teachers teach two grades located in different rooms and the surprises were made possible by the co-operation of the teachers, who took charge of the grades giving the parties when the teachers to be surprised went into other rooms. The rooms were artistically decorated with orange and black crepe paper. The entertainment program comprised games and music.

Mrs. Charles Dodwell, of Jackson avenue, has been visiting at Atlantic City, Asbury Park and Manasquan. She is at present at the latter place visiting her sister, Mrs. James Van Houten.

RETURNS FROM CRUISE.

Henry Alberti, a student of the New York Nautical School, is visiting his uncle, George Zink, of North avenue. Mr. Alberti has returned from a cruise on the school's training ship to Honolulu. The school had been away on this cruise since June. The slide in the Panama canal detained the students at Balboa on the Pacific end of the canal for five weeks. After waiting there that length of time they were finally sent across the isthmus by railroad.

Miss Eleanor Allison, of New York, is spending a week in the borough as the guest of her cousin, Mrs. George K. Post, of New Market road.

Mrs. C. T. Voorhees, of Lincoln avenue, is ill with tonsilitis.

"ALL ARE SINNERS, EXCEPT ROBINSON"

"Boy Preacher" Uses Strong Illustration in Discourse at Revival Services.

Charles Forbes Taylor, the "boy preacher," seems to have an inexhaustible supply of sermons that set his hearers to thinking. Last evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church he spoke on the theme, "Bitten By Sin." Said the boy: "Sin has become a family heirloom, handed down from generation to generation. We have all been bitten by the serpent of sin and there is death in the bite; it's a terrible disease and calls for a great remedy.

"There are men in the world today who say there is no sin in us—it's only on the surface, forget about it and it will be all right. This reminds me of an experience my father had while conducting open air meetings in England some years ago. He was preaching along this same line and a man in the audience took exception to being called a sinner; so turning to the Bible my father read, 'All have sinned and come short of the glory of God' except Mr. Robinson (which was the man's name). Passage after passage my father quoted in this way, until Mr. Robinson saw his ridiculous attitude.

"Just the moment man says he has never sinned, just that moment he calls God a liar. How many sins must we commit before we become sinner How many times must we commit murder before we become murderers? How many times do we steal before we are made thieves? One sin shut Adam out of the Garden of Eden—one sin will shut you out of heaven unless you accept the remedy that is offered you. As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up. A look at the Crucified One will cure the serpent's bite of sin—Oh, my brother, sister, look and live! It was a greater love than a mother's that brought Jesus Christ down from heaven so that he might be born in a manger and die on the cross—that we might have eternal life. You sin—sin-sick and you've never tried the remedy that Christ holds out to you; how dare you say then that He cannot cure you? Have you even thanked Him for dying in your place? Oh, what ingratitude we show the One who loved us in all our sin."

With exceeding tenderness the young evangelist sang the solo, "Almost Persuaded," following with a prayer [illegible] a special appeal to church members.

The "boy preacher" will speak in the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school tomorrow morning at 9:45. He will also preach in the same church at 11 in the morning and at 8 in the evening. The service of song under the direction of Mr. Winter will begin promptly at 7:45. The boy will also speak at a mass meeting of men and women at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

This evening he will talk on "Thorns," at the Park Avenue Baptist church—a service directed especially to the young people.

A Galley o' Fun!

BEHIND SOCIETY'S CURTAIN

(By Hezekiah Snodgrass.)

(A thrilling romantic novel of high life. Published by the Wadsworth Mealy Company.)

Publisher's Note.—Mr. Snodgrass, believing that no author should write of matters wherein he is not fully informed, and being, moreover, a firm believer in the literary value of "local color", spent two days in New York City last winter. He visited the purlieus of wealth, and even looked in the windows of some of the houses in Fifth Avenue. The results of this indefatigable research he has embodied in this novel, which, while possessing all the charm of a romance, is, nevertheless, a ruthless exposition of the terrible state of affairs existing "Behind Society's Curtain."

Chapter I.

It was evening. The beautiful parlor in the palatial residence of the Eversleys was brilliantly illuminated with three large lamps. Before the flickering firelight of the grate sat Seraphita Eversley, Reginald Eversley's lawful wedded wife. Her white hands were folded idly in her lap. She was the child of luxury and those exquisite white hands had never been condemned to the drudgery of hard work. She kept two hired girls, so that she did not even have to make the beds or sweep off the front stoop.

A ring was suddenly heard at the front door bell. A moment later the hired girl appeared at the door and said: "It's him, Miss' Eversley."

"Tell him to walk right in," commanded the lady, imperiously.

A moment later a man entered the room with the grace and figure of an Adonis.

"Take a chair," said Mrs. Eversley, smiling sweetly at him, but trembling a little, though she did not know why.

"Don't care if I do," he replied, airily; and, laying his hat and coat on the piano, he drew a chair to her side in front of the fire and lighted a fragrant Havana cigar.

"Where's Reginald?" he asked, scrowling fiercely into the flames.

"Oh! He's at the club, as usual," she replied, wearily. "He seems to do nothing else in the evening except go to that dreadful club and play cards and dominos for money, and drink whiskey and beer. It's horrible she exclaimed.

"Yes," agreed the man, whose aristocratic sounding name was Francis Blessingham; "yes he ought to be learned better—but it's all the better for me."

"Why, what are you thinking of" she asked, raising her eyebrows gently.

"I'm thinking that you are just too sweet for anything," he complimented gracefully, speaking the French with an almost perfect accent

"How lovely you speak French!" she observed, toying with the charms on his watch chain. "You speak almost like a French person."

"Yes," he replied; "people often tell me so. It may be because the room I was born in was furnished with Louis Quince's furniture."

There was a long silence, while he puffed away on his cigar and watched the firelight playing among her beautiful tresses, where it looked like little red grasshoppers jumping around.

At last he threw the butt of his cigar into the fire and burst out: "My angel! My dear one! I love you! Let's murder your husband and run away together!"

She raised her blushing face to his and he knew that Reginald Eversley's fate was sealed.

And thus it was that the snake of evil squirmed into the home of Reginald Eversley, heaping upon its back a terrible burden of woe, shame and expense.

Jones—I see by the paper that a flea can jump two thousand times its own length.

Brown—That's probably why we never hear of a flea getting run over by an automobile.

DIDN'T AMOUNT TO MUCH.

Willis—And who is that fellow Henpeck? Does he amount to anything?

Wallace—Oh! He isn't anybody. He's nothing but his wife's second husband!

Modern urban life seems to have left no doubt that it requires less room to raise a family than to swing a cat.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Plainfield Woman Is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Ofttimes 'tis the kidneys' fault.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I endured much misery from backache, caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and in the morning my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

MR. AND MRS. CHAS. SHELTON OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shelton, of 804 East Second street, celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their wedding at their home last night by entertaining guests from New York city, Philadelphia, Newark and Washington. The home was beautifully decorated for the event, chrysanthemums and potted plants being used throughout the dining room and parlors. The couple were the recipients of a large number of handsome gifts in honor of the occasion. Dancing was the chief form of entertainment, while refreshments were served throughout the evening.

Mrs. Shelton's maiden name was Miss Mary Morris, of Virginia. The couple were married in this city a score of years ago by the late Rev. P. S. Gileson, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Owing to the fact that the Plainfield Musical Club has leased the Plainfield Theatre for its annual musicale next Monday afternoon and night the regular vaudeville performances will be discontinued for that day. The usual Monday bill will open on Tuesday instead, with six big acts as heretofore. On Tuesday morning (Election Day), beginning at ten o'clock there will be a special presentation, principally for school children, of the five-part photoplay feature "The Wizard of Oz." This play when produced ten years ago was the first starring vehicle of Montgomery and Stone and in which they made such an emphatic hit that they have been listed among the leading comedy stars since. In the picture version of "The Wizard of Oz" many new features have been introduced while all the old ones have been retained, making the film an attraction for old as well as young.

The vaudeville program beginning Tuesday afternoon will be headed by a tabloid musical comedy entitled "A Night in Monte Carlo." It is to be presented by a company of ten people, six of whom are girls, with fresh voices and nimble feet, assuring fine singing and dancing. The other numbers on the program will be in keeping with the headline acts.

The first of the "Country Stores" arranged by Manager Shannon was given at the Plainfield last night and drew a capacity audience to the theatre. It was a success in every way. The second one will be given on Wednesday of next week and will embody a number of features not included last night. Prices remain the same at these special affairs.

CHURCH IS 100 YEARS OLD.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 30.—Celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Walnut Street Baptist church will begin tomorrow and continue until November 7. Many prominent Kentucky preachers will speak during next week. Many of the best known men in the Baptist denomination have at one time or another been members of the old church, and a large group of these distinguished men and women have returned for the celebration.

OREGON DAY AT FAIR.

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—Today is Oregon Day at the Exposition, and Governor James Withycombe is the center of a big celebration at the Oregon building. Formal exercises are under way this morning, a luncheon to Gov. Withycombe will be given this noon and tonight a reception and ball will wind up the festivities. There are many visitors from Oregon, especially here for the gala events of the celebration.

OAK TREE PROGRAM ENJOYED BY MANY

Marcennier Church People Present Excellent Entertainment at That Place.

An enjoyable musicale and social was held last night at Oak Tree, members of the Marcennier Reformed church taking a prominent part in the program. The affair was largely attended and the numbers presented elicited much favorable comment.

The program follows: Piano solo, Miss Florence Frazee; vocal solo, Miss Adele Freeman; piano solo, Miss Georgianna Frazee; vocal solo, R. Steele; piano solo, Rita Holmes; piano solo, W. Snowden; "The Sunflower Prananniies," a humorous sketch, was rendered by eight little members of the Sunday-school, who were appropriately and uniquely gowned for their respective parts. They were Agnes Kirkpatrick, Edith Suydam, Ruth Boos, Flossie Randolph, Velma Van Court, Ruth Campbell and Laura Lansdale. Master Edward Clark managed the cast and Anna Van Court presided at the piano. The children were drilled by Mrs. B. Frank Boos and the manner in which they performed reflected with credit on her coaching.

A social hour culminated the entertainment, women of the church serving refreshments.

GUATEMALA OPENS EXPOSITION.

New Guatemala, Guatemala, Oct. 30.—The National Exposition of Guatemala, given annually in connection with the fiesta of Minerva, Guatemala's holiday in honor of education, will open tomorrow. CHARLES R. WILLIAMS WILL GIVE A RECITAL

Charles Richard Williams, of Princeton, will read his monodrama, "The Return of the Prodigal," at the All Souls' church tomorrow morning in place of the usual sermon. Mr. Williams is a Princeton man, of the class of '75. He held a foreign fellowship for two years, tutored at Princeton for three years, and was professor of Greek at Lake Forest University two years. For nine years he was assistant manager of the Associated Press, at New York, while for a score of years he was editor-in-chief and part owner of the Indianapolis News. In 1911 he retired from newspaper work and gave himself to the writing of the life of Rutherford B. Hayes, which Houghton, Mifflin & Company published last year. He removed to Princeton about a year ago. The service tomorrow will begin at 10:30 promptly.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS GIVE MASQUERADE PARTY

The Band of Workers of the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school enjoyed a Hallowe'en party last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Higgins 826 Webster place. About thirty-five members and their friends attended the affair. Each attendant came attired in a unique costume. The prize for the best origination went to the bride and groom, who were impersonated by Mrs. E. Pangborn and Mrs. A. Davis. Second prize went to Miss Emma Hyler, who wore a clown costume.

The decorations were appropriate to the season. The social committee in charge of the affair was composed of: Mrs. C. Mehlenbeck, gowned as an Indian girl; Mrs. H. Hedrich gypsy girl; Mrs. J. Welsh, Japanese girl; Mrs. R. Schomp, African girl; Mrs. W. Shaeffer, Chinese girl, and Mrs. C. Thompson, as a domino.

Mrs. M. L. Stout, of Centerville who was the guest of honor at the party, surprised the attendants when she appeared in the guise of a Holland girl. The vote for the prettiest costume went to Mrs. H. Messler, who impersonated a French doll. Later in the evening Miss Harriet Higgins played the grand march, after which the guests unmasked and refreshments were served.

SELECTIONS FROM "CREATION" AT CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH

Selections from the oratorio, "Creation," by Haydn, will be given by the choir of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 4:45 o'clock, assisted by a double quartet of singers well-known in musical circles, several of whom have been singing in New York churches.

Dr. E. Metler Davis, organist, will direct the service, the quartet being Miss Lillian Vernon Watt, soprano, Miss Grace Carroll, alto; Paul C. Haskell, tenor, and Dr. Hugh Schussler, bass. The public is cordially invited to this service.

HANS ANDERSON DIES AFTER MANY YEARS' ILLNESS

Hans Anderson, for many years a resident of the West End, died last night at his home on Manson place following a long illness. He was sixty-seven years old and entered the employ of the Pond Tool Works when the shop was first opened in this city, but a short time afterward met with a severe accident from which he never recovered. The happening will be remembered by many Plainfielders as it attracted considerable attention at the time and from the frightful crushing he received it was considered a miracle that he lived. In his last years Mr. Anderson had become totally blind. He was a member of Hope Chapel and beside his wife is survived by two daughters. He enjoyed a wide acquaintance throughout the city and made many friends by the patient manner in which bore his long illness.

The funeral service will be held at his late home, 346 Manson place, Tuesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. Frederic L. Greene. Interment will be in Millside cemetery.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Bible class of high school and employed boys made an enthusiastic beginning last night. Sixty fellows assembled at the Association for supper and after supper were divided up into three groups for Bible study.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock Charlie Taylor, the boy evangelist, will again speak to men and women in the Y. M. C. A. hall. These meetings are gaining each week in attendance and interest and a larger crowd is expected tomorrow.

The Teacher Training Class led by W. D. Murray, will hold its first session in the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening. The course is particularly designed to meet the needs of Sunday school teachers who desire to make themselves more efficient in teaching the Sunday school lesson.

ENJOYING CALIFORNIA.

Miss Margaret C. Nash, of Prospect avenue, who left a month ago for the Pacific coast, has written to relatives that she is now located at the Old Mission Inn, Riverside, California, and is so delighted with the country that she will not return to Plainfield for at least two months. Miss Nash first visited the exposition at San Francisco and will spend a short time at Riverside, Los Angeles, San Diego, and other large cities, after which she will go to Portland, Oregon, stopping at Salt Lake City and Yellowstone Park on the northern trip home. She went West by way of the southern route and took occasion to spend a few days in Mexico before reaching the coast.

HARD ON THE DUTCH.

Amsterdam, Oct. 30.—The German Council has approved of a measure that forbids the sale of meat preparations or sausages on Tuesdays and Fridays and of pork on Saturdays.

$5,000,000 FROM ENGLAND.

New York, Oct. 30.—Approximately $5,000,000 in English sovereigns is expected to arrive at the U. S. assay office in this city this morning from Canada for account of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Miss Margaret Stewart, of Marion, Pa., and Mrs. Anthony Cook, of Germantown, Pa., will spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shelton, 804 East Second street.

The annual bazaar, given by the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter' Lutheran church, will be held in the Sunday-school rooms, corner Grove street and Mercer avenue, on the afternoons and evenings of November 17 and 18.

The housewife is the "official buyer" for the home—in almost all families. She is, consequently, the official "ad reader" for the home.

The store's advertisement is the store's daily message to you—and there is not often a day in which there is not something new and interesting in that message.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

A TRAGIC RETREAT

When the Afghans Lured the British Into the Jaws of Death.

THE EVACUATION OF KABUL.

Of 16,000 Persons Who Left the City Under Pledge of Safety Only One Man, Except a Few Prisoners Taken, Escaped Massacre.

In this wondrous day of wire and wireless we learn, half across the world, the events of the day almost instantaneously, and the very elements carry abroad the news. It is more than romance; it is miracle, but a miracle that may banish forever from the pages of the future historian and romancer one of the most dramatic figures of the past—the messenger bringing first news from the battlefield.

Long even before Pheidippides of Marathon ran to Athens from the immortal battlefield, cried "Victory!" and fell dead the messenger held a place in myth and chronicle that he has maintained for centuries. Sometimes he is merely the swiftest rider or runner, sometimes a hero of the fight, chosen as an honor to bear glad tidings; sometimes a hard pressed refugee, sometimes even a lone survivor.

Lady Elizabeth Thompson Butler, the distinguished woman painter of wartime scenes, of which "The Roll Call" is most famous, once illustrated in a less known painting one of the most tragic episodes in the history of modern England—the arrival of Dr. William Brydon at Jalalabad, Jan. 13, 1842. Her terrible little picture shows the young Scotch surgeon, dazed, desperate, exhausted, clinging half conscious to his wearied horse as the walls of the city loom in sight.

He had come from Kabul, through the mountains, in midwinter, one of a retreating army of British and native troops, accompanied by swarms of attendants and camp followers. With them at first were also nine Englishwomen, wives of officers, including Florentia, Lady Sale, wife of Sir Robert Sale, the commander at Jalalabad, and his daughter. There were also fourteen children. A long, intricate and hideous series of blunders, treacheries and murders had brought the tremendously outnumbered British in Kabul to the point where evacuation of the city and acceptance of a promised safe conduct to Jalalabad seemed to their leaders the best that could be hoped for, and the retreat began.

But the Afghans did not keep their word, and soon there were no leaders. Before the march was half over many were slain and conditions were so hopeless that the others yielded to a proposal to surrender the commanding general himself, General Elphinstone, together with the women and children, into the care of the Afghan chief, Akbar Khan, as hostages, but not until the Kurd Kabul was passed.

The gorge of the Kurd Kabul is a five mile ravine between high mountains, so narrow, lofty and grim that in winter the sun scarcely reaches its depths. That January it was deep in snow, the rocks were glazed with ice, and upon every mountain slope, in every crevasse, behind every bowlder, lurked the fanatic Afghan tribesmen, with their long guns and long knives. Weary, crowded, half crippled by frost, the confused and formless masses struggling through the gloomy canyon soon lost all semblance of an army, as the slaughter soon lost all semblance of battle. It became simply the massacre of a rabble, and the snow grew red.

"Three thousand men," says the historian Sir J. W. Kaye, "fell under the fire of the enemy or dropped down paralyzed and exhausted to be slaughtered by Afghan knives. And amid these fearful scenes of carnage, through a shower of matchlock balls, rode English ladies on horseback or in camel panniers, sometimes vainly endeavoring to keep their children beneath their eyes and then losing them in the confusion and bewilderment of the desolating march."

After the general became a captive with the women the rout and slaughter increased in horror. The Jugdulluk pass succeeded the Kurd Kabul; a dark, steep, winding track ascending high among frowning crags, and barricaded at its narrowest point. It was a trap. The fugitives were caught beyond escape. A mere handful emerged alive.

Within sixteen miles of Jalalabad only six of these remained. Before those sixteen miles were covered five of the six had been killed by straggling marauders.

Dr. Brydon alone, one man out of 16,000, reached the goal and bore the awful news.

Later, when England awoke and avenged, the women and children and a few prisoners were rescued. Dr. Brydon himself lived to share and survive the famous siege of Lucknow, another terrible episode in his country's history, but one as honorable and inspiring as the retreat from Kabul was humiliating and disastrous.—Youth's Companion.

Concentrated Sun Rays.

Archimedes once arranged a number of mirrors so as to bring the rays of the sun to a point called a focus, which means a hearth. The heat thus gathered together from the sunshine is said to have been sufficent to set fire to the Roman ships, which were besieging the harbor of Syracuse.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The first meeting of the High School Bible class this year was held in the Y. M. C. A. last night and during the coming winter it will be held every Friday night. About fifty members are on the roll this year, which is an increase over that of last. The meetings are called at 6:15 and supper is served. The purposes of the club is to study the Bible, promote good fellowship and have social times.

The first ballot for the election of officers for the Alpha Literary Society resulted in a tie between Dickinson and Borden, and another election will have to be held. Miss Irma Good was elected vice president and Clinton Berrien sergeant- at-arms.

Boys' Physical Director Ralph Patch will start the formation of "gym" classes on Monday and beginning Wednesday work will start in earnest. Boys' classes will be on Tuesday and Thursday, while the girls will meet Mondays and Wednesdays.

Coaches Wriston, Biddle and Tyree are putting the finishing touches on the cast for the minstrel show this year and as soon as the date for the production is chosen the tickets will be put on sale.

A CRUSH OF WORLDS.

How Our Solar System May End and a New One Be Born.

The whole of the present solar system is ultimately to fall into the sun, causing an explosion that may result in a new solar system. Such is the theory put forward by Professor Philip Fauth, a well known astronomer, whose reputation has rested principally upon his researches into the conditions on the moon.

The novel feature of Dr. Fauth's theory is that it is based upon the supposition that a great part of the known solar system, including especially the planets Jupiter, Uranus and Saturn, are not composed of mineral matter at all, but are tremendous masses of ice or balls of ice surrounding a mineral kernel. Furthermore, he declares, a part of what is now known as the Milky way is not mineral or gaseous, but "a ring of ice dust," masses of particles of ice suspended in space, the other planets receiving a constant addition to their ice mass from this source.

Professor Fauth declares that the world already at some remote periods has had a similar experience, resulting in the death of nearly all animate nature, and that all species of life as we know it have arisen since then. Eventually the planets swinging through their narrow orbits will fall into the sun, causing a new explosion and perhaps the birth of a new solar system, but for thousands of years before that time, all life, either on earth or elsewhere, will have disappeared.—Kansas City Journal.

When You "See Stars."

The man who when struck violently on the head says he "saw stars" is not far from telling the truth. The fact is that there is a phosphorescent power in the eye which does not attract a person's attention under ordinary conditions, but which is distributed and reveals itself whenever the head gets a sudden shock and sometimes even in the act of sneezing. A blow on the head results in a pressure of the blood vessels upon the retina, causing either total darkness or a faint blue light which floats before the eyes, and it is in this faint blue light the imagination discerns the thousands of fantastic forms and figures that by general acceptance are termed stars; hence, while the astronomical display so frequently mentioned may be said to be entirely a creature of the imagination, there is at least some foundation for the idea.

Tibetan Penal Code.

The Tibetan penal code is curious. Murder is punished with a fine varying according to the importance of the slain, theft by a fine of seven to one hundred times the value of the article stolen. Here, again, the fine depends on the social importance of the person from whom the theft has been committed. The harborer of a thief is looked upon as a worse criminal than the thief himself. Ordeals by fire and by boiling water are still used as proofs of innocence or guilt, exactly as was the custom in Europe in the middle ages. And if the lamas never inflict death they are adepts at torture.

"ALL HALLOWE'EN" NIGHT OF SAINTS

Celebrations Today Are So Different From Years Ago.

By word of mouth, witches by word of deed, when old bob held high court on the hay, stock and farm—wives put out porridge for Puck and clotted cream for the Pixies.

Night of fairies, goblins and ghosts dancing on the graveyard under the October moon.

The wierd Hallowe'en belief and connections of centuries past are changed in these enlightened days to gay frolics. Fear has turned to laughter, empty streets to prankful paraders.

And so, too, many of the beliefs and connections of the old-time merchant, as to the best way to run a store has changed from chicanery and deceit to one-price systems, fairness and the guaranteed satisfaction of all purchases.

The Rothberg Store for "Things Men Wear" is in the vanguard.

Open evenings.

Contractors Do Not Think Advances Will Have Any Deterrent Effect.

TENDENCY IS UPWARD

Tables Are Apparently Turning After a Prolonged Period of Reaction—Demand for Supplies Still Continues.

New York, Oct. 30.—Portland cement may go as high as $1.25 a barrel, mill, by the first of March, according to a recognized authority in the trade today. The advance may be as high as $1.10 as against 90 cents now ruling, by the first of December. The cause of this increase is the weaning away from cement mills of labor through tempting wage offers made by steel mills in the Lehigh district, the much heavier demand for cement for stations, culverts, bridges, etc., as an accompaniment to heavy rail orders placed by the railroads this week, and general building construction which has shown a sharp improvement during the last three months.

This information comes from the same source that made possible the prediction in this column last March, and since amply fulfilled that Portland cement would be around a dollar, mill, before the close of the year, although at that time the market was practically without price bottom. An official of a large Lehigh Valley company said:

"It is a case of meeting this wage situation right now. We do not look for a strike. Strikes take too long and there is too much sacrifice of pay. Instead, we find our men one by one dropping out from our mills and taking employment in the steel mills, where wages are higher and where profits on war muntions are sufficiently large to warrant paying high wages. The rate of price advance to the consumer will depend upon how far the steel companies raise the wage ante for the available labor still left in the Valley. Since it is becoming more and more apparent that action looking to this end must be taken quickly, the promised advance will come sooner than most dealers expect. It would not surprise many of us to find the mill price of Portland cement out of the Valley higher than it was in 1907 and 1908 when it was $1.13 and $1.11 a barrel, owing to conditions rather similar, namely, a heavy building and railroad buying movement, coupled with a shortage of labor. I am not prepared to say that I would be surprised if $1.25, mill, were reached before a great many months, present conditions continuing."

This condition has made the dealers rather cautious and accounts for the fact that brick supplies have not yet been laid in by dealers in New York and vicinity for the winter. It is also reflected in the Portland cement market, where even now there is talk of putting the new York price alongside of dock up to $1.58 or $1.62 a barrel, which will be equivalent to $1 mill, predicted in this department four months ago, when the price at mill was below seventy cents. In fact, quotations at $1.52 today are considered base in the entire metropolitan district, or 95 cents, Lehigh Valley mill.

Inquiry among the building interests of the metropolitan district as to whether the advancing prices of leading building commodities would be likely to check construction this winter brought forth unqualified assurance that this factor would have no deterrent effect. Most builders said that if there was sufficient demand construction would proceed regardless of the price of materials.

There has been a prolonged reaction in the building market for half a decade during which time prices have sagged considerably. Material profits have shrunk until, in many instances, manufacturers have actually been forced to sell at cost or under. Today the tables are apparently turning, and an unexpected improvement in building construction projects, coupled with restricted reserves at the mills or requirements for heavy capacity for markets alien to building construction, are combining to force prices up in nearly every department. This has, in some cases, resulted in forcing dealers to make provision for supplies farther into the future than he has been wont to buy and at prices and terms upon which he cannot always see his way clear.

The conservatism of the dealers in building material supplies has been communicated to architects, who have been advised that with the cessation of hostilities abroad much of the pressure for steel will be removed and prices here will sag. To a limited extent the same advices are being made on behalf of other materials like cement, reinforcing material, lath, ceramics, flashing and electrical equipment. But in the meantime the very existence of the war is creating a demand for building space, outside of Manhattan, that is forcing architects to proceed with plans and make allowance for higher prices of materials.

Even in New York real estate interests say that in lower Manhattan and in the manufacturing centers of the Bronx and Queens and in the mill districts of Newark and Jersey City there is better demand for building space. The terrific pace at which Wall street has been working of late has resulted in some cases of overnight expansion, and big buildings which formerly had trouble in finding tenants, are reporting better inquiries.

This tone in the building market has been further developed by a remarkable run of good building weather for almost two months. This has caused a steady flow of materials into jobs and has permitted rush work to proceed to completion. This has brought heavier burdens upon mills which have been handicapped by a shortage of cars. There were statements made that in some cases premiums have been offered to shippers to insure positive delivery of materials scheduled for buildings now in course of erection.

There is every indication present in today's building material situation that the top range in prices has not been reached. An index figure worked out for the ten leading building commodities today as against prices existing at this time in 1912 shows an aggregate of 2.7 per cent above quotations prevailing on November 1 of that year. On top of that comes a prediction from a well-known economist that structural steel prices may reach 2 cents a pound by March 1, if the war continues and building inquiry develops as it is now, that Portland cement will be at least $1.10, that common brick in this market will be above $7.25, that Rosendale natural cement will be at least 95 cents, that crushed trap rock will be above $1 a cubic yard, that sand will be at least 50 cents, decorative and sanitary tile will be above fourteen cents, the highest price ruling in 1912 and that lumber will show a general advance between $1 and $2 in building grades. The same authority, however, adds:

"This is all predicated upon the continuation of the war. It is up to the individual builder and his architect to determine whether they will gamble on the chances of the war terminating before next summer. They can positively count upon a change in some commodities, but in materials like cement, brick, lumber, glass and electrical equipment, they probably will find prices higher than they were three years ago, so they might just as well proceed with construction because it will be a case of mill supply which is abnormally low even now."

SCHOOL EXTENSION AT NEW PROVIDENCE

Plans Have Been Drawn for Proposed Improvement by Architect Pierson.

New Providence, Oct. 30.—The New Providence Borough Board of Education on Saturday evening last met with Mr. Pierson, of Perth Amboy, the architect of the addition which is to be made to the Lincoln School, and went carefully over his plans and specifications. A few minor changes were suggested and agreed to, and then action was taken by the Board locking to the advertising for bids for the contract work. Three weeks' time will be allowed for competitors to prepare their estimates and to send in their bids, and on Monday evening, November 15 the Board will meet in special session to open the bids and award the contract. It is expected that a satisfactory contract can be made for a sum within the appropriation.

John E. Parker, District Clerk and superintendent of construction of the temporary annex which has just been built, reported that the cost of that structure for hired labor was only $66.50. If all the work had been paid for at ordinary wages the cost would have been at least $200. The difference, $133.50, is the amount which was saved to the borough by letting the boys of the manual training class do most of the work. In addition, the boys had valuable practice, and they did as good a job as the most expert professional carpenters could have done. The lumber and other materials for the building cost about $500, so that at a total cost of about $655.50 the Board has secured a building easily worth $1,000.

NEW RESIDENCE FOR A. H. DESNOYERS

Dwelling to Cost $4,500 Started This Week on Johnston's Drive.

Contractor Martinus Thompson began work the past week on the erection of a fine residence building for Albert H. Desnoyers, of Washington street, special representative for the local electrical department of the Public Service. The site is on upper Watchung avenue at Johnston's drive, just over the borough line in North Plainfield township. It is on a slope of the mountains and commands a magnificent view of Plainfield and vicinity.

The house, which has been designed by Architect Fred Lancaster, will be of colonial type. It will have a total of seven rooms and bath and also an outside sleeping porch. The first floor will comprise dining room, living room and kitchen, while the second floor will be devoted to four large sleeping rooms. The dining room and living room will have the exposed rafter effect and a fine open fire-place will be in the living room. A noteworthy feature in the kitchen is the fact that no coal range will be in store, the cooking being done entirely by gas. This will make a chimney unnecessary and there will be none at all, simply a flue for the boiler in the cellar, the hot water system of heating being used.

The bath room will be finished off with white tile and an original idea of Mr. Desnoyers' will be the installation of flower boxes built on the outside of the window frames. A trellis effect is also to be placed on the exterior. The residence is to be completed by February 15 and will cost about $4,500. Mr. Thompson has the entire general contract.

IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN.

The Apgar Construction Company has been awarded the contract for erecting an addition to the plant of the Industrial Service Company at Lincoln. The new building will be a storage warehouse, and will be 50 by 50 feet in dimensions. The unique business of the Industrial Service Company is thus seen to be constantly growing. It consists in buying up various articles of equipment, such as are used by contractors in various lines of work, and holding them for sale to contractors who may be in need of extra or special equipment.

If reports are true, the borough is to have two more houses erected the coming winter by Contractor Alberne H. Burdick. Mr. Burdick has had great success in his building operations since he started on them several years ago. The houses which he puts up are of a very desirable style and quality of material, and make a fine addition to the borough's beautiful homes. Mr. Burdick and his son Frank, who is connected with him in his building operations, have acquired much desirable land from time to time, and will by no means be at a loss as to where to build the two proposed houses.

It is likely that the lower floor of the Michael A. Gallagher building, recently vacated by Gustav Barfus, the garage man, will be remodeled and made into a store, in which case it will be one of the finest stores in this vicinity. Mr. Gallagher also stated that, when completed, it will be taken by one of the local grocers.

The new house of Frank Broshart, now under course of construction by the Apgar Construction Company, is expected to be completed by November 15th.

The Joseph Morgan house, situated on Front street, has been sold to Michael T. Moynihan, who buys for investment. The house was once known as the Wrage and Moynihan house. Henry Wrage and John W. Moynihan being associated in the ownership of it. Later Mr. Morgan, whose home is in New York, acquired it. It is occupied at present by Charles E. Tiusman and family.

The new bungalow of George Law on Mountain View Terrace is nearly completed by the Apgar Construction Company, and they anticipate getting it done the latter part of this week. The family will then move in on Monday.

The contract for erecting a garage for William Barlow, of Rock avenue, has been awarded to Contractor Raymond Whitford, of this borough.

NEW MARKET.

Further improvements are to be made at once at the Robert Fairbairn farm, where so much work has been done since Mr. Fairbairn bought the place from the late B. DeWitt Giles some few years ago. This time it is proposed to build two new stables, right up to the minute in every way as regards construction. They will be large, commodious buildings, and will be made of fireproof brick with stucco and sand finish, and when completed will add much to the appearance of the little village of buildings which Mr. Fairbairn has caused to spring up on the farm. The contract has been awarded to William L. Wingess, the local mason, who has resigned his position on building the new Roman Catholic church in Dunellen to take up his new contract. He expects to start work the coming week.

WHITEHOUSE.

The Kline Realty Company is selling a number of building lots along the macadam road between Whitehouse station and Dreahook. Peter S. LaTourette and William Shafer have already bought lots and there are a number of other people about to buy. All expect to build residences there within a year.

LOCAL BUILDING CONCERN IS NOW INCORPORATED

BLDG PAGE

Papers of incorporation were filed this week for Cohen and Israelsky, of this city, by Harry E. Runyon. The address of the concern was given as 113 East Front street, this city.

The papers state that the corporation is formed to do a general real estate and contracting business.

The authorized capital stock is stated in the articles as $25,000, divided into 250 shares at $100 each subscribed to the following incorporators who have paid in $1,000 to start business: Louis Cohen, 4 shares; Benjamin Israelsky, 4 shares; Sarah Cohen, one share and Anna Israelsky, one share.

IMPROVEMENT IN BUILDING NOTED

Five Permits Issued by Inspector T. O. Doane During Past Week.

CRAFTSMEN ARE BUSY

Close to $100,000 Worth of Buildings Covered by Permits Authorized During October—Considerable Inside Work in Sight.

Building operations in this city took an upward trend during the past week, when five permits were issued by Inspector T. O. Doane. The permits cover the erection of three dwellings, one garage, one shed and one alteration job, and call for the expenditure of $15,835. These permits make the present month one of the best of the current year.

Close to $100,000 worth of buildings are covered by the permits issued this month up to yesterday noon by Inspector Doane. The recent trend of events of local building circles now lead to the belief that many of the local craftsmen will be kept busy for some little time yet unless weather conditions interfere with construction development.

At this time a number of prospective buildings are in sight. Among these are several dwellings to be erected in various parts of the city. The starting of these various buildings before too cold weather sets in means considerable inside work for the mechanics after that time.

The permits as issued during the course of the week are as noted below:

First Ward.

Mrs. L. Marcelles is to have erected a two-story 24 by 14 foot frame extension to the dwelling at 622 East Third street. The estimated cost of the improvements have been placed at $1,200. William H. Clum is the architect, and Thomas J. Freeman the general contractor for the work.

Third Ward.

Albert W. Stone, of Liberty street to erect a $6,500 dwelling on Union street, a description of the structure appearing in another column.

Rosa Dorflinger is to erect a 12 by 16 foot frame garage at the rear of 400 Clinton avenue, at a cost of $100.

Fourth Ward.

Jacob Pashin has been granted a permit for the erection of two two-and-one-half-story dwellings at 650-660 West Third street. The structures will measure 35 by 51 feet, will be of frame construction, each of the houses to have four apartments of four rooms each. W. H. Clum is the architect. The work will be cared for by the owner.

David Rhoedel is to erect a 10 by 24 foot frame stable and shed at 215 Plainfield avenue at a cost of $35. The owner will care for the work.

ALBERT W. STONE TO ERECT FINE DWELLING

Ground has been broken during the past week for the elaborate dwelling to be erected on Union street, 200 feet north of Randolph road, for Albert W. Stone. The structure, when completed, will be one of the most up-to-the-minute private residences on the south side of the city and will add much to the attractiveness of this section of Plainfield, where considerable development has been accomplished during the past decade.

The structure will measure 36x32 feet, and will be of frame construction and two and a half stories high. Eight rooms will be laid out in the dwelling, including a servant's room on the third floor. A commodious living room will occupy a large portion of the first floor, and will be made attractive by an open fire-place. A hot air heating system is to be installed. A store room and modern laundry is to be placed in the basement.

The estimated cost of the building has been placed at $6,500. Gette & Marsh are the architects; Leland Manning, the mason contractor, and Jeremiah L. Manning, the carpenter contractor.

LARGE "GYM" FOR STEVENS.

Plans were filed in the Building Inspector's office in Hoboken yesterday for a gymnasium to be erected on the grounds of Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken. The gymnasium is to cost about $80,000, and is to be erected on the east side of the Castle Point Field, southeast of the old Stevens Castle.

COUNTY PERMITS.

Eight building contracts have been filed with County Clerk James C. Calvert recently. The documents call for the expenditure of $47,223. This is the normal average for this season of the year.

STANBERY HOME CHANGES OWNERS

Passes Out of Well Known Family for First Time in 165 Years.

KING GEORGE GRANT

Since 1750 it Has Descended From Father to Son Three Times—Frank Keel, New Owner, Will Develop Historic Tract at Scotch Plains.

Papers filed in the office of the county clerk at Elizabeth during the past week reveal the fact that for the first time in 165 years the Stanbery homestead at Scotch Plains, one of the best-known properties in this section, has passed out of the Stanbery family. The tract comprises ten acres and is located at Mountain and Park avenues, the old residence being located directly on the corner, and has been looked upon as one of the landmarks which link Union county back to pre-Colonial days.

The original grant for the land was made by King George to Recompense Stanbery in 1750 and it descended from father to son three times, a skip being made in one generation, through the death of the late William R. Stanbery previous to that of his father, William C. Stanbery. At the death of William C. Stanbery eight years ago the homestead tract and his fortune of about $75,000 was willed to his grandson, William F. Stanbery, son of William R. Stanbery, then a youth of fifteen years. It was William F. Stanbery who sold the property this week to Frank Keel, of this city, the consideration not being named.

William F. Stanbery is a great great grandson of the original Recompense Stanbery, who settled in Scotch Plains when the land grant was given to him in 1750. He left the property to a son, also named Recompense, and the latter in turn bequeathed it to William C. Stanbery, grandfather of the young man who has just completed the sale. The latter has been living in the homestead since the death of his grandfather, but will remove from the old home in a short time in order to give possession to the new owner. It is said that Mr. Keel will have the tract developed and placed upon the market in small lots.

WATSON DWELLING BEING REMODELED

Work is Progressing Under the Supervision of Architect Albert Rodier.

The work of remodeling and enlarging the residence at Grant avenue and West Third street, owned by Michael F. Watson, is progressing favorably under the supervision of Contractor Albert Rodief and already gives indication of being a great improvement to the neighborhood. The house was erected thirty years ago and for a long time was regarded as one of the finest in that part of the city. It was intended only for one family, but as the two-family structure is now the favorite with investors, Mr. Watson decided to double its capacity. The designing has been done with a view to retaining the former attractiveness and when the present work is completed it will present a new style of "double decker."

The former porch which extended along the front and south side of the house has been taken down and in its place there has been erected a two-story balcony mounted on concrete piers. A rear addition, measuring 16x26 feet, running the full length of the building, has added four more rooms, thus giving two apartments of six rooms each, exclusive of the bath room. They will be finished off in absolutely modern style. Steam heat will be substituted for the former hot air furnace, and both gas and electric light will furnish illumination. A fine concrete wall is to be erected along the Grant avenue frontage and hence back on the Third street side line, this feature to conform with the concrete work about Mr. Watson's own residence, which adjoins the corner plot.

Much interest has been manifested by West End property owners in the reconstruction of the house, and it is quite probable that the idea will be extensively copied owing to the fact that there are numerous large single residences that can be readily converted into up-to-date "double deckers."

MORRIS BONI TO BUILD.

Morris Boni has had plans prepared for a six room and bath house on the east side of Watson avenue, about 200 feet from North avenue. The structure will be of hollow tile block, with a stucco effect on the outside, and will be two and a half stories high. The estimated cost has been placed at $3,200. F. C. Lancaster is the architect, while the contracts for the work have been awarded to Joseph Indaco.

SQUIRRELS TOPIC OF LIVELY DEBATE

Building Trades Council, Opposes Proposition to Shoot the Animals.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

Craftsmen Endorse Candidacy of Seymour Perkins for City Council—Hodcarriers Report Failure to Meet Master Masons.

Send Proof to Dobbins for Head... So

The recent agitation regarding the doing away with the pesky squirrels in this city was considered by the Building Trades Council last evening, and a lively discussion was held following the introduction of the question by William H. Harding. In conclusion of a thorough discussion of the circumstances of the case, a resolution was passed expressing the feeling of the organization as being against the using of firearms on the little pets within the city limits.

During the course of the meeting the delegates were addressed by Seymour Perkins, Democratic candidate for councilman-at-large, and later received the endorsement of the organization. Charles Senger, Democratic candidate for the Common Council from the Fourth ward, who was endorsed by the council several weeks ago, was also present, and spoke before the meeting.

A report made by the delegates from the Hodcarriers' Union indicated that the committee of the Master Masons' Association, with whom they had been working in drawing up a new working agreement, had twice postponed meetings scheduled for evenings during the course of the past week without first notifying the delegates from the journeymen's organization. The next meeting of the joint committee is scheduled for this evening, and several large jobs are threatened with tie-ups should the masters fail to put in an appearance this evening and settle the question of wages on concrete work, this being the only problem that is holding up the new agreement.

The hodcarriers' delegates reported that two evenings have already been spent this week in waiting for the representatives of the masters' association to put in an appearance, and this evening will be the last chance they will get to settle the differences without a lockout occurring on the new storage warehouse in the course of construction on East Third street, and the Netherwood Reformed church building on Leland avenue, where some controversies have lately stirred the hodcarriers to renewed vigor and greater determination to bring the bosses to a show of hands in regards to the wage question.

TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL.

Roselle, Oct. 30.—Announcement of the building of a new parochial school was made by the rector, the Rev. James A. Lundy, of St. Joseph's church, at the masses last Sunday morning; the new building is to be erected next to the rectory in Third avenue, east, and is to be 78x96 feet. Full particulars regarding the building will be given out by Father Lundy in a day or two.

CUDAHY-NIBLACK.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Miss Helen Cudahy, a prominent Chicago society girl, will be married today to Austin H. Niblack, of Lake Forest. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy. The engagement was one of the interesting announcements of the summer. The young couple first formed their deep attachment when they took part in a society entertainment last spring. Miss Cudahy is the president of the Junior League, and because of the fact that every girl who has held the office has stepped out to become a bride, their friends have dubbed it the "Matrimony League."

BOAT READY FOR TESTS.

Boston, Oct. 30.—The new United States submarine M-1, which, when added to the navy, will be the largest undersea vessel in the service, will be ready for the navy trial board tests next week. The M-1 has received her finishing touches at Quincy. In her preliminary trials, the new submarine showed unusual efficiency of its engines. It is in the engines that the Navy Department seeks to improve the undersea boats. If the M-1 is accepted, it will go into commission and will probably join the Atlantic fleet until the larger sea-going submarines are ready. Then the M-1 will undoubtedly be assigned to coast defense service.

SECOND TRIAL FOR AUSTRIAN.

Montreal, Oct. 30.—Israel Schaeffer, a steamship ticket agent, charged with "aiding and comforting the enemy" by providing ten Austrian reservists with transportation to Europe, and then advising them to pass as Roumanians, will stand trial for a second time at the November sitting of the Court of King's Bench. Schaeffer was tried recently, but the jury disagreed. He is under $15,000 bail.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, OCTOBER 30, 1915.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is Henry Crofut White, Member of the State Board of Development and Conservation.

"CONSERVATION."

Solomon once remarked that in a multitude of counsellors there is wisdom and the race immediately adopted the maxim as a safe rule of conduct. Man has ever since listened to the advice of many and accepted as wise that which best suited his own taste. Thus, having learned that patience is a virtue and, on the other hand, that virtue brings her own reward, while self-preservation is the first law of nature, the human animal perversely preferring to select a reward of his own choosing, has eventually decided, whether wisely or not, to agree with old Horace that the middle path is safest, and to add to his life recipe a fair seasoning of self-protection and self-assertion.

For long years, New Jersey, while developing great resources of farm, mine and manufacturing industries that give employment to their thousands, has endured without rancor the reputation of slumbering peacefully, soothed rather than stirred by the great cities at her gates, and populated by lank farmers, in redclayed boots and mosquitoes, marketed as snipe.

Little by little, venturous spirits, weary of city clangor, have dared seek in our hills and country stretches clean breath and rest for the night. Yet save that a man might come, and sleep, and go without danger of sudden death, little they have known of the State, or cared for it.

Later, the automobilist has been surprised with landscapes of unsuspected beauty, and roads that actually left unshocked the delicate nerves of urban aristocrat, but these, too, for the most part, have alighted for a moment, then honked and flown away.

The present day has first awakened to the realization that there must be applied to the exploitation of our extraordinary position and resources the keen analysis and efficiency of modern business methods, if we would win for the State its just measure of respect, appreciation and development. It is not sufficient that within a radius of fifty miles of our capitol there lie one million acres of land capable of growing every variety of farm and garden products, with aboundant sunlight and rain to bring these to choice maturity; that no part of this land lies more than a few hours distant from the greatest and best-paying markets of this country; that the State has more miles of railroad in proportion to its area than any other, with the exception of Rhode Island, beside unexcelled means of water transportation; or that these idle acres can be purchased at a price almost ridiculously low. Neither is it enough to know that our shores attract thousands who spend, in the aggregate, vast sums of money for their summer outing, and that our pine stretches and hills offer health and recreation to those who prefer inland sojourn.

These and many other facts must be brought to the attention and impressed upon the mind of every desirable member of the throngs who are pouring into our country from abroad, returning from western farm to eastern advantages, or arising in the great cities from mere increase of population and departing therefrom to seek healthier and more agreeable surroundings.

For this desirable class of new residents, there is sharp competition between the states, and, generally speaking, success means the prosecution of three distinct activities.

Every successful salesman must believe in his own goods. Our own population, then, must keenly appreciate the fact that New Jersey is a real State, of glorious possibilities, not merely a collection of sand plains, beaches and suburban homes—and by "our own population" is meant the whole population, including the successful city business man, who must be induced to give to the State a measure of his interest and brains, as well as his taxes and sleeping hours. The accomplishment of this step will be by a campaign of education, partly of the children in their schools, and partly of the older citizens through the press and, perhaps even more effectively, by an invitation to co-operate in the work.

Secondly, a successful agricultural development presupposes in these days the establishment of efficient experiment stations to assist the farmer in the solution of the difficulties and the prevention of economic waste, as well as bureaus of information to intending purchasers and employers of labor. Our experiment stations rank high among those of this country. The bureaus mentioned are already in contemplation.

Thirdly, the attention of possible homeseekers must be called to the advantages and opportunities afforded by the State through the distribution of attractive, well-written and illustrated hand books, pamphlets, articles in the press, and other advertising media.

This mere outline indicates sufficiently the vast extent of work which must be done.

Through the Legislature's realization of this great State need, there came into being last July a body, whose duty it is to conduct this work. Much time and serious thought have already been expended, but it is obvious that an undertaking of this magnitude will require funds for its successful prosecution.

In view of the advantage to property owners, business men, consumers of foodstuffs, manufacturers—every class of our community, in fact, there should be no question as to sufficient appropriations for this purpose. There will be no doubt, if our citizens will give the matter consideration, and the State of New Jersey will come into her own.

HENRY CROFUT WHITE.

Old Red "Zinnies"

My wife puts out some posies every springtime of the year,
A lot of new doodaddles—both their names and colors queer.
We try to rave about 'em, but it always seems to me
That they lack a lot of being just what flowers ought to be.
So last spring, when we're buying stuff to fix the garden up,
I says to her, "Melissa, seems to me my little cup
Of joy would be much fuller if we'd stop this modern craze
And get some good old 'zinnies' like our mothers ust to raise."

Melissa she consented and we bought a lot o' seed,
And every plant just humped itself and prospered like a weed.
And early in the summer days they started in to bloom—
We giggled like a pair of kids and hollered, "Give 'em room!
Git out the way, you critters with the foolish Latin names, Protect your pallid faces from the florid, flaunting flames
Of these beloved standbys of our simpler, sweeter days—
These good old-fashioned 'zinnies' like our mothers used to raise."

Diagnosis

Diagnosis is what a doctor makes of your case.

But that isn't all he makes out of your case, unless you are a dead beat.

If you are not satisfied with the diagnosis one doctor gives, you can easily get another one by going to the other doctor next door.

The two may have been graduated the same hour from the same sawbones seminary, but the only kind of case they can diagnose alike, without a consultation or a previous agreement, is a case of broken leg where the bone protrudes.

If it doesn't stick out, they can easily disagree on that.

If you want any sort of disease especially and go to a doctor and give him a gentle hint to that effect, and claim a few of the familiar symptoms of that malady, you've just as good as got it.

When you go to a modern doctor and submit your plans and specifications for a disease and claim it is lumbago or bone spavin, he pounds you on the place where lumbago or bone spavin ought to be, till you might as well have it, anyway.

Before he does this, however, he goes to the phonograph, winds it up and puts on a Homer or Gluck record of "I Knead Thee Every Hour."

Music is used a great deal nowadays in treating diseases.

We know a woman who was cured of an acute case of Grand-operitis by hearing some music somewhere.

If the doctor has any doubts as to the correctness of his diagnosis in a surgical case, he finds his mistake in the postmortem and writes his abject apology on the tombstone.

Those Old Teeth

TO-DAY the name "rheumatism" is almost anathema in medical circles—though it still figures prominently in popular circulars. A diagnosis of "rheumatism," especially a diagnosis of "chronic rheumatism," may be all right for the patient to make—to the patient it probably signifies some definite disease—but for a physician to perpetrate such a diagnosis is a sorry joke, that is, if he does it seriously.

Studying the mouth as a situation of septic foci, Dr. H. L. Ulrich found that more than half of all artificially devitalized teeth had blind abscesses at their roots—pus foci of which the patient was perhaps unaware. In 500 cases examined, 1,350 dead teeth were found, and our old friend the streptococcus was there in every case bacteriologically examined. Other troublesome cocci were present also, but streptococcus viridans was the ever faithful.

Now old Strep. vir. is a versatile little coccus, as cocci go. He can, and does, produce many a case of chronic rheumatix, regardless of the weather.

These blind dental abscesses are demonstrated by X-ray photographs of the jaw. In any case of streptococcus infection, whether it be in the joints or elsewhere, the search is not complete until the jaws have been Roentgenographed in quest of the possible focus there concealed. Where there is a coccus there is probably a focus; to find the coccus helps the doctor in treatment, but to find the focus helps the patient in recovery.

Dr. Ulrich's group of cases had rheumatoid symptoms in 51 per cent., secondary anemia in 43 per cent.

Those old teeth you have been nursing these many years may, after all, hold the secret focus that keeps you an invalid. Just because they have been bad so long you imagine they can't have anything to do with this rheumatism or anemia you have developed here only recently—and so did the 51 per cent. of the cases mentioned.

You never can tell about "rheumatism" till you try. It doesn't matter how much, or what kind of medicine or diet or climate you try—that isn't what we mean. What we mean is you must try to have your septic focus found out, and there is a fifty-fifty chance it is in those old teeth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tic Is Not St. Vitus' Dance

Kindly inform me whether the disease called "tic" is the same as St. Vitus' dance or chorea. If not, is "tic" curable? How is it treated and how long would a cure take?

Answer—No, a tic is a habit spasm. St. Vitus' dance is an infection of the nervous system. Tics may be removed by psychic and muscle training. It takes from six weeks to three months in most cases, depending upon the faithfulness of the patient in practising his lessons.

Cure For a Torpid Liver

H. J. L. desires us to suggest a cure for torpid liver—whatever that may be. What causes torpid liver?

Answer—Over-eating and too little exercise. Cure: Two miles of oxygen three times a day—walking—and do your bit of physical culture at home every day.

Weather Strips

My dear Doctor, Do you advise the use of weather-strips on private houses or schools? asks L. G. J.

Answer—No, never. If it were not for the cracks around doors and windows a lot of people would suffocate in the good old winter time.

THE HORSE

THE horse is a quaint quadruped with horny hoofs on his feet, a beautiful horsehair tail and a two-foot long head adorned at the end with deep expressive nostrils as large as golf cups.

Nowadays horses are not common and only the larger cities possess horse garages where the animals are stored and kept in running order. Once, however, they were very plentiful and were put to a great variety of uses. Years ago horses were used to haul motorless cabs and trucks and street cars and drays. They were also ridden and as they have no running boards it was a novel sight to see the equestrians clambering aloft onto rawboned horses padded with leather saddles and guiding the patient beasts about with leather reins instead of steering wheels.

Moreover horse races were held in all parts of the country at which vast multitudes gathered and made bets. Oddly enough, the people did not bet on who would be killed but on what horse would win. The races were intensely tame, as the animals never skidded or threw a tire or broke their steering gears and the swiftest of them did not attain a speed of forty miles an hour.

The horse was, in fact, the automobile of former times. He had a sixty-inch wheelbase, or footbase rather, and rode exceedingly hard, but could go over very rough country and did not need anti-skid chains in wet weather. He was of about 1-40th runabout power and his fuel was oats which were fed him in a nosebag, instead of from a carburetor. He was both air and water cooled and was controlled by a bit throttle and a whip which served the purpose of a spark advance. He changed from low to high speed or to reverse very readily, merely by command of his driver—which is a point not yet reached by the most ingenious of automobile makers.

The horse was very slow, but was easily steered and usually reliable. Oddly enough the horse usually became nervous instead of his chauffeur and caused most of his own accidents. He was driven without head or tail lights and without license numbers, and if hauling a buggy provided with a tonneau could transport four people eight miles an hour.

Horse driving was not exciting but the horse had his strong points. He did not puncture and never ran out of lubricating oil. He was also a self-starter and had no crank, being only dangerous behind. He lasted ten years with almost no repair expenses and sometimes the owner of a horse awoke to find that he had two horses instead of one, the new one being of the latest model though very small at first.

Let us admire the horse for what he has done and let us remember that the automobile trade would never have prospered had the horse not been on hand to haul the early models home.

Use An Aeroplane Next Trip

Q. A fruit dealer blocked the sidewalk in front of his store with crates, barrels and other things and I was forced, in passing the place, to walk in a narrow passageway. In doing so, I stepped aside in order to allow a man, wheeling a truck, to pass me. I slipped and fell and sustained injuries. Could I sue the fruit dealer and get damages?

A. Judging from your statement of the facts, the fruit dealer's act in blocking the sidewalk was the proximate cause of your injury. Under such circumstances, you will be entitled to recover damages.

Not In Legal Form—Will Invalid

Q. I have been informed that my uncle's will was not drawn up in proper legal form. I find that a codicil was added to the will and, as far as I know, it is in good shape. What do you think about the validity of the instrument?

A. If the will was not executed in accordance with the statutory requirements, it will be invalid unless the codicil observed all the requirements of law in its execution and unless the codicil confirmed the will or acted as a republication.

Too Cheap To Be Genuine

Q. If one person sells property for a very small price, is this to be taken as evidence of fraud in the transaction?

A. Not necessarily. The mere fact that the price is small or insufficient will not constitute fraud. If, however, the price is grossly inadequate, it will afford some evidence of fraud, especially when taken in connection with other circumstances which tend to indicate duress or undue influence.

Bank Certificates

Q. Does a bank have the right to issue certificates of deposit payable some time in the future?

A. Yes, except to such extent as the power is limited or restricted by statute.

"Do You Vant To Buy A Suit That Vas Made For De Prince Of Wales?"

Q. A clothing merchant sold me a suit of clothes. He said they were of an unusual quality and would last a long time. He said, further, that the wearing quality was especially good. I found that, in fact, they did not wear well at all. They were not of good quality. Could I sue him?

A. What is known as a "puffing of sales" is, usually, legitimate. Mere "shop talk" will not be sufficient to make a merchant liable in such a case, unless he possessed peculiar information and your own means of information was inferior, or unless there was a warranty, either express or implied.

No Place Like The Other Fellow's Home

Q. Does one have the right, if he is a citizen of the United States, to remove from one state to another and become a citizen of the second state?

A. Yes. If he takes up his residence, in good faith, in the second state, he will be entitled to the same rights as are enjoyed by other citizens of such state.

No Dower In Some States

Q. Is it true in some states that the law does not recognize dower?

A. Yes.

The Man Who Doesn't Repair His House

We go to his house and start to sit down on a chair. "Don't take that one!" he warns us. "Its springs are broken. It's not comfortable." And we accept the other chair he pushes forward, thinking no more about the incident. But the next time we go there, two weeks later, and again start to sit down on that chair, and again are warned that its springs are broken—we begin to think very decidedly about the way our host runs his house. "Not fixed yet!" we think to ourself. "And yet he has fresh greeenhouse flowers on his mantel and new magazines on his table, and an unwrapped box of candy on his piano. Why didn't he put into repair work some of the money he's spent on luxuries?" But only our host, himself, could answer this question. He's totally beyond our comprehension. But we suspect that if he were to answer the question, his answer would be something like this—if he were truthful: "I don't repair my house, because I feel no shame in living among broken-down things. I feel that they're good enough for me. I'm not educated up to neatness and order."

He's wedging a pillow into his broken window.

449 Suits of $20 to $25 grades at $16.50
572 Overcoats, $20 to $25 grades, $16.50

Ten manufacturers have co-operated with us. The merchandise is of standard Wanamaker quality. The cloths are from some of the best American mills. The models of the suits and overcoats, and the measurements of the Shirts, are our own. The workmanship is as specified by us—and it has been done well. The prices are very low.

We advise buying at this sale for future as well as present needs, because (1) piece-goods have gone up in price, which will affect the future cost of suits and overcoats, and (2) makers of shirts with designs in color are withdrawing their samples and are refusing to take orders for future delivery, owing to the shortage of dependable dyes and the 50 per cent. increased cost of cotton shirting materials.

Sale Begins at 8:30 Monday Morning, November 1

The merchandise will be grouped according to sizes. Extra salesmen and tailors will be on hand.

A Sale of Rich Brocaded Silks That Can Be Put to a Dozen Uses

Now $1.65, $1.85, $2.35 and $2.85 Yard

Our Own Former Prices This Year $3.50 to $7.50 Yard

These brocaded silks suggest the "lap of luxury"—and bring it from a $6 and $7 a yard height to a basis well below half.

16,000 yards—every sort of brocade silk for which our customers are asking:

Crepe de Chine Brocades	Crepe Cashmere Brocades	Bengaline Souple Brocades
Meteore Brocades	Satin Brocades	Chinese Crepe Brocades
Charmeuse Brocades	Gascadeuse Brocades	Egyptian Brocades

At the prices we have never been able to offer such lovely things for linings for fur coats and evening wraps, for the wraps themselves, for dancing frocks, for quiet distinguished silk suits, for soft, graceful at-home, calling and theatre gowns.

Not to speak of the delicious negligees many of the silks will make, nor of the bright cushions and delightful draperies that can be fashioned of them.

Plenty wide enough—40 to 44 inches. More than 250 colors and patterns.

What Happened to Bring Them Here at the Prices!

Wanamaker Silk Rotunda had first choice of, and very quickly decided to take over the entire surplus of brocades from a manufacturer famous for them. Under the conditions of the purchase they can be offered away below half our regular prices here recently.

2,500 yards, our former $7.50 grade, now $2.85 yard.
2,500 yards, our former $6.50 grade, now $2.35 yard.
7,560 yards, our former $6 grade, now $1.85 yard.
3,500 yards, our former $3.50, $4, $4.50 grades, now $1.65 yard.

Three-quarters of the silks are in self colors. A few are in gorgeous combinations which will make modernists happy.

Where the Silks Are to Be Found

Brocades at $1.85, $2.35 and $2.85 will be in the Silk Rotunda and on the Main Aisle, Main floor, Old Building. All silks at $1.65 yard will be in the Lower-Price Silk Store, Subway floor, New Building.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

BACK-CLOSING OVERBODICE DRESSES POPULAR.

No. 9163.

The new fall and winter styles are showing many designs that are not only exceptionally attractive, but that are simple and practicable. This is eminently true of the overbodice dress shown above with its Cromwellian simplicity and severity. This is Ladies' Home Journal Pattern No. 9163, and is made of a sleeveless foundation waist with high, round or V-neck, attached to a five-gore soft plaited or gathered skirt with slightly raised waistline, and a slightly draped overbodice with V-neck and fichu or round neck, full-length sleeves with turn-back cuffs and to be finished at the lower edge in tab outline, or in straight outline, with or without the gathered peplum. Length of skirt at center-front from regular waistline is 40 inches. Skirt is cut ½-inch above regular waistline. Pattern cuts in 6 sizes, 32 to 42, size 36 requiring 6⅜ yards of 36-inch material, ¾ yards 22-inch or wider allover lace for fichu and cuffs, and ⅞ yards of 36-inch lining for sleeveless foundation waist.

Patterns can be purchased at the store of A. E. Force & Company.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The Mu Eta Society, composed of girls from this school, held its monthly meeting last evening at the home of Marguerite Barkalew. Very little business was transacted, the evening being enjoyed socially. The members present were Gladys Sullivan, Marion Avery, Elsie Debele, Marielle Dunham, Marguerite Barkalew, Edith Dalley, Madeline Blair, Theresa McCullough and Bertha Keller.

Plans are now being made for a large party, involving the entire High School, in the early part of December. Mr. Earley is very much in favor of the idea, and the matter will be broached to the classes the coming week. The expense will be shared equally among the four classes, while a number of members of the Parent-Teacher Association have declared their willingness to contribute toward the success of the event. Harrison Avenue School proved its efficiency for affairs of this sort by the success of the masquerade given by the sophomore class last evening, and it could undoubtedly be procured for this occasion.

A class in turning has been started and the pupils taking this subject will receive two and a half merits, providing three hours of work is done every week.

At a meeting of the Boys' Athletic Association yesterday afternoon, important business was transacted. LeRoy Adams, head usher for the A. A. play, requested that two more ushers be appointed.

It was the unanimous opinion of the student body that the inter-class league should be under the jurisdiction of the A. A., so the president appointed the captains and managers of each class as a committee to meet with Mr. Earley next week to formulate a schedule. In order to be eligible for these teams every candidate must be a member of the A. A. and a definite time was given for all delinquents to pay their fees.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Edwin Arden, the dramatic star will appear for the first time in Plainfield today in "Simon, the Jester," a Pathe Gold Rooster picture adapted from the story of the same name by William J. Locke. He will be supported by those two excellent actresses, Irene Warfield and Alma Tell. Monday and Tuesday, Emmy Wehlen, the Viennese star, who has been seen in many musical comedy productions in this country, will be seen in a Metro production "The Reckoning," in which the actress reveals hitherto unsuspected dramatic gifts. Other good films are booked for early showing at the Astor Theatre, it was announced today.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Pinkie Bunny Kept His Master's Chair.

Pinkie Kicked the Camera Off the Chair.

"I REMEMBER another story about Pinkie Bunny," said daddy when the children climbed in his lap.

"Once the little boy's parents took him up to Maine for a vacation. They lived at a beautiful hotel which was near the sea as well as pine woods, and they took Pinkie Bunny along with them in a big straw basket. He lived in the little boy's room, just as he did at home, and everybody in the hotel was very much interested in Pinkie. Now, one of the tricks the little boy taught him was to push anything out of his papa's chair. The little boy would pile a book, an umbrella or a pair of skates in this armchair, and Pinkie would hop up in it and kick and push with his strong hind feet till the chair was empty. Then he would curl up in it till his master came home and took the chair."

"Can you train a bunny to do tricks, just like a dog?" asked Jack, who wanted a dog.

"Not always. But Pinkie Bunny was very intelligent, and he had had lots of care spent on his education," said daddy.

"At the hotel there was a very queer old man who spent all his time taking pictures of bugs and beetles and flies. He had a beautiful camera and a strange little tin box that he used to take into the woods with him every day. Everybody at the hotel used to wonder what he did with so many bugs, but he talked very little and just went on snapping mosquitoes and dragon flies.

"Now, Pinkie's master liked to sit in a big wicker chair at one end of the long hotel veranda, and one day when Pinkie and the little boy came back from a sea bath Bunny found the queer old man's camera sitting in his master's chair. Soon as the little boy went in to luncheon Pinkie jumped up in the chair and scratched and kicked till the old man's camera tumbled off on the floor and broke."

"Was the old man cross at Pinkie?" asked Jack.

"So cross that he left the hotel on the next train," said daddy. "But everybody liked Pinkie so much better than they did the old man, and enjoyed seeing him bathe in the sea every day, that Pinkie was allowed to live at the hotel all summer and came back to town with a beautiful new fur coat for winter," finished daddy.

"Will you buy us a bunny, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"I'd rather have a dog!" cried Jack.

"We'll have both on our farm," said daddy

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Molly Sutner Receives Some Good Advice from Olive Ellson.

"Aren't you tired of being my safety valve? My never-ending woes must get very monotonous." Molly Sutner dropped into a chair and bowed her head on her hands.

"I am never tired of trying to help, but I am disappointed that things are not going well. Everything seemed so encouraging the last time you were over. What has gone wrong?" Olive took the shawl from Molly's shoulders and smoothed back the tumbled hair.

"Oh, it's money, of course. It always is. I wonder what people have to quarrel over who have money enough to buy what they want. I am so sick of being blamed because things wear out and there is no money to buy more." Olive silently stroked the bowed head.

"I think and think and try to plan a way out of this awful tangle and there is no way."

"The problem is too deep for you to solve, my dear. You will get peace not by trying to get a helpful solution to your troubles, but by just dropping them altogether and devoting yourself wholly and unreservedly to seeing what you can do to make those around you a little happier by your daily kindness and consideration of them, and by your resolute and determined forgetfulness of self." Molly raised her head and looked about ready to cry.

"Your husband has so great a load of care that he is not in a normal state of mind. Treat him as you would if he were sick; be no more hurt over what he says than you would be over the speeches of a fever patient. But you must be just as careful not to irritate him as you would be if every excitement was a danger to his life."

"Why, he is not sick; he is as well as I am; he works no harder and he is stronger than I am in the bargain," flamed Molly in sudden heat. "He wants everyone to consider him, of course, but he has no time to think of my side of the burden."

"Do you want him to? Are you not glad you can help by carrying your part bravely and cheerfully? Everything you carry makes his burden that much lighter."

"He isn't worrying about making my burden lighter," grumbled Molly.

"Forgive me if I hurt you, but——" Olive paused.

"Go on," said her friend.

"Are you sure you love your husband?" Olive asked earnestly.

"If you knew how I longed for some little expression of love you would not doubt it," said Molly looking down.

"Longing for caresses is not love, necessarily. True love expresses itself in service to the one who is loved.

"'Love struck the chord of self which trembling vanished out of sight.'

"Pray God to give you so deep a love for your husband that your greatest happiness will be to help him bear his load. Be a real yoke fellow. That's what marriage really means."

There was silence for a time as Molly looked out of the window.

"And I have been demanding instead of giving; demanding consideration, love, appreciation. When I did not get it, I was furiously angry, and resented my ill treatment. That hatefulness put a wider space between us."

"As if demanding could ever bring love," whispered Olive.

"You are young. How did you ever learn so much?" Molly turned and looked wonderingly at her friend.

"I have a glorious father who has always kept my shallow little cup full of his wisdom," answered Olive smiling.

"I have much to think about, more than I can take at one load, I fear," said Molly, rising. "Here comes Dr. Ellson with little Jack. How happy the child looks. The doctor knows the happiness of service." She smiled up in Olive's face.

"Thank you, dear friend. Good-bye."

Live News From All Branches of Winter Sports

Scattered Sport Gleanings

Activity exhibited to date by the Y. M. C. A. basketball representatives indicates that the spirit which lapsed last year is once more going to be revived. In the selection of leaders for this year's quintet the association boys thrust the honors on the shoulders of deserving workers; ones who are qualified to lead and direct the contingent through another successful season of court competition. Material for a strong team should not be lacking and it is to hoped that the Front street athletes will realize the opportunities offered for re-organizing the old time rivalry and interest in the popular winter pastime.

Feminine basketball also stands an excellent chance of being elevated to a higher plane of popularity this year. Never before has the team recognized as the premier factor in girls' basketball around these parts been afforded the facilities it enjoys this year and the enthusiastic display of interest regarding the approaching season arouses optimism from all quarters. The P. E. G. S. combine is about to enter upon a re-organized plan and we see nothing but success staring it in the face at the present time.

Just what comparison can be made between the Holy Cross team of last year and the collection of football warriors this fall is hard to agree upon. To date the local clubmen have not come up to par, but the first real opportunity followers of the pastime will have to get a line on the genuine merits of the combine will bob up next Tuesday afternoon, when the Franklins, of Newark, invade the borough.

Up to the present time Manager "Doc" Doyle has been up against it. Not because of poor playing material or incompetency along managerial lines, but largely because of the kind of support the eleven has been accorded by the general public. Crowds such as have been loyal to the club this year would be scoffed at on Cricket Field terra firma last year and those individuals who idolize football players will have to get out and do their share if they expect to be treated to good competitive sport between now and Thanksgiving Day.

As so often happens at this period of the year athletic interest in the Plainfield High School is just now divided between football and basketball. It is to be regretted that the advocates of the court pastime, who have five months of this recreation staring them in the face, cannot give the gridiron sport its allotted period of public attention. The team this year is a cracker-jack and it is generally conceded among scholastic football lovers that the Union county title, for the first time in years, is headed this way.

Plainfield gets on the collegiate football map once again this afternoon. In "Hub" Stine the borough High School has a representative who has been attracting attention for two years in college athletic circles and the Rutgers-Springfield game at Harrison this afternoon gives the North Plainfielders an excellent chance to show their appreciation. Stine plays guard for the Springfield College eleven and he will have to show the best that is in him in facing his husky rival in the Jersey line.

YALE NOT TO USE PLAYERS RULED OUT

Rejects Harvard Request That Men Be Reinstated for 1915 Season.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 30.—Yale will make no attempt to use at present in athletics its five players who were recently disqualified, according to a statement published by the University Athletic Association, but will work with Harvard and Princeton to amend the present rules of the three colleges making a more satisfactory governing code. Included in an official statement was the letter from Dean McClenahan, of Princeton, urging Yale to reinstate the athletes, and a letter from Professor Corwin, of Yale, to Dean Briggs, of Harvard, setting forth Yale's views.

The Yale Athletic Association statement follows:

"Yale's position in the matter is as will be seen, that as long as Yale's own rule stands in its present form the five players cannot represent the university on its intercollegiate teams. Whether or not the Yale rule in regard to summer baseball is fair or reasonable is another question, which it is hoped will be discussed in the near future by Harvard, Princeton and Yale. Pending such discussion and pending possible future action, the Yale University Athletic Association must live up to the spirit and the letter of its present rules."

DUNDEE TO BOX RIVERS.

Johnny Dundee, the New York lightweight, who recently held Willie Ritchie to a draw, has signed for a ten-round bout with Joe Rivers, the Mexican lightweight, at Milwaukee, on November 8, and according to the articles of agreement both boxers are to weigh in at 133 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the bout.

JOHNNY POE IS KILLED IN FRANCE

Was Former Princeton Football Star and Soldier of Fortune.

Baltimore, Oct. 30.—John Prentice Poe, Jr., a famous Princeton football player in the early 90's, was killed on September 22 while fighting as a private in the British army along the northern boundary of France. Word to that effect was received from the London war bureau today by relatives in this city.

Poe was born in Baltimore forty years ago. He won international fame as a captain in the Honduran army when, with a handful of men in a fort at Amalpa Harbor, he opened fire on a Nicaraguan gunboat, sending it scurrying away under the impression that the Hondurans had a big force at the fort.

When last heard from Poe was a member of the "Black Watch" regiment.

BATTIN READY FOR PLAY.

Battin began preparations for the basketball season yesterday afternoon, when the candidates for the team were addressed by Charles Johnson, the coach, who will have charge of the team this year. Johnson spoke on school spirit and stated that the members would not be permitted to play with outside teams this year. He also said that practice would be held daily and if the gymnasium could not be used for the afternoons, practice would be held in the evening. Plans are being made to form a tournament for the class teams similar to the one organized by the girls. Actual practice will not start until the football season is over.

MRS. H. R. STOCKTON IN SEMI-FINALS

Beaten by Mrs. C. J. S. Fraser in Lakewood Tournament Yesterday.

Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, of the Merion Cricket Club, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. C. J. S. Fraser, of Baltusrol, will fight it out for the chief cup in the invitation golf tournament for women on the links of the Country Club, of Lakewood, today.

Mrs. Barlow had little difficulty in advancing to the final stage, first brushing aside Mrs. J. S. Irving, of Scarsdale, by an 8 and 6 margin and then defeating Mrs. Frederick A. Potts, of the home club, by 5 and 4.

The surprise of the day was the elimination of Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, of Plainfield, by Mrs. Fraser. The match was carried to the twenty-first hole. Mrs. Stockton played a fine uphill game. She was 4 down starting for the seventh hole and winning the ninth she reduced the margin to 3.

Winning three of the next four holes, Mrs. Stockton drew level, and the contest was nip and tuck to the eighteenth. Mrs. Stockton had a chance to win the match on the twentieth, for she had a stroke on her opponent up to the green, but she failed to lay the ball dead and a half resulted. Tables were turned on the twenty-first green and Mrs. Stockton lost her chance to continue the match further by once more failing on her approach. Mrs. Fraser afterward defeated Miss M. I. Randall, of Fox Hills, by 5 and 4. The summary:

First eight—First round—Mrs. Roland H. Barlow, Merion, beat Mrs. J. S. Irving, Scarsdale, 8 and 6; Mrs. Frederick A. Potts, Lakewood, beat Mrs. C. B. Lawrence, Jr., Plainfield, 3 and 2; Miss Madelaide I. Randall, Fox Hills, beat Miss Gertrude Pickhardt, Englewood, 6 and 4; Mrs. C. J. S. Fraser, Baltusrol, beat Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, Plainfield, 1 up (21 holes).

Second round—Mrs. Barlow beat Mrs. Potts, 5 and 4; Mrs. Fraser beat Mrs. Randall, 5 and 4.

Second eight—First round—Mrs. W. I. Seaman, Richmond County, beat Miss Grace Farrelly, Englewood, 4 and 3; Mrs. G. Julius Mager, Essex County, beat Mrs. Florian Krug, Shawnee, 3 and 2; Mrs. George D. Boschen, Spring Lake, beat Miss Isabel Ferris, Lakewood, 1 up (19 holes); Miss Elsa Pickhardt, Englewood, beat Mrs. Leo F. F. Wanner, Essex County, 7 and 6.

Second round—Mrs. Seaman beat Mrs. Mager, 4 and 3; Miss Elsa Pickhardt beat Mrs. Boschen, 2 and 1.

Third eight—First round—Miss Mabel Guilford, Dunwoodie, drew a bye; Mrs. Glessner B. Childs, Scarsdale, drew a bye; Mrs. Albert M. McDonald, Plainfield, beat Mrs. R. W. Swan, Tatnuck, 9 and 8; Mrs. C. M. Brett, Brae Burn, drew a bye.

Second round—Miss Guilford beat Mrs. Childs, 7 and 6; Mrs. McDonald beat Mrs. Brett by default.

MORAN WANTS $10,000 TO MEET COFFEY AGAIN

Frank Moran will leave New York for Pittsburgh today to fill part of a four weeks' vaudeville engagement in that city. Last night he had a long talk with Manager Billy Gibson regarding a return match with Jim Coffey. Moran expressed a willingness to take on the Roscommon motorman again, but wants a guarantee of $10,000 for another bout. He bases his demand on the gate receipts of their previous battle at Madison Square Garden, which amounted to more than $25,000. Coffey has agreed to box again, believing he can reverse the previous decision. If the Show Corporation can see its way clear to pay Moran $10,000 or the latter will consent to modify his demand, the bout will be held at the Garden the latter part of December or early in January.

NO MORE TEN CENT BASEBALL IN FEDERAL

Ten-cent baseball in the Federal League is probably doomed. If peace is declared in baseball circles it is a certainty that no 10-cent stuff will be allowed. If peace does not come, or if just an agreement to call off the war for players is reached, the small price admission will probably be obliterated. Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Feds, has come out strong with his plans for next year and states that under no circumstances will there be any 10-cent stuff in his park. Several other magnates have found that a cut in prices would be a great boost for the Feds, but that the cut has been too radical. Another one of Jim Gilmore's little slips that cost the Fed magnates many thousands of dollars last season. It is going to be a little hard to raise the price for next season, but it is not good business, according to most of the magnates, to continue with the small figures, as the totals for the year, when compared with the two sets of prices, showed the 10-cent idea a money loser.

DATES AGREED ON FOR BASKETBALL SERIES

Managers John Dawe and Carlton Dunham, of the North Plainfield and Plainfield High School basketball teams, have agreed upon the dates of the interscholastic series. The first game will be played in the P. H. S. gymnasium January 14. The local High School forces will invade the territory of the boroughites February 5. If a third game is necessary the selection of courts will be made by a toss of a coin, while the date has been set for Washington's Birthday, February 22.

The proceeds of the series will be equally divided between the two schools.

BON AMI HELPED TO SHINE RECORD OF JUNIOR FIVE

The junior class, of North Plainfield H. S., defeated the Bon Ami Club, yesterday afternoon in Saengerbund Hall, by the score of 35-20. LaPorte and Carson led the attack of the victors with five baskets a piece, while McDonough scored frequently for the losers.

SPORTING NOTES

With Jess Willard completing his Wild West job today, and Moran looking him square in the eye, there is indication of ring action for the champion.

The Kentucky horses are already arriving at the Jaurez, Havana and New Orleans tracks for the winter racing.

Frank L. Kramer, the cycling champion, will be given a testimonial dinner at Newark tonight by admiring fellow-citizens of East Orange.

A six-day cycle race has been arranged for Chicago, from November 19 to 25. Some of the leading riders are already paired up.

A hot bout is arranger for the Boston fight fans for next Tuesday, when Charlie White is matched to go against Milburn Saylor.

November has a number of dog shows scheduled. New York, Pittsburgh, Boston, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Albany shows are already set.

The boxing tournament as a memorial to James E. Sullivan, long leader of amateur athletics, is having a two-night run in New York, ending this evening.

The third and final round in the Atlantic City golf tournament is set for today. An 18-hole medal handicap will be played today.

BALL PLAYERS HUNTING GAME

Tris Speaker, of the Red Sox, and Leslie Nunamaker, of the Yankees, following the example of many of the ball players, are hunting big game. At present these two are in the wilds of New Brunswick.

OCTOBER 30TH IN HISTORY.

1270—The seventh and last crusade ended by the treaty of Barbary.
1732—England shipped to Virginia 68 men and 50 women, felon convicts.
1803—President Jefferson authorized by Congress to take possession of the Louisiana territory.
1822—Iturbido dissolved the Mexican congress and formed a new legislative assembly; this step was fatal to his dictatorship.
1853—Treaty made with the Indians giving immigrant wagons right of way through their territory to the West.
1864—Theaty of Vienna signed between Austria, Prussia and Denmark.
1873—Many bankers and merchants failed as result of Black Friday panic.
1881—Irish Land League suppressed.
1899—First contingent of Canadian troops for the Boer War sailed from Quebec.
1914—THE WAR.
Russia declares war on Turkey and withdraws her ambassador from Constantinople.
Allies repulse violent German attacks near Ypres. British gain north of La Bassee.
Russians reoccupy Czernowitz in Galicia.
Germans in retreat, pressed by the Russians.

MARTIN LUTHER DAY.

New York, Oct. 30.—Tomorrow is Martin Luther Day in the Lutheran churches throughout the world, in observance of the 398th anniversary of the beginning of the Reformation, on the day when Luther nailed his famous theses to the door of his church at Wittenberg. There will be no joint celebration this year, but plans are under way for a rousing observance of the 400th anniversary of Luther's action two years hence. There is some talk of applying to Congress for a site in Washington upon which to erect a Luther arch that shall commemorate, not so much the Luther fame, nor even the beginning of religious liberty, but the start of an era in which Christian education, Christian morals and an open Bible were parts of awakened lives.

TO HANG SOLDIER.

Denver, Col., Oct. 30.—Colonel James C. Bulger, a soldier of fortune, convicted of the murder of Lloyd L. Nicodemus, a Denver hotel keeper, in May, 1914, will be hanged during the week beginning tomorrow, Oct. 31. The Colorado Supreme Court has affirmed the sentence.

MAY SHIFT JERSEY TRIALS.

Elizabeth, Oct. 30.—A hearing will be given next week on the application made to the Supreme Court Circuit for a change of venue in the suits brought by twelve wounded strikers against the American Agricultural Chemical Co. for injuries received in the strike troubles at Roosevelt last year. It is asked by the strikers that the trials take place here instead of at New Brunswick, because of the fact that the sheriff of New Brunswick, who would draw the jury had engaged the strike breakers who shot down the men. The hearing next week will be at Trenton.

WABASH BOOSTS PAY.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 30.—Beginning next week the station agents and telegraphers on the Wabash lines will receive a 9 per cent. increase of pay. The working day of the station agents will be 10 instead of 12 hours, and telegraphers will work 8 hours. The new schedule will increase the payroll by $40,000 a year.

SIX MONTHS' REVIVAL.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—The old-time revival, which is to last six months, and is aimed to reform the wayward, will get underway tomorrow, with Mayor Thompson delivering the opening address. It will be a Moody revival, and Rev. Paul Rader and Rev. E. Y. Woolley, of Moody church, will lead the work. A big tabernacle has been constructed, seating five thousand.

My advise is to buy only the best kind of insurance, for these pieces of paper that you receive in exchange for your good hard cash today may be your only assets tomorrow. Buy your insurance of the agents who live in your town representing the best companies, then in case of loss you will have some one to call upon to adjust it with you.

LITERARY

Maude Radford Warren has been the first writer to seize upon the story possibilities in the fashion which has swept over this country of wearing those eyeglasses with the big black horn rims. As the editors say in introducing the first of a series of stories by her, in the November issue of The Red Book Magazine:

"Of course, everybody wears them now—the lawyer, the grocer, the cigar-stand man, the artist, the elevator boy, everybody—but when Harold Lambert brought the first pair to the town of Royal, they were a real sensation."

Around that "sensation," Mrs Warren has built one of the most attractive humorous stories she has ever written.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE FALL

In making preparations for the Fall, have you arranged for an account with The State Trust Company? Persons who maintain their accounts in New York, do not realize how convenient and profitable a local bank account is.

3% interest is paid on checking accounts; out-of-town items are collected at par; checks may be drawn payable in New York; and last, but not least, our banking hours have been arranged to meet the convenience of the New York business man.

An interview will convince you of the desirability of transacting at least a portion of your business with this progressive institution.

A woman with buying to do never saves any time by omitting to read the advertisements. Nor does she always secure par-value for her dollar.

The following advertisement, prepared by AMELIA BRIZZIE, of the North Plainfield High School, won the first prize of $10.00 in the advertising contest conducted by The Plainfield Trust Company, which has just closed.

The Habit of Saving

"Habit is a cable—we spin a thread of it every day until at last we cannot break it." How true this is of the saving habit. And the best part of it is—we don't WANT to break it.

Many a man has seen his way clear to grasp a fine business opportunity because of a few hundred dollars in ready money.

PLAINFIELD SAVINGS BANK

PLAINFIELD, N.J.

How to Become a Successful Saver

A young man started a Bank Account with $25.00 and deposited $25 to his credit each month.

As his income increased, he increased the amount of his deposits to $50, then to $75, then to $100 per month. Four years have now passed, and he has $4,000 to his credit.

This shows what can be accomplished by systematic saving.

Why not try this plan? Open an account with the Plainfield Savings Bank now.

OUCH! PAIN, PAIN, RUB RHEUMATIC, ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain right out with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

Rheumatism is "pain only." Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right into your sore, stiff, aching joints and muscles, and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a rheumatism cure which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! relief awaits you. "St. Jacobs Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains.—Adv.
